OBITUARY

Mrs. Bruno O. Tiesler

Following serious illness for the past three weeks, Bertha Hoffman, 82, widow of Bruno O. Tiesler, died Monday evening at 7:45, at her home, 21 West Town street, Norwich Town. She was born in Germany, October 7th, 1843, but came to this country with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman, when a small girl of eight. In Dedham, Mass., September 7th, 1863, she was united in marriage with Bruno O. Tiesler, who died October 6th, 1910.

Many years of their married life were passed in Norwich, the family having moved from Preston 40 years ago to Norwich Town. For a number of years she has made her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jillson of West Town street. About 15 years ago Mrs. Tiesler received severe burns to her left arm, also that side of her body from which she never fully recovered. Her final illness was caused by neuritis, and although during this period she bore her affliction with the same patience and Christian fortitude as in preceding years, never complaining, her suffering was extreme. During all the years she has had the faithful attention of her daughters, who have most tenderly cared for her.

A loving mother, her first and last thought was for the welfare and consideration of her loved ones and it is in the home where she was most happy in her quiet life, that she will be sorely missed. Mrs. Tiesler was the mother of six children. A son and daughter died when small children, and her eldest daughter, Mrs. Frank Cotton (Agnes Tiesler) of Worcester, Mass., died about three years ago.

Surviving her are a daughter, Mrs. G. Everett Bartlett of 193 Broad street, this city, a son, George Tiesler, of Worcester, and her younger daughter, Mrs. Edward Jillson, with whom she resided. There also is a sister, Mrs. Eva Foster of Roxbury, Mass., who survives her, as well as ten grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. She leaves also nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Tiesler was a member of Christ Episcopal church, and a charter member of the Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, of this city.

LOCAL TOURING CAR RAN INTO HYDRANT

Tuesday evening a machine driven by Francis Crawford of number 13 Reynolds street, ran into a hydrant at the corner of North Main and Roath streets. The left rear door of the auto, a touring car, was ripped off. There was no damage to the hydrant.

OVER 500 ATTEND PLAYGROUND CARNIVAL AT JAIL HILL GROUNDS

A gathering of 500 or over attended the carnival and wild-west circus held at the Jail Hill playground Tuesday evening under the auspices of the children of that thriving play-center. The various booths were gaily decorated for the event, which is the first of its kind ever held by a city playground. Henry Matthews, general manager of the affair, kept things going smoothly throughout the evening and it was largely due to his work and that of his able corps of assistants that the affair was so successful.

Everything that goes to make up a regular-sized circus was in evidence at the show. The side-shows were in full swing throughout the evening and a large number patronized the many attractions. In the main side show, constructed in the center of the spacious lot, were the various animals and curiosities so familiar to circus crowds, and in a corner of the field was a sort of side show annex where the "sleeping beauty" reposed, the wild woman spread terror and the fat lady exhibited her huge proportions.

The various booths did a rushing business throughout the evening, the candy booth taking the lead by a comfortable margin. Many people left the grounds with their arms filled with various articles they had won. The wrestling and boxing matches held in the main tent attracted the attention of a large number. Pete Vulgares and Archie Brock gave a fine exhibition of the art of wrestling, while Young McCarthy and Al Corcoran were seen in a fast and snappy three round exhibition bout.

The money received from Tuesday evening's entertainment will be used to help defray expenses for a trip to Ocean Beach for the children of the playground.

Much credit is given Instructors Leslie Carroll and Beatrice Abelman for their part in the successful entertainment. A great deal of work had to be done before the success of the evening's program could be assured.

The various booths at the entertainment were in charge of the following:

DRIVER RESPONSIBLE FOR COLCHESTER MAN'S DEATH

According to a decision handed down Tuesday by Coroner J. J. Desmond of this city, Lawrence Thompson, Groton, is found criminally responsible for the death of John Fatt, 46, late of Colchester. Mr. Fatt died in Groton, May 8, last, as the result of injuries received in a collision between an auto truck on which he was riding and a Groton and Stonington trolley car. The accident happened at Poquonnoc. In his finding the coroner says:

On the afternoon of May 8th, 1926, about five o'clock a Mack autotruck, owned by T. Raymond, of said Groton, was driven by Lawrence Thompson, of said town of Groton, from a private driveway onto the trolley track of said Traction company just as said electric trolley car was going westwardly around a curve to the point on the southerly side of said highway there the said driveway meets the highway; the trolley car (a "one-man" car) struck the forward end of the autotruck on the right hand side of the truck, forced the truck along for a short distance, causing it to swing about, and come to a stop near, and on the southerly side of the trolley track. The driver of the autotruck, said Lawrence Thompson, was thrown out of the truck, and said John Fatt, who was seated on Thompson's right at the time of the collision, was buried under the trolley car, carried forward for some distance, and was dead when taken from beneath the trolley car.

Both Fatt and Thompson were in the employ of said Raymond at the time of the collision. A few minutes before the accident, they had finished unloading trolley track ties on the side of said highway at a point about 100 feet easterly from the place of the collision. The operator of the trolley car, John F. Montague, of New London, Conn., could not see the autotruck on account of the ledge, until the truck's front end had come upon the trolley track; he then applied his brakes, and did all in his power to avoid the collision; the trolley car was "on time," gliding with power off, and moving at a rate of about 20 to 25 miles an hour, and was in good condition.

Mr. Thompson was an experienced automobile operator; knew that this trolley line was in operation, but was not acquainted with the running schedule of its trolley cars; and he had turned this truck around at the same place many times. As he approached the trolley track, just before this collision, it was impossible for him to see a trolley car coming on his right from the east, as the ledge completely cut off his view on that side, and the conclusion appears obvious that it was gross negligence on his part to run the autotruck past the ledge and onto the trolley track without taking any means, or making any attempt to ascertain whether a trolley car was approaching from the east.

CHILDREN ENJOY PICNIC AT MOHEGAN PARK

Children residing in the vicinity of Hamilton avenue and Stanton avenue enjoyed a picnic at Mohegan park Tuesday, the fund for the picnic having been derived by two successful bazaars held by the children during the summer on the lawn of Deputy Sheriff George H. Stanton of 37 Hamilton avenue.

Those present at the picnic were Wilma E. Stanton, Mary Welton, Betty Yerrington, Dorothy Banker, Estelle Bunnell, Lucille Bunnell, Charles Banker, Emil Banker and William Bowers.

At the bazaars the children sold candy, peanuts, fruit, lemonade, fancy work and paper flowers, realizing about eight dollars. At the lake Tuesday the children were chaperoned by Mrs. George H. Stanton, Mrs. Daniel Welton, Mrs. Charles Banker, Mrs. Nolace Bunnell, Mrs. Edward Wrigley, Mrs. Edward Hanks, Mrs. Carlton Bowers, Mrs. George Gross, Mrs. Charles Yerrington and Miss Belle Spaulding.

PAINTED DIRECTIONS ON STOP AND GO BEACON

No longer will automobile drivers have any excuse for driving by the red light on the traffic beacon at the junction of Broadway and Main and Shetucket streets. Tuesday the traffic beacon presented a new appearance to the many hundreds of auto drivers who passed through the three streets. The base of the beacon has been freshly lettered, warning drivers that red means stop, orange, caution and green, go. In addition the red faces of the beacon have been lettered "stop" and the green faces, "go".

The painted directions on the beacon will, without doubt, be appreciated by drivers, especially those from out of town, a number of whom have given excuses that they did not understand what the various colors signified.

BOY FRACTURES SKULL IN FALL FROM AUTO

The condition of Leo Mulholland, 4 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Mulholland of 863 Boswell avenue, is a patient at the Backus hospital suffering from a fractured skull and scalp bruises. He was somewhat improved late Tuesday evening. There is no pressure and it is stated that complete rest and quiet are needed to aid in the improvement of his condition.

The boy was injured Tuesday morning when he fell from his father's automobile while it was in motion. The boy, with several other children, was in the back seat of the car driven by Mr. Mulhollahd and in some manner opened the door and fell from the machine onto the macadam highway.

Mr. Mulholland rushed the child to the Backus hospital. Dr. George Thompson was summoned and gave treatment and an X-ray was taken to determine the extent of the injuries.

FIRST BAPT. ANNUAL LETTER TO N. LONDON ASSOCIATION

On the weekly calendar of the First Baptist church appears the following annual letter to the New London Baptist association: Again we bring the greetings of our church to the association, and report all departments of the church in good condition under the faithful leadership of our pastor. The regular services have been well attended, while the prayer meetings have been alive and growing.

The Young People's society has been very active during the year; their Sunday evening services being most interesting and helpful. A piano was purchased by them for use in the lower room and this has been greatly appreciated especially at the weekly prayer meetings of the church.

Last Easter our young people very successfully took part in a pageant "The Living Christ." Much interest is shown by the children in the Vacation Bible school which this year is under the direction of Miss Marion Brownling. Several of our members enrolled for the teacher training course under the direction of Rev. W. B. Denny and Prof. O. W. Warmingham. This school was held in co-operation with the Norwich Council of Religious Education.

A new feature is the Crusaders, an organization under the leadership of Miss Bernice Willey.

Last July our senior deacon, Fred Wilson, was suddenly taken from us, and in his death we sustained a great loss. He was a man always faithful and reliable with the interest of the church and school always at heart. In his passing we are bereft of his untiring and cheerful efforts in our behalf. Three more of our members, Mrs. Mary Griswold, Mrs. Ida Davis and Mrs. Amelia Starkweather were removed from us by death.

Gladly we welcomed ten into our membership, and trust that with God's help we may in the year we have entered still "carry on" in His name and for His sake.

EXPECT LARGE ENTRY LIST FOR DOG SHOW

Eastern Connecticut men who are interested in dogs have sent appeals to dog fanciers in this section of the state to enter their dogs in the all breed American kennel club, sanctioned dog show, to be held in connection with the 72nd annual New London county fair in this city.

Dog fanciers prominent in the movement to make this year's show a success, are urging fanciers to enter their dogs in the contest.

Prizes for the best dogs of all breeds entered in the show are to be donated by interested parties and will probably include cash, cups or other trophies, all of which are to be cared for by Gilbert S. Raymond, secretary of the New London County Agricultural society.

The bench show committee includes such well known fanciers as Sterrill M. Chase of Norwich, Frank Cumpstone of Waterford, Frank Foster of New London, Eugene J. Leahy of New London, Charles G. Pierce of Norwich, Earle M. Wood of Taftville and Gilbert S. Raymond of Norwich.

The superintendent of the show is to be Charles M. Townsend of Boston, Mass.

HELD PARTY FOR HER DAUGHTER'S FIFTH BIRTHDAY

Mrs. John Geno of Franklin street, gave a party Monday afternoon at her home in honor of the fifth birthday of her daughter, Gloria Geno. The dining room was prettily decorated, the color scheme being ping and white. Games were played, the prizes being won by Albert Raymond, Joseph Eccles and Rita Donnelly.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Geno, assisted by Mrs. Harry Copeland and Mrs. William Donnelly. Guests included Virginia and Dorothy Bell, Mabel and Betty Tally, Rita Donnelly, Vera Busch, Elizabeth Geno and Joseph and John Eccles, William Hull, George Zarcher and Albert Raymond.

RECENT HEAT WAVE LOWERS EGG PRODUCTION

The heat wave which swept the east last Wednesday and Thursday was responsible for the death of 13 birds on the Storrs egg laying contest in the 28th week of competition, at the same time causing the flock as a whole to reduce its egg production. With the thermometer hovering around the 100 mark on two successive days, the contest flock suffered, as was shown by the heat prostrations and reduced egg yield. The lay for the week was 5011 eggs, or slightly over 51 per cent. This is 384 eggs less than last week, but 141 eggs more than the lay for the corresponding week a year ago. The contest flock laid a grand total of 176,674 eggs in the first 38 weeks of competition. This is an average of 126 eggs per bird.

R. W. Colman's pen of White Leghorns from Medina, N. Y., made the best score for the week with a lay of 56 eggs. Following close behind to tie for second place were the Leghorn entries of Dudley Poultry farm from Webster, Mass., and Adam Glass from Mobile, Ala., each with a score of 55 eggs. Third place was taken by another Leghorn pen owned by Ernest Crase of Ramsey, N. J., with a production of 53 eggs. Fourth place was taken by the Leghorn entry of Frank Heitzman, Jr., from Gainesville, Fla., with a score of 52 eggs. This was an "All-Leghorn" week so far as the honor roll is concerned. It is interesting to note that the honor roll for the hottest week of the present season has on it representatives from both Alabama and Florida.

Three changes took place among the leading pens in each of the principal varieties. In the White Leghorn class, the entry of Hanson's Leghorn farm from Corvallis, Ore., went up into fifth position, displacing the entry of Roy H. Waite from College Park, Md. In the Rhode Island Red class, the entry of Shell Crest farm from Hollis-ton, Mass., went up into third position, passing the pen owned by Fabry Bros., from East McKeesport, Pa. In the "Other Varieties" class, the Dominiques owned by Thurlow Travis from Peekskill, N. Y., went into a tie for third place with the White Rock entry of S. Bradford Allyn from Hollis-ton, Mass.

The entry of Tolvonen Legborn farm from Girard, Pa., is leading the entire contest with a score of 2782 eggs. The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

DISEASE IN STATE IS ON DECLINE

Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of public health, has prepared a comparative statement of the number of cases of disease in the state for the six months of the years 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926.

One of the most satisfactory facts established by the figures is the success of the efforts of the department in co-operation with the medical authorities in every town of the state, to immunize persons against diphtheria. In the first six months of the year 1922 the number of cases reported to the department was 1,413. In the first six months of this year the number has fallen to 1759. The immunization of school children is about 95 per cent perfect.

In the first half of the present year there were 16 192 cases of measles reported, the largest number in 11 years. In the first six months of 1922 the number was 5,773. The report of new cases of this disease for last week shows that the disease has about run its course. The total number of new cases had fallen to 48.

In 1922 there was a serious outbreak of small pox in the first six months when the number reported was 428. This number fell to two cases in the first six months of the present year.

In the period for which the figures are given cases of infantile paralysis fell from nine to four. Cases of pulmonary tuberculosi sfor the first six months of 1926 were 17 less than they were in 1922, when the number was 807.

The number of cases of influenza fell from 5,806 in 1922 to 170 in 1924, but they had increased to 1,593 in the first six months of the present year.

WIFE BEATER GIVEN 15 DAY JAIL SENTENCE

Wife beating is not kindly looked upon by the city court as Judge Arthur F. Libby handed out a 15 day jail sentence to Felix Mikuta, of 12 Rose street, when the latter was presented in court Tuesday morning on a charge of breach of the peace, in beating his wife.

Mikuta claimed he was drunk when he beat his wife but the court informed him that whether he was drunk or sober he had no right to do so, and that even if his wife was drunk he must not beat her.

Another offense by Mikuta will bring him a stiffer sentence, the court stated, as he had first been given a suspended sentance and now received a 15 day jail sentence.

NEW YORK COMMISSION VOTES TO APPROVE DEMPSEY-TUNNEY BOUT

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—The Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship match, pugilistic prodigal, headed back toward the old homestead, the Yankee stadium, today after previously being "turned out" of New York and attempting unsuccessfully to settle in Chicago.

The State Athletic commission, stern father in the plot, reversed its former stand this afternoon, and gave approval to the match by a vote of two to one, made possible by an unexpected switch in sentiment by Commissioner George E. Brower.

Unless there is a further hitch in the home-coming, due to the still unrelenting opposition of the license committee, the match will take place at the American league ball park on Thursday, September 16. This is Tex Rickard's plan, as given official approval by the commission, and the promoter, as a result has abandoned his protracted negotiations in Chicago to hurry east, where "welcome" is on the mat once more.

The license committee, a separately functioning branch of the commission, has maintained its attitude of opposition right along, supporting the leadership of the commission's head, James A. Farley, who held out to the last ditch today, although in a minority role.

As in to stiffen this opposition, following Farley's defeat by the votes of Brower and William Muldoon, the chairman of the license committee, Colonel John J. Phelan, today reiterated that the committee would refuse to grant a license for a Dempsey-Tunney bout. At the same time he threatened Rickard with the loss of his own license if the promoter persisted in his present plans.

On the other hand, Brower and Muldoon, contend the license board must accept the recommendations of the commission and that, at any rate, it cannot arbitrarily refuse a license to any boxer or for any bout except on strictly legal grounds. Phelan contends that a basis for refusal is provided by Dempsey's failure to defend his title here within the stated six months' limit; but Brower holds that the question of eligibility is one solely for the commission to decide. Although Dempsey is not licensed now it is Brower's view that he is as eligible as any other boxer.

Brower, a lawyer and former chairman of the commission now looms as the leader in the closing maneuvers of the battle. Observers seem convinced his initiative in bringing about a reversal of the commission's former stand was based upon thorough knowledge of his ground. It may be at least two weeks, however, before a final show-down because Phelan, head of the license committee, is out of town and its next meeting is two weeks off.

Brower, in a statement tonight to the Associated Press, explained that the reversal of his former stand was due to Farley's apparent inability to bring about a title match between Dempsey and Harry Wills, the negro challenger.

"I have considered it a duty to vote with the chairman the same as he stood with me while I occupied the chair," said Brower, "and at our former meeting I felt I was giving him chance to play his last card in an effort to bring about a Wills-Dempsey bout.

Expressing doubt as to the commission's power or right to take upon itself the business of match-making, Brower continued:

"The commission should never allow itself to get in the position preventing one man from carrying on his occupation because of the failure of another. Both Tunney and Wills are citizens of New York, both in good standing, and each has an equal right to sell his skill to the people of the state. It should be left entirely to the matchmaker to say which he will chose.

"The commission, accepted Wills' $2,500 challenge in good faith, it has used every means at its command to bring the match about. It has led the horse to the water. It apears it cannot make him drink. I am not willing to leave the business of boxing in this state as the well.

"The commission injected itself into an argument that has proceeded over a period of some six years and attempted to do that which the event has shown impossible of accomplishment. Having failed in its effort to achieve one purpose it should not further deprive the people of this state for the benefit of another."

RIVERVIEW CLUB PLAYS NEW YORK CHAMPS SATURDAY

One of the best attractions of the baseball season is scheduled for Saturday at the Norwich State hospital diamond when Riverview will clash with the team representing the New Process Gear Co. of Syracuse, New York. This club was the pennant winner of Central New York in 1925 and is on the road for the same honors this year. The team is managed by Tad Gaughan, well known in baseball circles throughout the east.

As Riverview has a strong claim for Connecticut Semi-pro honors this game should prove to be one of the most interesting baseball games of the season. West or Dugas will pitch for the Riverview club.

GOSLIN FEATURES SENATORS' VICTORY OVER WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, July 27.—(AP)—Re-instatement of "Goose" Goslin and one big batting rally enabled Washington to defeat Chicago today 7 to 2 in the first game of the series. After allowing only three hits, Thomas weakened in the eighth and was driven off the hill. Edwards, who succeeded him, was wild, forcing two runners across the plate before being relieved by Connally.

Goslin, who was suspended last week because of indifferent playing was the outstanding fielding star of the game, breaking up two White Sox rallies and throwing one man out at the plate. He also scored the tieing run in the seventh. Goslin also figured in the eighth inning batting rally with a single, which scored Rice. Johnson weakened in the ninth inning forcing in one run but managed to come out of danger. Score:

TAFTVILLE A. A. TO PLAY POWER CO. THIS EVENING

Taftville A. A. will clash with the Eastern Connecticut Power Co. club this evening at the Providence street grounds in Taftville in the third game of the five-game series between these two clubs. The game will be called at 6:30 o'clock.

DUWELL CLUB ASSEMBLING TRACK TEAM FOR NEW HAVEN POLICE MEET

Two weeks from today, Aug. 11th, the Duwell A. A. will journey for the first time in its short but lively career into foreign fields in an effort to bring athletic honors to the Rose of New England. This organization has taken part in or sponsored nearly every kind of sport in Norwich, but when their team of athletes leave for the big police field meet in New Haven on the 11th of August it will mark the beginning of the Duwells campaign to seek athletic honors in other parts of the country. Not only is it the Duwell's first trip away from home but it is the first time in nearly a score of years that any team has represented Norwich in an event of the kind and no doubt Norwich will await with great interest the results of the events that its boys will take part in in New Haven on the 11th.

The police field meet is held every year at Lighthouse Point and the size of the meet can be judged from the fact that between 35,000 and 40,000 people swarm to New Haven on that day.

The meet is run under the sanction of the A. A. U. and attracts the cream of America's athletes, so that the boys from our city while they may not all win places can feel honored that they have met the best in the country.

From early in the day until the last fireworks have burst late in the night the program arranged by the officials is one that keeps every spectator on the go every minute.

The program includes baseball, athletic events, band concerts, boxing, vaudeville and fireworks.

While several boys have already signed up to represent the Duwell, it is the intention of the club to take as many boys as possible to New Haven, the club to stand every expense, so that there will be no cost at all for those who care to take part in the meet. It is not necessary for any one caring to go with the Duwell team to be members of the club, all that is necessary is for the ambitious athletes to get in touch with Jimmy Pedace, sports manager of the Duwell club who has plenty of entry blanks and who will gladly furnish every possible bit of information. The events opened to those who will represent the Duwell's are the 100 yd dash, 440 yard run, 880 yard run and 12 lb. shot put from scratch, and the 100 yard dash, mile run, 12 lb. shot put and one mile relay from handicap. In addition to these events there will be a five mile road race to start at the City Hall in New Haven at 2 p. m. and will finish once around the track at Lighthouse Point. In addition to the Duwell team plans are being made to take along quite a large cheering squad.

At a special meeting of Westerly Town council, Monday evening, action was taken to revoke the tavern license of John D. Kinderis, formerly of Hartford, who has operated the Oaks Inn on the Shore road, near Watch Hill. This action was not unexpected for the Oaks Inn was raided Thursday by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and party of Westerly police officers and a quantity of liquors seized.

Being found guilty he paid fines totaling $150 and received a three months' suspended sentence. January 15th of this year the Oaks Inn was raided when it was conducted by Thomas Gotis of Hartford and following his conviction for possession of intoxicating liquors, the Westerly police committee at the next meeting of the Westerly Town council requested the revocation of Gotis' tavern license, and it was so voted.

Congested centers in Westerly for automobile traffic are High street, Broad street, Elm, Granite and School streets and Grove avenue. Changes in the method of traffic control at the High and Broad street square, at the junction of School and Elm streets and Granite street and Grove avenue, Westerly, are anticipated as a result of suggestions for the improvement of the situation submitted by Benjamin Moulton, police commissioner, and Maj. Ely and Capt. Watrous, traffic experts, of Providence. The Police Commission requested the advice of the Providence officials after it was satisfied steps would have to be taken to improve the situation in Westerly. The points in need of a more adequate system have been surveyed by the Providence experts, who have submitted definite plans for improvement. Broad street square, according to local officials, has presented a problem because of heavy traffic passing through the centre from four highways. It has been noticeable that motor cars have been held up because of inadequate signs pointing out through routes into Rhode Island and toward points into Eastern Connecticut. The Police Commission has not definitely decided yet on a plan of improvement to be adopted.

But now, why, I never saw such a change! I hardly knew her. She had gained five pounds. She'd been playing tennis and, honestly, she looked glad to be alive!

"What have you done to yourself?" I demanded. "Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound," she laughed. "I'm also taking the Pills for Constipation. Better try them yourself."

Jimmy Skunk Gets a Toe Pinched

Guard your step and mind your toes;
The wise keeps watch of where he goes.
—Jimmy Skunk.

Jimmy Skunk ought to know. Jimmy has had a whole lot of experience. His very independence often makes him careless. He seems to think that because everyone is afraid of him that he can go where he pleases, when he pleases, how he pleases. No one can do this. Even the most independent will get into trouble sooner or later if they do not watch their steps.

You will remember that Danny Meadow Mouse had learned something about clams. Now, Jimmy Skunk knew all about the clams that Danny had learned about and I suspect that if you could have asked him what he knew about clams, he would have told you that he knew all about clams. But it is doubtful if anyone knows all about anything. Jimmy found what he knew right away was clams. He was poking around in the seaweed and looking for anything which appeared good to eat, when he found what he knew right away was a clam. It was different from the clams he was used to, but there could be no doubt that it was a clam. It was lying in some seaweed in a little pool of water. It wasn't long like the clams that Jimmy was acquainted with. He noticed this right away and was interested. The shell was partly open, but Jimmy didn't notice this. He wanted to look that clam over close to. So he reached out a paw to pull the clam towards him up on the sand.

"Why, it's nothing but a clam!" said he

What happened then happened so suddenly that for a minute or two Jimmy himself didn't know what had happened. You see, one toe slipped in the opening of the shell and the clam promptly closed the two halves of the shell together. My goodness, how it did pinch that toe of Jimmy Skunk's! If you could have seen him or heard him you certainly would have thought that he was having a fit, or else had gone quite crazy. That is what Mr. Fox thought. He was down cousin to Reddy Fox and he looked just like Reddy Fox. He had once lived up on the highland, but he had discovered that it was an easier matter to pick up a living along the beach. So he had moved over close to the beach and every night he went hunting along the edge of the marshes.

He happened along just as Jimmy Skunk met with his accident. It was moonlight and he could see clearly. Jimmy Skunk was snarling and growling and jumping up and rolling over and acting as if he had quite lost his head, which indeed he had. That is to say, he didn't know what he was doing. You see, he was as much frightened as he was hurt, for at first he didn't realize just what had happened. He thought he had been caught in one of those dreadful steel traps, which bring so much suffering to the little people who wear fur. Mr. Fox hurried over to see what it was all about.

"Why, it's nothing but a clam!" said he.

At that Jimmy Skunk stopped dancing about. He stared at that clam. It was more round than long. Jimmy tried his teeth on it. That shell was so hard that Jimmy was afraid he would break his teeth if he bit any harder. "I—I didn't know what I'd caught," he said lamely.

Mr. Fox began to laugh. "You didn't catch anything," said he. "It caught you so far as I can see." Then Mr. Fox, still chuckling, went off about his own business.

Jimmy stopped dancing about and began to think. He must get rid of that clam somehow. The question was how could he do it? His toe hurt and besides he couldn't walk around dragging that clam with him.

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 27.—Now that Chief Engineer Rose is out of the hospital it is to be assumed that the arrangements for the state convention of the Connecticut firemen, to be held here during two days the last of August, will go on toward completion.

Chief Rose was enthusiastic about the convention before he was injured and was sent to the hospital. It is understood that the Konomoc company will not participate in the procession that goes through the streets as a company, but that its apparatus with a fire fighting force will be in the procession. It has been a long time since a firemen's parade was held in this city. In fact there are many residents in New London who never saw a parade of the city's fire fighters. The visitors, and it is understood that some 50 companies will be here, will spend the time at the shore and they may have their meals there. Many of the companies will come from inland.

Motorcycle Officer George McCaskey was sent to the Baton home where he ascertained that the woman complained of was Mrs. Jerry Mirandi, 22 Willetts avenue and that she had engaged in a quarrel with Mrs. Baton and during which tirade Mrs. Mirandi used a flow of language that was strong enough to move a freight train. Officer McCaskey warned the women against further trouble with threats of arresting both on charges of breach of the pease and causing them to be presented in the police court.

Providence police this morning informed the New London police that John Robello, nine, and Joseph Oliver, 12, both of Providence, had boarded the barge Lawrence, of the Thames Towboat company's fleet of craft and that the youths were still aboard the barge, en route to New London. The New London police were requested to detain the youngsters until such time as the parents of the pair could make arrangements for the return home of the boys. The F. H. & A. H. He was several hours overdue on board the ship when released from the police court this noon.

Chief Engineer Charles Rose was injured some weeks ago, about the middle of last month, when he suffered a broken leg as the result of a truck operated by Arthur Page and owned by the New Haven Dairy company running into him, as the chief came down Pearl street in the fire department runabout responding to an alarm for assistance to subdue a fire. There is a "blind" corner where the collision occurred and both vehicles were passing when they crashed into each other. The fire apparatus went upon the sidewalk and the heavier truck was pushed into the gutter nearby. Chief Rose has not since been able to appear in court the case has dragged along. Tomorrow the case is to come to trial, Page being charged with reckless operation of a motor vehicle and with failing to give the right of way to fire department apparatus. It is understood that several witnesses will be heard and that the whole story will be gone over, to determine where the responsibility for the crash belongs.

Many autoists drive to the municipal wharf to secure their supply of fish from the boats that come there to dispose of their catches and also to sell the fish that is shipped to them from the Boston and New York market. There was a time when there were scores of sailing vessels sailing from this port and which brought their fish here or took them to Fulton market, but there are none such now. The fishing craft are of the small sized boats that are operated by power and which run into and out of the harbor at will. They fish off Block Island and adjacent waters, so they are not liable to be caught in storm nor in bad weather conditions.

The clothing consisted of a blue serge suit, an overcoat and a coat and vest, of blue material, with a pencil stripe. The locker was secured by a lock, but that there was no indication of the locker having been forced. To subdue the fire the firemen had to climb to the roof of the former Astheimer building, on Railroad avenue, where a considerable quantity of chemicals was turned upon the burning soot.

ROTARIANS AND GUESTS FEAST AT NO. COVENTRY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, July 27.—Sixty Rotarians and their guests made merry at North Coventry grange hall tonight, at a fried chicken supper prepared and served by the sisters of the grange and for which they received a rising vote of thanks. The program for the evening was in charge of the July bugs who were having birthdays this month, Harry A. Blanchette, chairman of the program, President James P. Bath, who presided at the meeting and Fred L. Avery. The speaker of the evening, who held the undivided attention of the audience during an inspirational talk on the topic, How Tall Ought A Rotarian To Be, was Rev. Leon Austin, Rotarian of Burbank, Cal., a native of North Coventry and former attendant at prayer meetings in the grange hall.

The only business of the meeting was the calling of the roll and reading of the minutes by Secretary Girard Loiselle. Upon receiving charge of the meeting Program Chairman Charles E. Pomeroy turned the session over to Chairman Blanchette, who opened it with a brief address. Piano numbers were played by Iva T. White, pianist of the Princess theatre, Hartford, who responded to an encore. Dr. R. Bullock Jones was in charge of the music program. The songs were led by John F. Ahern. The boy guests sang Let The Rest of The World Go By. Valentine L. Murphy gave an interesting discourse on "Golf as She Is Played," for the special benefit of John F. Ahern, enthusiastic fan, and his son, Dow Ahern, promising pro. Sergeant-at-arms Amie J. Martineau led a mixture of nationalities in the singing of the ever popular French ditty Allouette. John Ahern made an apt response to the golf talk by Val Murphy on the subject, How to Mix Golf and Gas, proving it a very productive concoction. John C. Frazier gave his favorite melody, Mandy Lee, assisted in an encore by several vocalists. Prof. Richard E. Dodge followed with a very interesting talk which he called Variety, reviewing the several notables the club had acquired, including its quartet, its impromptu orators and the youngest secretary in the world. He concluded his talk by presenting the trio of July bugs timely gifts with a wun dog time recipe to Charles Pomeroy. The silent quartet performed and with assistance sang with wide open mufflers. A piano and violin duet entitled Today by Ivan White, piano, and Ralph H. Gibson, violin, was received with hearty applause. Rev. Leon Austin then gave his talk pointing out as the fundamentals of a typical Rotarian that he should be a true citizen, a true member of the home and a true churchman. Following a vote of thanks Home Sweet Home was played in his honor and the meeting adjourned at 9.30 o'clock with the singing of the Star Spangled banner.

The guests present were: Attorney E. Frank Bugbee, G. Raymond Young of Norwich; Dow Ahern, Ralph H. Gibson, Walter Stemmons, Storrs; Willard B. Farrington, Mansfield Depot; Robert C. Rose, George E. Thousands of women of middle age say they owe their vigor and health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Those who have learned through their own experience the merit of this dependable medicine are enthusiastic in recommending it to their friends and neighbors.

A woman in Nebraska was troubled with headaches for fifteen years. She writes, "I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I have felt my health steadily improving. Today, after taking your medicine for almost a year and a half, I believe I can say the headaches have left me for it is seven months since I had the last one. I am continuing the Vegetable Compound. I am feeling fine now."

This woman is the mother of six children with a large house to care for. Her name is MRS. ADOLPH BRATKE, 4316 South 13th St., South Omaha, Nebraska.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Breed Theater

Heading an exceptionally worthwhile double feature presentation at the Breed theater today and Thursday, is Braveheart, a story of Indian and college life starring Rod La Rocque. It is a delightful picture in every respect and as full of action as an egg is of meat. The theme deals with the love of an Indian for a white girl and of his noble sacrifice in her behalf. It is capitally done. The supporting cast is wholly adequate, the work of Lillian Rich, Robert Edeson, Tyrone Power and Jean Acker, the featured players, being most artistic.

Wages for Wives, the William Fox production which is the second feature, is a laugh-provoking story of the financial divisions in the average American family.

This story, adapted from the John Golden play, Chickenfeed, is laid in a typical American small town where the men have long been considered as the arbiters of the family fortunes.

From then on the story is filled with laughable, but strictly human situations that will surely appeal to everyone.

The cast includes Jacqueline Logan, Creighton Hale, Claude Gillingwater, Zasu Pitts, Margaret Seddon, Margaret Livingston, Earle Foxe and Dan Mason.

Latest improvements in various Frigidaire electric refrigeration models will be explained and full details of the company's $20,000,000 expansion program will be given at this conference.

"With a Frigidaire in the house, there are no inconveniences such as waiting for an outside source of ice delivery, no troublesome odors and no foods spoiled by inadequate refrigeration."

RISE IN STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, July 27.—(AP)—Fortified by a series of favorable foreign and domestic news developments, speculators for the advance continued to mark up prices in today's stock market. Trading was on a slightly larger scale than yesterday but public participation was again in small volume. Call money continued in plentiful supply despite the increase in brokers' loans reported by the New York Federal Reserve Bank.

The most important development of the day was the publication, after the close of the quarterly report of the United States Steel corporation, showing total earnings of $47,814,105 in the previous quarter and $40,634,221 in the second quarter of 1925. The first half year's earnings were therefore $1.02 a share over the full year's dividend requirements. In accordance with general expectations, only the regular dividends were declared. U. S. Steel, common stock, closed a point higher at 140.

General Motors was the outstanding individual feature of the day, touching a new record high for all time at 173 on total transactions of over 170,000 shares, or approximately one sixth of the day's entire volume of business. The stock slipped back at the close to 171 5-8, up 1 3-4 on the day. Nash closed a point higher, and Pierce Arrow preferred moved up nearly two points, but most of the other motors showed mixed fractional changes, although several had recorded extreme gains of 1 to 3 points in the early trading. Dupont, which has large General Motors holding, closed 4 5-8 higher at 264 5-8, also a new record high.

From an international standpoint, the principal development of the day was the vote of confidence given the new Poincare government by the French chamber of deputies. This was reflected in a rally of the French franc above 2 1-2 cents. In banking quarters, however, there was a tendency to await the chamber's action on the new finance bill before passing judgment on the probability of French finances being placed in a sound footing.

Active bidding for about a dozen industrial stocks whose current earnings give promise of special dividend action before the end of the year, furnished the principal speculative activity in the stock market. New 1926 peak prices were recorded by a wide variety of issues including American Can preferred, American Sumatra Tobacco a certificates, Butterick Publishing, Case Threshing, Equitable Office Building preferred and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

Other strong spots which had their basis on reports of large earnings were Allis Chalmers, International Harvester, May Department Stores, Shubert Theatres and Weston Electrical Instrument, the last named approaching within a fraction of its record top. Rumors that the Marland Oil Company may increase its dividends to $5 at the next meeting and reports of stiffening wholesale gasoline prices in the mid-continent field apparently offset the adverse effect of private estimates of another large increase in Crude Oil Production last week.

Commodity prices were mixed. Active wheat futures dropped about a cent a bushel on indications of slightly more favorable weather in the Spring Wheat area. Cotton closed 3 to 15 points net lower, with selling also influenced by reports of better weather. Raw sugar advanced 1-32 of a cent a pound and coffee prices were marked up 8 to 13 points in sympathy with a rise in Brazilian exchange.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent. Time money and Commercial paper rates were unchanged.

French francs rallied about 5 points to around 2.52 cents in the late foreign exchange trading, other Continental paper currency which had been heavy earlier, strengthening in sympathy demand Sterling held firm around $4.85 3-4.

CORONER FINDS AUTO DRIVER IS BLAMELESS

In a finding made public Tuesday Coroner J. J. Desmond finds that the death of Goldie Bronitsky, late of New London, was not caused by criminal negligence on the part of any person. She died in New London September 14, last year, from injuries sustained when she came in contact with an automobile operated by Marietta J. Barrett, of Waterford. Coroner Desmond explains the circumstances surrounding the accident as follows:

On the 26th day of September, 1925, at or about 7 o'clock p. m., said Goldie Bronitsky was walking across State street, in said New London, and at the same time said automobile operator was proceeding westwardly, up State street; a trolley car, proceeding up State street, had stopped just ahead of the Barrett car, and the Barrett automobile was brought to a stop behind the trolley car; presently the trolley car went forward, and at the same time the Barrett automobile started forward following the trolley car and gaining on it as both vehicles were proceeding slowly up State street; just after the two vehicles had begun to move forward, as above stated, said Goldie Bronitsky, on her way across State street, passed over the trolley car track, behind the trolley car, and walked against the said Barrett automobile, and one of the sleeves of her dress was caught by the handle of the rear left hand door of the automobile, whereby said Goldie Bronitsky was thrown violently down upon the street, causing a fracture of her skull, from which she died later that day in the Home hospital in said New London.

In vestigation discloses that the driver of the Barrett automobile was operating her car with due care, and was not responsible for this very distressing accident; the automobile had gone partly by the Bronitsky woman when she walked, or ran against its rear left hand door, apparently watching the trolley car, and no noticing the automobile.

Earnings of the New Haven road continue to go higher and the monthly report as well as the report for the first six months of the present year made public recently show the road to be in a prosperous condition at the present time. The net income for June, 1926, after all charges had been deducted, was $670,085.44, as compared with $552,618.83 in June, 1925, an increase of $117,466.61. For the six months ending June 30, last, the net income was $3,234,430.52, compared with $2,653,574.94 during the same six months period last year, an increase of $580,855.58.

The official statement of the New Haven road, which was issued recently, stated that on several occasions inaccurate reports of the company's earnings have appeared in the press prior to the official statement of the company. "This official statement," says the report, "is given to the press not earlier than the 25th of each month and contains the earnings of the preceding month and for the period of the calendar year, including such preceding months. No other statement is given or authorized by the company."

Under the operating revenues, increases are shown in all accounts excepting those of mail, which decreased $5,893, the receipts for the month being $168,815, and joint facility, which fell off $1,040, last year's figures for June being $93,677.

The income from freight was $6,052,313, an increase of $317,333 over last year. Passenger income was $4,235,579 for the month. The income from express was $471,939, an increase of $38,369. Other accounts brought the gross revenue to $11,605,928. The gross income from January to June was $65,128,006.

Operating expenses summed up to $8,659,756 and all but two of the counts showed higher expenses than a year ago. Accounts showing decreases were traffic account, the decrease being $1,816 and general account, the decrease being $1,956. Maintenance of way and structures amounted to $1,919,626, or $215,435 more than last year, Maintenance of equipment was $2,353,477, an increase of $83,333. The transportation account totalled $3,819,734, an increase of $90,173 over last year.

TWO WELL CHILD CONFERENCES NEXT WEEK

Many of the children in Connecticut entering school this fall will start their school career in a normal, physical condition. This has been made possible by the monthly attendance at the well child conferences for preschool children, which have been held in 43 towns in Connecticut.

Each child has received a thorough, physical examination, and mothers who are most interested in their welfare have been in touch with their family physicians so that all handicaps in the shape of physical defects have been corrected.

There is a monthly well child conference in Wauregan. Mothers should avail themselves of this opportunity by attending the conference. The next conference will be held on Tuesday afternoon, August 3rd, in Company hall, from 2 to 4 o'clock.

A well child conference will also be held at South Coventry Thursday afternoon, August 5th, in the public library, 2 to 4 o'clock.

Road Wants More Time

That the New Haven road is making progress with the installation of automatic control of trains under an order issued by the interstate commerce commission is made known by railroad company in a report to the federal commission. Train control devices were ordered in 1922. The New Haven company has a line of 62 miles equipped and with 60 locomotives. The device has been installed under the supervision of C. H. Morrison, the road's signal engineer, and it consists of an electric device that operates in case the engine driver is disabled or anything happens to the operation of the motive power that might result in a wrecking of the passenger train, in such an exigency the train control device stops the train. The New Haven company in reporting the progress that has thus far been made says that it cannot complete the installation within the time limit given and the road has asked for an extension of time in which to finish its work.

RECREATION COMMISSION MAKES ANNUAL REPORT

The city recreation commission has submitted to Mayor Miller R. Waters its annual report of activities, covering the 1925 season. After making reference to the administration, play centers, playground season, new equipment, commission meetings, interplayground activities, etc., Earle E. Brigham, playground superintendent, says in the report:

The playground movement in Norwich seems to be gaining in popularity as shown by the attendance records for the past year. We were handicapped by weather which caused the closing of the playgrounds on three sessions and cut the attendance down to almost nothing on three other sessions. Despite this handicap we showed a gain over the previous year's figures. The figures for the three years are:

First 38,859; second 52,497; third 55,155.

The playgrounds were run this season at an average cost of 7 1-2 cents per child for the season of 40 days.

The recreation commission is continuing its policy of furnishing skating and sliding during the winter season. Money has been provided for the scraping and conditioning of the ponds taken care of last season.

The recreation commission has created nine play centers, situated as follows: Lake Street, Greeneville, Hobart avenue, Falls, Elizabeth street, Laurel Hill, Thamesville, East Side and the Academy campus. The number of children cared for on the play centers during the season numbers 55,000. The results justify any reasonable amount of money that can be appropriated for this work.

In my report for last season I recommended—

1 the purchase of a central athletic field
2 the purchase of permanent playgrounds
3 the purchase of additional apparatus

During the past season we have purchased apparatus. I therefore again recommend

1 the purchase of a central athletic field
2 the purchase of permanent playgrounds

At the present time one playground (Lake Street) is owned by the city, two provided by individuals (Greeneville, East Side) and five use the public school yards (Hobart avenue, Falls, Laurel Hill, Thamesville and West Side).

Through the courtesy of Mr. Tirrell and the Academy trustees we were permitted to use the academy track and field for our inter-playground contests. There is no certainty about the length of time we will be able to use the grounds at Greeneville and the East Side and certainly we cannot continue to use indefinitely the public school grounds.

In conclusion, hearty appreciation is extended to the citizens of Norwich and the public in general for their kind interest and loyal support throughout the season.

The financial report: Appropriation $4,000; equipment $592.92; salaries $2,535.87; industrial $61.49; Lake street improvements $484.30; insurance $15; cartage $40; winter sports $45; repairs $69.42; photos $18.86; office $57.14; concerts $30; total receipts $4,000; total expenditures $4,000.

Willimantic Lost to Groton

About 200 employes and guests of the Max Pollack & Co., Inc., of Groton, attended a brilliant outdoor picnic given Saturday afternoon and evening by Herman Johl, president of the company in the spacious grove opposite the Johl residence at Trail's Corners, Groton. The affair is an annual function given for the employes of the company and invited guests.

The feature of the afternoon program was a baseball game in which employes of the Willimantic mill composed the opposing teams. After a hard fought, nine inning game, the Groton men took the laurels by a score of 4 to 3. The victory was unusually gratifying to the Groton rooters inasmuch as the home team had been organized only a few days while the up-state nine has been playing since the early part of the season. The Groton men got off to an early lead, scoring three runs in the first two innings, and held the visitors at bay throughout the remainder of the game. An eighth inning rally by the Willimantic nine was nipped in the bud by snappy field work.

Donahue of this city has filed in the office of the superior court clerk in this city his finding in the case of Alexander Picchini, No. 29 1-2 Avery street, this city, claimant against M. W. GAVE FAREWELL PARTY FOR THEIR PRESIDENT

The ladies of Trinity Episcopal Parish Aid society gave a farewell party Tuesday afternoon at Mohegan park for their president, Mrs. F. N. Clark, who is leaving this week for her new home in California. A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed and a picnic supper was served. The members presented Mrs. Clark a gold pin set in sapphires as a remembrance. During a short business session Mrs. Oscar Main was chosen president to succeed Mrs. Clark.

So great has been the improvement in engine boilers and fireboxes that the power derived from a pound of coal today is nearly three times as great as it was fifty years ago.

POETRY

Coronation

At the king's gate the subtle moon
Wove filmy yellow nets of sun;
Into the drowsy snare too soon
The guards fell one by one.

Through the king's gate, unquestioned then,
A beggar went, and laughed, "This brings
Me chance at last, to see if men
Fare better, being kings."

The king sat bowed beneath his crown
Propping his face with listless hand,
Watching the hour-glass sifting down
Too slow its shining sand.

"Poor man, what wouldst thou have o me?"
The beggar turned, and, pitying,
Replied like one in dream, "Of thee,
Nothing. I want the king."

Up rose the king, and from his head
Shook off the crown and threw it by
"O man, thou must have known," he said
"A greater king than I."

Through all the gates, unquestioned then
Went king and beggar hand in hand
Whispered the king, "Shall I know when
Before his throne I stand?"

The beggar laughed. Free winds in haste
Were wiping from the king's hot brow
The crimson lines the crown had traced
"This is his presence now."

At the king's gate, the crafty noon
Unwove its yellow nets of sun;
Out of their sleep in terror soon
The guards waked one by one.

"Ho there! Ho there! Has no man seen
The king?" The cry ran to and fro;
Beggar and king, they laughed, I ween,
The laugh that free men know.

On the king's gate the moss grew gray;
The king came not. They called him dead;
And made his eldest son one day
Slave in his father's stead.

CATHOLICS OF MEXICO UNWAVERING IN FAITH

Multitudes Throughout the Nation, in Their Places of Worship, Are Beseeching the Divine Authority to Come to the Relief of Their Faith—Scenes of Religious Fervor and Zeal Are Reminiscent of the Middle Ages—Meanwhile the Government Continues Its Preparations for Rigid Enforcement of Regulations, Effective Sunday, to Suppress All Rites of the Catholic Church.

MEXICO CITY, July 28.—(AP)—Mexico presented again today a picture, perhaps unprecedented since the middle ages, of vast assemblages throughout the entire nation moved in unison by extreme religious emotion.

From wretched hovels and the sumptuous residence of grandees, from the burning tropics to the frigid mountain places, from sea to sea, from lonely ranches and all but forgotten villages to the very plaza of the president's palace itself, on which also faced Mexico City's great cathedral, the faithful Roman Catholic church swept in countless multitudes to their places of worship, beseeching the divine authority to come to the relief of the faith they hold dear, and, which, as they believe, is in danger.

Today worshippers have come to the Mexico City cathedral and the shrine of Guadalupe in increasing numbers, and today they overflowed all the area around the cathedral, sweeping in solid streams through all the roads leading to the shrine of Guadalupe, the favorite saint of Mexico and dearest beloved of the Indians throughout the nation.

Every Catholic church within the limits of the city and its environs held the greatest crowds that ever gathered within these edifices, and so it was throughout the country.

With Saturday the last day in which Catholic priests will officiate in the churches, in obedience to pastoral orders withdrawing the priests as a protest against the government's new religious regulations, the faithful of that religion are engaged in an intense movement to avail themselves to the utmost of the rights of their church while opportunity permits.

During these extraordinary evidences of religious zeal and fervor, the government firmly continued its preparations for inflexible enforcement of the regulations, and also its investigation of the proposed opposition to these regulations in the form of an "economic boycott" under the leadership of the league for defense of religious liberty.

The executives of the league, who are prominent Catholics, are under arrest charged with inciting the people to disorder by their programme, which if put into effect, would mean the purchase of only absolute necessaries, so that business and industry would diminish and the government suffer embarrassment possibly sufficient to cause modification of its religious attitude.

Consideration is still being given by the government to the question of a judicial examination, leading to the formal arrest of the archbishops and bishops who signed the recent pastoral letter, if it is decided that this document constitutes sedition.

No further information has been received of the reported killing of the mayor of the village of Nochistan by an infuriated mob. As the report set forth, though it has not yet been confirmed, the mayor attacked a Catholic priest, but accounts differ as to whether he merely shot at or actually killed the priest.

Mexico City is crowded with Catholic visitors from all parts of the republic. Every popular priced hotel, boarding and rooming house is filled to overflowing. The visitors are desirous of seeing the highest church authorities at their devotions in the cathedral, or at Guadalupe or other favorite shrines before Sunday. There are many Catholic priests, seeking instructions from their spiritual superiors, but they cannot be identified outwardly, because now, as for many years, clericals obey the Mexican laws forbidding the wearing of clerical garb publicly.

This morning as sunrise came over the snow peaks and ancient volcanoes of Popocatapetl and Ixtaccihuatl, the highways and by-paths leading to the shrine of Guadalupe were alive with Indian families. They had plodded all night long over the ragged roads from remote villages, perhaps snatching a bit of sleep beside the roadside with only a scanty blanket for protection, in order to reach their "shrine of shrines" in time for the first mass at 5 o'clock.

For many miles in all directions they trudged through the freshening dawn, and later encamped in the shadow of Guadalupe, where they spent hours performing their devotions.

Occasionally among the pilgrims was to be seen some poor cripple carried on the back of an Indian friend or relative, or, propelled on a crude wheel chair, a maimed and distorted figure unable to make the journey otherwise.

As they came along the road to the shrine of Guadalupe most of the Indian women were telling their beads, their prayers commencing long before they reached the shrine.

Within the church of Guadalupe, where shadows were thrown by thousands of lighted candles in the hands of the kneeling multitude and before the various altars and shrines, and played fantastically upon the bowed forms, there came a constant procession of men, women and children—women greatly predominating here, as at the cathedral and other churches—hobbling along upon their knees.

From the entrance gate into the church to the shrine all made the journey upon their knees, many of them, particularly the aged and infirm, shuffling painfully along.

Upon reaching the church doors all in the procession lighted candles and continued the journey on their knees, frequently pausing to bow their heads until their foreheads touched the floor. Numerous women, in an ecstasy of emotion, raised their arms aloft in supreme supplication and lifted their faces to heaven while tears streamed down their cheeks.

NOT COMPLETE SUSPENSION OF RELIGIOUS SERVICES

MEXICO CITY, July 28.—(AP)— The archbishopric issued a statement today declaring that the withdrawal of the priests from the churches on August 1, as announced in the recent pastoral letter, does not mean complete suspension of religious services.

The services suspended will be holy communion, confirmations, confessions, consecrations and some sacraments which require the intervention of priests. Services which can be continued without the intervention of priests are modified masses, marriages and baptisms.

It is also announced that during the cessation of the priests' activities a sincere act of repentance on the part of a Mexican Catholic will be considered equivalent to the confession necessary for death and marriage sacraments.

After the priests' departure the churches will remain open and worshippers may enter at will. Laymen will not take the place of priests at the mass, but worshippers may congregate and read from the prayer book as if the priest before the altar were saying mass.

For the rosary, a secular may lead the worshippers in prayer, but without taking the place of the priest before the altar. Seculars may perform marriages and baptisms, both properly witnessed and recorded, certificates being issued, which the priests will officially reaffirm when they resume their functions.

WITNESSES TESTIFY THE PETEETS WERE INTOXICATED

TIJUANA, Lower Cal., Mexico, July 28—(AP)—Cabaret entertainers, resort proprietors, police officers and others were called to the stand today in the trial of former Police Chief Zenaido Llanos and three other Mexicans charged with statutory offenses here last February against Clyde and Audrey Peteet, American girls, aged 18 and 25 respectively.

The two girls with their parents ended their lives in their home in San Diego supposedly from remorse over their experiences here.

More than a dozen witnesses told of the movements of Thomas M. Peteet, father of the girls and his family during their four days' visit here, which culminated February 3 in the alleged drugging and subsequent attacking of the two girls.

Ramon Cerman, policeman, testified he escorted Audrey Peteet to a hotel here after she had been sent back from Tijuana Hot Springs, a resort several miles distant, by Police Chief Llanos.

Francisco Krauss, a police official, described a visit of Peteet to the police station here seeking Clyde Peteet. Krauss said he accompanied Peteet to a hotel where the girl later charged she had been attacked by Luis Amador, one of the defendants. On finding his daughter Krauss said, the family returned to San Diego.

54-YEAR OLD MAN IN WOODS WITH 14-YEAR OLD GIRL

WATERBURY, July 28—(AP)—After spending four nights together in thick woods near Wolcott, with no shelter and nothing to protect them from dampness and insects except an old quilt, a 54-year-old man and a 14-year-old girl were arrested here late this afternoon. The man, George Willis, is held on a statutory charge. The girl is charged with incorrigibility.

The girl never wandered from the spot in the deep woods where Willis left her, both admit, since Saturday night. Willis made occasional trips to stores, within two miles of the spot, and bought groceries. Willis has been a friend of the family of the girl for five years, her parents said tonight. He wishes to marry her, he declares. He is divorced and has several grown children.

The child was first missed from home Saturday. Her parents did not inform the police of her absence, however, until Monday. The police officers scouring the woods near Wolcott in the belief that the girl might be hiding there, worked on the report that a boy, dressed in a shirt, shoes and white canvas trousers was living in the thicket with a man. When the girl was found her only clothing was the shirt and trousers.

JERSEY COW CREATES NEW RECORD FOR PRODUCTION

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—The Jersey cow, Killingly Toronto Lass, has hung up another world's record for production, according to an announcement made today by the American Jersey Cattle club of New York.

In the 305 days of a test begun when she was 4 years, 4 months old, this cow yielded 838.49 pounds of butterfat in 15,556 pounds of milk, which is a record unapproached by other cows of her age, the announcement says.

Killingly Torono Louise, Lass' full sister, holds the junior two year old world's 305 day record for Jersey milk production. Both cows are owned by Killingly Farm, Barre, Mass.

FATAL HEART ATTACK FOLLOWED ARGUMENT

NEW HAVEN, July 28—(AP)—James McNamara, 55, of Hamden, died in his home tonight of heart failure. It was alleged that the sudden attack was brought about by an argument with his son-in-law, Frank Benham, 36, of New Haven. Benham was later arrested on a technical charge of breach of the peace.

STORM WARNING ISSUED BY THE WEATHER BUREAU

WASHINGTON, July 28—(AP)—The weather bureau tonight issued the following storm warning:

"Advisory 9 p. m.: Warning changed to southwest warning 9.30 p. m., north of Titusville to Savannah, Ga. Probable storm center near Georgia coast about 50 miles north of Jacksonville moving northward. The center will pass near and probably west of Savannah tonight."

Nassau is Reported Wrecked by Hurricane

Message Received at the Office of the Munson Line, New York—Storm Moves North.

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—Nassau, in the Bahamas, is badly wrecked by the hurricane, according to a message received in the office of the Munson line here today from the steamship Munamar which arrived there yesterday after a stormy voyage. The Nassau radio station is down.

DETAILS OF DAMAGE BY THE STORM IN FLORIDA

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., July 28.—(AP)—The West Indian hurricane that has raged along the coast of Florida since Monday passed off the coast near Jacksonville late today and advanced toward the Georgia boundary. It was expected to strike the coast near the Georgia line.

The storm took only two lives as it passed up the Florida coast but it caused property damage estimated in the millions. Palm Beach's loss was estimated at $1,000,000, that of Stuart, Fla., at $250,000 and Miami's at $100,000 in addition to damage to shipping, telegraph and telephone wires and crops at scores of places.

The storm apparently was lessening in intensity as it came up the coast, but was still of hurricane force. Inhabitants and summer residents at coast resorts hurried into the cities for safety. Vessels sought shelter in inner harbors.

Rescue of the Italian freighter Ansaldo San Giorgio Secondo was reported through a radio message to St. Augustine, Fla. This said the Ansaldo had been taken in tow by the steamship West Harshaw, which is proceeding to Jacksonville. Despite a disabled rudder the Ansaldo rode out the storm. Since early Monday morning its crew had fought heroically against the hurricane which caught the ship as it came up the Florida coast.

Reports of damage where the storm had passed came in as crippled wire facilities were slowly restored. A message from Nassau via Miami fixed the damage there at five million dollars. The hurricane hit Nassau after it came up out of the Caribbean sea and before touching the lower Florida east coast.

A message received by the Munson line in New York from the steamer Munamar, at Nassau said that place had been wrecked.

Miami's damage was principally to the Avocado pear crop. Palm Beach suffered heaviest in the loss of more than a score of yachts and small craft which went down when a pier gave way. Fashionable resorts and hotels were flooded by water blown from Lake Worth.

At Stuart, Fla., the chief loss was to water front and river craft.

Daytona Beach experienced damage to light and power lines, disrupted telephone service, uprooted trees, washed out highways and damaged small pleasure craft. After a night without lights, the power service was restored today.

A rum running vessel was reported ashore several miles north of Ormond.

One man was killed in Sanford, Fla., when a tree crashed into the bunk house and crushed the cot on which he was lying.

Sanford has six inches of rainfall in 24 hours.

At Lake Alfred, near Winterhaven, the engineer and fireman of an Atlantic coast line train jumped to safety in a lake as the engine left the track.

An Atlantic coast line passenger train struck a bus and then collided with a switch engine at Orlando, resulting in the death of Engineer Liga and the injury of several passengers. The injured were taken to an Orlando hospital.

FIVE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT IN NOROTON

STAMFORD, July 28—(AP)—Five persons were taken to the Stamford hospital late tonight following an automobile accident in Noroton, when a car driven by Oliver P. Parlette, of Noroton, was struck by one driven by H. E. Warneck, of Norwalk. Charges of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor will be preferred against Warneck, police said.

Parlette received two broken legs, while his five year old son, Oliver, Jr., who was a passenger, has severe lacerations of the scalp.

Warneck has a broken arm and lacerations. Louis Hall, a New York attorney, who lives in New Canaan, and was a passenger in Warneck's machine, was badly shaken up and Walter Griffin, a lawyer of New York city, who was also a passenger, received cuts about the face.

At the time of the accident Parlette was turning into the driveway of his home from the Boston Post road. Warneck was driving from New Canaan to Stamford, when he collided with the other car.

13 PERSONS INJURED BY MOTOR BOAT EXPLOSION

ESSEX, July 28—(AP)—With the removal of Mrs. Leon K. Pratt, a summer resident of this place, whose home is in Hackensack, N. J., to the New Haven hospital, today, the story of an unusual accident in which 11 of 13 persons in a motor boat were injured has come to light. The party started in a small boat yesterday for Seldon's cove, a favorite picnic ground. When they were about to leave an explosion occurred, the stern and sides of the boat were blown out and the occupants were thrown into the water. Mrs. Pratt received a compound fracture of the leg above the ankle and lacerations and abrasions. Leon Pratt, her husband, a broken arm and severe nervous shock. Mrs. delaide Arnold, a daughter, of New York city, serious burns.

FERGUSON CHARGES KLAN BEHIND DEFEAT OF WIFE

AUSTIN, Tex., July 28—(AP)—James E. Ferguson, in a statement tonight charged that the Ku Klux Klan was the "silent force" behind the defeat of his wife, Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, in last Saturday's primary.

"Nobody need be surprised to see the firey cross in evidence, and this crowd is so wild with victory that we need not be surprised to see a Ku Klux parade in the next 60 days and perhaps some good American will fall a victim of the lash," the former governor declared.

Ford Tells Coolidge of Commercial Aviation

Optimistic Views of Future Pictured to the Chief Executive at the Summer White House.

PAUL SMITH'S N. Y., July 28—(AP)—The future of commercial aviation was pictured in confident terms today by Edsel Ford, son of the Detroit manufacturer, during his call on President Coolidge.

Invited to White Pine camp to be the guest with Mrs. Ford of the President and Mrs. Coolidge, the young man who heads the aviation activities of the Ford interests, reported on the progress he is making in developing the art of commercial flying and also brought an optimistic view of business conditions generally in the country.

To President Coolidge, who long has indicated a deep interest in the possibilities of flying in this country and particularly through the development of aviation in civil life, Mr. Ford was able to say that while his company does not intend at present if ever, to enter commercial flying extensively, it is developing engines and planes which it regards as sound and efficient and believes there will be sufficient demand for them to make their manufacture in considerable quantities a paying investment.

Such is increasing, there are many more commercial planes now than there were two years ago, and the Ford company is ready to go ahead with airplane production.

Arriving yesterday Mr. Ford remained with the president until this afternoon when he departed for Brittonwoods, N. H., and Seal Harbor, Me.

Great hopes are placed by Mr. Ford in the new plane he has developed of the monoplane type, driven by three motors and capable of carrying a one ton load. One hundred of this type are now being manufactured and the freight airline from Detroit to Chicago, and Detroit to Cleveland for transporting Ford car parts to it afactories is to be used by the Ford company in testing the machine.

The air mail routes, in Mr. Ford's belief, furnish an incentive of primary importance to the development of commercial aviation in this country providing a source of revenue to private companies which, however, need additional returns to prosper and may be expected to improve their facilities and carry freight, express and passengers. It is to this field that the Ford company expects to sell many of its planes at the start.

The establishment of a bureau of civil aeronautics in the department of commerce under the direction of an assistant secretary, Mr. Ford records as important, especially from the assistance it will give in mapping, charting and laying out flying routes and fields and in general from the stimulus it will give to commercial flying in all directions.

The new all metal monoplane of the Ford company measures 58 feet from tip to tip of the wing, or four feet more than the plane of that type which Lieutenant Commander Byrd of the navy flew over the north pole, and weighs 4,000 pounds. It is driven by a 200 horsepower nine cylinder Wright Whirlwind air-cooled radial engine and costs about $37,000.

While the airline fright services of the Ford company have been operated on a high standard without economy as the primary aim, Mr. Ford said the cost of transportation, including all overhead and depreciation, has averaged 13.3 cents a pound on freight.

Flying at 100 miles an hour, the planes, he added, have averaged 2 hours and 59 minutes between Detroit and Chicago, as compared with six hours by train, and one hour and 30 minutes between Detroit and Cleveland, as compared with about four hours by train.

Since the first flight was made on April 13, 1925, to July 17 of this year, there have been attempted 1402 flights of which 1467 were completed or at an efficiency of 98.3 per cent. Of the forced landings 19 were made because of engine trouble and 33 because of weather.

In that period 295,000 miles have been flown for a total of 3,354 hours in the air, and 1,644,000 pounds of freight have been carried. Two round trips are made daily to Cleveland one to Chicago.

FURTHER DISCLOSURES OF ILLINOIS CAMPAIGN FUNDS

CHICAGO, July 28—(AP)—Another contribution by Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities magnate, to the campaign funds raised in the April Illinois primary was disclosed today before the senate campaign funds committee.

It was $10,000 paid to the powerful Crowe-Barrett republican faction of Cook county, which generally supported Frank L. Smith, chairman of the Illinois commerce commission, in his successful fight to wrest the republican nomination from Senator William B. McKinley.

This increased the known outlay by Insull during the primary campaign to $193,735.19, of which $125,000 was a gift to the Smith organization, $15,000 to George E. Brennan, who won the democratic senate nomination, and $10,000 to the Deneen group in Cook county.

Insull's contribution was testified to by Charles V. Barrett, of Chicago, treasurer of the Crowe-Barrett organization, who disclosed also that his group spent a total approximating $175,000. This, with other but smaller expenditures testified to during the day raised the known total in the Illinois primary to $965,835.47. This total is divided as follows:

Senator William B. McKinley, $352,616.72.

Frank L. Smith, $252,547.61.

George E. Brennan, $20,841.42.

Deneen organization, $139,834.63.

Crowe-Barrett group, $175,000.

Insull direct for anti-world court propaganda, $33,735.19.

The $10,000 Insull contribution revealed today was withheld from the committee by the donor last Monday until he could confer with counsel as to the authority of the committee to compel an answer.

FRANCE TO DEFER ACTION ON U. S. DEBT TILL OCTOBER.

Decision Reached That Ratification of American and British Debt Agreements Must Give Way to Passage of the Financial Bill—The Finance Committee Has Approved the Bill in Principle by Vote of 20 to 12—Measure Probably Will be Presented to the Chamber Friday.

PARIS, July 28.—(AP)—Ratification of the Washington and London debt agreements must wait until the chamber of deputies convenes in October.

This Premier Poincare made clear to the finance committee of the chamber when he appeared before that body today to urge the passage of the financial bill.

M. Poincare gave no inkling as to whether he favored or opposed the accords, but said the financial bill was the more important, and that parliament lacked time to open a long discussion, which undoubtedly would follow the introduction of the ratification bills.

The premier reiterated the statement contained in the ministerial declaration of France's most earnest desire to settle its interallied debts, "within the measure of its capacity for payment."

The financial bill was approved in principle today by the finance committee, 2 to 12, with 6 absentations. The separate articles, however, met with sterner opposition, one of them, number 4, dealing with the tax on railroad passenger and freight rates being defeated.

This only gave the premier an opportunity to show what a strong hold he has on the deputies, when after he had discussed the matter briefly before the committee, the members reconsidered their decisions and adopted the article, 18 to 12.

The committee reached article 7, when adjournment was taken until a later hour, and it is expected the committee's report will be ready to submit to the chamber Friday.

The franc slumped throughout the day despite the fact the French parliament had expressed its confidence in the government and the public was responding generously to the premier's appeal for advance payments on the 1926 taxes. Opening at 39.89 to the dollar and 194 sterling, as compared with yesterday's closing price of 40.51 and 196.75, the franc fell steadily until noon, when it was quoted at 41.78 and 203. The official closing was 42.09 to the dollar and 205 sterling.

Paris exchange-brokers assert there had been considerable sales of French francs in the foreign markets.

The tax collectors in Paris report more than 40,000,000 francs received in the past two days in payments for the 1926 taxes, although the sheets have not yet been sent out. The suburbs also send encouraging news as to the response of the taxpayers to the premier's plea.

M. Poincare spent nearly two hours before the finance committee stressing the necessity of speeding up the work. He asked the deputies to forego for the time being any personal amendment they might have in mind, and keep their suggestions for the 1927 budget. The committee responded nobly and voted seven articles in the hour after the premier's departure.

The finance committee threw out the socialists' restoration plan, which M. Blum, the socialist leader, insisted upon introducing, as opposed to that of the government. The socialist members of the committee voted against the government throughout, but were always in the minority.

M. Poincare described the socialist plan as sponsoring inflation and a capital levy; this sounded the death knell of the socialist projects.

SIMPLE FUNERAL SERVICE FOR ROBERT T. LINCOLN

MANCHESTER, Vermont, July 28—(AP)—Final rites for Robert Todd Lincoln, son of President Lincoln, were held today in the shadow of the Vermont hills he had come to call home. Extreme simplicity marked the brief services at Hildene, where the former war secretary and minister to Great Britain had sought rest and recreation in the last quarter of a century. He died there Monday.

The Rev. Dr. Cunningham Geddes, pastor of the Congregational church, officiated. At the request of the family there was no public demonstration from the townspeople except for lowered flags, and aside from Mr. Lincoln's immediate relatives, but two families attended the services. These were Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Young, of Greenwich, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. George H. Thacher, of Albany, N. Y., and Manchester. Mr. Young and Mr. Thacher are the two surviving members of the "Lincoln foursome" famous for years on the Ekwanok golf course.

Only one thing that might have been considered a form of eulogy was included in the services. This was a message of sympathy to the family and relatives, delivered through the minister, by the village folk.

GAS ATTACK ON FAMILY OF DON R. MELLETT IN CANTON

CANTON Ohio, July 28—(AP)—A mysterious gas attack of no serious consequences o nthe members of the family of Don nR. Mellett, slain Canton publisher, tonight was perplexing investigators, delving into the assassination of Mellett, July 16.

The widow of Don and their four children, and Mrs. Lloyd Mellett, wife of the dead man's brother became ill from an obnoxious gas which enveloped tae front porch of the Don Mellett home. No evidence of a bomb or container which mgiht have been broken was found.

The Mellett's could not recall having seen an automobile pass the house before the gas swept across the porch where the women and children were.

They discounted a theory that the vapor might have been released from a gas gun, such as police raiding squads use.

The federal postal department actively entered into the murder investigation today with the arrival here of A. P. Owen, postal inspector from Cleveland. His presence was accounted for by the number of threatening and warning letters which investigators and private citizens have received.

LIQUOR NOT SOLD ON THE U. S. LINER LEVIATHAN

NEW YORK, July 28—(AP)—Liquor is not sold on the United States liner Leviathan, it was testified at a hearing instituted by officials of the line today, but it is carried on to the ship in large quantities by passengers and is brought to table and carried about the dining room by ship's stewards.

The inquiry was begun by Thomas H. Rossbottom, general manager of the line, due to anonymous charges that liquor had been sold on the ship.

Captain Hartley reported that no employe of the line was allowed to sell liquor and if any were found doing so they were immediately thrown in the brig and discharged as soon as port was reached. He cited the cases of the two men who were so treated.

Stewards testified that passengers returning to America often brought liquor aboard with them and were accustomed to bring the bottles to table with them.

DAUGHTER OF MUSSOLINI IS ILL WITH DIPHTHERIA

ORME, Italy, July 28.—(AP)—Edda Mussolini, daughter of the Fascist dictator, is seriously ill of diphtheria.

Edda Mussolini, 16-year old daughter of Premier Mussolini is the possessor of a Carnegie Hero Fund medal conferred upon her last December for having saved a woman from drowning. She is also known as a staunch Fascist.

MRS. RUSSELL PROVES THE LEGITIMACY OF HER SON

LONDON, July 28.—(AP)—After a four year legal battle costing about £40,000 and providing testimony of a sensational nature, the mother of little Geoffrey Dennis Erskine Russell, aged four and a half years has won her fight to establish the boy's legitimacy as the son of her husband, the Honorable John Russell and the right to succeed to the title of Baron Ampthill.

The British courts today declared the lad "the lawful child of his parents."

The boy is known to the gossips of Europe as "the dream baby," because the father maintained that he had never had marital relations with his wife. His counsel asserted Mrs. Russell first learned she was going to be a mother from a fortune-teller, and, on being thus informed she responded: "It must be a miracle."

The end of the case in the courts produced a surprise, as the judge announced that the father, the Honorable John Russell——who has never recognized the boy as his own—has sought to reopen the question determined by a ruling of the house of lords in 1924, when that body annulled the divorce Russell had obtained in the lower courts in 1923.

In the divorce proceedings Russell's counsel sought to establish Mrs. Russell's hypnotic influence over her blue-blooded husband, who is heir of Baron Ampthill.

One of Mrs. Russell's letters read in court admitted that she had been "frightfully indiscreet all through life," but she staunchly denied misconduct and throughout successfully defended the name of her child.

GOVERNORS ENTERTAINED BY COWBOYS AND INDIANS

CHEYENNE, Wyo., July 28.—(AP)—After three days occupied with examining the problems and defects of their own state governments, 20 governors forgot state affairs today as their annual conference came to a close, and watched the luminaries of the cowboy world perform in a brilliant prospective rodeo on the days of the old western frontier.

Indians from three tribes, the Sioux, the Shoshone and Araphoe, joined the cowboys in exhibitions of skill in bareback riding and lariat throwing.

Wild yells from the lips of 15,000 persons greeted each governor as he was introduced to the crowd at the frontier days celebration.

The state executives elected Nellie Taylor Ross, Wyoming's woman governor, as a member of the conference's executive committee in company with Governors John Hamill, Iowa, John W. Martin, Florida, Adam McMullen, Nebraska and Ralph O. Brewster, Maine.

Little Rock, Ark., and Baton Rouge, La., invited the governors to hold their 1927 conference there.

UNIVERSITY WOMEN DISCUSS "KITCHEN CULTURE" FOR MEN

AMSTERDAM, July 28—(AP)—Kitchen duty for husbands, which anti-feminists long ago predicted as a dire outcome of the education of women, is now under serious discussion at the convention here of the International Federation of University Women.

The man who helps his wife with the dishes and the need by American man for "kitchen culture," are among the subjects on which Mrs. Lillian M. Gilbreth of Montclair, N. J., will speak. Mrs. Gilbreth is the mother of 11 children and at the same time is president of a corporation of industrial engineers.

Her opinions are taking the breath away from many of the European delegates who are not accustomed to expecting domesticity among their menfolk.

DANIELSON

WTHERBEE'S COUNSEL STARTS HABEAS CORPUS PROCEEDINGS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July 28—Habeas corpus proceedings were resorted today by Attorney Irving H. Miron in an effort to secure the release of his client, Raymond Wetherbee of North Grosvenordale, held at Brooklyn jail without bail on order of Coroner Arthur G. Bill.

Wetherbee has been in jail about three weeks and is held that Coroner Bill may question him as to his knowledge of any circumstances pertaining to the death of a new-born child of Agnes Pytka, 17, of Wilsonville, in the town of Thompson. The child's body was found in the river, a rope tied about its waist and a stone attached to the other end of the rope. The child's skull was crushed.

The Pytka girl, after being brought to the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam, in a precarious condition after undue exposure and lack of care following the birth, gave Coroner Bill and State Officer Edward Streamens of the Danielson barracks certain information relative to the disposal of the child, that led to the dragging of the river, recovery of the body and the arrest of Wetherbee, who has since been held without bail. He has consistently denied all knowledge of how the child came to its death.

Under the action taken Wednesday, when Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer served Sheriff Charles A. Gates of Willimantic, as jailer of the county jail, with papers in the habeas corpus proceedings, Attorney Miron seeks to have Sheriff Gates produce Wetherbee before Judge Marvin in the superio rcourt at Hartford next Tuesday morning and consider arguments why Wetherbee should be released:

"Habeas corpus proceedings are very unusual in Windham county. Deputy Sheriff Ayer said Wednesday that in the past 12 years he has, including the present one, served only two such processes. As Coroner Bill left Monday for ten days' stay at Silver Bay, it was impossible to learn what action he may take, if any, in opposition to having Wetherbee released.

Attorney Miron explained this afternoon that he appeared Tuesday before Judge Baldwin, in the superior court at New Haven, and made such representations as were necessary to institute the proceedings now under way. Attorney Miron claims that his client is illegally held, and will argue for his release next Tuesday—not release under bail, but release and discharge from custody. Attorney Miron claims that the prolonged delay in completing the inquest establishes grounds for seeking his client's release.

There were indications this afternoon that Coroner Bill might return from his vacation to appear at Hartford next Tuesday when the Wetherbee case comes up for consideration.

DRINK LED FAMILY MAN TO ROUGH UP STRANGE GIRL

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July 28—At a session of the town court held this morning a young married man, father of two children and a resident here, received a suspended sentence of 30 days in jail, paid actual costs amounting to $9.74 and agreed to emopensate a young woman to the amount of $9.15 for damage he did to articles of her clothing when he figured in something approximating a movie thriller, late Tuesday night. In addition he was severely reprimanded by Attorney Harry E. Back, acting as prosecuting attorney, for his unseemly conduct, for which drinking is held largely accountable.

The accused was arrested and locked up late Tuesday night by Officer John Gebert, and here's a running story approximating the happenings that led up to the arrest.

A charming miss of 18 is here from North Oxford, Mass., visiting friends. When Officer Gebert first saw her she was without shoes or stockings and otherwise disarrayed.

She went out for a stroll Tuesday evening to enjoy the moonlight and balmy air. While she was on North Main street, near the office of the Crystal Water company, the young married man who figures in the case accosted her with a "good evening" or some such greeting. The girl's version of the story is that the young man's advances were not too graciously received, but he grabbed her by the wrist and forced her to accompany him westward through Hutchins street. In due time the couple appeared on Mechanic street and there the girl's cries attracted the attention of a passing motorist, who slowed down his car. Immediately the girl jumped on the running board of the machine with a wild plea for the driver to save her. The driver was doing his best to get her into the machine and drive her companion off, when another man came along.

He viewed the struggle between the two men with something approximating remote control, gaining the impression that two sheiks were in a battle for a maiden fair. Having watched a bit he hurried off to notify the police.

Meanwhile the driver of the car, into which the girl had climbed, and on one running board of which the young married man was still standing, "stepped on the gas," throttle wide-open, the car leaped forward and the young married man pitched to the street, scraping the side of his head and sustaining other painful, but minor injuries. Then Officer Gebert came along and made the arrest. The girl charged that her assailant had ripped off her shoes and stockings and otherwise had roughed her up.

There were various sound considerations for the young married man escaping a much more serious set of penalties than imposed on him by the court. The young woman agreed to accept the price of a new pair of stockings and a new hat as compensation for injury to her clothing and the penalties imposed upon the young man were sufficient balm for her injured feelings.

Council Gagnon, No. 178, Union St. John Baptist, of Goodyear, was host Sunday to delegates from all the councils of the organization in District No. 8, which includes all the territory in eastern Connecticut from Norwich to North Grosvenordale and from Willimantic to Stafford Springs. About 175 were in attendance and such routine matters as are usually up for consideration at these quarterly meetings were discussed and action taken where necessary. The business session was held in Columbia hall in Dayville, J. C. Marsan, of Tatfville, is president of the district organization. Following the meeting the delegates motored out to Kennedy's on the Chepachet pike for a shore dinner. The delegates had a very pleasant and profitable day and were delighted with the arrangements made by Council Gagnon, which was observing its 25th anniversary.

Repairs are being made on schoolhouses in various communities of the town of Killingly. This is in line with the yearly practice of checking up the school properties and making such renovation as is required, that the schools may be in proper condition for the opening of the new school year in September.

A few specimens of the largest trout that swim in fresh water hereabouts—German carp—have been taken from the Quinebaug river this week. These great fish are apt to be found in coves and are quite easily taken with the aid of a spear. The carp have been in the Quinebaug for years. How they came to get into that particular stream is not known, though there are various stories. Old timers who can remember back more than half a century say there were no carp in the Quinebaug in the days of their youth.

Some boys are offending public decency, it is claimed, by bathing nude in local waters that are in sight of residences. It has been suggested that this can be remedies promptly by telephoning the police promptly relative to such adventures that an officer may appear upon the scene and have a talk with the boys.

The Brooklyn Congregational church which has been closed for two weeks in the absence of the pastor, is to resume services next Sunday morning at 10:45 (daylight saving time) Rev. J. R. Pratt will occupy the pulpit.

There will be a union service of the churches of Ekonk, Canterbury Green, Westminister, Canterbury Plains, Plainfield, Moosup, Central Village, Wauregan and Brooklyn. The service will be held in the Brooklyn, Congregational church at 8:00 (daylight saving time). Rev. (Miss) Lydia Hartig, pastor of Ekonk church will speak and there will be special music.

At his home near East Killingly, Wednesday afternoon funeral services for Horatio R. Lufkin were conducted by Rev. W. D. Hetherington. The body will be forwarded today (Thursday) by Undertaker A. F. Wood for burial Friday in Woodland cemetery at Caribou, Me.

Mr. Lufkin was born in Caribou Nov. 18, 1867, a son of Nathaniel and Matilda Redtker Lufkin. His death occurred Tuesday afternoon. He leaves his wife, two sons, Nathaniel and Colan, and a daughter, Lena, at home. His brothers are Lester of East Killingly, Samuel and Edward of Caribou, and there is a sister, Mrs. Walter Chase of West Glocester, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Grant of Malden are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Winkelman of Reynolds street. Mr. Grant is the assistant city treasurer of Malden and prior to taking that office was for 40 years an auditor for the Boston & Maine railroad.

Another large shipment of trout, ranging from fingerlings to fish several inches in length are to be released in streams hereabouts in the immediate future. The state fish and game commission is releasing these fish in order that they may be in clear, cold water, to save them from dying off. It is probable that many of them will go into Snake Meadow brook, as particularly suitable under the pressing circumstances and because of low water in many trout brooks.

There was a suggestion of the nearness of fall in the presence here on Wednesday of Marshall J. Frink of Brooklyn distributing premium lists for the annual exhibition of the Windham County Agricultural society. The current list is for the 77th annual fair and exhibition, September 21, 22, 23. The list indicates, for one thing, that the dog show has become a fixture and that it likely will be larger and more interesting than the good showing made last year.

Chief A. P. Woodward said Wednesday that adjustments are being made that a greater volume of sound may be obtained from the new fire alarm horn placed at the central fire station on Academy street. He has taken the matter up with the engineering department of the manufacturers, one of the best known producers of fire alarm apparatus in the United States.

During the period August 1-15 the remnant and sales room of the Paco Mfg. Co., Furnace St., will be closed.—Adv.

Miss Agnes Pytke, 17, of Wilsonville, has been discharged from the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam and is now held without bail at the county jail in Brooklyn. She is the admitted mother of the girl baby whose body was sunk in the river near Wilsonville.

Add Manitoba to the list of automobile registrations seldom seen here, this particular one very rarely.

To Rent—8 rooms and bath; 3 garages. Tel. 77-5.—Adv.

TEXT OF HABEAS CORPUS WRIT IN THE CASE OF WETHERBEE

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, July 28.—Raymond Wetherbee, now a prisoner at Brooklyn jail in connection with the death of the newly born infant of Agnes Pytka, a 17 year old girl of Thompson, is to be brought before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in the superior court at Hartford next Tuesday, August 3rd, on a writ of habeas corpus.

The body was found by a member of the state police after a long search. The girl-mother was in a very weakened condition physically and she was taken to the Day Kimball hospital where she has since remained. The arrest of Wetherbee followed soon after. He is 25 and has borne a good reputation. He maintained and still maintains his innocence in the matter. He was arrested about the first of July.

His attorney, Irving H. Miron of this city, claims that his client is being deprived of his constitutional rights in being held a prisoner this long without being presented in court and informed of the nature of the charges against him.

The application for the writ of habeas corpus and the order of the court read as follows:

"To Hon. Alfred C. Baldwin, a Judge of the Superior Court for the State of Connecticut:

"Raymond A. Wetherbee of the town of Thompson, in Windham county, complains and says: That he now is, and for many days last past has been confined and holden in imprisonment without law or right, in the county jail in Brooklyn in said county by Charles A. Gates, sheriff of said county.

"The complainant prays that a writ of habeas corpus may be issued to bring him, with the cause of his imprisonment, before Hon. L. P. Waldo Marvin, a judge of the supreme court, to the end that what appertains to justice may be done.

"Dated this 27th day of July, 1926.
"ALFRED C. BALDWIN,
"A Judge of the Superior Court."

This is the first habeas corpus proceeding brought in the courts of Windham county for many years.

MYSTIC

Funeral services for Frank W. Morgan, a Civil war veteran who died in Ledyard Sunday, were held at local funeral parlors Tuesday afternoon. Rev. G. F. Goodenough, pastor of Ledyard Congregational church conducted the service. A delegation from the submarine base escorted the body to the cemetery in Ledyard for burial.

The registrars of the Fourth (Stonington) district of which Mystic is a part, are to meet at the district court house in August to enroll electors, on separate lists according to their political preferences, as provided by the statutes, or to receive the applications of any who wish their names transferred to other lists.

The Mystic Garden club is three years old and since its organization has aided in beautifying Mystic. As soon as the new short street was completed connecting New London road with Baptist hill, the club set out trees and shrubs that are growing and adding to the beauty of the street. The Ladies' Aid society set out shrubbery in front of the Baptist church at an expense of $150. This year the club is making an appeal to the public to spare the wild flowers. There are many kinds in danger of extermination. The wild flowers have suffered more of late years from ruthless picking, owing to motorists who stop and gather them in a destructive manner. The sooner the public motorists can realize to leave the flowers for others to enjoy, the less danger there will be of extermination. Years ago trailing arbutus was plentiful; now it is hard to find, even though the law protects it. When farmers are cutting brush along the road, if they would leave straight little shoots a reasonable distance apart, nature would provide trees along the roadside.

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Kinney and daughter Lois and son Osmond are spending a week at Black Point beach.

The July covenant meeting of the Baptist church is to be held Friday evening.

The United Workers of Old Mystic Methodist church held their annual picnic Wednesday with Mrs. Joseph Noyes, in the Road District.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Desley, Mrs. Lucy Pollay and daughters were callers on Mrs. Halsey Packer in New London recently.

Friends are receiving cards from Mrs. C. C. Dodd, who is attending the Sesqui-centennial at Philadelphia.

GIRLHOOD TO MOTHERHOOD

Iowa Woman Found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Always Helpful

Vinton, Iowa.—"When I was seventeen years old I had to stay at home from school. I finally had to quit school, I was so weak. I suffered for about two years before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, then I picked up one of your books and read it. I began taking the medicine. Now I am a housekeeper with six children, and I have taken it before each one was born. I cannot tell you all the good I have received from it. When I am not as well as can be I take it. I have been doing this for over thirteen years and it always helps me. I read all of your little books I can get and I tell everyone I know what the Vegetable Compound does for me."—Mrs. Frank Sellers, 510 7th Avenue, Vinton, Iowa.

Many girls in the fourth generation are learning thru their own personal experiences the beneficial effects of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mothers who took it recommend it to their daughters as a dependable medicine.

PRIMARY EXPERIENCES

As the congressional committee hears testimony concerning the primary in Illinois it doesn't appear that conditions there were so different from what they were in Pennsylvania. In each state it was a contest to get the nomination. This required making an appeal to a large number of people. It obliged each to equal what the other fellow was doing and possibly doing some more. It necessitated the maintenance and operation of an organization and in was necessary to get and spend money.

From such evidence as has been given before the committee there is no intimation of corruption. The money used where there was a contest ran into large figures, but as in Pennsylvania, the one for whom the largest sum was spent did not receive the nomination, while one candidate who had no opposition at all personally paid more than $20,000 to get the nomination.

No such expenditures were made in behalf of nominations until the primary came into being and created the chance for the carrying on of such a contest. It might seem entirely possible for even a primary contest to be waged without the use of a quarter, a third or a half million dollars, or of more than a million and a quarter by any one candidate, and yet when such conditions as those surrounding a primary exist there's no telling where the expense may go provided funds flow in freely and interest develops in behalf of all candidates.

The experiences in Pennsylvania and Illinois certainly do not create a sentiment in favor of the primary system of obtaining nominations. Having brought about conditions which never existed before there is no wonder that there is a demand for curbing them, or even for abandoning the primary. What seemed so fine as a theoretical proposition assumes a different form when put into practical use and its weaknesses are disclosed. Even its friends are obliged to apologize for it and admit that it has serious drawbacks.

AFTER BETTER ENFORCEMENT

It was about a year ago that notice was given by General Andrews, prohibition enforcement head, that the decks had been cleared for action and that much more effective measures for the suppression of the rum running would be taken. In keeping with his promise such efforts were begun, a patrol was maintained along the coast and much liquor has since been seized. But rum smuggling has not ceased. Large quantities are brought in, cargoes are removed from vessels on rum row and plenty of liquor is available.

It is evident now, as it was then, that there are plenty of schemes for successfully getting liquor into the country in violation of the law. Vessels loaded with liquor which clear from a port in one country to a port in another hover off the American coast for one purpose. Alcohol, unfit for a beverage, is brought into this country, reworked to supposedly remove the poison, sent across the Canadian border, converted into whiskey and returned to this country bearing the label of a standard foreign brand.

For the purpose of reducing the opportunities for engaging in such violations of the country's laws and to bring about a better understanding at least with Great Britain regarding the illicit traffic that originates in the British isles or certain dependencies, General Andrews has successfully concluded a new agreement in addition to the twelve mile rule regarding search. It is believed that there will be much assistance given to the enforcement work.

As soon as the machinery is ready for operation under this new agreement it will be set in motion. Perhaps that will call for an additional formal announcement by the enforcement head who expects much from it. It was the test of the increased activity against the smugglers that was expected to show its worth and what could be done. The same will hold true concerning the new understanding with Great Britain. The aim is to cut down that flood of wet stuff from the outside and it remains to be seen whether it can really be done.

ILL FEELING IN FRANCE

Because it means the distribution of so many millions of dollars, other countries make strong bids for American tourists. From the number of Americans known to be in Paris at the present time and the amount they spent, it is estimated that it means the leaving of something like $40,000,000 there this summer by those visitors. It is not a trifling sum and while France in busy and without unemployment it can make use of all the millions it can get.

Thus it is quite in contrast to the appeals to Americans to come across and spend their money, when reports disclose the outbursts against American citizens, the threats against our ambassador and the defacing of a monument erected to the American soldiers. It is in decided contrast to the demonstration at the time when the American forces went across to turn the tide of battle, where so many of them gave up their lives, or are today permanently crippled. Where Americans were then being received with open arms they are now being insulted. They have given their dollars and given their lives and now they are being spurned.

It is not believed that this represents the sentiment of the French people in general. There are always those extremists who fly off the handle at the least provocation, and there are those radicals who are ready to create a disturbance and trouble in any country without being urged. The efforts to stir up an ill feeling are without any justification whatever. Because this country is asking for part payment of the billions that were raised and sent to France is only what the French should be eager to comply with. A most liberal concession has been made by this government. There is a radical element in France which is using the present as a time for stimulating sympathy in behalf of two radicals who have been convicted and sentenced to death in this country. What is done in this direction does not represent French sentiment although it is being staged in part in that contry.

Whatever ill feeling is being encouraged across the water unquestionably arises from the political clashes that have been blocking needed legislation. For the good of France it is to be hoped that the present ministry can overcome that situation.

RESCUING PARKS

It is a well established fact that it is impossible to destroy a thing and still have it. And yet even though that must seem obvious to all there is a ceaseless tendency in that direction.

Just at the present time New York city is much exercised over the fact that Central park is showing the effects of wear, tear and the lack of proper respect. It is getting, or has got, to the point where it needs to be saved. It is suffering from the effect of too many auto roads, from the overrunning of the grass, from the destruction of the shrubbery and the trees and from a general tendency to wreck the beauty spot instead of trying to preserve it while enjoying it. Those who have an interest in it recognize the necessity of heroic measures and have called in expert advise.

Naturally they are told that the park should in the first place be put in the hands of its friends and taken out of politics. It must be restricted to park purposes and due respect for the public ground must be insisted upon. It is not going to be an easy task to restore Central park to what it used to be.

Not many who insist upon walking where the grass is green, who pull up the flowers, tear down shrubs and make free in a destructive manner with property which is intended for the enjoyment of others another day stop to realize how seriously they are contributing to that very condition which has developed in New York's great breathing place. Central park isn't the only one that has suffered from despoilers and many another will be equally in need of help if there is a prolongation of the many abuses of privileges too often experienced in such places. Central park can and will be saved, but the rescue work is going to be expensive and should have been prevented.

KANSAS WHEAT

What is the matter with Kansas? is a question frequently faced. Just now the Sunflower state seems to be suffering from a bumper wheat crop. That is, it isn't complaining because it has raised too much wheat but the crop has come along so well and it has been reaped so quickly that it is afraid that it isn't going to be able to get enough cars to transport it. Thus Kansas is just now hollering for cars, cars and more cars.

According to the information coming from that state Kansas has a wheat crop that is going to mean about $250,000,000 when converted into money. It is a bit of wheat, and as might be expected, and at the same time hoped, the wheat raisers of Kansas are anxious to make the conversion for the best advantage to themselves.

With thousands of cars being sent to Kansas and with millions of bushels of wheat being moved daily there is nothing to indicate that the farmers of that state are not going to fare pretty well for the efforts which they put forth in cooperation with nature for the production of part of the nation's fodo supply. With the market good, transportation is the only thing just now in the way of getting a quick turnover for the Kansas farmers and the quieting of some of that agricultural unrest, part of which is of course political.

Bumper crops invariably do big things. Kansas is willing that to accept all that it can get, and we wish it well.

KEEPING A SECRET

"It's no wonder women don't start secret organizations," commented Mr. Chatterly. "Women are as capable of keeping a secret as—as—well, they just can't, that's all!

"For instance," he went on, receiving no reply from Mrs. Chatterly, "I'm caught after ten years of successfully plying his trade. And why?" Mr. Chatterly laid down his paper to glance severely at his wife, who went on calmly with her sewing, a thread.

"Why dear?" she asked, biting off

"Simply because, after ten years of working alone, he matches up with a lady shoplifter. And she's so tickled over his achievements that she just has to tell all her girl friends how Lefty stole an ermine wrap for her. And they spread the glad news, and the first thing you know Lefty is behind the bars!"

Mrs. Chatterly looked up from her sewing a moment.

"I should think," she remarked calmly, "that Lefty's sweetheart's talk might be a good thing for the rest of society. Otherwise he'd be stealing ermine wraps yet, wouldn't he?"

"Oh, of course. In this case it's a good thing," agreed her husband, shrugging. "Not at all sorry this girl ran true to form. But the same principle applies to the entire sex.

"Now," warming to his subject, "take back in the old days. Eve talked. She talked to the serpent. And Helen of Troy couldn't keep a secret. If she could've she'd simply have run away with that Paris guy and her old man wouldn't have been able to find her in a 100 years. He might have had his suspicions, all right, but he wouldn't be able to prove anything if only Helen had kept mum.

"But did she? Oh no. The first thing she did was to call in her maid. 'Now, Psyche,' she said, 'please pack my things. Put in plenty of henna for my beautiful hair that the poets are going to rave about in 500 years from now. And don't forget to stock up on cold creams and mud packs. Because I may be gone a long, long, time.'

'Why, says Psyche, 'where are you going, madame?'

"'Sh-s-h,' says Helen. 'I'm running away with Paris. You know, the guy that's been hanging around the palace for some time. He owns all the dress shoppes in France. Won't I have a glorious time on the Roo de la Pay, though! But don't tell anybody, cause it's a secret.' "

"You must have told or Helen's diary," remarked Mrs. Chatterly.

"Well, she may not have said it just that way, but what's the odds? Anyway," went on Mr. Chatterly, "Psyche immediately proceeded to retail the news, so that by the time Helen got halfway to Paris with her sheik, old man Mene—what's-his-name—was collecting an army.

"Then there was Cleopatra," continued Mr. Chatterly. "That girl could have been empress of Rome if she had only known how to keep a secret. She had Caesar standing around on his head, and then Brutus and then poor old Marc. And while she was helping Marc win a couple of battles all of a sudden it occurred to her that he was getting a swell head, and if it hadn't been for her where would he be now, anyway?

"So, instead of going right on like a good sport and winning his battles for him, she got sore.

"'Marc Antony needn't think he's the whole works,' she stormed. 'He's carrying on as if he knew something about war. Why, if it weren't for me—well, I'll just tell everybody who's running this fight, anyway.'

"So she did, and of course old Marc was put out about it. Besides that wasn't all that got him angry. He had come to Egypt with an idea of starting a chain of beauty parlors, and cashing in on Cleopatra's practical knowledge of facials and wrinkle eradicators. And just when he got the patent rights to 500 perfumes, along comes Cleo and tells him that it's no use. She's told all the women at her bridge club about it, and every one's mixing their own. So that's how Marc came to lose a lot of money.

"And by the way, Clarette, speaking of money, Jim Simpton is going to leave the firm. He's been offered more by a rival house. But don't say anything about it to anybody, Clarette. I promised Jim I wouldn't mention it—"

"Oh, that's all right," laughed Mrs. Chatterly, folding up her sewing. "I've known it for the last two weeks. Jim told me himself the last time he was here."—Exchange.

NEW BOOKS

The Black Hunter. By James Oliver Curwood. Illustrated by Arthur E. Becher. Cloth, 393 pages. Published by The Cosmopolitan Book Corporation, New York. Price $2.

Curwood has always been able to take you out of a stodgy environment into far places—to give you the freedom of the outposts of civilization. But now, in The Backk Hunter he takes you out of the present day, back two centuries to a time when France was the great power in Canada, and French nobility had brought to the edge of the new world wilderness the elegance and intrigue of the court at Versailles.

It is to Quebec, as it was in the 1750's that his young hero, David Rock, comes, out of his forest home on the Richelieu, to further his fortune because the exquisite Anne St. Denis is in Quebec and is ambitious for her rustic lover. The story hangs on the fate of David and his love, threatened by the most powerful man of New France, Bigot, the king's attendant.

This colorful romance of rapier and tomahawk, of silken treachery and bloody massacre and of civil customs of the 18th century, little less barbarous than the red man's warfare, is Curwood's first historical novel. He has never written a better one and it is good news that more are to follow.

His account of the forced march through the wilderness of the little band of French provincials, up from Pennsylvania to Quebec, in an effort to reach their undefended homes before the Mohawk allies of the English fell upon their loved ones with torch and scalping knife, is one of the most effective passages of suspense than contemporary fiction has produced.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Urges Fighting For Prohibition

Mr. Editor: Please give me space in your paper while I try to explain to E. D. Balkcom that prohibition is not the farce he thinks it is, or perhaps I should say it would not be a farce if all the people to whom it is a benefit were to work to enforce it.

But many people are afraid for various reasons to complain to those whose duty it is to enforce the law even when they have the "goods" on the lawbreaker.

In some cases the federal officers wait so long after the complaint comes in that Mr. or Mrs. Bootlegger as the case may be has a chance to "fly the coop" or reform(?) The above I know from experience is true.

In other cases the "good" people turn away and attend strictly to their own business(?) and do not see the wrong doing.

Mr. Balkcom, do you hold prohibition responsible because people who cannot afford them buy cars? It is the fault of prohibition that the seasons change or that the laboring man does not wish to work but a few hours a day? In the "good old days" when every other door was a saloon the working men worked on the average 52 weeks out of the 52 in the year. His wife if she were lucky had one new dress in two years maybe more, if she "took in washings" and the money for the washings did not have to pay for milk for the babies. The "wets" squall around for "light wines and beer. When they could get light wines and beer in plenty they were not satisfied and they would not be satisfied now. So, drys, fight for prohibition.

RUTH W. SPELLACY.

South Coventry, July 27, 1926.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Danbury?

Danbury is in Fairfield county and but a short distance from the New York state line.

The trip from Norwich to Danbury and return would approximate 200 miles, the shorter route passing through Middletown, Meriden and Waterbury, the longer route through New London and New Haven, the difference in milleage being 6 miles in favor of the first mentioned route.

Driving from Norwich one could go via the Salem road to Middletown, Meriden and Waterbury, thence by route three to Woodbury, Southbury, Newton and to Danbury, a total distance of about 93 miles.

On the return the driver could proceed to Sandy Hook on Route No. 3, than take Route No. 117 to Shelton and New Haven, then take route No. 1, the shore route from New Haven directly to New London and home, a distance of 100 miles.

On returning to Norwich, one could turn off at East Lyme, taking a country road, improved, to Chesterfield, then proceed to Salem and via the Gardner lake road to Norwich. This change makes the trip about the same millage as through New London.

IN DAY'S NEWS

CONTINUING BEAM EXPEDITION

Scientists are working out a gigantic jig-saw puzzle in the southwest, first seaching over hundreds of square miles of territory for the pieces that nature has hidden through the centuries.

The story of this fascinating "game" is wrapped up in an announcement just made by the National Geographic society that its research committee has made an additional grant of funds to continue this summer the "Beam expedition" work under the leadership of Dr. A. E. Douglas of Steward observatory, University of Arizona.

"No one knows the age of the interesting communal dwellings, America's first 'apartment houses,' that have been unearthed in New Mexico," says a bulletin fromthe Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society. "The largest of these Pueblo Bonito, in Chaco canyon, has been intensively studied by National Geographic society expeditions during the past six years. Much new information has been gathered in regard to these early Americans from the examples disclosed of their masonry, pottery, baskets, and jewelry; but no definite light has been cast on the age of their culture, for they had no calendar. Now this secret seems likely to be found out from the examination of what laymen might consider prosaic old wooden beams that supported the flat roofs of the Bonitans.

"Dr Douglas found some years ago that trees in growing not only leave a ring for each year, but that often the character of the ring denotes the particular year in which it grew. That is, in an unusually moist season an especially wide or well marked ring will be left in all the trees of the region subjected to the unusual conditions. If a living tree 400 years old is cut and a recent characteristic ring identified, other outstanding rings made in the tree's youth can be dated centuries ago. These characteristic marks may be found, in turn, among the most recent rings of an ancient log preserved in a sandbank, and so nature's calendar may be followed back still farther.

"Since the working out of this method the scientists of the National Geographic society's Beam expedition have been scouring the southwest for specimens of ancient wood. Some have been discovered in the form of old tree stumps covered centuries ago by the sand and clay washed by some extraordinary storm. Others have been found in Indian pueblos, still in use: and still others in the ruins of ancient structures.

"In every case cross-sections have been prepared and microscopic studies made. Many of the specimens, of course, have been found to cover approximately the same period of time: but now and then a lucky find has pushed the earliest known date line of the United States a few decades or generations farther back.

"Science has not completed this chronological puzzle, but working from both ends it has lifted piece after piece into place, steadily narrowing the gap of the unknown. It is hoped that before long a trustworthy estimate can be made of the ruins, so fitting America's early civilization into its proper relation to that of the Old World."

Gradually
The Word Is Getting About—
There Is a Difference In Coal and Lumber

Ever since modern heating and power equipment have been in homes and factories, men have recognized that there was a difference in coal. But the fact that there was good coal and bad seem to have been accepted in somewhat the same spirit as we accept the weather—bad coal, like bad days, are unavoidable and have to be borne with.

Since the war the same idea has been prevalent about lumber, both rough and finished. You hear it said that wood is scarce and high, that there is no more cured and seasoned wood to be had, that white pine and cedar are gone. Such ideas are fallacies and the person who accepts such arguments as excuses for poor material is misinformed and is being imposed upon.

Gradually throughout the country the word is getting about that there is a difference in coal and lumber—that the same fine standard grades that our fathers knew are still available—that the substitution of makeshifts is not only unnecessary but costly and wasteful.

This information about the values and relative merits of different grades of coal and lumber is emanating from the wide-awake and successful producers who recognize that the public has been hoodwinked long enough. It is being broadcast by the bureaus of the United States Government, it is being told by dealers who know, and who have the interests of their customers closely at heart.

There is a difference in various grades of coal and there is a difference in various grades of lumber and we want our customers to know about them for their own protection. We have made exhaustive studies of coal and lumber from the forest and mine to the ultimate consumer.

With coal we have learned the relative heat values of the products of various mines. We have studied in different heating plants the economies of the different sizes. We have gone far afield for expert advice and are in constant touch with the sources of new and better information. We are ready at any time to confer with you, without thought of obligation, on the subject of coal economy.

With lumber we have made the same careful and analytical study. There are vast differences in lumber that will make large differences in your building costs. We would be glad to point out these differences to you.

In many places it is still argued that coal is coal and wood is wood; but all coal does not cost the same same either first or last, does not perform the same and often does not weigh the same. In as great a measure the same is true of lumber. Here coal and lumber are commodities, divided into various grades, each best suited for a particular purpose. We have studied the purpose, know the exact economical measure of the grades and would be glad to tell you of them.

GARDNER LAKE CAMP TO CLOSE FRIDAY

Following precedent set several years ago the New London Y. M. C. A. will conduct an adults' camp for the entire month of August at Camp Terreiregan, the Y. camp at Gardner lake. The boys' camp closes Friday, after a five weeks' period, and the camp will be ready for occupancy by adults on the following day with all facilities at the disposal of the adult campers.

The adults' camp is planned by the Y outing committee to fill a need in this city by providing vacation activities such as tenting, boating, canoeing, tennis, hiking and fishing.

The camp, which was recently purchased by the Y consists of ten acres of varied land with 500 feet frontage on Gardner lake, the second largest in Connecticut. The tents, size 12 by 14, are of extra heavy duck canvas with flies and provided with board floors and canvas bunks. One large mess tent is used to serve meals that are tastily prepared. A large open tract of land provides space for baseball, tennis and volley ball while the camp equipment includes canoes and boats for water activities.

A general outing and good time is planned for campers, relatives and friends of the boys at Terreiregan, Friday afternoon and night, the concluding day of camp for boys.

For five weeks the new camp has been the home of more than 100 different boys for various periods and with the passing of the weeks the new site has been gradually moulded into a ship-shape modern camp that promises to rank with the best in the state when all plans are complete.

The last day of camp is an all important one for the boys and one in which the good times to the previous days are brought to a climax. The outing committee of the Y under the leadership of A. C. Woodruff has decided to make the closing day a real Y affair with parents, committee-men, officers, old campers and friends of the Y participating.

CONNECTICUT LUMBER AND ITS FUTURE

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, July 29.—Whether or not Connecticut lumber can compete in the hardwood market of the country will probably be determined here next week, when during the course of the forestry programme that will be a part of the annual Farmers' Week, a hardwood lumber grading demonstration will be held at Connecticut Agricultural college.

This will be the first hardwood grading demonstration in this part of New England, and it will be a feature of the forestry programme, which incidentally is being included as a part of the Farmers' Week activities for the first time.

Connecticut sawmill men and others interested in the welfare of the state's forest industry have wondered for a long time if Connecticut lumber could be graded. They have noticed with increasing concern that the railroads, which in the past have taken the greater part of their lumber to use for rail ties, are each year using less lumber. This is because of the general adoption of treating planta which give the rail ties a much longer life, and consequently cut down the remand for that article.

As a result of all this, Connecticut's sawmill men have seen their market dwindling, and they are now faced with the problem of finding another. This has given rise to the question of grading, which in the minds of many is a solution of the problem.

When lumber si graded, there is a spread in prices between the best and the poorest grades of lumber. Heretofore Connecticut lumber has always sold ungraded, which means that it grading in this state is practicable, the output as a whole has sold at a lower figure than if it were marketed in grades. If the grading demonstration that will be held in the afternoons of next Thursday and Friday prove that Connecticut lumber can be graded in such a way as to enable sawmill men of the state to put it on the hardwood market, then possibly a solution of the present problem has been reached.

According to Albert E. Moss of C. A. C., who is in charge of the forestry programme, the grading demonstration will be given by Mr. Bowler of Manchester, N. H., a member of the National Hardware Graders' association.

The forestry programme on Thursday afternoon, Aug. 5 will consist of the lumber grading demonstration already mentioned, and in addition to this there will be a demonstration of sawing lumber for quality, and another on tractor powers.

"Southern New England Lumber and Its Future" will be the subject of an address by Professor R. C. Bryant of the Yale Forestry school on Friday morning. The demonstrations of lumber grading and sawing lumber given Thursday will also be repeated on Friday.

WHEN BITGOOD BROTHERS WERE GIANTS OF COUNTRY

Voluntown friends were pleased recently to greet Dr. Jesse Bitgood and family, also Elmer Bitgood of South Manchester. The feats of strength accomplished by these two men in days gone by, have been the talk of rural Connecticut and Rhode Island. Elmer, who is 5 feet, 9 inches in height and then weighed 300 pounds, had a chest measure of 52 inches, 50 inches around the waist and his biceps were 20 inches. He wore a 13 shoe and a 7 1-2 hat. Every morning before breakfast he used to lift a weight of 2300 pounds and raised a 125-pound dumbbell ten times in 30 seconds.

One of the marvelous feats he performed at a Fourth of July picnic, during his strong days, was lifting one end of a boiler and ungins weighing 4500 pounds on which nine men were seated. Another time he stopped an engine under 55 pounds steam pressure and held one of the drivers for a full minute.

Jesse, although strong, was no match for his brother Elmer in lifting, but he could lift astonishingly heavy weight and perform with 150-pound dumbbells. About 30 years ago they were "The Strong Men of Campbell's Mills."

SIMCOX HAS BETTER OF JARVIS IN PITCHING BATTLE IN TAFTVILLE

The E. C. P. club, leaders of the local twi-league, defeated Taftville A. A. in the third game of a five game series between these two clubs by the score of 1-0 Wednesday evening. The victory gives the Powermen the edge on the series two games to one.

The game proved to be a pitcher's battle between Tommy Simcox veteran of many diamond encounters and Lloyd Jarvis, N. F. A. star. Simcox having the better of the argument. Only two hits were garnered off Simmy's offerings and although walking four and hitting two the uptown boys could do nothing in the pinches. Lloyd Jarvis was touched up for six hits and passed one.

The E. C. P. scored what proved to be the winning run in the first inning. After Cimikoski grounded out to Cardie, Whitney tripled into center. Clabby flied out to Laudette and Lefty Dugas hit a long double over the ledge in right field for two bases scoring Whitney. Taftville had an excellent chance to score in the fifth when with one down Gauthier was safe on Murphy's error. Leo Jarvis walked and Lloyd Jarvis flied out to Clabby. Simcox then passed Yerrington loading the bases but Cardie flied out to Dugas. Again in the sixth Taftville lost another chance to score. After Doma fanned for the first out Eccleston was hit by a pitched ball. Gaudette then flied out to Clabby and Mills batting for Tourtellotte was safe on Barry's error, Eccleston taking third on the play. Mills stole second but tSimcox fanned Gauthier putting an end to the rally.

The Power Boys filled the sacks in their half of the seventh. Greene first man up in this inning flied out to Gaudette, Shellott was safe in Yerrington's error. Simcox fanned. Cimikoski was safe on Gauthier's error and Whitney walked, filling the bases. Lloyd Jarvis then fanned Clabby for the third out.

The game was well played, both teams being evenly matched and all fans are anxious for the next meeting between these two teams in the near future. The score:

SPENCE SETS WORLD'S RECORD FOR 440 SWIM

PHILADELPHIA, July 28.—(AP)—Walter Spence, sturdy aquatic star of the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., established a world's record for the 440-yard breast stroke in the National A. A. U. championships in the Sesquicentennial 100-meter swimming pool today. Spence swa mthe quarter in 6:16 4-5, bettering the best previous time by 12 3-5 seconds.

Johnny Weissmuller, the Illinois A. C.'s lanky sprinter, won the national title in the 440-yard free style swim, beating his teammate, Arne Borg, in a close finish.

In winning the breast stroke event, Spence dethroned Robert Skelton of the Illinois A. C., who won the 1925 championship. Skelton finished three yards behind the Brooklyn swimmer with Andraw Maras, of the Duquesne Library club, of Pittsburgh, third, 15 yards behind Skelton.

Swimming authorities said no official record exist sfor the 440 yard breast stroke, Skelton's time of 6:30 2-5, made in the 1925 championships on the Pacific coast, not being allowed owing to tidal conditions.

Weissmuller won a hollow victory in the 440 yard free style race, Borg, slowing up in the stretch and permitting Weissmuller to win.

Weissmuller's time for the quarter was 5:21 4-5. He holds the American record of 5:07 4-5, established June 2, 1922, at Honolulu.

H. S. Glancy, of Philadelphia, swimming unattached, was third, 2 yards behind the Illinois A. C., entries. Walter Spence, of the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A. finished fourth.

TILDEN'S STAGE WORK MAY HURT HIS TENNIS

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—William T. Tilden's return to the stage the middle of August will keep him out of many of the season's remaining tournaments and even may jeopardize his participation in the Davis cup and national singles tournaments, he told the Associated Press today.

The champion himself is optimistic that his plans will work out so that he can take part in both classics but his dramatic work, he explained, now comes first and will force him to forego all other competition after this week, including the national doubles championships at Boston starting August 30.

PETER MALTBY SETS WORLD'S RECORD FOR COLTS

ENDICOTT, N. Y., July 28.—(AP)—Last year's two-year-old champion, Peter Maltby, [illegible] at Goshen, won the three-year-old trot today in straight heats at the Grand Circuit meeting and thrilled more than 20,000 light harness racing devotees by establishing a world's colt record for a half mile track, in the race's second and final heat, which he did in 2:09 1-2. Ruth N. Chenault won the two-year-old event in straight heats, doing both miles in 2:14 1-4.

INDIANS TAKE FIRM HOLD OF SECOND PLACE

CLEVELAND, July 28.—(AP)—Cleveland increased its hold on second place to three full games today when it won two contests from Philadelphia, taking the first 5 to 2 and the second 3 to 0.

The victories were acquired as the result of superior pitching by Levsen and Uhle. The two Cleveland hurlers striking out 13 Athletics and frequently breaking up rallies by fanning batters.

Uhle in the second game allowed but one man to reach second that being in the ninth inning.

Ehmke also pitched effectively, both Cleveland runs being the result of errors of judgment.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., July 28.—(AP)—Adolfo Luque yielded but seven hits today while Cincinnati nosed out Brooklyn 4 to 3. RICKARD TO GO AHEAD WITH PLAN FOR DEMPSEY-TUNNEY BOUT IN N. Y.

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—Expressing confidence that the licensing angle will offer no serious obstacle Tex Richard today predicted that the heavyweight championship battle between Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney, slated for the night of September 16 at the Yankee stadium, will attract a crowd of 80,000 and a "gate" of approximately $1,500,000.

These figures, which in attendance would be exceeded only by Dempsey-Firpo, Dempsey-Carpentier and Firpo-Willard fights and in receipts only by the Dempsey-Carpentier affray, were based by the promoter on a price scale ranging probably from $40 or $50 down to $3 and $5, defending upon sanction of the commission.

Returning from Chicago this morning, elated by the sudden turn of events that has moved the prospective setting for the fight back to New York, Richard plunged at once into a mass of detailed arrangements. He did so on the assumption that yesterday's action of the commission in voting approval of the match was decisive and that there will be no difficulties in obtaining formal licenses for the bout and for each of the fighters from the license committee.

Although he admitted not having discussed the matter with Colonel J. J. Phelan, chairman of the license committee of the boxing board, Rickard asserted he did not think Phelan "would throw any monkey-wrench into the machinery now."

If the commission, through its licensing body, cannot enforce such action as it took yesterday, it would occupy a dubious role as the governing organization it is supposed to be, Rickard pointed out.

"I think we can quit talking politics now and talk a little more about the fighters," the promoter declared, adding that he had instructed both Dempsey and Tunney to be in their training camps in this state within a week or so.

According to advices today from Colorado Springs, where Dempsey had been doing preliminary work, the champion will come east to establish his camp by August 6 at Saratoga Springs, where he conditioned himself three years ago for his last title fight with Louis Firpo. Tunney has picked a spot at Lake Pleasant, in the Adirondacks, for his training and will go there early next week. He is now at Saratoga Springs.

In Wall street, betting commissioners reported considerable activity with odds of 2 to 1 on Dempsey, based upon the placing of one wager of $10,000 to $5,000.

The death of Miss Katherine Mary Chapman, seven, daughter of Alfred H. and Katherine M. Gilchrist Chapman of Pawcatuck, occurred Wednesday morning at about 3 o'clock at her home, 12 Stanton street. She died after an illness of about three weeks.

At a meeting of the Stonington selectmen, John Fribance of Mystic, Joseph Vargas of Stonington and Arthur P. Babcock of Pawcatuck, held Monday night a petition was received signed by L. C. Furtil of Pawcatuck and 25 others, asking for a special town meeting to consider the proposition of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad company with reference to the widening of the underpass of the New Haven road at West Broad street, in Pawcatuck. The selectmen set Wednesday evening, Aug. 4th at Borough hall, Stonington, as the time for the town meeting to act upon the question. It is understood that the railroad proposition is to tunnel the south abutment to the overhead railroad bridge, to use the tunnel for sidewalk purposes and to have the street take up the full width to that side abutment.

The cost of the proposition is estimated at $24,500, of which sum the New Haven railroad is said to be willing to pay one-half. Before this work is begun it will be necessary for the town of Stonington to acquire the Cella property on the corner. To many citizens of the town the expense involved is thought to be too great for the direct benefits to be obtained. Many residents of other sections of the town claim that the whole town will be better benefited if the money is used for the erection of a new Stonington town hall and a safer repository for town records than the one at present in use.

For the Feast of the Assumption into heaven of the Virgin Mary, Sunday, Aug. 15th, Pawtucket Italians are busily engaged in making preliminary preparations. Active in making preparations are Samuel Felice and Joseph DeMarco, who with others have planned to secure a band of 40 pieces to come to Westerly from Williamantic. A tentative program for the celebration which is to be held on Saturday the 14th, would begin at 1 p. m. on the grounds on Stillman avenue, Pawcatuck, and close Saturday evening with an elaborate display of fireworks.

Final arrangements were made at a meeting held at the rooms of the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross Tuesday evening for beginning next Monday the annual life saving and swimming instruction campaign which will be held under the auspices of the local organization. Classes of instruction for juniors will begin next Monday morning at 9 o'clock, under the direction of Robert Loomis of Boston, the instructor who has been engaged for the season. Registrations for the classes will be received at the chapter rooms on High street Saturday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock.

Under the plan of the campaign classes will be conducted on the Pawcatuck river, close to the Westerly Water Works pumping station in White Rock, and also at Pleasant View and Weekapaug beaches. Mr. Loomis will have direct charge of the classes at White Rock and will be assisted by Edwin Thompson of Westerly.

Miss Zilla Farnham and Clark Campbell will act as assistant instructors at Pleasant View and Weekapaug. Classes there will, in all probability, be held at the Weekapaug Causeway.

The plan of the campaign includes instruction for three junior classes daily with the exception of Sunday in swimming and life saving. They will be arranged as follows: Beginners, boys 12 years and under; beginnings, over 12 years and junior boys life saving. The same division will apply to classes for the girls. For the convenience of those who will not be able to attend classes during the day Mr. Loomis will arrange classes for one or two evenings each week. In the event there is a demand for them, senior classes will be started.

Progress is being made in the erection of the new fire station house on Atlantic avenue, Pleasant View beach by the Pleasant View Fire District. This station will house the new La-France pumper recently ordered by the fire protection committee of the district. The fire truck will cost $12,500. The protection committee consists of Frank A. Sullivan, James Collins, Chief Charles Lamb, George E. Phillips, C. B. Bliven and Raymond Reynolds.

Almira Elizabeth, 21, daughter of the late Horace Bliven and Mrs. Alice C. Bliven of Ashaway died after a lingering illness at the home of her uncle, Joseph H. Church of 12 Clark street, Westerly, Tuesday. Miss Bliven made her home for several years with her uncle. She was a member of Budlong Post, Women's Relief Corps. She is survived by her mother; three brothers, William, Benjamin and Joseph, and two sisters, Irene and Alice Bliven, of Ashaway.

Difficulty was experienced Wednesday in removing the steel coffer dam recently set in the bed of the Pawcatuck river, just below the center of the south side of Pawcatuck river bridge. Following the placing of the coffer dam, a cement foundation was laid inside after the river water had been pumped out and a steel caisson set in the center of the iron dam, the core being filled with cement. When the attempt was made to remove the coffer dam it could not be budged and a number of hydraulic jacks would not move it. It may be necessary to use acetylene torches to remove the iron cylinder.

Jimmy Skunk Gets Free

Where there's a way th, beyond any doubt,
You'll find, if you look, that there's a way out.

—Jimmy Skunk.

"Now, what am I going to do?" said Jimmy Skunk to himself, as he glared down at the clam which was holding him fast by one of his toes. "Whatever am I going to do? If I were caught in a trap, I could pull and pull until I pulled my toe off. I wouldn't want to do that, but I could do it. But I can't pull away from this thing, because when I pull it comes along with me. Perhaps if I keep quiet a little while it will open and let me go."

Now, if Jimmy had thought to put the clam back in the water and sit there beside the little pool quietly with that one paw in the water, the clam might have opened. But he didn't think to do that. Fortunately for Jimmy, it wasn't a very big clam. It was what is known as a little-neck clam. That is the kind of clam that is served on the half-shell in hotels and restaurants. Had it been a little bigger, it would have been called a cherry-stone Clam. And had it been fully grown, it wouldn't have been called a clam at all, but a Quahaug. It was well for Jimmy that it wasn't fully grown.

He started to hobble away toward the bathhouse under which he lived

Somehow, Jimmy had lost his appetite. He no longer felt hungry. The only feeling he had was a desire to get rid of that clam on his toe. He started to hobble away toward the bath-house under which he lived. Somehow, he couldn't stay out there in the moonlight. Mr. Fox had seen him already and had laughed at him and Jimmy was ashamed to have any one else see him caught by a clam.

But half way to the bath-house Jimmy remembered something. He remembered that more than once he had seen Greywing the Herring Gull eating clams. He had seen Greywing carry those clams up in the air and drop them on rocks, so as to break the shell.

"I wish I had wings," said Jimmy. "If I had wings I'd fly up and drop it." Then Jimmy Skunk began to laugh at himself. He suddenly remembered that he couldn't drop the clam. He was just as well off without wings as he would have been with wings.

But this had put a new idea into Jimmy's head. Perhaps he could break that shell on a rock. Anyway, perhaps by pounding it on a rock he could make the clam let go. He would try it. Jimmy looked around. There were no rocks handy. He would have to go a long way to get to any rocks. But there was nothing else he could think of to do. So he started for the nearest rocks.

His whole foot ached by the time he got there. He didn't waste any time. He lifted his foot with the clam and brought it down hard on a rock. "Ouch!" cried Jimmy. Then he looked at the clam. Mr. Clam was still on the job. There was no crack in that shell. Jimmy began to realize how very hard that shell was. He tried it again. The result was the same. He tried it several times. He couldn't pound that shell hard enough to break it. Poor Jimmy! There were tears in his eyes. Whatever should he do? It was a long way back to the bath-house and it didn't seem to him that he could ever, ever walk that far with that clam on his foot.

Now, there were little pools of water in among those rocks, and finally Jimmy put that aching foot with the clam on it in the water. He though it might take some of the ache out. He held it there for a few minutes. Then he decided that he would have to try to get back to his home. He lifted his foot from the water and then he nearly tumbled over in surprise. The clam was no longer on that toe. He looked down in the water. There it lay. You see, his toe had been so pinched that it was numb and he hadn't known when the clam let go. These clams, by the way, are not commonly found above the low water-mark. Probably some man who had been getting clams dropped this one where Jimmy found it. But to this day Jimmy Skunk has the greatest respect for clams.

POETRY

The Prisoner

Life held me up on the road one day
And stole my wallet of gold away.
He stripped the rings from my hand and broke
The silver clasp from my velvet cloak.

He struck me down in the gutter's mud,
With a blow that blinded my eyes with blood,
And then he turned on his errant heel,
Thinking I'd nothing else to steal.

But safe from the mud and safe from the mire,
Bright as the gold of singing fire,
Hid in my breast pocket lay,
Dearer than all I had lost that day.

So what care I for a broken head,
A tattered coat and a beggar's bed,
Who still may travel from east to west
With a locket of dreams to warm my breast?

—Medora Addison.

Will

There is no chance, no destiny, no fate,
Can circumvent or hinder or control
The firm resolve of a determined soul.
Gifts count for nothing; will alone is great;
All things give way before it soon or late.
What obstacle can stay the mighty force
Of the sea-seeking river in its course?
Or cause the ascending orb of day to wait?

Each well-born soul must win what it deserves!
Let the fool prate of luck. The fortunate
Is he whose earnest purpose never swerves,
Whose slightest action or inaction serves
The one great aim.
Why, even Death stands still,
And waits an hour sometimes for such a will.

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

Vast coal fields in the Philippine islands provide a resource that may be counted upon in the future according to commerce department survey. Large quantites of coal are stored in the islands, almost every one of which is a source of supply. Most of the available coal is lignite. Anthracite, at the same time, is produced in increasing quantities in the Philippines, the annual production being approximately 60,000 tons. It was 39,000 tons five years ago.

The center of the Japanese cotton rag rug industry is located at Sakai, a part of the city of Osaka, about twenty miles northeast of Kobe. A considerable quantity of rugs is also woven in the rural districts of south and southwestern Japan, and at Itami, a village near Kobe. It is estimated that approximately 6,000,000 pounds of rags were consumed in Japan during 1925 in the making of rag rugs. About four pounds of rags are required for a rug 3 by 6 feet in size.

What is the speed of a Kansas jackrabbit? On the way home Dr. H. L. Salthouse, of McPherson, Kas., "scared up" a jackrabbit which took to the road ahead of the car. The car was traveling at twenty-five miles an hour. The speed was increased to thirty and then to thirty-five miles, with the long-eared bunny holding its own. The speed was further increased, and the speedometer showed thirty-eight miles the car started to gain, and as the forty-mile mark was reached the jackrabbit, finding the pace too swift, leaped to the ditch and disappeared.

SUSPECTED KINGSTON, R. I. BURGLAR ARRESTED IN NEW LONDON WEDNESDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 28.—Francis Sullivan, about 24, residing at 74 Tenth street, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh on a warrant charging him with burglarizing a store at Kingston, R. I., several weeks ago. He was taken back to Kingston this afternoon by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of that place, for trial.

Sullivan and several other young men, it is alleged broke into the Kingston store during May and stole a considerable quantity of cigars, cigarettes and confectionery. They came to New London, where two of the gang were captured and were returned to Kingston, since then the prisoners, it is understood, have implicated Sullivan, not only as being one of the thieves, but the leader of the gang in the planning and perpetrating of burglaries. With this information in their possession, the Kingston police caused a warrant for Sullivan's arrest to be issued and he was arrested at his work at the Connecticut Power company's sub-station, Williams street.

EXTINGUISHER USED FOR BLAZE UP AMONG WIRES

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 28—A live wire on a pole of the Connecticut Power company, on Pearl street, between Green and Bank streets, this morning created danger for a half hour and before a repair gang arrived at the scene the pole had been damaged by fire, installation burned from high-powered wires and one wire carrying a voltage of 4300, had parted and dropped to the ground. Repair teams from various parts of the city were rushed to the danger spot and throughout the day the work of perfecting repairs was in progress. The cause of the fire, it is stated, was the excess current carried by the wire in order to provide a supply of current due to increased usage of electricity recently. The fire was discovered about 10:15 o'clock, when pedestrians and residents of Pearl street were attracted to the pole by the long and loud noise that resembled the blowing of a steamboat whistle, the noise issuing from one of the safety devices on top of the pole, when it was attacked by the fire. The crossarms and the pole immediately became ignited and in another instant the wire carrying the 4300 volts of current, snapped and dropped to the ground. One end of the live wire fell upon the sidewalk. Police were notified and Patrolman David Nagle caused traffic through the street to be halted at Bank street, while Patrolmen Clarence Martin held up traffic at Green street. Deputy Fire Chief Calvin Edmunds was nearby at the time and using his car he went to where linemen were at work and had one of their number to be brought to inspect the trouble. The Connecticut Power company had been informed of the danger and every available repairman in the city, together with the heads of several of the traffic departments were rushed to the place to extinguish the fire and to cause repairs to be started. Linemen climbed the pole among the wires, where a fire extinguisher was used to subdue the blaze, after which the current was shut off. Temporary repairs were completed about noon so that users of electricity were able to cause their plants to be operated. It is believed that permanent repairs will be completed tomorrow.

An official of the company in referring to the fire stated that the blaze occurred in some unexplainable manner, but was undoubtedly due to the recent installation of additional equipment for handling the increased use of electricity.

HEARING IN FIRE CHIEF CASE GOES OVER TO AUGUST 6TH

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 28.—There is delay in getting the case of the state of Connecticut against Arthur Page, a driver for the New Haven Dairy company, to trial on charges of reckless driving of an automobile and with failing to give the right of way to fire apparatus that was responding to a call for services, some weeks ago. The case has been adjourned several times because Chief Rose, who suffered a broken leg by a collision of the vehicles was not able to appear until today. It developed this morning that witnesses for the state, Driver Woods and Deputy Chief Shipman, were not in town, so the case could go on only so far as the taking of the testimony of Chief Rose. That official told of the fire department auto leaving headquarters on Union street and proceeding across State to Pearl, where it went down the hill the siren screeching for a clear road. At Pearl and Green streets the fire machine encountered the dairy company's truck and the crash occurred. It sent the fire machine on the sidewalk and threw Chief Rose out. His leg was broken. He was sent to the hospital and there he remained till a few days ago. Today the case was put over to the 6th of August, that the witnesses needed could be on hand. Page was held in a bond of $300, which he furnished.

Domenick Sutera, a driver for the New Haven Dairy company, was fined $50 for reckless driving on the 11th inst. when he ran his truck into a touring car being operated by Paul Geiger and which contained Mrs. Geiger and her mother. Geiger testified that he was driving slowly on Howard street, going toward Pequot avenue, when the Dairy company truck, appeared and crashed into his car, ripping it about. The occupants were not injured. Sutera declared that he was being "framed up" and that the testimony given by Geiger, his wife and Morris Callius, which was all of the same tenor, was false. Sutera represented that the touring car crashed into the truck. After arguments by counsel, Judge Prince fined Sutera as stated. The defendant appealed to the common pleas court.

Mrs. Kate McKenna, of New York, where she was employed as buyer by Hearn, died suddenly at her home yesterday afternoon. Mrs. McKenna had many friends in New London and frequently visited this city. Sergeant Charles McShane, U. S. A., Connecticut avenue, is a brother of Mrs. McKenna. Mr. and Mrs. McShane are in New York and will attend the funeral tomorrow.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Dorsey, of Ocean Beach, are spending a few days in New York.

Gwendolyn and Francis Pierce, Col.; Patrick Tunney, Middletown, and Mrs. Fred Dickson and infant son, 34 Cottage street, patients at Lawrence Memorial associated hospital, were discharged today.

The condition of Thomas Meade, Meridian street, who was operated upon for appendicitis at the private hospital two weeks ago, is greatly improved and the patient will return home the latter part of this week.

Patrick B. McNamara has sold a building lot on Oneco avenue to John F. Hester.

John B. Stevens, 62 died last night at his home, 42 Front street, death ending an illness of several weeks. He was married and besides his wife, is survived by a son. Mr. Stevens was employed several years as engineer at the Crocker House.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the suspension of the drivers' licenses of Joseph T. Sullivan, 95 Lincoln avenue, and Joseph Mugovero, 9 Archer court. Commissioner Stoeckel also approved the right to drive of Mary Aggius, 104 Ocean avenue.

The loot stolen from garages at the state pier, entered several nights ago and a considerable quantity of plunder taken from automobiles owned by officers of the United States Coast Guard, and which was found stored in a Central Vermont railroad passenger coach in the East New London railroad yard, was brought to the police station last night by Sergeant John Cavanaugh. It is being held there, pending identification by the owners. No trace of the thieves has been obtained, but it is believed that the thefts were committed by members of the coast guard service.

Merrill Whittemore, 57, died suddenly last night at his residence, 39 Potter street, from angina pectoris. He had been married, but was a widower. He is survived by a son, Mr. Whittemore was about yesterday and, apparently in sound health. He ate his supper late, and a short time afterwards he complained of feeling ill. When he suffered a sinking spell a physician was summoned, but Mr. Whittemore's condition gradually became worse, and he expired three hours after being stricken. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman pronounced death due to an old heart affection.

TAILOR-BOOTLEGGER SOLD BOOZE TO FORT SOLDIERS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 28—Max Basson, former Washington street and Bank street drygoods merchant, was arrested this evening by a guard from the United States Coast Guard section base 4, charged with violation of the prohibition law. He was locked up without bail as a federal prisoner and will be presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Corcoran tomorrow morning.

Basson, it is alleged, has been selling liquor to soldiers in the New London Artillery district, Fort Wright, Michie and Terry. The soldiers have been receiving a supply of liquor for some time and a watch was maintained for the purpose of detecting the distributor. Tonight, it is claimed, Basson was detected by United States Coast Guard officers landing at Fort Terry in a small boat, having a small amount of liquor in his possession. Chief Petty Officers Earl Sherwood and Ralph Hale placed Basson under arrest and he was brought to the New London police headquarters and made a prisoner. The arrest of Basson is the first to be made of a distributor of liquor on a military reservation in this section. Basson is well known, is married and has a family

Basson is a tailor by occupation and has been the civilian tailor at Fort Terry several months.

It developed late tonight that Basson was complained against by the commandant at Fort Terry, who, it is claimed, gained knowledge that Basson was supplying men of the post with liquor. United States Commissioner Corcoran was located and went to the police headquarters where he continued the case until Friday. He fixed bail at $1,000 and Henry Marcus, North Bank street merchant, qualified as surety on Basson's bond.

BENJ. LAWNER CAUGHT WITH STOLEN NASH ROADSTER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 28—Benjamin Lawner, 22, was arrested in New York this afternoon charged with the theft of an automobile owned by James M. Miner, 150 Huntington street, this city, last Sunday morning. When arrested Lawner had the automobile, a Nash roadster in his possession. Tonight Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky issued a warrant for Lawner's arrest and within a day or two Sergeant John Cavanaugh will go to New York to bring the prisoner back to New London for trial, providing Lawner waives extradition. If Lawner refuses to return to this state without extradition that procedure will follow, but will defer the return of the prisoner to New London about a week.

The automobile was driven to a State street store about 11.30 o'clock Sunday morning by Miner, who alighted to purchase a newspaper. As Miner entered the store, Lawner jumped into the automobile and starting the car, turned it around and speeded through State street to Broad street had disappeared over the highway leading to Hartford. The police throughout the state were requested to be on the lookout for the stolen automobile, but it was not sighted for Lawner managed to reach New York without detection.

BURNED BY ELECTRICITY, WILLIAM LAURA MAY DIE

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 28—William Laura, 127 Elm street employed by the Connecticut Power company at its sub-station, Williams street, is in a critical condition at Lawrence hospital tonight as a result of having suffered third degree burns at his work shortly before noon, when 23,000 volts of electricity entered his body. Laura was burned severely about the face, head and body and his chances of recovery are remote.

Laura, who is an electrician, was engaged outside the sub-station on a feed wire where the wire enters the building with its heavily charged electricity from the Eastern Connecticut Power company's plant at Montville. In some unexplained manner Laura's body came in contact with the wire and in an instant his clothing was a mass of flames. The contact was broken when the flash from the flaming clothing took place. Other workmen observed the flash and rushed to the assistance of Laura, who was lying on the ground unconscious. He was given emergency treatment and then taken to the hospital.

Attorney and Mrs. Thomas E. Troland, Farmington avenue, sailed today from New York on a steamer bound for Europe, to be absent about six weeks.

Mrs. William Payne and infant daughter, 25 West High street, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Lawrence Thompson, Center Groton truck driver, was arrested last night by State Police Officer George W. Sisson on a technical charge of manslaughter in causing the death of John Fatt, formerly of Colchester. Thompson was released upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $1,000 for presentation in the Groton town court Monday morning, August 2. Thaddeus Raymond, Thompson's employer, qualified as surety on the bond. Thompson was driving a truck at Poquonoc bridge on the afternoon of May 8 and Fatt, who was a helper was also on the truck. As the truck emerged from a private driveway, it proceeded to the tracks of the Groton & Stonington Traction company, just as a trolley car bound from Mystic to New London was approaching at a fast rate of speed Fatt saw the trolley car as it was about to crash against the truck and leaped to the ground, landing between the tracks. Before he could scramble from between the rails he was struck by the trolley car, and instantly killed, his body being terribly mutilated. Coroner J. J. Desmond, Norwich, did not render his finding in the fatality until yesterday afternoon.

The 105th anniversary of the independence of Peru was celebrated tonight by the officers of the Peruvian naval commission who are in New London supervising the finishing construction work of the submarines R-1 and R-2, which were built at the plant of the New London Ship & Engine company and which boats were recently launched. The celebration took place at Ferry Tavern, Lyme, where the officers of the Peruvian commission were tendered a dinner and dance by officials of the New London Ship & Engine company and Electric Boat company. The chief petty officers and enlisted men on duty at the Groton plant, held their celebration of the event at the Nelseco hotel, with a banquet.

Mrs. J. H. Bannon, 25 Nameaug ave-nue, returned to her home today, having been discharged from the Lena hospital, where she underwent an operation several weeks ago.

New London was in partial darkness again tonight for over 100 electric lights failed to illumine some of the city's principal thoroughfares. Many of the lights that were out were located at the Pequot and the immediate vicinity.

SURPLUS THREE TIMES LARGER THAN CAPITALIZATION

Banking institutions of Connecticut, under state control, maintain a total surplus three times greater than the aggregate capital of the banks involved. This state is one of five out of 48 where similar conditions exist, and four of these states with such strongly developed banking resources are in New England. The other three are Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, Pennsylvania is the fifth.

These facts are revealed in a statement showing the aggregate resources of all banks under state control, prepared by Secretary R. N. Sims of New Orleans for the annual meeting of the National Association of Supervisors of State Banks, held recently at Columbus, O. A copy of these figures was brought back by Deputy Bank Commissioner Lester E. Shippee.

The aggregate surplus of all state controlled banks in Connecticut at the end of the first quarter, this year, was $58,553,174.15, while the total capitalization amounted to $18,318,200, according to the compilation. Mr. Shippee points out that the institutions in many states maintain resources twice the amount of their capital, but that the five mentioned are the only ones showing three to one ratios.

This state now ranks tenth in the total of state bank resources, with $598,688,770, an increase in two years from $766,640,000, advancing its position from 12th among the states. It stands second among the New England states in resources (only Massachusetts institution with $3,445,927,530 exceeding the total here.)

Deposits and Resources Gain

The 28,289 banks of the country, 20,289 state and 8,000 national, had total capital, surplus and undivided profits of $7,389,018,903 on April 12. Total deposits amounted to $54,291,838,573 and resources to $63,999,452,890. The gain in deposits in a year were $3,794,525,031 and in resources $3,487,607,437.

Mr. Sims' figures show that the capital and surplus of state banks were 37 percent in excess of those of national banks, while deposits were 69 per cent greater than in the national banks. He has compiled the various items concerning the state banks in all states, a service which he has carried out since 1919 and which is the only one of its kind in the country.

Talk Given by Shippee

General business and banking conditions in Connecticut were outlined in a talk by Mr. Shippee at the conference, and he also led a discussion on the necessity of keeping bank directors advised on condition of their banks through detailed examination reports which they are forced to study and give receipt for under the Connecticut system.

The smart man knows when to quit the game, but the fool keeps everlastingly at it until he advertises his failure.

Broadway Theater

If ever there was presented a bill of real big time vaudeville "names" it is that which opens at the Broadway theater for three days starting today. The Keith-Albee vaudeville circuit brings us today.

Fletcher, Howard and Akin (trio of comedians)—Miss Bobby Adams (the personality girl with Johnny Wright at the piano)—Cronin and Garcia (exponents of modern dance)—by a special engagement Edwin August appears in person in his distinct novelty comedy offering with Vic Stone, the record artist—and last but not least Stanley and Attree (gymnastic specialties.)

Morganson's Finish, Tiffany production is the feature picture attraction for the three days. From every standpoint of entertainment this photodrama taken from the story of the same name by Jack London is fraught with real drama and excellent acting by the principals and direction that is flawless.

Anita Stewart as the girl fulfills her role as the young society miss who loves the young man, with that graceful charm that has made her a film favorite; Johnnie Walker, young, impetuous and handsome, wins the girl after his terrific hardships while Mahlan Hamilton as the older of the rivals gives one of the best performances of his career. Others who helped make this Jack London story live and breathe are Victor Potel, Crauford Kent and Rose Tapley. Fred Windemere directed.

MACHINE GUN FIRE MENACES GUARDSMEN

Difficulties, one of a rather serious nature, have arisen at Camp Trumbull, Niantic, where Brigade Headquarters Co., comprising 30 local men and officers, of the 55th infantry brigade are encamped together with the 102nd Regiment of infantry, the 118th Medical Regiment, and the First Squadron of Cavalry. When the First Squadron of Cavalry, consisting of Troop A and Headquarters detachment of New Haven, and Troops B and C of Hartford rode into camp Monday night, after one of the most gruelling road hikes ever undertaken by a National Guard outfit, three of the horses were reported dead and the riders were weather-beaten and tired. Moreover, horse influenza has broken out among the 102d steeds and but nine horses out of 33 are fit for use. First Sergt. A. Martin of Troop B, Hartford, whose foot was stepped on by a mount, was detained for observation in the camp hospital.

Another episode coming under the heading of difficulty occurred that afternoon, when Troop A officers had a narrow escape from a machine gun barrage, when bullets fired by Machine Gun Companies D, H and M ricochetted upward and flew into their midst. When the danger was discovered Brig. Gen. James A. Haggerty ordered the cessation of firing.

No acute danger was present, later investigation revealed, but the close proximity of the cavalry tent to the machine gun pits rendered it advisable to cease firing, officers declared.

The squadron, comprising 186 men and 13 officers, with approximately 200 horses, under command of Maj. William H. Welch to New Haven, suffered severely during the two scorching days of last week, both horses and men dropping by the wayside. Five days, were spent at Rogers' lake, the men encamped in pup tents.

At the 2,000 acre Star ranch of Fred Stone, the actor, in East Lyme, the troopers carried out an extended order imitation combat, using ball cartridges. It is believed to be the first time a National Guard unit ever attempted this. It proved a tremendous success.

Another Battle of Niantic will be filmed with the units at camp participating. The picture will show men under fire with smoke screens, gas attacks, airplane attacks and heavy cannonading, and will be semi-comic.

CONN. ROAD LAWS AMONG THE BEST

Connecticut road laws are among the best, according to a world traveler who spoke to Robert L. Sengle, executive secretary of the state police department at Hartford without being aware that the latter was a Connecticut man. Mr. Sengle made a thorough study of the French police system during a recent visit abroad, hearing the above remark while in Paris.

The identification bureau, with its remarkably complete files, particularly impressed Mr. Sengle when he studied the plain clothes force in Paris, an organization which exists separate from the uniformed police. He explained that a force of 600 detectives as well as the gendarmes, is maintained in Paris.

Mr. Sengle was present on the arrival in the French metropolis of King Alfonso, of Spain, and saw the Parisian detectives in action, using scores of measures to guard the king. Mr. Sengle also visited cities in Belgium and Holland.

Few people can afford to wait until they have nothing else to do.

GENERAL MOTORS WAS STOCK MARKET FEATURE

NEW YORK, July 28.—(AP)—Featured by another sensational buying demonstration in General Motors, which soared over 7 points to a new high record for all time at 179 3-8, the "Bull" movement in the stock market broadened out perceptibly today, due, in large measure, to the re-awakening of public interest on publication of unusually favorable qarterly reports by the General Motors and U. S. Steel corporation. U. S. Steel common showed a net gain of 3 points at 148 after an early period of heaviness which reflected speculative disappointment over the failure of the directors to make a special dividend distribution at this time.

The announcement that car loadings in the week ended July 17 were the largest this year, the optimistic tenor of the weekly steel trade reviews, the stiffening in non-ferrous metal prices and reports that California refiners were drawing heavily on light oil stocks all helped to maintain bullish enthusiasm. The usual flood of rumors also accompanied the rise in individual issues, with stock split-ups predicted in several of the high priced specialities. General Motors was mentioned in Wall Street Gossip as contemplating the formation of a new corporation to take over all the varied manufacturing interests of that and the Dupont companies, but these lacked confidence.

Oil shares, which had been slipped back for several weeks on selling inspired by the increase in crude production resulting from the discovery of the several new fields, responded quickly to the appearance of fresh buying power, Marland, the Pan-American issues, Pan-Handle producers and Standard Oil of California, all recording net gains of a point or more. Coppers moved upward under the leadership of Cerro De Pasco, which touched a new high for the year at 69 3-4.

Strong buying also developed in a number of amusement, chemical, equipment, public utility and sugar shares. More than a score issues mounted to new high levels for the year, the list including American Can (New stock), American Power, Butterick, Case Threshing, Consolidated Cigar, Dupon, Lowe's Inc., Shubert Theaters, Texas Gulf Sulphur, Timken Roller Bearing and Weston Electrical Instrument.

Rails moved forward with the industrials although the gains were not as large. In addition to the heavy freight traffic, the buying of these shares was stimulated by the announcement that the first 45 class one railroads to report for June showed combined net operating income 14 per cent. in excess of that for the same month last year.

Call money ried nichanged at 4 per cent. The New York Stock Exchange reported an improved demand for fnds, with offerings heavier in proportion. Time money and Commercial paper rates held firm around recently established levels.

The principal commodity markets pointed upward. July wheat advanced nearly a cent a bushel, closing at $1.43 3-4, on unexpectedly light receipts, but the more distant options yielded slightly on selling influenced by the breaking of the drought in the Spring Wheat Area. Cotton moved up 15 to 32 points on short covering inspired by predictions of unfavorable weather. Raw sugar eased 1-32 of a cent a pound and coffee prices were practically unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies in the Foreign Exchange market were attributed to a relatively light demand for the principal currencies. Demand Sterling ried slightly lower around $4.85 11-16 while French francs broke over 10 points to around 2.88 cents and Belgian francs slipped back 6 points to 2.42 1-2 cents. Italian lire were slightly firmer around 3.93 cents.

TAFTVILLE

President Joseph C. Marsan presided at the meeting of District No. 8 Union St Jean Baptiste of eastern Connecticut, which was held in Columbia hall in Dayville. One hundred and seventy-five delegates representing Norwich, Taftville, Baltic, W. Thamitic, Stafford Springs, Jewett City, Plainfield, Moosup, North Grosvenordale, Wauregan, Goodyear, Danielson, Putnam and Occum attended. The meeting was pronounced one of the best ever held by the district; routine business being transacted speedily. Rev. P. O. Bellrose, pastor of the Sacred Heart church addressed the gathering, and as usual greatly pleased his audience. Joseph Lefebvre of Willimantic, general director, Alma Forcier of Goodyear, and Mr. Marsan, also made acceptable remarks.

After adjournment, the delegates enjoyed the hospitality of Council Gagnon of Goodyear, which served a very appetizing clam bake. The delegates gave a vote of appreciation to the members of Council Gagnon, their president and their secretary, for arranging the pleasant affair. The next district meeting, Mr. Marsan announced is to be held in Putnam on the fourth Sunday in November.

The Well Child's conference is to be held Friday in the Red Cross rooms in Ponemah building. Three nurses and a physician are to be in attendance. Any child with his or her mother is welcome. The children will be measured, and weighed by the nurse, and thoroughly examined physically by the physician. Advice as to health habits and diets will be given to the mother, and if any defects are found, she will be referred to her family doctor. The average attendance at these conferences for the past few months has been twenty. The United Workers under whose auspices these conferences are held say in their bulletin: "A good engineer doesn't wait until his bridge becomes weak before he has it tested, and a wise mother doesn't wait until her child's body becomes sick before she consults a doctor. In both cases an early examination often wards off the danger of a disastrous breakdown."

Oliver Gagnon, Ernest Gagnon, Irene Gagnon, Fernand Fontaine, Maurice Fontaine and Olivine Fontaine have left for a three weeks trip to visit places of interest in the Province of Quebec. Among the places they will visit are Montreal, Granby, St. Valerien, Drummondville, St. Cyrille, Notre Dame du Bon Conseil, St. Anne de Beaupre and St. Michel des Sainte.

Among those who returned from Camp Tippecan, the boy scout camp at Beach Pond this week are Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis, John Shutt, Curtis Hedler, Albert E. Airey, Herbert Airey, Frank Moors and John Wood.

The Sacred Heart baseball team went to Wauregan Wednesday evening, the boys being in charge of Rev. Henri F. Chagnon.

Stanislas Finalesk of Norwich avenue who has been enjoying a three weeks vacation has returned to his work.

Albert E. Crowell of Edgewood, R. I., William Daley of Providence and Edward F. Dunne of New London were Tuesday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood and family of North Third avenue.

SEDGWICK WOMAN'S RELIEF CORPS OBSERVES ITS FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps No. 16, celebrated its 40th anniversary Wednesday evening when a supper was served and an entertainment held at Buckingham Memorial. Members of Sedgwick post No. 1, G. A. R., were honored guests of the evening.

The anniversary observance began at 6 o'clock when the color bearers acted as escorts to Past Department Commander Orrin M. Price of the G. A. R., President Maude L. Moody of the Relief corps, the three charter members present, Mrs. Lydia Perkins, Mrs. Emily Irish and Mrs. Susan Kampf and the following past presidents of the Relief corps: Mrs. Dorothy Balcom, Mrs. Laura Hutchins, Mrs. Lena Pukallus, Mrs. M. Florence Dean, Mrs. Clara P. Burke, Mrs. Gertrude Tootill and Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, assigning them to their places at the tables. Over 100 members and guests enjoyed the delicious supper of potato salad, meat loaf, fruit salad, rolls, cake, coffee and mints.

The banquet hall and tables were decorated in national colors, cut flowers and red, white and blue streamers being used for table decorations, patriotic napkins placed at each plate, and palms banked about the hall, the latter being donated by Hawkins the Florist.

Following the banquet the officers and past presidents were escorted to the platform by the color guard and the program of the evening was presented in charge of Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, serving for Chairman Mrs. E. Grace Fowler who was unable to attend because of injuries sustained Tuesday evening when struck by an automobile at the Duwell field.

The program opened with an address of welcome by Mrs. Maude Moody, president of the Woman's Relief corps, this being followed by a pleasing solo, Lassi O' Mine, by Mrs. Howard Sterry. Remarks on the history of the corps were made by Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, following which John Moody entertained with several humorous sketches. This was followed by a solo, Carolina, rendered by Mrs. Sterry, and remarks from the veterans of the G. A. R., by Past Department Commander Price. Remarks were also made by the three charter members and past presidents present for the anniversary celebration; Mrs. Irish, Mrs. Perkins and Mrs. Kampf. The program closed with the singing of war songs of the Civil war and by members and guests forming a circle and joining hands while singing God Be With You Till We Meet Again.

In her historical sketch of the corps Mrs. Atterbury spoke in part as follows: There are perhaps but very few here tonight who can really say, "I remember what happened 40 years ago today." But we younger members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps No. 16 are very glad to welcome at least three of the charter members and past presidents of the corps, Mrs. Irish, Mrs. Kampf and Mrs. Perkins.

It was the earnest desire in 1886 to have an auxiliary to the Grand Army of the Republic in this town—which could be of direct service to the dear comrades who had so bravely fought in the great struggle of '61 to '65. After many days of earnest work an auxiliary, Sedgwick corps No. 16, was organized and instituted.

The several ladies met in the old Grand Army hall on Wednesday, July 28, 1886 at 3 p. m., where they were met by the following department officers: Dept. Pres. Mrs. Mary J. Dyer of New Haven and Instituting and Installing Officer Mrs. Mary E. Roberts of Hartford.

Mrs. Roberts presided at the opening meeting and the following were the officers installed for the corps: President, Mrs. Jennie M. Orr; senior vice president, Mrs. Emily Irish; junior vice president, Mrs. Fanny Myers; treasurer, Mrs. Mary E. Cushman; chaplain, Mrs. Elizabeth Norton; conductor, Mrs. Cassie Nichols; guard, Mrs. Susan Lamb. The newly elected president appointed Mrs. Delia Robinson as secretary, Mrs. Ida Ingraham as assistant conductor and Mrs. Lena Sweet as assistant guard. There were 34 members to sign the charter.

The department officers gave instructions concerning rules and regulations and closed the afternoon exercises. A bountiful collation was served at 5 o'clock in the evening and a public installation was held, attended largely by veterans. Addresses were made by the department officers, by Prof. George, commander of Sedgwick post and several of the members.

From a membership of 34 the corps has shown steady growth in its membership at present being 166.

Following are the charter members living, six in number, the first four also being past presidents: Mrs. Emily Irish, Mrs. Lydia Perkins, Mrs. Susan Kampf, Mrs. Annelia Stetson, Mrs. Irville J. Payne and Mrs. Lean Sweet. Mrs. Irish holds the distinction of being the only officer in the history of the corps to have held the office of president for two terms.

From a small start the corps in the state have grown to number 45 with a total membership of nearly 4,000. We have lived our 40 years and now we must look forward to our golden anniversary ten years from today, July 28, 1926, and I sincerely trust that we all shall be present on that very rare occasion.

Members of the corps in charge of the banquet were Mrs. Florence Dean, chairman, Mrs. Maude Moody, Mrs. D. Louisa Atterbury, Mrs. Clara P. Burke, Mrs. Ines Hill, Mrs. Annie Turner, Mrs. Carrie Prentice, Mrs. Mary Austin, Mrs. Althea Brown, Mrs. Lulu Fraser, Mrs. Annie Wilson, Mrs. Elizabeth Risley, Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom and Mrs. George H. Stanton.

WAUREGAN LODGE HAS INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS

Installation of the newly elected officers of the Wauregan lodge, No. 6, Knights of Pythias, took place at Castle hall Monday evening. The officers installed are as follows: Samuel Ableman, chancelor commander; Sydney Shabekoff, vice chancelor; Fred Herman, master of works; Dr. Paul A. Schwartz, prelate; Earl Taggart, master of arms; Israel Budnick, inner guard; Dr. S. M. Goldberg, outer guard; Joseph Grabelewsky, keeper of seals and records; James H. Smith, master of exchequer; Max Hanover, master of finance.

James H. Smith, the re-elected master of exchequer has held the office for over 20 years and is to be congratulated upon the trust and high esteem in which he is held by the Knights of Pythias.

The installation ceremonies were very ably and impressively conducted by District Deputy Grand Chancelor William E. Higgins, assisted by Grand Deputies Manley, Wilson and Packham of Nauchaug lodge, Willimantic, who were generously applauded at the conclusion of the ceremonies. District Deputy Grand Chancellor William E. Higgins gave a very impressive address, setting forth the aims and object of Pythianism.

Samuel Ableman, the youngest member of Wauregan lodge No. 6 to be elevated to the honor of chancelor commander, after thanking the installing officers for the neighborly service, made a very earnest address in which he promised to so conduct himself in the office entrusted to him as to prove worthy of the lodge and the order of Knights of Pythias. All the newly elected officers pledged to the chancelor commander, whole hearted cooperation in carrying out and exemplifying Pythianism to the best of their ability.

The first important business of the new administration was the granting of full power to the entertainment committee to run an outing in conjunction with the Pythian lodges in the neighboring towns before the summer is over. The vote on this resolution was unanimous. While discussing the question of the outing, Max Hanover called attention to the monster barbecue to be held in the near future by the Thames valley citizens committee. He stated that the event will be one of the finest and most elaborate entertainments on the largest and most dignified scale ever held in eastern Connecticut. He urged all the members to be prepared to give the event their unstinted co-operation as it is the duty of all residents in eastern Connecticut to take pride in the beautiful Thames river valley which can well compare in scenic beauty and ideal climatic conditions, also easy accessibility from a number of important commercial centers in the country, with the finest localities in the United States.

After the installation refreshments were served and a fine fraternal evening was enjoyed by all.

MONTHLY MEMBERSHIP LETTER OF CHAMBER

Secretary J. J. O'Rourke of the Norwich chamber of commerce has mailed to the chamber members the July membership letter. The letter is as follows:

During the past month the chamber has been active in promoting several phases of the local mailing service. The efforts of the chamber have been in co-operation with Postmaster Bailey for the good of the service to the general public.

For some time past there has been complaints regarding the service on first class mail from New London to Norwich. Mail tests conducted by the chamber, through a number of its members, showed that delays were caused on account of the decreased daily train service. In order that important mail from New London, which by the way would include all mail for Norwich transferred at New London from other cities, could be delivered locally during the afternoon of the morning it was received in New London, the chamber gave its support to Postmaster Bailey in his efforts to make use of the trolleys for carrying mails. Friday, the 23rd inst., the 12.15 p. m. trolley carried this mail to Norwich for the first time. This will hanceforth be a permanent service.

The second matter taken up with the U. S. post office department was the retention of local sub-stations on the same basis prior to July 1st. The U. S. post office department demanded under the terms of the new contracts beginning July 1st that all sub-stations be required to handle parcel-post packages, issue postal insurance of all kinds, etc. The compensation for conducting such a business was small and not acceptable to the local sub-stations as it meant greater detail of office work and increased storage space for the parcel post. Our representatives in congress were appealed to and the situation explained to them with the result that the new contracts were withdrawn and the old contracts restored. There is a need, however, for parcel post service especially in the Greeneville section which serves a large number of people. This matter is being taken up by the postmaster and the chamber with Washington at present.

The delays in local delivery of parcel post from other cities were brought to the attention of the post office inspectors at a conference recently held in Norwich at the postmaster's office. The inspectors stated that such delays should be called to the attention of the local post office authorities immediately and investigations would be made to find the cause of the delays. The public is requested to give their prompt attention to parcel post delays and show the wrappings to the local authorities. This is necessary in order to trace the movements of the packages to ascertain the causes of delays.

Thames Valley Citizens Committee.

The United Commercial Travelers of Norwich, New Yondon and eastern Connecticut are fostering a closer cooperation of all these communities for the purpose of creating greater civic interest, a closer bond of sympathy, and an increase in the industrial and mercantile business of this section of the state. To that end it is proposed to hold a large mass meeting at an outing or gala day, to be held in the near future.

Representatives of all organizations in every community here in eastern Connecticut, who are interested in this project, are serving on various committees to make the affair a huge success and to stimulate greater enthusiasm for the Thames river valley, which includes of course its tributaries. This is no individual community's affair. It concerns all of us who believe that there should be a greater increase in population and business in this section of Connecticut.

We are not growing as rapidly as other parts of the state. Eastern Connecticut is principally a great textile country. This industry has met strong competition from other sections of the country and has felt the effects of style changes. Nevereheless the textile industry is one of the great industries of the United States and will again come into its own. Whatever can be accomplished to call other manufacturer's attention to the great possibilities of eastern Connecticut is worth while.

New England must give itself due publicity and eastern Connecticut cannot afford to be remiss in this matter. It is confidently expected that the greatest gathering of people of this section will attend the outing, the time and place of which will soon be announced. Norwich is doing her full share in this project as the representatives from this community always attend the meeting of the general committee in large numbers.

Transportation Matters.

The traffic bureau of the chamber is in receipt of a letter from the Thames River Line stating that the company has purchased the steamer Carlsco, having a cargo capacity sufficient to handle the Norwich business. This company is extending its service area by the addition of several motor trucks which it has put into operation. Willimantic and Palmertown has been added to Jewett City in its greater service area. This company also states in its letter "That we have a connection with Philadelphia by motor truck, and while the rates are somewhat higher than freight rates, they are less than express and our rates include store door delivery in Philadelphia in less time than is made by the American Railway Express."

The bureau received a letter from the New Haven railroad officials stating "That effective Tuesday, July 6, their freight service has been rearranged so as to give 8.30 a. m. (d. s. t.) delivery on freight daily, moving via Norwich Line and New York."

"We have also handled the unloading of freight cars which it is claimed has been delayed at the Norwich freight house, and matter will be taken care of in order to avoid any complaints in future."

One of the greatest assets to any industrial community is transportation. Norwich has this great asset far above the average city. Our traffic bureau is doing splendid work. It is the ambition of the bureau that in time to come the chamber can give the services of a trained traffic man to look after freight claims, commodity rates, and advise upon economical freight routings. This is a matter of expense to the chamber. It is true that the chamber should endeavor to secure additional industries, and it always makes an earnest endeavor to do so. It is likewise true that the chamber should always endeavor to give our industries every possible service (and transportation is one of the principal assets to an industry) in order to keep them here and help them to expand their business. Our industries are the back-bone of our community and they should be given every possible adequate service, as to postal and freight accommodations.

RECREATION COMMISSION HOLDS BUSINESS MEETING

A meeting of the recreation commission was held Wednesday evening with the following members present: Chairman William J. Fitzgerald, John M. Lee, Mrs. Elizabeth F. Drew, Jonathan L. Johnson, Robert J. Swanton and Superintendent Earle E. Brigham.

Reports were heard on the many phases of playground work, indicating ever increasing interest and enjoyment in the grounds. Supperintendent Brigham rendered a report on the various grounds, which showed that attendance this year was very good and that the season, which is now half over, should be most successful. Much interest has been aroused in the results of the Jail Hill playground carnival, which was well handled by the instructors and children of this ground on Tuesday evening.

The commission appropriated a sum of money to be used in purchasing a picnic basket set. This set will include such items as baseballs and bat, volleyball and net, and other equipment which may be used by any organization in the city that is planning a picnic. Anyone desiring the use of this set should communicate with Superintendent Brigham, 123 West Thames street, who will be glad to arrange for the loan of the equipment.

200 TO 250 DEATHS IN THE WEST INDIAN HURRICANE

More Than 150 Persons Believed Drowned and $8,000,000 Damage Caused When More Than 75 Boats Were Sunk Off the Bahama Islands—Velocity of Wind is Diminishing as the Storm Passes Through Georgia and is Accompanied by Rain.

(By The Associated Press)

With an official estimate of from 100 to 250 dead and over ten millions of property damage, attributed to its fury, the West Indian hurricane which after lashing the east coast of Florida for two days before it passed into Georgia, tonight had spent its strength and was moving slowly westward carrying but a cupfull of wind and a misty rain.

Weather bureau officials expected the storm to pass into Alabama during the night where it would spend the last remnant of its strength in swirls. Fifty four persons washed ashore at Sanos after the sinking of the schooners Faueyme, Peaceful and Macoris off Sanos Island, Santa Domingo, eight persons killed at Nassau and five others dead in Georgia and Florida was the storm toll in lives.

More than 150 persons were believed drowned and $8,000,000 damage caused when more than 75 boats belonging to the sponge fleet were sunk off the Bahama Islands.

Two of the deaths attributed to the storm in Georgia and Florida were reported today. A boatman was crushed between his houseboat and a sea wall along the shore of Lake Worth, near Palm Beach, and a railroad president in South Georgia was killed when his locomotive went into a ditch from rails undermined by rains and high water.

The storm passed up through southern Georgia today, passing Macon, diminishing in intensity and accompanied by rain.

Charleston, Savannah and Brunswick, the former but lightly touched by the hurricane were resuming normal activities an dthroughout the eastern peninsula section linemen were busy in repairing the damage wrought to Florida lines of communication.

MIAMI COAST GUARD BOATS ARE ORDERED TO NASSAU

MIAMI, Fla., July 29.—(AP)—All available coast guard boats in Miami were today ordered to the relief of storm-stricken Nassau upon the request of the British embassy, after an appeal from L. A. Oates, British vice consul here.

Mr. Oates also arranged for a party to go here tomorrow with employees of the Florida Power and Light company, who will seek to establish communications with the mainland. Officers of the yacht Zuleita, which limped into port today said the storm was the most severe they had experienced. The yacht, which carried 17 passengers, sought safety in the harbor at Bimini and even then double anchors and two mooring lines were necessary to hold the boat.

Brought so close to the shore that the yacht partially was grounded, the crew faced a bombardment of cocoanuts which the wend sent through the air with "cannon ball" velocity, ripping away awnings and demolishing a superstructure of the boat bit by bit. The wind, they said, attained a velocity of 100 miles an hour, lifted a saloon from its foundation carried it several feet and set it down again. The concrete banisters of a hotel were ripped away and a schooner and a small yacht at Bimini were carried ashore.

E. F. Bourne, manager of the tropical radio telegraph station at Bimini said that he had asked the Boston office of the United Fruit company of which the station is a subsidiary, to dispatch its nearest ship to Nassau in order to help establish communication.

REPORT OF THE STORM AS ISSUED AT NASSAU

NASSAU, Bahamas, July 29.—(AP)—More than 150 persons were believed drowned, damage estimated conservatively at $8,000,000 was caused and more than 75 boats were sunk or destroyed between Monday night and Tuesday midnight in the most destructive hurricane recorded in the Nassau and the Bahama Islands.

Nassau bore the brunt of the damage in the storm which swept out of the eastern end of the Caribbean Sea, wrecking havoc through the entire British group.

With many families homeless, her beautiful drives littered with smashed glass and masses of debris, all public utilities paralyzed, Nassau abandoned efforts for alleviating her pitiful condition to dispatch all available craft in search of the picturesque sponge fleet, numbering between 150 and 200 small sloops and schooners, a which the majority of the 150 persons are missing.

The line of boats died out of Nassau Friday, heading for the famous beds, lying beside the submerged banks off the western rim of Andros Island, the largest isle of the Bahamas.

When the storm had abated early Wednesday morning, three small fishing smacks were left in the harbor from an array that Sunday numbered some 60 craft, ranging from the insignificant off-shore sail boats to the 50-ton yacht Isoceles. The Isoceles was believed to be Sir Thomas Lipton's famous American cup challenger, the Shamrock IV, which now lies under 40 feet of water.

The outer islands of the group suffered greatly, the principal damage beyond Nassau and the island of New Providence being inflicted on the little island of Gun Key, 40 miles due east of Miami, where eight large rum running boats anchored in the nearer waters laden with an estimable cargo of liquor were buried upon the beach and smashed to splinter wood. The sailors aboard the small boats rowed ashore at the first squall heralding the storm or were forced afterwards to swim ashore. None was reported lost.

THREE SCHOONERS LOST WITH HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, July 29.—(AP)—Three schooners and several smaller Dominican craft have been lost in a violent storm of 3 hours with heavy loss of life, 54 bodies having been washed ashore at Saona.

The schooners Fancyme and Macoris, loaded with passengers and bound for the Windward Islands, were lost with all hands. The number of passengers aboard the vessel is not known. The Peaceful bound from Jamaica for Ponce and loaded with empty casks, lost three of her crew, the captain and four sailors being rescued. It is feared the schooner Gavilan was lost also.

Several smaller Dominican crafts also have foundered at various places along the coast.

HARTFORD GIRL TELLS OF ASSAULT AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., July 29.—(AP)—Propped up on her cot in a private room at the Atlantic City hospital surrounded by two county detectives and two state troopers, Eleanor Mulligan, 22 year old stenographer of 174 Farmington avenue, Hartford, Conn., tonight through tear dimmed eyes related a tale of a wild party which ended early today in a criminal attack upon her, and had as a sequel an accident which caused the death of one man and the probably fatally injuring to another.

On the floor below in a cold, gray room known as the morgue, lay the body of Thomas H. McCrory, of 52 West 150th street, New York. His skull had been crushed and he had sustained internal injuries when the car that but a few hours previous had figured in the joy ride, crashed into a truck of cologne, seven miles from the scene of the brutal assault on the Mulligan girl. On the floor above, hospital surgeons were fighting to save the life of Harold Light, 205 Elm street, Yonkers, N. Y., McCrory's companion in the assault and subsequent joy ride.

Eleanor Mulligan's jaw had been fractured, seven of her teeth knocked out, her eyes blackened and her body bruised from a terrific beating and kicking she apparently had received. Throughout the afternoon she was delirious and continually cried out wildly to be saved from "those men." On her throat were the finger prints of a man's hand driven deep into the flesh.

"I left Margaret at the hotel," she told the police at the hospital tonight, "and went away with the two fellows down some street, the name I do not know. In a small sedan. We went to the Golden inn, where Harold Light bought some whiskey. The other fellow went away. I told him to take me home, but he went on some other road and I turned to him and said, 'You are on the wrong road,' and he said, 'That's all right.'

"The next thing I knew he stopped his car on a dirt road in a place that I later learned was Absecond. He starte to put his arms around me and I opened the door of the machine, to find that he was sitting on my coat. "He again started to caress me and I attempted to break away when I felt his hands smothering my face. I knew no more until I woke up on the roadside, when the car was gone."

The girl mentioned as "Margaret" is Margaret Tuttle for whom she called in her delirium. Miss Tuttle who lives at 34 Lenox avenue, Hartford, is a stenographer at a boardwalk hotel.

NEW YORK SUBWAY STRIKE HAS BEEN DECLARED OFF

NEW YORK, July 29—(AP)—Leaders of the striking subway motormen and switchmen announced tonight they had released their men from strike obligations and had declared the strike at an end.

The leaders said the strikers will be taken back by the Interborough Rapid Transit company at the wages they previously received, but that they will not regain their lost seniority.

It was the second time in two weeks that the strike had been declared ended. The first time the men resumed their strike when subway officials refused to take the mback as a group. A general strike of all subway workers in the city had been called for Saturday, but company officials insisted that few of their employes would answer it.

The strike leaders said tonight the men will return as individuals, and the leaders themselves will be taken back, if at all, after their individual cases have been considered by company officials.

The announcement of the strike's end came after a conference today between Edward P. Lavin, strike leader, and George Keegan, assistant to President Frank Hedley of the Interborough. Mr. Keegan is said to have agreed to take back all the men without discrimination. The leaders said the men will return to work tomorrow morning.

STAMFORD, July 29.—(AP)—Three moving vans loaded with about 200 half-barrels of alleged beer were seized by the Stamford police tonight and the drivers held under bonds of $1,000 each on charges of illegal transportation of liquor. The drivers were Clifford Curth, Brooklyn, who was owner of the van; Howard Powers, New York city, who was arrested about one hour later; and John Powers, New York city, arrested about ten minutes after the second one. The latter two vans were owned by John Dittmara, Jr. All started from New Haven.

30 GUESTS FLED WHEN FIRE DESTROYED HOTEL

SOUTH HARPSWELL, Me., July 29.—(AP)—Fifty guests fled from the Ocean View hotel as the house was destroyed by fire at midnight tonight. The flames were visible 30 miles at sea.

The origin of the fire was undetermined. A fiery cross had been burning on a nearby hill shortly before the fire was discovered but whether sparks from that or from the hostelry's chimney started the flames, firemen were undecided.

No guest was injured but practically all lost all their possessions.

HOSTILITIES CONTINUE IN THE GARDENS OF DAMASCUS

DAMASCUS, Syria, July 29.—(AP)—The gardens of Damascus, by tradition the oldest inhabited city in the world, where the apostle St. Paul and the prophets of old once preached eternal life and good will among men, now echo to the rattle of machine guns, the roar of cannon and the drone of airplanes pouring death and sowing hatred.

Sombre Senegalese and swarthy Circassian troops are stalked by savage Arab dissidents across its expanse, and indomitable Druses march through the palm flanked avenues where the princess of Babylonia, the pharoahs of Egypt, the prophets of Israel and the emperors of the west once walked.

Once the gardens formed huge emerald set in the yellow sands of the Syrian desert, but today they are taking on the grey color forbidding fortress. Barbed wire lines their paths formerly hidden under fences of flowers. The smell of burnt powder and the inevitable odors of a bitterly fought battleground have replaced the aroma of blossoms.

For some time the gardens of Damascus have been the scene of steady fighting between the French army that is maintaining France's mandate in Syria, and the disaffected Druses who seek to storm Damascus itself. Fully 500 men must have lost their lives in the sanguinary struggle that halted when the French troops returned to their protected lines within the city, abandoning the gardens last Monday. Their work was completed, the official communique says, but the Dissidents contend the French were forced to retreat when they found they could not hold the gardens. The dissidents were compelled to withdrawal from the gardens under heavy artillery fire, but regrouped on the edge of the desert whence they have been filtring back into their old positions.

Damascus itself, more or less in a state of siege since October, 1925, is steadily being destroyed in the opinion of neutral observers.

Now, with its Midan and Shagour quarters—one-third of the city—virtually destroyed and its other two-thirds lifeless, their shops and bazaars closed. It is a city slowly dying. Caravans no longer leave for outside countries and trade is at a standstill.

PROGRESS OF INVESTIGATION OF THE ILLINOIS PRIMARY

CHICAGO, July 29.—(AP)—Testimony indicating efforts at vote buying in the Illinois senatorial primary and the refusal of Thomas W. Cunningham of Philadelphia to disclose the source of $50,000 which he contributed in the Pennsylvania republican senatorial contest furnished the high lights of today's session of the senate campaign funds committee.

Timothy P. McCarthy, an East St. Louis newspaperman, told the investigators that Charles Scandry of East St. Louis, secretary of the foreign voters' league, had agreed, for $6,000 to have that organization support Frank L. Smith over Senator William B. McKinley.

McCarthy could not say whether Smith supporters actually had paid the money, but he asserted that on the word of a prominent democrat, publicly announced the league would support the Illinois commerce commission chairman. He exhibited to the witness $2,800 in cash saying, "We have declared for Smith, irwin and Duvall."

Cunningham's refusal to give the committee any information as to where he got the $50,000 he contributed to the campaign fund of William S. Vare, who won the Pennsylvania republican senatorial nomination, resulted in a warning by Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri, the chairman, that it would be the duty of the committee to report him to the senate for contempt.

TWO ARRESTS IN MERIDAN AS DESERTERS FROM ARMY

MERIDEN, July 29.—(AP)—Two alleged deserters from the United States army were arrested at a local boarding house tonight by members of the police detective bureau. They are Harry F. Sandberg, of Hartford and Walter Ditzler, of Pendleton, Oregon. Both are 20 years of age.

The two youths are said to have been in this city about six weeks, part of which time they have been working at the Bassick company. They are said to have served about two and one-half years of their three year enlistment when they deserted. Authorities of the 95th C. A., at West Point, to which they were attached were notified.

SETTLE CONTEST OVER WILL OF W. E. D. STOKES

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP)—An order authorizing settlement of the contest of the will of W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel owner, brought by Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes on behalf of her two children who were not mentioned in the will was signed by Surrogate Foley today.

Under the terms of the settlement W. E. D. Stokes, Jr., who was the principal beneficiary of the will, has agreed to turn over to his half brother and sister one third of the estate and a corresponding interest in properties given him by his father during the past 20 years. This amount is unofficially estimated between $1,750,000 and $2,500,000.

Feared Loss of Wages by Train Robbery

The Loot of $65,000 Was Consigned to a Bank at Amesbury, Mass. — No Clue to Robbers.

BOSTON, July 29.—(AP)—Following a carefully planned course of action, two bandits today held up two men on a Boston and Maine branch train in Salisbury, selected a small pouch containing $65,000 consigned to an Amesbury bank, leaped from the moving car and escaped in a waiting automobile. A small army of state and local police and citizens had found no trace of the robbers tonight.

The loot was a money consignment from the Federal Reserve bank in Boston to the Powow River National bank in Amesbury, designed as cash balance against which checks for several factories were to be drawn. At Newburyport, the money sack was placed on the small branch line train which runs six miles through Salisbury to Amesbury. With other mail the cash was in a combination baggage and smoking car, the last of the three-car train.

The two robbers rode as passengers from Newburyport. Just as the train was drawing out of the Salisbury station they rose from their seats, drew revolvers and forced Baggage Master William A. Jordan and a brakeman off duty, Harry O. Babcock, into the baggage end of the car.

Jordan fell or jumped from the rear platform, ran a quarter of a mile back to the Salisbury station and gave the alarm. Keeping Babcock covered, the two robbers found the sack, threw it from the train and leaped after it. They sent one shot whistling after the train to frighten off pursuit.

The investigators found a large white handkerchief fastened to the fence bordering the railroad, apparently to indicate to the robbers where to jump off. The barbed wire fence at this point had been freshly cut and the tree trimmed to afford a path to the nearby Rabbitt road. About 50 murridges of .32 calibre were found by the tracks and scattered through the woods, evidently fallen from the pockets of the two as they fled.

Neighbors reported seeing an automobile waiting on the by-road. The state highway is a mile away and it was believed by the police that the robbers escaped by this route.

In Amesbury, the report of the robbery caused a near riot about the new bank when employes of the Hiddle and Smart automobile body factory stormed the institution out of fear that their weekly pay would be held up. Police controlled the crowd until President Frank Sargent announced that the bank could meet the payroll with other resources.

COOLIDGE GETS OPTIMISTIC REPORTS OF POLITICS

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 29.—(AP)—An optimistic report on political conditions was given President Coolidge today by Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, who said the congressional election campaign was shaping up favorably for the administration.

Discussing conditions later with newspaper correspondents, Mr. Child, who had been a guest at White Pine Camp since Tuesday, said in response to question that there seemed to be a general assumption in the country that Mr. Coolidge would be a candidate to succeed himself in 1928. In the opinion of Mr. Child, the president was personally responsible for the economy program of the federal government and also for Washington's not becoming a bureaucratic center.

Mr. Coolidge, he emphasized in the same connection, is a conservative republican who is more for decentralization of the national government than an old-line Jeffersonian democrat.

Before leaving this afternoon for New York, Mr. Child discussed foreign as well as domestic conditions with the president, without, however, the latter's views being revealed on any point.

NEW OWNERS OF KANSAS CITY STAR PROPERTIES

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 29.—(AP)—Irwin Kirkwood and associates today became owners of the Kansas City Star properties.

Deed to the newspapers, which were sold recently to comply with the terms of William R. Nelson's will, today was delivered to the Kansas City Star company and a mortgage of $8,500,000 and $2,500,000 in cash was handed the university trustees of the William R. Nelson trust.

Mr. Kirkwood, son-in-law of Mr. Nelson, the founder of the Star, and other Star executives, who had served under Mr. Nelson, submitted the high bid of $11,000,000 when the property recently was offered for sale.

Mr. Nelson's will stipulated that any newspaper properties owned by his estate should be sold within two years after the death of his wife and daughter, and the proceeds turned into a fund to provide an art foundation for the people of Kansas City. Mrs. Kirkwood, the daughter, died last February.

DANGER IN PROMISCUOUS WEARING OF EYE SHADES

BOSTON, July 29.—(AP)—Warning that positive danger to vision lies in the visor cap eye shade was sounded today by Dr. Joseph H. O'Neil, president of the Massachusetts Society of Optometrists. He said that photophobia, a painful condition of the retina, would result from promiscuous wearing of eye shades, which gained wide popularity from the pictured success of Helen Wills on the tennis courts.

"By the use of these shades under normal conditions, rays or light that are necessary to produce a healthy stimulus to the eye are cut off and the eye soon loses its ability to function as nature intended," Dr. O'Neil said.

Four Year Old Murder Again in Limelight

Mrs. Edward W. Hall Arrested for Murder of Her Husband and His Sweetheart.

SOMMERVILLE, N. J., July 29—(AP)—Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, wealthy and socially prominent resident of New Brunswick, was in jail today faced with "a mass of new evidence," pointing to her as the murderer of her husband and his alleged sweetheart.

Prosecutor Bergen said he would take this evidence before the grand jury and ask for murder indictments against Mrs. Hall. The April grand jury is still technically in session and may be recalled for active duty at any time.

The arm of the law reached across a four-year span in a midnight arrest last night to serve a warrant on Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall, charging her with the murder of her husband, rector of fashionable St. John's Episcopal church in New Brunswick, and Mrs. Eleanor B. Mills, a choir singer in his church.

But the hands that served the law were not those of local authorities but of state police and officers from Jersey City. Today Prosecutor Toolan announced that Middlesex county will "play no part in the case and its investigation."

Later Governor Moore issued a statement that he intended "going through to a finish" with the prosecution of Mrs. Hall and it was indicated that the case would be conducted under his personal direction.

It was recalled that since the bodies of the minister and the choir singer were found under a crabapple tree with bullet wounds in the head, the state has borne much of the burden of investigation. When the case first began to lag, Governor Edwards expressed himself dissatisfied with the progress being made and sent his own prosecutors to take over the investigation. Nothing came of it, however, as the grand jury, after hearing more than 50 witnesses, was dismissed without taking any action.

The case received new impetus two weeks ago when Arthur S. Riehl brought annuiment action against his wife, formerly Louise Geist, who had been a maid in the Hall household at the time of the tragedy.

On an unsworn statement attached to the papers in the suit he asserted that his wife had been paid $5,000 after the double killing to withhold information she had which might have led to a solution of the mystery.

When the contents of this paper were made known, again it was state authorities, and not local officials, who took action. A sweeping investigation was ordered and the culmination was reached last night when Mrs. Hall was called from her bed to be taken to a jail cot.

Under the leadership of Major Mark O. Kimberling, head of the New Jersey state police, the investigation moved rapidly and this afternoon, Mrs. Jane Gibson, "pig woman" who featured the first investigation, was taken into custody for questioning.

What information was expected to be gained from Mrs. Gibson, the owner of a pig farm near the spot where the bodies were found, was not made known. After the double killing she testified she had seen a woman leaning over the bodies the night of the tragedy. She was not able at that time to identify Mrs. Hall as that woman.

Mrs. Hall, wakened from sleep by the officers showed remarkable calm, merely asking to read the warrant and requesting permission to telephone her attorneys. She then accompanied the police to the county jail where it was said she resumed her broken sleep.

Mrs. Hall wealthy and socially prominent, demanded the right during the first investigation to appear before a grand jury to tell of her actions on the night of the crime. After the case had been dropped and seemed to have been permanently marked down as an insolvable mystery she went abroad for a year and since has lived quietly in her New Brunswick home.

REV. DR. J. FRANK NORRIS INDICTED FOR MURDER

FORT WORTH, Texas, July 29—(AP)—Indictment of Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris for murder, signing of a new bond in the sum of $10,000, establishment of the identity of the "mystery witness" in the case and announcement of engagement of counsel by Dr. Norris are developments today in the slaying of D. E. Chipps, lumberman, shot to death July 17 in Dr. Norris' office.

Under the revised Texas laws of 1913, Dr. Norri smay expect one of three verdicts from a jury—acquittal, conviction of murder, or, if the issue is injected, of manslaughter. The minimum penalty for manslaughter is two years in the penitentiary. The maximum for murder is death in the electric chair. No suspended sentence may be given if a verdict of murder is returned.

The indictment was not unexpected, and had been requested by Dr. Norris, though the latter had objected to the personnel of the grand jury in a statement issued from his office. It also had been intimated efforts would be made to quash the indictment if returned.

Eleven citizens, four of them attorneys more or less directly connected with the defense of the case, signed the pastor's new bond. Most of them are members of the First Baptist church, of which Dr. Norris is pastor.

ORDER ISSUED TO DISARM ALL CATHOLICS IN MEXICO

Action Taken Because of Reports That Catholic Groups Are Holding Secret Meetings—Archbishop Mora y Del Rio Has Announced That Saturday Will be the Last Day of Ceremonies in Roman Catholic Churches in Mexico—Prelates Have Advised Catholics to Practice Priestless Devotions—Several Foreign Diplomats Are Considering a Movement to Have the Diplomatic Corps in Mexico City Offer to Mediate in the Present Religious Struggle.

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—(AP)—While labor and political groups have organized extensive parades for Sunday as a manifestation of support of the government's religious policy, Catholics throughout the country plan to go to their churches for prayers despite the absence of officiating clergymen.

The last Catholic church services at which priests will officiate will be held tomorrow, an order to this effect having come from the office of the archbishop of Mexico, the Most Rev. Mora y del Rio. Priests are instructed to leave the churches and not conduct services on Saturday, in order to synchronize the cessation of services with the going into effect of the religious regulations Saturday.

Uneasiness, uncertainity and apprehension are manifest everywhere, and Mexico City is filled with all sorts of rumors and reports one of these, printed by El Universal Grafico is that the police have been given instructions by order of Attorney General Ortega, to disarm all Catholics. This, the newspaper says, is a consequence of reports that secret meetings are being held in Mexico City by certain groups which, the authorities fear, are for the purpose of formenting forceful opposition to the religious laws.

The authorities in some places have already taken a hand in the case of newspaper editors publishing articles and editorials, which the officials consider objectionable. One Tampico, two Chihuahua City and a Mexico City editor have been consigned on this charge which is equivalent to preferring a complaint and may or may not involve actual imprisonment. The religious regulations forbid religious publications or those of marked religious character commenting on, or carrying any news items concerning the government's activities.

Although printing much local news on the religious situation, as well as dispatches showing foreign reaction, the Mexico City newspapers are maintaining absolute editorial silence. They receive special dispatches from New York declaring the United States government will not take any hand in the affair and that the pope will not interdict Mexican Catholic churches.

Some foreign diplomats, including the French and Spanish are giving serious consideration to a movement seeking to have the diplomatic corps offer its services as friendly mediator in the religious struggle. James R. Sheffield, the American ambassador who is the dean of the corps, has no taken any official action in this respect, nor has the plan been presented to him officially.

Again today waves of humanity of amazing magnitude surged around the Mexico City cathedral, anxious to perform religious devotions. Crowds jammed the courtyard, overflowing into the plaza Constitution; some fringes of the crowd even reached the walls of the presidential palace.

Similarly thousands of persons flocked to the virgin of Guadalupe and the roads leading to it being jammed with trudging pilgrims. Everywhere priests are saying masses almost unceasingly and confessions, captisms and weddings are going on, as they have been for the past week or more, in unprecedented numbers.

MEXICO SENDING GOLD TO UNITED STATES BANKS

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—(AP)—It is learned that within the last two months the Mexican government has sent about 17,000,000 pesos gold to American banks, principally in New York for deposit for the purpose of establishing Mexican exchange, which has been adverse.

These shipments are in addition to remittances for the payment of the external debt.

It is declared authoritatively that the movement of gold to the United States began before the present religious crisis, and that, therefore, there is no foundation for rumors here that the action was taken to offset a possible economic slump because of the religious situation.

OFFICIAL ORDER FOR THE DISARMAMENT OF CATHOLICS

MEXICO CITY, July 29.—(AP)—Attorney General Ortega announced tonight that he had ordered the disarmament of all Catholics throughout Mexico.

He explained this action was taken because of reports of secret night meetings by various groups, which the authorities feared were for the purpose of developing opposition to the religious laws.

FINANCE BILL BEFORE FRENCH CHAMBER SATURDAY

PARIS, July 29—(AP)—Premier Poincare's bill providing measures designed to put the country on a sound financial and economic basis, was approved by the finance committee of the chamber of deputies today, 19 votes to 13, with one abstention.

The committee will now recommend favorable action on the bill by parliament and discussing of it by the chamber will begin Saturday.

Against the determined opposition of the premier, some minor amendments to the measures were made, but political circles and all parties are reconciled that the bill will be passed by the deputies with a comfortable majority.

The finance committee departed from the stringent policy of economy inaugurated with the advent of the Poincare government, by voting an increase in the annual salaries of deputies. A clause making the salaries 45,000 francs ($1,125) instead of 27,000 francs ($672) was incorporated in the bill. This was not opposed by M. Poincare, who feels such an increase is warranted by the drop in the value of the currency and the increased cost of living.

Despite M. Poincare's success before the finance committee, the franc again lost ground today, as the project encountered criticism in authoritative financial quarters. The franc opened at 43.15 to the dollar and 205 to the pound sterling; it slumped sharply during the forenoon, being quoted at 42.71 and 207.75. At noon it reacted somewhat, and closed officially at 41.88 and 203.25.

The renewed weakness occurred in the face of the announcement that Emil Vandervelde and M. Francqui, Belgian foreign minister and minister of the treasury, respectively, will arrive in Paris tomorrow to confer on possible Franco-Belgian joint action to support the currencies of the two countries.

Total transactions in this issue today ran close to 400,000 shares, bringing the week's total to around 1,000,000 shares, or over one-sixth of the entire amount of stock outstanding. U. S. Steel common advanced 3 1-8 to 146 1-8 on total sales of over 230,000 shares as against a low of 117 a few months ago.

MILK PRODUCTION ABOUT THE SAME AS LAST YEAR

WAKEFIELD, Mass., July 29.—(AP)—Milk production in New England up July 1 was about the same total as last year at that time although the production per cow was 2.8 per cent. higher, the New England crop reporting service said in its monthly dairy letter today. The cool season was favorable to milk flow but pastures were later than usual in furnishing good feed so that the production peak this year was likely to be later than in 1925.

Vermont and Connecticut showed considerable gain in daily milk production while Rhode Island showed a material loss and Maine a slight gain.

RECORD JUNE EARNINGS FOR CLASS ONE RAILROADS

NEW YORK, July 29—(AP)—Record June earnings for class one railroads, approximating $104,000,000 in net operating income, compared with actual net of $91,716,552 in June, 1925, and $88,120,501 in May this year, are calculated on the basis of returns by the first 71 systems showing total net of $97,822,000 against $84,903,000 a year ago, an increase of 15.2 per cent. This would represent earnings at the annual seasonal rate of six per cent on the rate-making valuation taken at $21,175,000,000 against a rate of 5.43 per cent in June last year on value of $20,500,000,000.

PAYING HARD CIDER WAGES MAKES NO HIT WITH COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, July 29.—Concluding that using hard cider as a medium of wages was equivalent to selling liquor in violation of the Volstead act, Justice of the Peace George H. Andrews of the Mansfield town court, last night fined William Budnick of Mansfield City $100 and costs, with a 30 day suspended jail sentence. Budnick has testified that he paid his hired man, Mike Makofsky of Atwoodville with drinks of hard cider for his labors. Makofsky was the first man arrested in the case. Sunday night he came to Budnick's home and demanded his wages, figuring that about $16 was due him. Budnick refused to settle and in an altercation which followed Makofsky is alleged to have assaulted Budnick and pushed women members of the household about in rather rough fashion. A call was sent in to the state police barracks at Stafford Springs and Officer E. R. Burns was detailed. After an investigation he arrested the hired man for assaulting Budnick. Makofsky was fined $5 and costs, amounting to $17.45 but the hitch came when Budnick, his wife and daughter, testified that the man had been duely paid in hard cider, having been given quantities of 22 20 and ten gallons. Makofsky admitted having received the cider, but said that there was a money balance due him.

The church was crowded to the doors, and people were standing in the rear, to attend the funeral of this Sister, who was much beloved by her associates and the parish. AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

VELVET BEANS FOR THE SOIL

Velvet beans are making their way northward as one of the most valuable field crops for the renovation of the soil in regions to which it is adapted, its range now extending to southern Indiana and Illinois. The earliest varieties are the ones best adapted to the northern portions of the velvet bean belt. The seed houses have collected and now offer some seven or eight varieties where only a few years ago there was but one. The seed trade is investigating the velvet bean with a view to extending its range still farther. The history of this legume is interesting.

"Velvet beans are the most vigorous of all annual legumes in the regions to which they are adapted. When first introduced into Florida, about 40 years ago, the velvet bean was used mainly as an ornamental vine to grow on trellises or porches. Its very vigorous growing habits, however, soon led to its being utilized as a cover and green-manure crop. Still later its value as a forage crop was realized, and during the past 20 years, and especially during the last 10 years, its culture has greatly increased.

"Until 1906 only one variety of velvet bean was known in America, but during recent years the department of agriculture has introduced about 20 other varieties, and many hybrids have been secured by breeding velvety hairy pods which save rise to the common name, many of the other sorts have smooth or nearly smooth pods. Nevertheless, the common name velvet bean is now applied to all the varieties which are much alike in growth and appearance, and differ mainly in the pod and seed characters and in the length of season required.

"The old variety, the Florida velvet bean, rarely matures north of the parallel marking the northern boundary of Florida. This fact has limited its agricultural use mainly to Florida and the immediate vicinity of the Gulf coast. At the present time, however, several early varieties are utilized, so that the crop has become agriculturally valuable much farther north.

"The agricultural use of velvet beans is rapidly increasing, but the value of the crop is even yet too little appreciated. For green-manure purposes it is unexcell-ed, for pasturing after the pods mature it has no equal among legumes. Recently prepared feeds composed of the ground pods and seeds have come into high favor, so that velvet beans are assuming increased importance as a money crop."

BARLEY A WEED DESTROYER

Increasing planting of barley has called attention to one valuable attribute of this grain—it is an efficient suppressor of many kinds of weeds. It is also a useful crop as a nurse for clovers and alfalfas. As a weed preventive, it is of course necessary to get carefully cleaned and pure seed barley at the start such as can be furnished only by the better class seed houses which are fitted with machinery for treating the grain so that it emerges for the seed trade free from weed seed and other impurities.

Starting with pure seed, barley will be valuable to suppress the growth of many weeds infesting the fields. A South Dakota experiment station bulletin says concerning the ability of barley to fight weeds.

"Barley is a rather strong growing crop and is able to compete with most weeds. Large numbers of weeds in a field of barley will reduce the yield of grain considerably, however. A well-prepared seedbed gives the crop an opportunity to grow rapidly and overcome some of the weed pests. Barley following a cultivated crop will be fairly free from weeds. Careful cleaning of the grain with the fanning mill will remove nearly all the objectionable weed seeds. If the barley is treated in the formalin solution, by the method of pouring the seed into a vat and skimming off the floating material, nearly all or the seeds of wild oats will be removed. The crop matures early, thus giving a chance to plow early, and kill large numbers of weeds that mature seed later than the barley as well as to start weed seed which is lying dormant in the ground."

CLEAN OATS ADD TO ACREAGE

Cleaned and graded oat seed will add several bushels to the acre, declares a Michigan agricultural college bulletin. Removal of light oats, pin oats, chaff, weed seeds and dirt by the machinery now installed in big seed houses or even by the fanning mills on the farm, will greatly add to the yield. The experiment station has proved this by field trials.

"While the home fanning mill does valuable work in cleaning the seed it is by no means as efficacious nor can it remove the weed seeds with anything like the certainty nor to as high a percentage as the machinery installed in the big seed plants.

"The extra price for pure seed which has been carefully machined is more than repaid by the additional yield per acre of this quality of seed. "In the case of oats, more than other grains," says the bulletin, "large plump seed show an increase in production." This is another grain in which the farmer can trace increased yield directly to the seed-factory work.

A great deal of loss is caused each year by the loose smut of oats. It has been proved that this loss can be controlled successfully by proper disinfecting treatment and by removing the diseased seed from the healthy. Formaldehyde is the chemical used in Michigan to disinfect seed of smuts and the experiment station recommends that all oats planted in Michigan should have formaldehyde treatment before planting. It is estimated that oat smut often causes a loss of ten bushels per acre where seed is not treated. It is essential that properly cleaned and tested seed only should be planted in order to secure bumper oat crops.

Seed oats from the big seed houses are carefully cleaned and are of the highest germinating quality and are freed from much of the smut infection that home-grown seed supplies are bound to carry. The use of this quality of seed is not only an economy but an actual matter of direct profit.

EAST KILLINGLY

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Woodward entertained some friends and relatives July 25. They were Mrs. Mary Glenner and children, Pearl and Charles Attawaugan, Mrs. Nellie DeWolf and Austin and Annie DeWolf of Trading Cove, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford DeWolf and infant daughter Mary, of Norwich.

Mrs. George Gill of Whitensville, Mrs. Ella King of Shelburne Falls and Miss Anna Woodward and William McKenzie, of Worcester, Mass., called on their brother Percy Woodward Sunday.

Louis Glenner and Napoleon Larcobb of Attawaugan spent Tuesday with the latter's sister, Mrs. Woodward.

Rev. Mr. Hetherington had for his Sunday morning subject, The true weapons of war, and some results of conflict. His text was, What is that in thine hand? He mentioned the following instances. In Moses's hand a rod. In the widow's hand two mites. In Luther's hand a piece of paper. In John Bunyan's hand a pen. These instruments were so used by these people that they produced much good for mankind. In the hand of a demisen of the underworld of Ohio a revolver. Result: A straight forward and honorable editor slain. In the hand of a Texas minister a watchmad's pistol. Result: A rich lumberman is killed. Will either of these last in the hand arms profit the human race? Commit no murder. Prepare to meet thy God. The other exercises of the day were full of thought.

DANIELSON, July 29—Colonel William A. Gaston, who is to be the democratic candidate for governor of Massachusetts, is an outstanding figure in which this town has a very special interest. He is of the famous Gaston family once resident at South Killingly. The old Gaston homestead, still owned by the family and treasured because of its traditions, was where the Colonel's grandfather lived and labored and from which the colonel's father ventured forth into the world with a destiny that eventually found him filling the governorship of Massachusetts. This home is in the very center of South Killingly, at the crossroads. A business connection that Colonel Gaston holds in Danielson is a place on the directorate of the Windham County National bank.

JOHN T. CAHILL TALKS ON ROTARIAN SLOGAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July 29—John T. Cahill, superintendent of Chautauqua, was the speaker Thursday evening at the joint meeting of the Danielson and Putnam Rotary clubs at the Putnam Country club. Rotarians, Service Before Self was the subject of his address. Rain interfered with the plans of the Rotarians to play golf during the afternoon and held things up until the dinner hour in the evening. There was a theater party for many of them following the dinner and address.

The fact that Woodstock Academy is preparing to observe August 14, the 125th anniversary of its founding calls to mind that Killingly high school has been established only about 55 years. However, there was an academy here for a great many years prior to that time, standing where St. Alban's church property now is, and indicating whence Academy street derived its name.

It is a coincidence that Mrs. William Whitman of South street, West Side, and her sister, Mrs. Henry K. Loring of Wauregan, have broken bones at this time, the result of falls in which they have figured recently. Mrs. Whitman fell at her home and broke an arm. Likewise, when a dog broke loose at her home in Wauregan, where dogs are in quarantine, and she started off the veranda to catch the animal, Mrs. Loring lost her balance, fell and broke her wrist.

Touring motorists who camp at night were a sorry lot in this territory Thursday. The cold northeaster drove many of them to pitch camp by noon, and call it a day insofar as traveling was concerned. Those of them who were not hardened to the "old army" life found it might disagreeable walking about in wet grass and under dripping trees. In some cases the enthusiasm for camping ebbed so far that cars and camping outfits went into garages and members of the party to comfortable inns or hotels in the territory.

A last remnant of the trolley lines that once stretched all the way from the Conn.-Mass. border on the northerly border of the town of Thompson down through Putnam to Danielson and on through the Quinebaug valley to Taftville ceased to operate this week, this being the section of line between North Grosvenordale and Webster. Between North Grosvenordale and Taftville the service was suspended on November 30 of last year and replaced by motor coach lines. It is a fact that very few people in this territory give any indication of missing the trolleys. A few grumbled for a time, but the motor coaches have proved so satisfactory and have given such a regular dependable service that they are now accepted as a permanent proposition, insofar as changing times allow anything to be permanent.

When members of the town school committee meet, Thursday of next week, they will have before them a tabulation showing school costs during the past fiscal year. While these figures are not available for publication at this time, it is understood that they are very favorable and show how well the per capita costs have been kept down in the past 12 months without sacrifice or efficiency.

New rear wheels and tires were placed upon the Captain Put pumper at the central fire station Thursday morning. These wheels are of the disc type an dreplace the original artillery type wheels with which the machine was equipped. New disc wheels were placed forward some time since. The collapse of one forward wheel on the big machine one day last winter led to the decision to change the artillery type wheels for discs.

This is Station WJAR—The Outlet Company, Providence, R. I., broadcasting the great August sale of furniture, now going on. Most exceptional values of fine furniture are being offered at tremendous savings. Owing to the ever-lasting business done by The Outlet Company in this territory, they have appointed George F. Davignon to represent them in Norwich, Danielson and Putnam. Mr. Davignon will be pleased to give you his personal attention—telephone Danielson 296, or write 172 Main St., Danielson, Conn.—Adv.

Skidding keys, or some strange phenomenon affecting typewriters, made an item in this column Thursday morning describe a carp as belonging to the trout family. Well, it just isn't so, no more than a police dog is an electric eel. There is no relationship between the carp and the trout family, though they both make their home in the water.

Automobiles need not be so expensive—at least until after one owns a machine. Here is Omer LaBarre relating buying a car ready to run for $5, and turning it over to another buyer in short order for $10. In this case the annual registration fee is higher than the cost of the car, and the tires and gasoline as they are used up will run the investment up materially.

Operatives of the Paco Mfg. Co., one of the town's largest textiles concerns will get the usual summer vacation period of two weeks beginning this week end. It is an annual custom of this company to close at about this time of year for a fortnight.

Wiring for a complete fire alarm system is being placed in the enlarged Killingly high school. At various places about the big building there will be boxes from which an alarm may be sounded throughout the building, as on a regular fire alarm telegraph system, in case of emergency. The building will have ample exits and fire escape equipment.

Thursday, Rev. Ernest Mills and little daughter, Monta, of Bangor, Me., were visitors with Mr. and Mrs. Ashley P. Mills of the West Side. On Sunday Rev. Mr. Hills is to conduct a service at Trinity church, Providence.

Mrs. Floyd Sweet, a patient at St. Joseph's hospital in Willimantic, has been remembered with numerous gifts from friends in Danielson.

Miss Lillian Bailey remains seriously ill with typhoid fever at the Backus hospital in Norwich.

To rent—8 rooms with bath; 2 garages. Tel. 77-5.—Adv.

Thursday there were 38 prisoners at the county jail in Brooklyn. Of this number, six are bound over to await trial at the superior court.

Mr. and Mrs. Gaston A. Maindon and children will leave Sunday to spend two weeks at Oakland Beach.

An order came through Thursday for a 50-bottle case of a well known ginger ale for Alfred Pate—the first of the many awards he will receive as a new member of the Hole-in-One club. Mr. Pate made the profitable shot on the links of the Putnam Country club.

Mr. and Mrs. Jule Vanhee are leaving Sunday to spend a fortnight with relatives at Old Lyme.

Saturday will mark the close of Killingly's financial year. It is indicated that the balance sheets when completed will show satisfactorily.

A rainy half-holiday Thursday was not so pleasing to clerks who had planned outings and other activities that had to be cancelled.

Military men from Danielson and Putnam who are at Niantic for field service will have numerous visitors from their home towns over the week end.

During the period Aug. 1-16 the remnant and sales room of the Paco Mfg. Co., Furnace street, will be closed.—Adv.

Tax Collector James R. Walsh's collections during the financial year closing Saturday will make a new high record for any year in the town of Killingly. The figures will be available early in the coming week.

On a pretty site on a height just north of the village of Brooklyn, a new home is being built for Assistant Treasurer Harry Magoon, of the Danielson Trust company.

PUTNAM

STATE TRADE SCHOOL PROVES OF EVER WIDENING INFLUENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, July 29.—The classes of the home economics department of the State Trade school has been unusually well attended this summer, having between 15 to 20 girls enrolled since the close of the regular school year. The teachers in this department are Miss Ethel Spooner and Miss Hannah Pease and it has continued five weeks. These courses have become more popular each year and the pupils receive valuable training in special phases of the home economics arts. Among the pleasant and interesting activities of these classes this year has been providing a luncheon for the Trade school field day and picnic held recently at Roseland park, where the entire school enjoyed the outing and athletic contests. The outing was held under the auspices of the State Trade Athletic association.

Samuel Jennings has graduated from the carpentry department and is now employed at his trade in his home town. Carpentry department students are busy on a new house at Attawaugan. This house is similar in design to one built last year in the town of Thompson.

Student hours for the school for the year ending June 30, 1926, totaled 175,000. In this respect the school has shown a steady growth from year to year since its organization.

The new addition to the school is progressing rapidly, the excavations for both wings has been completed, concrete foundations have been poured in, and the forms erected for the concrete walls on the east wing. Upon completion of the addition the present departments will be considerably extended. Additions to equipment facilities and instructional staff have been recommended to the state board of education, in order that the school may take care of its ever increasing numbers.

Of outstanding interest is the new course in masonry which is proposed on the plan of a complete set of experiences in the masonry trade coupled with the necessary elements of study in subjects definitely related to the work. Generally outlined, the items of practical experience covered will be: Stone masonry, all forms of brick work, concrete construction, plastering and stucco work. The related subjects in this work will cover general history of the trade, math. materials, means of anaylsis and testing, estimating quantities, drawing and designing. It is planned to introduce the work in a more or less general manner but toward the conclusion of the course students may specialize in one line of endeavor such as brick laying, plastering, or concrete work. It is hoped that the completion of the building will permit that this course be organized at least by January 1. Applications are being received at the school and those interested in training along this line should apply early for enrollment.

It is hoped to transfer the cooking and sewing from the high school building into the trade school building in the fall.

REFERENDUMS

Much has been said pro and con the idea of a referendum on the liquor question. It has been argued that it was illegal, that it was an attempt to nullify the Constitution and that it could accomplish nothing. While it has been insisted that a federal referendum could not be ordered there is no question but what the various states can obtain such an expression from the people.

In this connection it is an interesting statement which is made by James I. Britt, counsel or the federal prohibition unit of the treasury department, in which he says: "If the states desire a referendum on any question concerning the liquor traffic, they have a perfect right to order it. They can take a vote of their people on any subject they please. But if they decide upon any course in regard to intoxicating beverage liquor which would authorize their manufacture, sale, transportation or exportation for beverage purposes, they will find themselves in open violation of the Constitution of the United States, and they will have their labor for their pains. No state has a right by legislation, referendum or otherwise, to enact any legislation inconsistent with the existing amendment or the national prohibition act, and what is, or is not constitutional is a federal and not a state question."

From the time that the dry law went into effect it has been insisted that the people never had a chance to give their approval or disapproval of it. That doesn't mean that it was not constitutionally adopted, but the contention has been that had people themselves decided the matter, instead of the legislatures, there would have been a different result. As to the rightness or wrongness of that one opinion may be as good as another. The fact is the people have never expressed themselves and until they do it is possible to claim most anything for them.

By means of a referendum in the various states it would be possible to obtain the expression of the people relative to enforcement or the present law, modification or repeal. That doesn't mean that the vote would change the present situation because the referendum was held. It wouldn't remove the dry law for states that might favor modification, but it would eliminate the claim that the people had not spoken, and it would indicate what their desire is for the future. A referendum would disclose the sentiment of the people upon this question and even the counsel for the prohibition unit knows that such referendums by the states are entirely legimate.

SCHOOL THE YEAR ROUND

As time goes on changes are made which were never thought to be possible. And this is not all due to science, for we change our views, our habits, our ideas and long established customs. We hear something advocated that for the time being seems out of the question on, but the more thought we put on it the more we are impressed by its merits and before we realize it someone has put it into operation and others only wait to be shown before following. That of course is characteristic of progress. We cannot always standstill and go ahead.

The all year round school is a change which appears so radical that it might seem to have no chance, and yet there is a strong tendency in that direction. While the long vacation is regarded as a period of rest and play during the hot weather there are drawbacks to it. Even with such a vacation there are the summer schools, the playgrounds and the efforts to keep the children out of mischief. Parents long for the reopening of school and it is frequently said that the children would be much better off in school than running about the streets and getting into trouble. While all work and no play may make Jack a dull boy it has been found that the long periods of vacations cause the children to lose much of what had been gained during the previous term.

The all year around school isn't coming by leaps and bounds, but the idea is being advocated under the sincere belief that it would be better for the children, vacations being rearranged under such a policy. It isn't expected that the children will favor it.

SENATOR CUMMINS EXPLAINS

Quite a stir was created the other day when Senator Cummins of Iowa was quoted in an interview as stating that President Coolidge would not seek reelection. This received increased attention because Senator Cummins who had just been defeated for renomination, has been a valuable member of the senate and not given to wild talk and spoke at the time when a gathering was about to take place for representatives of states in the middle west.

For the senator to make such a statement was regarded as a bit surprising and it was open to the view that either he had inside information or else he was peeved at the turn of events. The New York evening Post believed the situation needed to be cleared up with the result that it sought an explanation of his statement with the result that it found that it was not an unfriendly but intended as a friendly utterance and made by him because in his opinion that "six or seven years of the man-killing duties of that office left most men without any desire for another term. I had no information upon the subject not open to the whole world. The eastern press made a mountain out of a molehill."

The one great trouble with the Cummins interview is that he didn't take the precaution to preface it with the statement "I don't know anything at all about it." It was because he created the impression that he did know something, even though he did not actually say so, that weight was attached to what he said. To a large extent he furnished the material for making a mountain out of a molehill, for had he said nothing, or had he confined himself to what he knew or had he properly guarded his statement there would have been no inclination to give it anything but proper interpretation.

Senator Cummins didn't spill any beans. He simply made one of those blind statements which gave him a chance to make a correction after a lot of talk had been indulged in and some uncertainty created through a misapprehension of the conditions under which he spoke. It doesn't appear that the senator did as much as he should have to prevent the very interpretation that was given to his words. He tried to talk about something of which he was entirely ignorant.

THE B. & M. TRAIN ROBBERY.

What is regarded as the boldest train robbery for years, that of the Boston & Maine train at Salisbury, Mass., furnishes several surprises.

Aside from the demand for the arrest and proper punishment of those responsible for the holdup it can be expected that there will be some questions asked as to why such a sum of money was carried in an open baggage car and why passengers were permitted to loll about in the apartment where the mail is carried, as seems to have been the custom. Those who got away with the swag had been in the practice of doing that very thing. They had been studying the situation without their purpose being surmised.

But one thing which should particularly interest the authorities is to learn who was responsible for the leak by which the robbers learned that the money was on that train. It semes to be quite plainly indicated that they knew when the money was being transported, which would indicate that there were acting on inside information and that they were but the tools of others who had carefully obtained the information as to when and where to strike. The robbery has no earmarks of having been made by chance, trusting to luck that the catch might be good. It was apparently staged to get just what was gotten and it is evident that there were others involved than the two who wielded the guns and threw off the mailbags. The one who passed along the information that the large sum of money was going by that train should not be overlooked in the pursuit of the robbers. It is another case where Massachusetts should get an early chance for imposing heavy sentences.

SAFEGUARDS ALREADY AT HAND

Always the claim is being made that additional safeguards should be established, when, as a matter of fact, the safeguards already rest in the hands of those who are facing danger.

Almost every day we are appalled at the loss of life in some grade crossing accident. It may be a case where one life has been snuffed out or where a half dozen or more have been killed when the vehicle in which they were riding was struck by a locomotive, or struck a railroad train.

There is legitimate ground for believing that there should be adequate warnings at all grade crossings The character may best be determined by the conditions existing at the respective points, but sight is too often lost or the fact that those using the highways at such places can and should establish their own independent safeguards. If there was a greater disposition to do this, instead of plunging ahead blindly and in a spirit of chance taking, there would be less accidents at crossings and fewer deaths.

By all means let there be reasonable safeguards erected, the worst crossings having the best devices, but the responsibility that rests upon the individual to fully respect them and to display enough fear of what may happen at these points of danger should not be forgotten. It is the failure to obey the safeguard which every crossing user has and should exercise that is responsible for too many of the crossing fatalities. More care at such points will do the trick. You cannot be careless and expect to avoid trouble.

A DOMESTIC DESPOT

Lacey Twain was behind the thick shrubbery untangling the dead grasses from her hyacinths when she heard Mrs. Walker talking down from an upper window of the next house to Mary Coleman, who was standing below. Mrs. Walker, Dr. Steele's widowed sister who kept house for him, was doing her spring housecleaning with the help of Mary Coleman, who went out by the day. Mary Coleman knew all the town gossip and Mrs. Walker loved to hear it. They talked regardless of listening ears.

"I don't care what people say," Mrs. Walker's high voice was emphatic. "He isn't going to do any such thing. I guess I know I'm his sister. And I've just the same as brought him up."

There was an incoherent murmering below as Mary gave a few more strokes of the broom upon the rug she had upon the grass.

"Thats all right. But he knows good housekeeping as well as the next one and he'll never marry a woman who can't keep things up in shape. Why, just look at that house next door! It speaks for itself. And it speaks for her as a housekeeper. No, indeed. If he wanted to I wouldn't let him."

Mary murmured again.

"Well, no. I wouldn't have a word to say against Martha Winchill—there! I guess you can bring that rug in now. It's clean enough."

Lacey sank to her knees among the flowering hyacinths. Her hands went up to her face and she crouched pale, breathless and stricken.

They were talking about her. "The house next door—it speaks for her as a housekeeper." That was the reason why she owuld never have a chance with the man she loved. And Martha Winchill will have. She thought of the pretty Winchill place, of the clean-cut modern house, of the beautifully garnished lawn and of Martha herself, charming little queen of so lovely a domain. And it was all just across the street in plain sight, offering its contrast every day to the forlorn Twain premises.

"Lacey!"

It was her mother's voice calling. She sprang up and entered the house through the side door.

The room was enormous but so crowded with objects that one lost track of its size, and only realised a smothering sense of closeness and litter. There had been a large family before Lacey and when she came to her own she found things nearly worn out. They had not grown better in the succeeding years for nothing was ever replaced. All was as Lacey had known it in her childhood. And some of it she hated cruelly. For to her it represented disorder and humiliation and eyesore rather than a pleasant home environment.

In the midst of the clutter Mrs. Twain sa tin her wheeled chair, a massive, old-fashioned figure helpless from the knees down. Lacey did not resemble her mother, who was dark, heavy-browed and sharp-eyey. When you looked at Mrs. Twain's mouth and then at Lacey's you understood how the one dominated the other.

"Lacey," said Mrs. Twain, imperatively, "get me my ball of crochet cotton. It's rolled away under the couch."

Lacey went down on her knees at her mother's command. She thrust an arm under the decrapit couch and brought out a heap-up work-basket. She thrust it under again and brought out a pile of old magazines.

"That will do." Mrs. Twain said, watching her. "You needn't drag out all those things. It isn't necessary to the finding of my cotton."

Mother Lacy's eyes were full of tears and, her voice desperate, "mayn't I clear out those things? There are lots of places in the house for them besides under the couch."

"There's no other place I prefer for them," Mrs. Twain's voice was firm "And I am mistress of this house, remember. I have things just as I want them. And if other people don't like it they can do the other thing. You not excepted Lacey."

Lacey brought forth the cotton covered with lint, dusted it and gave it to her mother. Then she went silently from the room.

She had just set the kettle on for tea, when she heard her mother call again, but this time in a way that alarmed her. She flew to find what she had somehow feared. Mrs. Twain had again dropped the ball of cotton and in reaching too far for it had fallen out of the ancient wheeled chair.

A moment later Lacey, white, wild-eyed, appeared to Dr. Steele as he sat over a book at his desk.

"Mother—quick!" was all she could utter. Then she wheeled and ran.

The doctor ran almost as fast. He was young and athletic.

"Take her feet," he said to Lacey. "There! Now gently. Remember her poor knees."

"You're all right," Dr. Steele said, patting her hand. "Only you'll need lots of petting for a day or two. And Lacey here is just the one to do it."

"Lacey's a good girl," sighed Mrs Twain, regretfully. "She wanted to clean house this spring and I wouldn't let her. I guess this is a judgment on me. But, doctor, you know what house cleaning means; it means burning and carrying out and upsetting. And I'd rather be dirty and keep things as I've always had 'em. Lacey can't understand how I feel. And I presume I can't understand how she feels. There's 40 years between us. But the older I get the better I love my things as they are, dirt and all. It won't be long I have them 'em so—" She wiped away a tear.

"I understand," he said softly. "And Lacey will try to. A little dirt is better than the upheaval of every memory and old associations. I had a mother once and she was just so. I shall be that way myself in time to come. And so will Lacey." He smiled into Lacey's lifted eyes. "Lacey must be patient," he added tenderly. "Some day—soo.—she shall have a brand-new home of her own and that she can order to suit herself. And I'll promise her always to keep my feet dusted and my tobacco ashes where they belong." He put his hand under Lacey's chin. "That will content you, won't it, dear?" he asked. "As for your mother, she's better here in the old home."

And as Lacey struggled to realize what he had said he bent lower still and kissed them both.—Detroit News.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Devil's Hopyard and Hayward's Pond?

One of the most delightful short trips from Norwich, which could be made during an afternoon and give a round trip of about 50 miles, would be a ride through Devil's Hopyard to Hayward's pond (Shaw's lake) and return to Norwich via the Colchester road.

This trip affords beautiful scenery and carries one through picturesque Connecticut country. Two thirds of the trip is over improved state highway, the remaining third over improved country roads which are in good condition at this period of the year.

Leaving Broadway corner the trip starts through Main street and out the Norwich-Middletown road past Gardner lake (where a stop could be made if desired at this beautiful lake), on to the Salem four corners and along the Middletown road to a point near North Plain. Here a country road to the right carries the driver to the Devil's Hopyard (where another stop could be made at the falls). Continuing on from the hopyard two roads branch to bring the driver to the East Haddam-Colchester road, where a right turn carries the driver to Hayward's pond (or Shaw lake), where a beautiful colony has been built up.

From Colchester the return trip is through Yantic to Norwich over route No. 17.

The mileage is about 50 miles and could easily be made for a delightful afternoon's ride.

AS OTHERS SEE IT

Fate and R. T. Lincoln
(Washington American)

Supporters of the theory that occult influences, other than those of a benign providence, influence the destinies of mortal men might find themselves strengthened in their conviction by certain features of the career of Robert Todd Lincoln. There is the fact that fate selected him, the son of the first martyred president, out of all human beings on earth, to be present at each one of the three such tragic events which have marked our presidential history. That this had a deep effect upon him is indicated by the remark attributed to him, that he would never again be present at a presidential function because of the fatality which appeared to wait upon his attendance. A further seeming indication of the working of a malign destiny to connect him with such things is given by Dr. Charles A. Moore of the library of Congress who says it was revealed to him by Mr. Lincoln himself. According to this story Robert Lincoln, during his Harvard student days, stood leaning against a car in a Jersey City railroad station when the train started, throwing him off his balance. He was almost under the wheels when a stranger seized him and pulled him to safety. The rescuer was Edwin Booth, the celebrated actor. Only a few months later his brother, John Wilkes Booth, shot and killed the father of the boy whose life he had saved.

A Slowed-Down Romancer

When Spring spreads its allurements up an' down our woodland ways
It's then I start romancin' on th' thrills of other days.
My neighbor gits his auto out an' shines it till it glows
Like butter from a baby's bread a-smearin' up its nose.
My neighbor wants to hit th' road an' drive like someone mad,
Which only slows me down to dreams of happy days I've had.

Th' more I see of autos, folks, th' more, it seems to me,
I crave old hoss an' buggy days like them that used to be.
Perhaps I'm antiquated now—or yaller, as they say—
But my speed ain't as speedy as they're speedin' it today.
Give me a hoss an' buggy—one that's got a little class—
A purty girl, a shady road—an' you can have your gas!

I ricollect back yonder, when on Saturdays in June,
I'd wash my red-wheeled buggy up fer Sunday afternoon.
I'd manicure th' harness, too; git out my Sunday whip,
Then tie a bright red ribbon near th' cracker at th' tip.
I'd dust my Sunday lap robe off—git "dolled up," as it were—
Then count th' hours till Sunday come an' I could be with her!

We bought a surrey—her an' me—soon after we was wed,
But as no children blest us, we took neighbors out instead.
Nobody ever speeded then, we liked to take our ease,
An' git full satisfaction from th' shady spots an' breeze.
But that was back in other years—now Sunday seems deersed
To fill th' Monday papers full o' news I'm scairt to read!

THINNESS MEANS SICKNESS

Add the Flesh You Want This New Way

It's not natural to be thin. If you are scrawny and underweight, something is wrong. You are not enjoying 100 per cent health. And what's more, if you don't look to it, you are almost sure to get worse.

If you are looking for real help to restore Nature's depleted nerve force and vital power, to add weight, to tone up digestion and overcome body poisoning constipation, you will do well to see that you get into your system the vital food elements such as vitamines, the organic plant salts of phosphorous, iron, lime, etc., as they are found in time-tried Cod Liver Extract.

To try to take them in drug form is worse than useless for they cannot be absorbed into the body unless they are as Nature made them in fresh vegetables and Cod Livers. Everybody knows there is no better body builder than Cod Liver Extract. But everybody cannot take this wonderful natural tonic because of its fishy taste and odor.

Now, however, Science has removed all the objection by finding the way to concentrate the vital elements necessary to healthy body-building into pleasant, sugar-coated tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets.

They contain, along with other recognized up-building ingredients, the vital parts of Cod Livers. Their results in thousands of cases have been remarkable. They have added 15 to 20 pounds of solid healthy flesh within 30 days, they have built up frail, puny children to normal weight and sturdy strength. They provide the run-down system with just the help it needs and in just the form that the digestive organs can easily assimilate.

In fact, the results have been so remarkable that you can now buy McCoy's Tablets at Lee & Osgood Co., or your favorite druggist anywhere with a specific guarantee that if after 30 days' use you have not added at least 5 pounds of solid, healthy flesh, your money is to be refunded instantly.

Don't be thin and sick any longer. Begin using McCoy's Tablets today and start yourself on the road to sound health, normal weight and steady nerves.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Textile Situation

Mr. Editor: Mrs. Marinda C. Robinson is an interesting writer but when she attempts to make readers of The Bulletin believe that there is great prosperity in the textile belt, she has tackled a bad proposition. Fully one half of the textile operatives in Rhode Island, Connecticut and Massachusetts are earning less than half they were four years ago. A dozen mills in Rhode Island and Connecticut are closed forever. Several of the old-est mill villages in both Rhode Island and southern Massachusetts are now simply mill tenement villages, mills still, machinery sold, for junk; in some instances gone south.

The most perfect finishing plant in the world, that, at Sterling, on short time for three years.

The great thread mills at Willimantic, $300,000 behind in a year; such mills as Wauregan, Plainfield, in fact all of eastern Connecticut; fine plants in worse condition than ever before known. Those are facts. What Mrs. Robinson said concerning textile business is all wrong. It does not help the cause of prohibition to say wrong things about it. Prohibition, if let alone would long ago have regulated itself, but the passage of such an act as the Volstead law would destroy a law that came from the throne of God himself. American people greatly resent being made fools of so that a few unscrupulous bootleg kings can become millionaires. We see on all sides at all times, small law violators here and there arrested, while no attempt whatever is made to arrest the big fellows.

But all of that has nothing whatever to do with wrong statements about the textile condition and does not aid prohibition among textile workers who quickly see that the entire letter of Mrs. Robinson is as liable to be wrong as the part about textile workers.

I never believed federal prohibition was right, but it is the law and had no Volstead act been passed and prohibition allowed to stand on its own feet just as passed, the United States today would have been all right as far as prohibition is concerned and home brewing and making of liquors of all kinds would never have been here. The humbug in searching some, allowing others to go unmolested, seizing intoxicants at one place and passing by other places where the same kind of juice is sold at will with no search or seizure has had a bad effect on the business and is making matters worse instead of better.

I happen to know of still more serious things done in the so called enforcement of Volsteadism and done by some one besides bootleg dealers at that. No, no, Mrs. Robinson, don't attempt to prove prohibition makes cotton mills run in Connecticut and Rhode Island for it does not.

NORWICH LIONS CLUB HOLDS ANNUAL OUTING AT SAYBROOK

The members of Norwich Lions club held their annual outing Thursday at Pease house, Saybrook, with a large attendance. About 30 members of the New London Lions club and friends were present at the outing. At 12.15 o'clock, d. s. t., the Norwich Lions and their guests left Union square by automobile for Saybrook. Luncheon was served at 12.15 o'clock, the menu including clam chowder, cold porridge, combination salad, ham, cheese and tongue sandwiches, crackers and coffee. The song leader for the day was Joe Schwartz of the New London Lions club.

After lunch there was a ball game between the New London and Norwich clubs. The Norwich team was under the direction of Dr. Clarence G. Thompson who handled the team like a veteran. Owing to the rain the game went but six innings, the final score being 14 to 4 in favor of Norwich.

At 6.30 o'clock a shore dinner was served, the menu including olives, celery, corn chowder, half boiled chicken, corn fritters, green peas, French fried potatoes, ice cream, cakes and coffee.

William R. Friable was the song leader for the dinner hour. The opening number was America. The Pease House Serenaders provided a lively concert programme.

Mayor William A. Fox of New London was a special guest of the evening. When called upon by President William A. Anderson of the Norwich club, he made the Lions roar with laughter with his store of wit. His remarks were of a complimentary nature to the Norwich club and was heartily applauded at the conclusion of his address.

President Anderson briefly welcomed the Lions and their guests. President Anderson spoke of the barbecue to be held within the next few weeks by the Thames Valley Citizens committee, the object of which, he said, is to remind the people of eastern Connecticut of the great gift which nature has given them which makes the Thames valley one of the beautiful spots in the United States. Mr. Anderson said that we are so near this beautiful spot that we take for granted its exquisite scenery and are apt to overlook its manufacturing and industrial possibilities.

Credit is due Earl Taggart, chairman of the arrangements committee who was so ably assisted by President Anderson, Tyler Stanton and Dr Clarence G. Thompson.

KEEP FOOD COLD SAYS HEALTH BULLETIN

Keeping food cold is an important precaution against disease and should be so recognized by every family says this weeks issue of the health bulletin published by the Connecticut State Department of Health. The bulletin continues too often the lack or an intelligent understanding of the ice box is a means of food spoilage and impending danger to health. In the first place the problem is not how to save the ice from melting, but how to maintain a good circulation of air through the ice chamber so that it is continuously charged with a cold temperature. This cannot be accomplished if a blanket covering is added to the ice to keep it from melting, or, the ice compartment is not kept well filled, or if the ice box is not so constructed as to allow of a free circulation of air. A thermometer to record the temperature on the various shelves in the ice box is a necessity, for in no other way can one know whether food is being safely stored. A temperature as high as 60 degrees F. is more nearly an incubator than a refrigerator resulting in a rapid increase in bacteria already present in the food, yet thermometers in many ice boxes at times would register nearly this temperature. Milk is best stored at 45 degrees F.

All this serves to emphasize the danger of allowing food to remain in a warm place for any length or time, especially during the summer months. This is particularly true of milk which is such an excellent medium for growth of bacteria. Jars of milk when not in use should be carefully covered and kept on the coldest shelf, usually the bottom of the ice box. The remainder of milk which has been poured should never be returned to the jar which contains cold milk as this will serve to increase its bacterial content. Likewise milk should not be left on the back porch after delivery if the milkman's hours do not conform to the family's some arrangement should be made for placing the milk in a sheltered spot, or covered with a thermos cover which will retain its low temperature.

During the summer months greater care should be exercised in the use of left over foods. The ice box should be cleared of these daily, since, if long delayed, even in a cold place they may be in questionable condition for use. Carefully checked experiments have shown a large increase in bacterial count when the appearance, oder and flavor of a stored food gave no indication of its condition.

So, avoid danger of questionable food by keeping it iced in a sheltered place, and not retaining too long food which is not to have a subsequent cooking.

NEW STEAMER FOR THE THAMES RIVER LINE

The Thames River line, operating a freight service betwen Norwich and New York has placed on the line a new boat, the Carisco, which has a larger freight carrying capacity than the 'Cape Cod. Increasing business has made necessary a larger boat for the line and it is expected that the Carisco will be able to take care of the demands for freight transportation between this city and New York.

The Carisco has a capacity of about 700 tons of freight while the Cape Cod could carry only about 500 tons of freight. The new steamer has been on the line for the past two weeks and like the Cape Cod, will make three round trips to New York weekly.

Captain James Chase, who was in command of the Cape Cod, commands the new boat. The Cape Cod crew has been retained in the service of the new boat, and several new members have been added to the crew.

The Carisco has been in service on the Providence-Norfolk line as a freighter. It is understood that the Cape Cod is being used on the Bridgeport-New York run.

NORWICH FIREMEN TO ATTEND STATE CONVENTION

The Norwich fire department will be represented by a half dozen delegates at the Connecticut State Firemen's association convention, field day and parade, to be held at New London, August 19th and 20th. The local fire companies have not yet elected their delegates but expect to do so within a few days.

The convention and field day was originally scheduled to take place on August 17 and 18 but a recent meeting of the executive committee of the Connecticut Firemen's association of which Fire Chief Charles H. Rose of New London is president, changed the date to Aug. 19 and 20, the latter date being found to be to better advantage because of coming later in the week.

More than 500 representatives of volunteer firemen's units of the lower Naugatuck valley communities will be represented in the convention and parade, traveling by special train, according to reports received from the Eagle Hose, Hook and Ladder company to Naugatuck.

Clpa. Reuben H. Tucker, Jr., of Ebale Hose, Hook and Ladder company, was elected chairman of the general committee and R. E. Hapkins of Echo Hose company, Shelton, chairman of the committee in charge of tickets. Special arrangements have been made for residents of the four communities to make the trip at the special rate on the special train provided for the firemen's delegation.

The various volunteer companies of the Milford Fire department are completing plans for attending the convention and field day. All of the five companies with the exception of the chemical company of Devon have elected delegates to attend the convention on Thursday, while large delegations from each of the companies will attend the second day to take part in the monster parade and field day events. Chemical company 2, of Fort Trumbull beach, will enter a team in the hose laying contest and judging from the time trials held in practice the Fort Trumbull boys will make many of the other teams step some. This team in practice with one man missing has gone through the test in 29 seconds, which will be lowered it is expected.

EMPLOYER IS LIABLE FOR EMPLOYE'S ACTS

A "go-getter" employe got his employer into trouble, according to the facts in the case of Son against Hartford Ice Cream company, just decided by the supreme court of errors of Connecticut. The plaintiff, a shopkeeper, had been buying ice cream from the defendant, whose truck driver had instructions to collect on delivery. On the date in question the shopkeeper refused to accept the ice cream on the ground that the icing was poor, but the driver insisted on leaving it. When the plaintiff refused to pay the driver seized the plaintiff's cash register and started out. In the course of a struggle for its possession the plaintiff was beaten severely by the driver and his helper. He then sued the employer.

Holding that the employe was liable, although the instructions to drivers were to use no force in making collections, but to telephone the defendant's office in case of a dispute, Judge Beach, in his opinion, said:

"The sole question on this appeal is whether on the facts found the defendant is liable in damages for the injuries thus inflicted on the plaintiff; defendant's claim being that, especially in view of the driver's disobedience of the defendant's order not to use violence, the assault was not an act done in the execution of the defendant's business, and that it was not an act within the scope of the servant's employment.

"When the servant is doing, or attempting to do, the very thing which he was directed to do, the master is liable, though the servant's method of doing it be wholly unauthorized or forbidden.

"So in the case at the bar the truck driver's attempt to collect out of the plaintiff's cash register precipitated a series of acts constituting one continuous transaction, and the beating occurred in the course of the servant's attempt to perform the business of the master."

Acids in Stomach Cause Indigestion

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

LICENSE COMMITTEE NOT TO ACT UNTIL TUNNEY ARRIVES IN NEW YORK

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., July 29—(AP)—Colonel John J. Phelan, head of the license committee of the New York State Athletic commission, today declined to rule on Gene Tunney's personal application for a license to box Jack Dempsey until he returns to New York August 11th.

Colonel Phelan and Tunney, both veterans of the A. E. F. were in conference for an hour and the boxer, who seeks permission to fight for the heavyweight championship at the Yankee stadium, New York, September 16 came from the discussion with a smile and express confidence in the outcome.

The license committee, which will not act until Colonel Phelan and the old "Fighting Sixty-Ninth" return to New York from their two weeks' encampment, has the key to the situation, the State Athletic commission having accepted Tex Rickard's proposal to stage the 15-round contest.

After the conference Colonel Phelan said:

"My door is always open, not only to Gene Tunney but to all my friends. I have made no decision regarding Tunney's application and will make none until I am back at my office in New York. This matter is not one of Gene Tunney, or of Jack Dempsey, or of a heavyweight fight. Tex Rickard and the athletic commission. If Gene Tunney proves his eligibility he will receive his license.

"I always have tried to be fair and square in all my dealings with boxers and I don't believe any change has came over me suddenly. Tunney I admire as a fine boxer. I think he is a credit to the game. But I don't want to consider this thing now for all my time must be given to the regiment."

Colonel Phelan was questioned in regard to his stand with Chairman James A. Farley of the athletic commission in insisting that the negro, Harry Wills, have the first chance at the title.

"Yes," he said, "Jim Farley is my friend—but so is George Brower and so is Bill Muldoon. Jim is no more than either of the others."

Brower and Muldoon, the other commissioners, outvoted Farley Tuesday on the question of staging the proposed conflict in New York. Brower having changed his attitude and invited Rickard to return from Chicago to again present his case.

Tunney was the guest of the officers of the regiment and was welcomed by every soldier down to the "Bucks" shaking hands all around in a tour of the camp. He appeared to be in excellent condition with a heavy coat of tan from his recent training exertions in New Jersey and at Saratoga Springs. He said he now weighs 194.

Immediately after the conference he left for his Saratoga camp where he intends to work a few days before taking up his abode at Lake Pleasant, N. Y., for the rigorous training that will prepare him for his effort to gain the heavyweight crown.

Yes, Sir, He Can Swim

Appearing in The Bulletin several days ago was an account of Wilfred Rabitaille of Baltic winning a swimming endurance test and in a later issue was an article stating that Rabitaille was not a swimmer. Now comes a letter signed by "The Reporter" in which the writer claims that Mr. Rabitaille is very much of a swimmer and cites a number of the many swimming feats accomplished by Mr. Rabitaille in proof of his claim. The writer of the letter claims that someone with no authority caused the article about Mr. Rabitaille not being able to swim to be published.

To make his claim that Mr. Rabitaille can swim more emphatic "The Reporter" issues a challenge on behalf of Mr. Rabitaille to the person he terms as "The Informant" to swim a race for a purse of $100, the winner of the race to give the purse to some charity.

BORG SETS ANOTHER WORLD'S SWIMMING TRACK

PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—(AP)—Arne Borg, Blonde Merman from Sweden, carried the tri-color of the Illinois A. C., to a new world's record in the 800-yard free style event in the National A. A. U. swimming championships in the Sesquicentennial pool today. The Landy Swede swam the half in 10:33 2-5, five and one-fifth seconds better than his own world's mark made in Honolulu in 1924.

Paul Wyatt of the Uniontown, Pa., Y. M. C. A., sprang a surprise when he won the national title in the 220-yard backstroke, beating a field of five starters including the 1925 title-holder, Walter Laufer of the Cincinnati Y. M. C. A. Wyatt negotiated the distance in 2:45 4-5 a mark which will be entered as a new American record as no mark exists for this distance.

Borg's victory in the half mile event was decisive. Taking a lead at the first turn in the 100 meter pool, Borg steadily drew away from the field until he was 30 yards ahead of his team mate, Johnny Weissmuller, second place winner, at the finish.

Coincidently, Borg was clocked in 5:10 at the quarter mile mark, 11 4-5 seconds faster than Weissmuller negotiated the distance in winning the 440-yard free style swim yesterday.

Harry S. Glancy, formerly of Cincinnati but now a resident of Philadelphia, placed third in this event after an exciting duel with Weissmuller. For three-quarters of the race the two swimmers crawled along at an even pace but in the stretch, the I. A. C., flash spurted and won by a few yards.

Walter Spece of the Brooklyn Central Y. M. C. A., who yesterday won the 440 yard breast stroke title, laced fourth with Charles Rodecki of Gardner, Mass., fifth.

The Wyatt-Laufer battle in the 220 yard backstroke was the most exciting of the meet. Laufer took an early lead and was a stroke ahead of Warren Kealoha of Honolulu and Wyatt at the 110 yard turn.

Ten yards from the finish Wyatt pulled into a two yard lead and maintained this advantage until he slapped the finish board.

Laufer won the 1925 championship at Seattle, Wash., last year in 2:50 but this record was not recognized owing to tidal currents. Officials said Wyatt's mark will be etched on the records as a new American record.

Swimming authorities today took cognizance of Borg's action in permitting Weissmuller to win in the 440 yard free style swim yesterday, in announcing before the start of each race that any swimmer who appeared to be holding back to permit another to win would be disqualified.

No action is likely to be taken against Borg, officials said, oing to the lack of any rule covering such a circumstance. However, they intimated that a rule may be proposed at the next national convention providing for disqualification of any athletic who wilfully permits a teammate to in. They regard Borg's action as a violation of the spirit of amateur competition.

CLEVELAND MAKES IT THREE FROM ATHLETICS

CLEVELAND, O., July 29—(AP)—Cleveland made it three straight from the Athletics and 12 out of 15 from that team for the season when it came from behind today to win 3 to 2.

The Athletics scored two in the first inning, when Barbee, a rookie from the Piedmont, crippled in his first time at bat in a major league game, Welsh and Simmons preceeding him with singles.

Cleveland scored one in the fourth and a double by Speaker and singles by J. Sewell and Summa, while it counted two more in the eighth on a pass to Speaker and doubles by Burns and J. Sewell. Catcher Perkins of the Athletics was put out of the game by Umpire Hildebrand for arguing that Sewell's double was a foul ball. Score:

MISS COLLETT AND MISS ORCUTT MEET TODAY IN SHENECOSSETT GOLF FINALS

EASTERN POINT, CONN., July 29—(AP)—Finals in the eighth annual women's invitation golf tournament on the Shenecossett Country club course tomorrow will bring together Miss Glenna Collett, national champion, and Miss Maureen Orcutt, metropolitan and New Jersey state champion. Miss Collett won from Mrs. F. E. Du Bois, Portchester, N. Y., 5 and 4 today in one of the semi-final matches. In the other Miss Orcutt defeated Mrs. J. S. Casseriel, Chicago, former Illinois state champion, one up on the home green.

There will be 25 other final rounds tomorrow for the other divisions. In the second division Miss Harriet Ellison, Newton, Mass., will meet Mrs. Thomas Hucknall, Stamford, and in the third class Miss Catherine Stewart, of Haverford, Pa., will play Miss Helen Coffey, Nashua, N. H.

Mrs. Casseriel won the approaching and putting contest this afternoon. She was tied with three others in the first play and won in the play-off. Miss Orcutt won the driving contest.

Rain made the course heavy for today's round. Through the early holes of the championship flight it rained steadily most of the time.

Miss Collett started well with a par four to her opponent's six and then halved the next four holes. Her birdie two on the sixth made her two up. She lost the seventh, 6-5, the only green won by Mrs. Du Bois in the match.

The next two also went to the champion and she was three up on the tenth tee. Miss Collett won the first on the inward trip with a par four, halved the 11th and won the 12th with a par five.

For the first and only time in the match Mrs. Du Bois, from the 13th tee got greater yardage out of her tee shot than her opponent. The latter's struck a tree to the left of the fairway and bounded back into the fairway about a 100 yards down. Miss Collett gained on Mrs. Du Bois with her spoon and both played their third shots safe. Neither gained thereby as both approaches were short, catching the bunker in front of the green, Miss Collett's in a heel mark.

The champion's explosion shot merited the approval of the gallery which it received and she was on in five. Her opponent's recovery was long and she found the rough on the other side of the green. She was on in six. Miss Collett missed her first putt, while Mrs. Du Bois easily sank hers and the hole was halved in 7's. The 14th was also halved and Miss Collett won the match.

In the other semi-final Miss Orcutt won the first hole with a birdie three. The next three were halved. Mrs. Casseriel won two holes and on the seventh Miss Orcutt squared the match when she won, 4-5. She also won the ninth and was one up at the turn.

Mrs. Casseriel evened the score again on the 11th, but her opponent came back to take the next two. The 14th went to Mrs. Casseriel, the 15th was even, and the 16th was won by Mrs. Casseriel to again square the match when she sank a 30-foot putt. Each took a seven on the next, Mrs. Casseriel again doing excellent work with her putter.

Out-driving her opponent from the 18th tee Miss Orcutt was on in three with a five for the hole, while Mrs. Casseriel required six, giving Miss Orcutt the match.

Miss Orcutt was one up at the turn but Mrs. Casseriel's par three on the 11th to Miss Orcutt's 4 squared the match. Miss Orcutt took the next two. Her opponent rallied, however, to win the 14th and then the 16th after halving the 15th. Both went to pieces on the 17th which was halved in 7's. The home green was carried by Miss Orcutt, 5-6, and with it victory and the chance for the finals tomorrow.

SKIM-MILK POULTRY FEED BEING MADE BY NEW PROCESS

Large quantities of skim milk formerly wasted or inefficiently used are being converted into a marketable product by a number of companies utilizing a process recently perfected by the bureau of dairying, United States department of agriculture. One company has sold more than a million pounds during the last year for poultry and hog feed. At Grove City, Pa., this manufactured product — concentrated sour skim milk—is made under the direction of department dairymen and sells at 4 cents a pound, netting 62 cents a 100 pounds of skim milk.

Briefly, the process consists of the use of a culture containing a mycoderm, which is a yeastlike organism, and an active culture of the bulgaricus type. When used in combination they are able to develop more than double the amount of acidity in the skim milk produced by ordinary lactic cultures alone. The use of this mixed culture has made it possible to create an acidity of 2 per cent in skim milk which when concentrated at the rate of 3 to 1 gives the finished product an acidity of 6 per cent. An acidity of 2 per cent removes the difficulties formerly experienced in concentrating skim milk in the vacuum pan, and 6 per cent acidity in the finished product prevents spoiling. The product has been kept in good condition for more than a year.

Concentrated sour skim milk is a pasty semifluid product. As poultry feed it is mixed with water or dry mash. Good results are obtained with the product when fed to baby chicks in a dilution of 1 to 8; when fed to laying hens either in paste form or in a mixture of 1 pound of paste to 1 pound of dry mash; and when fed for crate fattening at the rate of 40 pounds of the paste to 100 ponds of mash.

The utilization of surplus skim milk in manufacturing this concentrated product promises a greater outlet to the dairymen for his products and assures the poultryman of a uniform supply of a good feed that has excellent keeping qualities.

SANITATION REDUCES PIG LOSSES

A system of swine sanitation developed by specialists of the United States department of agriculture in McLean county, Ill., has gradually spread until it is widely used in hog-growing states. The method used greatly reduces losses caused by round worms, and extension workers in Iowa, Nebraska, and other states have been active in acquainting swine growers with it. The bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, says that many hog men, using the system, are now raising as many pigs as formerly with about two-thirds as many brood sows, being equivalent to reducing pig losses one third. The method, though directed principally against roundworms, is so effective in controlling other disease conditions that death losses from any cause are rare and runtiness is seldom observed.

The forexoing results show the practical application of scientific work which at its outset was extremely technical and involved a detailed study of the worm's life history and characteristics. Although control methods are now well established, the bureau is continuing its experiments with other parasites and belated diseases.

Always Fresh and Mellow Because "It's Toasted"

LUCKY STRIKES are made from the world's finest Turkish and domestic tobaccos, perfectly blended.

Besides this supreme quality of leaf tobacco as compared with all other cigarettes—"IT'S TOASTED".

Just what does this mean—this phrase, "IT'S TOASTED"?

The tobacco is oven toasted at very high heats for 45 minutes; then chilled with the moisture completely restored. The toasting brings out the hidden flavors of the superbly fine tobacco. The chilling seals in these flavors; seals in, too, the moisture that has been restored. It all acts like a cold plunge on the pores of the body.

That's why LUCKIES taste so good. Why LUCKIES are always fresh when they come to you. Why millions prefer this uniquely fine cigarette.

Mitchell of Westerly went to ew London Wednesday afternoon nd procuring a warrant had the New London police arrest Francis Sullivan, 25, of that city, as told in the New London column Thursday. Sullivan was found at his home, No. 74 Tenth street, where Sheriff Mitchell also secured a hacksaw and automatic screwdriver. Sullivan was wanted to answer to a charge of breaking and entering the 21st of June, the house of R. H. Babcock at Mathuoc, R. I.

Sullivan was taken by Sheriff Mitchell backto Wakefield, where he was presented in the Second District court before Judge James O. Watts. On his plea of nolo, he was adjudged probably guilty and bound over to await the action of the grand jury in the superior court for Washington county which meets in Kingston, the third Monday of September. He was held in $1,000 bonds for his appearance at that time and being unable to obtain bail was taken Wednesday evening to Washington county jail at Kingston. Cases of breaking and entering summer places in South Kingstown and Narragansett since last spring have been numerous. The apprehension of Sullivan in New London by Sheriff Mitchell implicates a third party in addition to two others already place under arrest in connection with the breaking and entering cases in Washington county.

Active work on the construction of the three-story, fireproof, office building of Westerly granite and brick for the South County Public Service company in Westerly at 45 High street, is well under way. Thursday morning at 8 o'clock, the public service company president, Louis F. Bell, of Wakefield, turned out the first shovelful of earth on the site of the former residence of Dr. M. H. Scanlon, which has been torn down. The ceremony was performed in the presence of General Manager W. C. Clark, the heads of many of the electric light company departments and the young women of the office force. It is planned to have the building ready for occupancy next spring. A steam shovel is now at work for the basement excavation and trucks of the Rowley Construction company, of Pawcatuck, the general contractors, are engaged in carting away the excavated material.

With Battery E. of Westerly, 243rd, R. I. C. A. C. (H. of D.), Capt. John F. Datson, commanding officer, at Fort H. G. Wright Fishers Island, Tuesday morning the gun crew had perfect gun practice Sergeant Edward Smith, gun commander, put the men through some stiff practice.

The "Moon Riders," Corporal "Pete" Rose, Chief of Moon Riders, put the new men, known as "Sun Riders," through all the formalities. Privates Rossie and Batty were in charge of quarters for Tuesday. The battery cooks, Steadman and Barber have begun preparation for a large visiting delegation Sunday, when many of the battery boys expect their best girls to visit them. Plans have been made for a baseball game between Battery E men and Battery F of Woonsocket.

Wednesday, Regimental Commanding Officer Col. Cyril L. D. Wells, inspected every mess shack in the morning, and on completion said that Battery E of Westerly had the best looking mess hall in the entire outfit. Gun Commander Edward Smith put the men through more stiff practice. For the day Col. Wells' orderlies were Privates Alton Clark and Gardiner Barber. Mess Sergeant Kingsley continues to give the batterymen excellent meals.

For those planning to visit Battery E at Fort Wright Sunday next, a government boat will leave New London at 10 a. m. on which transportation can be secured to the island fort for Visitors' day. Battery Cooks Steadman and Barber will have a hot dinner ready for all visitors upon the arrival of the government boat.

The burial of Sadie S. Soloveitzik, 80, widow of Sender Soloveitzik of Westerly, whose death occurred at the cottage of her daughter, Mrs. Abram Leibovitz, at Pleasant View beach, Thursday morning, from heat trouble was in the cemetery at Poquetanuck Thursday. Coming to Westerly many years ago from Norwich, Mrs. Soloveitzik was among the earliest of the Jewish families to settle in Westerly.

The death of Edward Ambrose Farrell, 37, occurred Thursday morning at his home, 57 Morgan street, Pawcatuck. He had been in failing health for the past six months, having suffered a bad gas attack while driving a truck of the Lorraine Manufacturing Co., by whom he was employed.

He was born in Westerly June 8, 1888, being the son of Andrew and Mary Farrell. He spent his entire life here and received his education in the Westerly schools. He was a member of the Alert Hook and Ladder Co., of the Westerly Fire department.

On Oct. 14, 1922, he was united in marriage with Miss Beatrice Barker, who survives him. He also leaves two brothers, Herbert Farrell of Westerly and Dr. Charles Farrell of Waterbury, Conn., and three sisters, Mrs. Walter Fitzpatrick of Providence, Mrs. Edward Coleman of Miami, Fla., and Miss Helen Farrell of Providence.

For the Westerly Visiting Nurse Tag day on Thursday, weather conditions were not propitious, but the workers reported a generous sale of tags and pennants and it is expected that the total amount of money collected will compare favorably with the receipts of Tag day last year. Early Thursday morning, team captains and assistants had taken their positions at places assigned them by Mrs. Charles E. Sherman, who as chairman of the ways and means committee had charge of the annual sale. Assisting Mrs. Sherman at headquarters of the Visiting Nurse association, 111 High street, were Mrs. Henry L. Burdick, Mrs. Addison S. Archie and Mrs. Daniel F. Larkin.

While captains in some instances reported that the small number of pedestrians, due to the rain, had lessened the number of tag sales, they declared that the W. V. N. A. automobile pennants had sold in unusually large numbers.

For swimming instruction this year in Westerly, Robert Loomis, director for Westerly chapter of the Red Cross, will have as his assistants Miss Zilla Farnham, Edwin Thompson and Charles Campbell. Loomis will conduct swimming and life saving classes in the Pawcatuck river, near the Varietyville pumping station. Thompson will work at that point with him. Miss Farnham and Campbell are to conduct classes at Pleasant View and Weekapaug, respectively.

The classes, which are free and open to all persons over nine year sold, will open Monday, Aug. 2. Applicants are to register with Miss Lucy M. Crowley, executive secretary of the Red Cross, between 1 and 5 p. m. Saturday.

THE TROUBLE WITH FARMING.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin.)

"Congress ought to do something for the poor farmer. It doesn't need to do anything for the good farmer."—Chicago Lumberman.

Sometimes a couple of short, snappy sentences like the above tell the whole story—or enable the open-eyed reader to fill in all the details with accuracy and tell it to himself.

There used to be an idea current that the man who makes his own bed shouldn't object to lying in it. And that the man who mixes his own medicine shouldn't refuse to take it. And that the man who stands in his own light shouldn't blame the shadow. And that the man who eats all his cake at one big gulp shouldn't expect to have it, too.

But the various and multiform activities of a somewhat sophistical, not to say quibbling and pettifogging super-civilization, have changed all that.

Now-a-days we snivel like whipped babies when we are forced to swallow our own medicine.

We blame congress or nature or God—anybody but ourselves,—if the beds we make for ourselves are too knobby to permit sleep.

We stand squarely in our light and then grouch because we can't see as well as we'd like to.

We eat our cake greedily to the last crumb, and then whimper hungrily because we haven't it, still. We actually blame our neighbors or rise up on our hind legs and denounce the government.

And then some more or less well-meaning but utterly impractical and narrow-minded and bigoted visionary, calling himself a "reformer," prances out in front of us, waves a pinkish-reddish flag, and invites us to follow him—out of the frying pan into the fire!

Which a whole lot of us at once proceed to do with enthusiasm, and with much contempt for those who won't join us.

Then, when we're uncomfortably broiling among the coals, we promptly raise a lugubrious howl for something or somebody somewhere and somehow to get us out of the hot spot we voluntarily jumped into.

There are, I understand, a few persons who think the universe wasn't made just right and that it isn't managed in the best way. However this may be, the stubborn fact remains that no one of them nor all of them combined can remake it or take over its control. All we can any of us do is to take it as it is and make the most we can of it.

There are a few things about the way it is managed which we can find out if we keep our eyes open and our minds receptive. One is that it gives us a chance but never a prize till we've won it. Another is that we shall ordinarily reap the crop we sow. Another is that no exceptions are granted any of us and no immunity from the natural results of our acts.

The baby may not know that the kitchen stove is hot. But it will burn his chubby fingers just as quick as our older and better informed hands.

An ignoramus may not know the difference between arsenic and powdered chalk. But the poison will kill him just as surely as if he did know.

The chaser after "easy snaps" may think he shows his "smartness" by passing the strait gate and narrow way and driving his flivver through the wide gate into the broad way. But it leads him to destruction, just the same.

We may, if we're ignorant enough and self-conceited enough, think that all this is hard or even unjust. But—we—can't—change—it.

We can't pick figs off thistles, nor grow oats from a sowing of mustard seed.

We can't see things if we deliberately shut our eyes to them, nor can we find out what those which we do see mean unless we measure and weigh them with open-minded reason.

And yet our only chance for making good or for getting anywhere lies in our ability to see and understand the conditions under which we must act, and which we cannot alter.

Because we happen to think that things ought to be thus and so or because it would be for our interest to have them thus and so, affords no reason for expecting to find them thus and so, or for having an exception made in our behalf.

We all know that this is true so far as material things are concerned. Season follows season and we seed and reap, not because we have arranged the year so in order to raise crops, but because we've found out that we can raise crops by taking advantage of inexorable seasonal changes.

It is just exactly as true of mental and moral universes as of the material world. Yet it seems to be impossible for a whole lot of people to see that the fruits of indolence are never the same as those of industry, or that the fungi of selfish sharp practice are never like the flowers of integrity.

There are a tremendous number of things about this farming business of ours that seem to call for improvement. The farmers of New England hills know this as well as those of Iowa prairies. But such improvement must come, if ever, from improved farmers and farming.

The laws of nature aren't going to be changed because some of us would like to have them. And congress can no more legislate industry into a born loafer than it can legislate brains into a numbskull. If farming conditions are to be bettered, we farmers are the ones who must do the bettering.

And right there let me suggest that the proper subject for the first attempt at betterment is always the one under your own hat, and not the neighbors. They may, indeed, show manifest signs of a need for reform, but you and I aren't yet perfect, either. There's room for improvement in both of us. We should at least patch our own roofs before we attempt to force the neighbors into reshingling theirs.

It is my profound conviction that any man who shakes himself out of himself and looks his bared self all over with candid eyes will find, right at home, ample room and verge enough for all the reforming and improving he can manage in the course of one short lifetime. He will never need to go outside for some one else to make over. He will find all the job he can handle nearer by.

There's about a hundred times more hope for the farmer who is able to see and admit his own mistakes than for the one who is forever criticising his neighbor's bungles. Amendment and improvement are at least possible to the former; the latter can only expect to become a sorehead.

You'll recall the wisdom of the old fellow who observed that he never got so much work done when he said "Go, boys," as when he said, "Come boys," and led the way.

When you get right down to the bottom, the trouble with farming is about the same as the trouble with all other things human. It is found in the growing craze of all civilized humanity for ease and comfort and luxury. It is manifested in the constant search for easier ways to do things rather than better ways. It shows itself in the almost universal refusal to take trouble in order to accomplish results. It counts "saving steps" as more important than getting to the winning post. It wants to be carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease in defiance of the inflexible law that the only way to get to the top is to climb and climb,—and keep on climbing.

There are no two farms in the United States which are exactly alike in their soils, their capacities, and their requirements. There are no two farmers in the United States who are exactly alike in their mental or physical make-ups. One farm is adapted to growing tobacco and another to dairying. It would be stupid for the tobacco grower to turn his rich bottom land into cow pasture, and try to raise tobacco on a mountain grazing lot. So one farmer may be by nature a money-maker and another just a home-maker. It would be absurd to expect them to develop along identical lines or to attain the same results.

There are today, in spite of all that's said, some men making money at farming. They would make money at any occupation. There are others who never have made and never will make money farming. They wouldn't in any other vocation. They aren't built that way.

And then there are the misfits. They are to be found on farms as well as in shops and factories and stores. Poor fellows, whom an unkind fate has pitchforked into a field in which they do not belong. Naturally they are always falling behind, always in the doldrums, always discontented. Naturally, too, they become easy dupes of the prophets of despair and the propagandists of revolution. At one time they howl for more greenbacks. At another they go woozy over "sixteen-to-one" silver. They follow shouting behind such big-mouthed ranters as Bryan and LaFollette and Brookhart, demanding anything such leaders may imagine or invent, so long as it is a change from the existing order. They are perfectly willing that the heavens should fall, if only they can catch larks in the debacle.

Sometimes, unfortunately, they succeed in changing human laws, those enactments which legislatures and congresses put on the statutebooks. But the result is always a confusion worse confounded. There is never any doubt of the result when human statutes come into collision with the eternally ordained laws of life and the universe.

The right kind of a farmer, doing the right kind of farming, with a right end in view, can do something to better farm conditions.

But not all the congresses or parliaments or sanhedrims of the world can even make a poor farmer into a good one by any "Be it enacted."

Or make a round peg fit a square hole without whittling.

THE FARMER.

Barker the Seal

The dog that barks may never bite,
But still may give you quite a fright.
—Reddy Fox.

At a certain point on the beach there were many rocks. Some of these rocks went far out into the water, so that when the tide was high they were wholly covered. When the tide was low, some of them would be entirely out of the water and some would be partly covered with water. They were big rocks. Seaweed was attached to them and in among them lived all sorts of curious little seafolk. Both Jimmy Skunk and Reddy Fox had discovered that when the tide was out there sometimes could be found in among the rocks things very good to eat. So at low tide they were in the habit of going down there to see what they could find.

It happened one night that Reddy Fox was poking about among these rocks clear down to the water's edge. Beyond him he could see the flat tops of great rocks standing in the water, but he paid no attention to these. They didn't interest him in the least. He couldn't get out on them, so why think about it?

He had just found a fish that had been washed ashore. It looked like a very good fish. Reddy opened his mouth, to pick it up, when suddenly there was a sharp bark right behind him. Reddy didn't even take time to look. He didn't pick up the fish.

Then Reddy's sharp eyes caught sight of something moving on a great rock out in the water

Away he raced up the beach as fast as his legs could take him. Several times he heard that bark and each time he heard it he tried to run a little faster. When he was safely up back of a sand dune he stopped to listen. At first he heard no sound. Then he heard that barking again far away. Reddy crept back to the top of the sand dune. You should have seen how crafty he was. As he got near the edge he flattened himself right down on the sand and crawled. He crawled until he was right behind a little bunch of coarse, stiff grass growing on the very edge of the sand dune. He peeped between the blades of grass. It was bright moonlight. He could see almost as well as if it were daylight. No dog was following him. He looked back toward those rocks. No dog was there.

Such a funny, funny look as came over the face of Reddy Fox. It came to him just then that no dog could have been barking behind him when he was way down there at the edge of the water, for no dog could come by way of the water. Slowly Reddy got to his feet and stared back at those rocks. His black ears were cocked forward. There it was again—the bark! And it came from out in the water. At least, Reddy was sure it did.

Slowly, taking a step and stopping, taking another step and stopping again, Reddy moved back. He was nervous. He was all ready to run at the slightest hint of danger. At last he was at almost the very edge of the water. The barking still came from out beyond. Then Reddy's sharp eyes caught sight of something moving on a great rock out in the water. His first thought was that somehow a dog must be out there. Then, as the moonlight fell full on that rock, Reddy saw that it wasn't a dog at all. It was smooth-bodied and it looked sleek in the moonlight. Reddy could see no legs. The head was round. It made him think somewhat of the head of Little Joe Otter, only this stranger was very much bigger.

Once more he heard that bark and this time he saw the stranger open his mouth. He knew then who it was that had fooled him. At least, he knew it was this stranger who had fooled him. The stranger flopped clumsily across the rock and suddenly slipped into the water. Reddy saw that round head moving swiftly above the surface of the water. Then it disappeared.

"Well," said Reddy, "I should like to know who that was."

Have you guessed who it was? It was Barker the Seal, one of the sea folk.

Noank needs a dumping ground. People have no place to put garbage. The lower road that led to Groton Long Point near the trolley bridge was used for a dumping place but signs have been erected warning residents to put no more refuse there. With the odor from the river at low tide and from the dumping place the people living around there cannot open their windows. The only resort is to take a boat and throw refuse overboard, or to bury it.

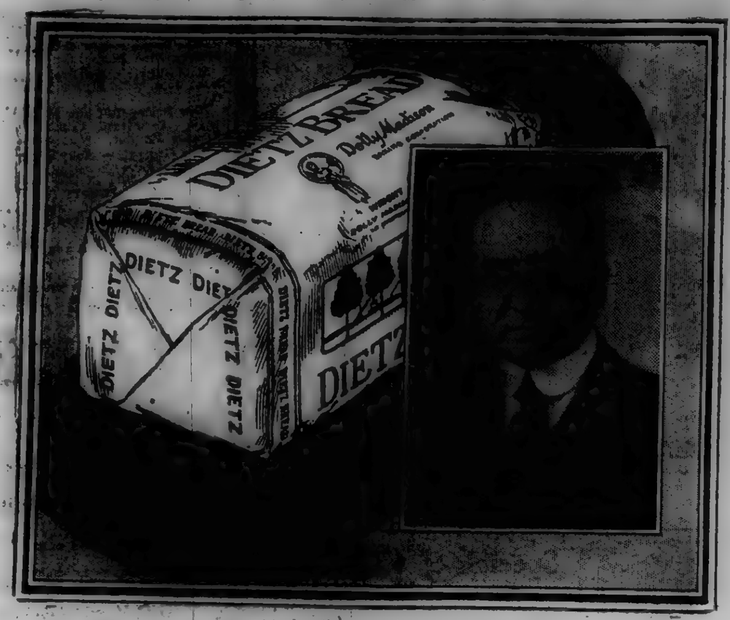
Dietz skill in a still more perfect loaf of bread



THROUGH the purchase of the Dolly Madison bakery, Mr. Walter Dietz is again rendering Springfield and neighboring towns the splendid baking service so long associated with the Dietz name.

More—in this new bakery he has perfected a new and still better loaf of bread.

Mr. Dietz used to think that in his old loaf he had realized his ideal of baking perfection. For it was as perfect as years of experience, the finest ingredients, and a wonderful recipe could make it.

But new experience has brought him even further skill—taught him the secret of new improvements which his purchase of this new bakery has given him an opportunity to carry out.

Among other things, he has installed the very latest type of oven—a marvel of baking science. It insures a new uniformity and dependability in baking which gives added tenderness to the firm loaves—greater crispness to the evenly browned crust. And it makes possible two bakings a day, so that the delicious loaves reach your grocer twice a day, fresher than ever before!

GET DIETZ BREAD from your grocer today. Its red and green wrapper with the homey farmhouse and New England maples is an invitation to enjoy Mr. Walter Dietz's marvelous baking skill in the best bread he has ever made. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

Gone from the shores of Black Pt., the tribesmen of the Nehantics — gone forever to the Happy Hunting Ground.

No more does the smoke from their camp fires beside the "big water" ascend to the heavens.

Looking down from their paradise in the sun, what a change would meet the distant glance of a Nehantic spirit!

Beautiful residences of the white men, where formerly stood the thatched dwellings of the aborigines.

Magnificent concrete roads going in all directions where in the dead years the red men stalked their game.

Yachts on the broad expanse of the sound in place of the primitive canoes of a race that is gone.

The great growth of this nation, which is now the richest in all the world, has taken place in less than a century.

Connecticut, with its 120 miles of coast line, is all developed with the exception of half a dozen good properties. There are less than 5,000 lots which can be purchased in future developments.

The state has over 300,000 families today. Less than 3% of these people own a shore cottage. The remaining 97%, or 291,000 families, have less than 5,000 lots to distribute among them.

Add to this the great population of New York city, which is gradually spreading this way and absorbing all available shore land and you can realize what the future holds forth.

What a great change is coming in future years. How rapidly prices will advance!

Will your children be barred from owning a "cottage by the sea"? Will the high prices of the future keep them from ever owning such a place?

You are the one to answer this question and the answer must be made now. This is not the time to hesitate.

Youth and life and laughter, boating, tennis, fishing, swimming — that's the seashore.

Today at Black Pt. you can buy lots for as low as $300, $400 and $500. And on very easy terms. Buy one or more of them now. Every lot faces a rocked and oiled road, has electricity and artesian well water is piped down every street. There is a club house for property owners — clay tennis courts and a 300-foot pier. Over $98,000 has already been spent on public improvements.

The total world trade in cheese amounted to almost 725,000,000 pounds in 1924. The principal suppliers of cheese on the world market are the Netherlands, New Zealand, Canada, Italy, Switzerland and France. In 1925 these countries supplied over 90 per cent of the total world exports. The countries named are not necessarily competitors for this trade, as the types of cheese which most of them supply are distinctive and consequently find their own market.

That the ills of the old need as much attention as those of the very young, is the contention of the Czech medical faculty at Prague, where a clinic that treats exclusively the diseases of old age has recently been opened, according to advices received by the American Medical Association. Professor R. Eisel, of the medical faculty of the University of Prague, who is in charge of the clinic, stated in his introductory lecture that two groups of diseases would be studied, those that are peculiar to the old, and those that present a different aspect when they occur during old age. This clinic is of particular interest to the republic of Czechoslovakia on account of the system of old age and invalidity insurance in effect July 1.

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 29—Detective Sergeant John J. Cavanaugh left here this afternoon with extradition papers and a warrant for Benjamin Larner, a man who stole the touring car of James M. Frank Pozella and Cosmos Zozzora were before the police court, this morning, for breach of the peace. The complainant against Pozzella was Louis Fedalko. Enough came out to show that there was bad blood existing between Pozella and Zozzora. Pozella recently bought property that formerly belonged to his brother, and Zozzora desired that some of his property should be bought by the same party. Pozella declined to make the purchase, so when there was a little provocation Zozzora punched Pozella. Before that Pozella had become mixed in a conflict with Fedalko, but the latter left him. Then Pozella pursued and when Zozzora came up, he had the provocation, he alleged, to strike Pozella. Judge Prince decided that the case was one that should not be decided at once, but gave the parties the opportunity of residing in the same street and keeping the peace so he continued the case to the 16th of October next.

HIGH RECORDS FOR GENERAL MOTORS AND U. S. STEEL

NEW YORK, July 29.—(AP)—Establishment of new high record for all time by General Motors common at 191 1-8 and U. S. Steel common at 146 1-8, representing extreme gains of 12 1-8 and 2 1-8 points, respectively, monopolized speculative interest in today's active stock market. Total transactions in these two issues approximated 525,000 shares, or nearby one-fourth of the day's entire volume of business. About a dozen other stocks rallied 3 to nearly 10 points, but the general market disclosed considerable irregularity, the average of 20 leading railroad shares showing a small loss on the day.

Seldom in recent Wall street history has the stock exchange witnessed an exhibition of buying power such as that which has taken place in the last few weeks in what are regarded as the four premier industrial stocks.

Individual transactions ranging from 1,000 to 5,900 shares have been frequent with the daily turnover this week averaging more than 200,000 shares in General Motors alone. In the absence of any authoritative information, the financial district looks for the cutting of a substantial "melon" by both companies, as current earnings are far in excess of present dividend requirements, with each corporation possessing an enormous surplus.

The prospect of stock split-ups is also believed to be behind the rise in such issues as Allied Chemical, Dupont and Texas Gulf Sulphur, the first named scoring an extreme gain of over 6 points while the last two broke through to new peak prices.

Pools also was extensive in some of the lower priced issues such as American Can, Nash Motors, and Timken Roller Bearing but speculative cliques in many other stocks were reported to have either restricted or suspended operatives until the market for some of the high priced industrial specialities quieted down.

Outside the stock market, one of the most important developments of the day was a rally of about three cents a bushel in wheat prices, based on unfavorable weather reports and an advance in Liverpool quotations.

Call money ruled unchanged, with plenty of funds still available, and the New York Federal Reserve rediscount rate continued unchanged, for another week at least, at 3 1-2 per cent. While the advance in United States Steel common was not associated with anything in the day's news, the report that mill operations had increased two per cent. this week, bringing them to around 89 per cent. of capacity, had a bullish effect on sentiment.

Heavy profit-taking and sporadic bear selling took place in several sections of the list under the cover of strength in the high priced industrials. Net declines of two points or more were registered by about a dozen issues including Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies, Burroughs Adding Machine, Davison Chemical, Foundation Company, Gulf States Steel and Shubert Theaters.

Rails lost ground despite the publication of additional favorable June statements. A jump of 33 1-2 points in the ordinarily inactive Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis to 180 on a few sales was one of the few features in that group.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent. The New York Stock Exchange reported moderate activity, with conditions similar to the previous days of the week. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Outside of wheat, the commodity markets attracted little attention. Cotton futures advanced 3 to 10 points with the distant options touching new high levels for the season. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices were slightly lower.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady in quiet trading, demand sterling ruling around $4.85 3-4 and French francs around 3.40 cents.

Complaints are being made by residents in the vicinity of the Providence street ballgrounds that tramps are using the grandstand for sleeping quarters. Several nights recently men have been noticed stretched out on the grandstand seats, their shoes under their heads, and snoring with the cut-out open. Thursday night one of the crew, who appeared to have had one or two too many, persisted in singing "Show Me the Way To Go Home" in a loud and lusty voice, until quieted by residents whose nocturnal slumbers he was disturbing.

JUDGE LIBBY AIDS BOY ON HOMEWARD TRIP

Following a court session Thursday morning Judge Arthur F. Libby played host to Leo Willsey, 20, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., buying him a meal at a local restaurant and then saw him safely aboard a train for Pennsylvania and home.

The youth was arrested Wednesday night by Railroad Policeman John McGrath, who found him sleeping in a freight car. Willsey was taken to the police station for the night and on Thursday morning was before the court charging with trespassing on railroad property.

The boy in court told of running away from home and joining a circus, which he quit after six weeks on the road, life in the circus failing to appeal to him. He stated to the court that he was on his way home if he could get there.

Further questioning by the court brought out the information that the parents of the boy did not know where he was and Judge Libby told Willsey to write a letter to them and tell them of his whereabouts. After the youth had written the letter Judge Libby dropped the charges and provided a meal for the boy, then started him on his trip home.

Playground Notes

It is expected that the various dramatic endeavors of the city playgrounds, such as playlets doll carriage parades and carnivals will be held frequently during the remainder of the season.

Miss Ruth Sherburne, secretary of the National Playground and Recreation association inspected the local playgrounds during the past week and was very much pleased with the manner in which the work is being carried on at the city's ten recreation centers.

Volley ball seems to be a popular sport among the children of the Elizabeth street playgrounds and many spirited contests are to be seen almost daily at this lively play-center. Instructors Matthew Sheridan and Geraldine Moore are in charge.

All of the grounds of the city are working towards the final contest which is expected to be held at the latter part of season, namely, the inter-city contest with New London. For this meet the best in all sports will be picked to form championship teams and this should be a fitting close to the playground seasons in both by these cities.

NORWICH BRIDEGROOM CHARGED WITH HAVING TWO WIVES

(Special to the Bulletin)

WORCESTER, July 29—One of the strangest cases of polygamy in the history of Worcester police annals has come to light here with the arrest of John G. Samowitz, 26 years old, who eloped to Norwich, Ct., more than a year ago and was married to Rebecca Miller in the Connecticut city.

Since that time, Worcester police charge, Samowitz has married another woman, and all three lived in King Solomon style in a lake cottage on the outskirts of this city.

It was a happy enough family of two wives and a husband until the landlord ejected his tenants and the strange trio was broken up, the police charge.

Samowitz and Miss Miller eloped to Norwich and were married on Feb. 15, 1925. She was his first wife, and they returned to Worcester and were living in domestic tranquility until Samowitz suddenly disappeared one day last January. He was gone for several days, and when he returned, it was to bring home another wife, the police claim.

The second wife was Alice Strom of Southbridge, and Samowitz had wed her in that city under the name of Marks. Things were explained, and the trio remained living together at the cottage until they were requested to leave.

That was a few days ago, and the first Mrs. Samowitz, burdened with a child born some months ago, went to the district court probation department for advice. They heard the story and turned the matter over to Supt. of Detectives James L. Casey. Samowitz's arrest yesterday afternoon followed, and the case is to be tried before Judge Frank L. Riley at a date not yet announced.

The fact that the Strom woman, who was the second Mrs. Samowitz, or Mrs. Marks, is at the city hospital, has made it necessary to plan a postponement of the trial.

FORMER NORWICH MAN MAKES FINE FIDDLES

When you hear a rich, deep-toned violin with a peculiar resonance and cadre, that seems to throb and quiver with pent up harmony, that instrument, in all probability, came from the modest little work-shop of George H. Hadley in his residence, Hedgelawn on Pine Creek road, Fairfield says the Bridgeport Sunday Post.

"For 40 years I have been making and fashioning fiddles," declared Mr. Hadley to a representative of the Post, "and I am safe in saying that not once has the finished article, that has found a purchaser, failed in its mission of producing the music and feeling in the human soul through the wood and strings of the instrument."

Aged 72, a native of Rhode Island, where he was following the occupation of a machinist, Mr. Hadley came to Fairfield some 13 years ago, and has divided his time ever since; between the pursuits which requires extreme care, details, and the construction of violins.

"A fiddle can be made in five or six weeks," continued Mr. Hadley, "but to build a real instrument, which requires extreme care, thought, patience and skill, is a matter of months.

"Everything depends on the quality of the wood, the care in dressing and planing the same and the erection and construction of the sound box, as to whether a fiddle will be endowed with a good tone. All my fiddles are made after the lines of the immortal Stradivarius, built on scientific principles, and pieced together with due regard to grain of wood, thickness of contour and precision of alignment of the interior base bar, all or which give tone to the instrument.

"Curly maple backs, spruce tops and maple scroll form the basis of my fiddles, but there is a lot of trimming down to be done to fractions of an inch before the wood takes on any resonance.

"I made my first fiddle in 1886—it was a crude affair—but it was a beginning and as the years advanced I began to see that the great Stradivarius built more into his violins than mere wood and varnish. The more care and thought I put into my work the greater the result seemed to be in tone. I followed the footsteps of the master in design and moulding of my violins, and when it came to fashioning the "holes," grading the wood and setting up the sound bars in accordance with the conception of Stradivarius, I realized that a violin was being that had almost the power of speech anyway of expressing in music and harmony the feelings, emotions and nature of the human being which played upon it."

Mr. Hadley says that he finds difficulty in securing suitable wood for his fiddles, the forests around Seattle on the Pacific coast being the best source, while much of it is imported. He also maintains that a fiddle, like wine, wedding cake and furniture of a kind, improve with age, and a fiddle that is put by for a while after construction acquires a better tone than one that is used immediately after it has left the maker's hands.

One or his most valued specimens of violins and very highly prized has a flavor of romance surrounding it. The wood of this instrument is said to have been brought over to America from Italy, where it once formed the part of a musician's gallery in an ancient castle built some three or four hundred years ago.

Mr. Hadley is positive that this wood was already "charged" and "impregnated" with music that hovered around it for centuries, when he received it, and declares that the "atmosphere" of music with which the wood of the old musicians' gallery was saturated was imprisoned in the fibre and grain of the material from which he subsequently made one of the finest instruments that he maintains, ever left his work bench.

Mr. Hadley says that the tone and richness of sound from that particular violin and different from any other he has ever built, and that it did not take much imagination to hear in the music it produced the harmonious strains of the instrument as played by the old musicians centuries ago, as they sat in their gallery and produced harmony for the delectation of the "lards and ladies and noble guests" that gathered in the big hall of the castle in Italy.

And as one puts one's ear to the hollow of a shell and hears in miniature the murmur roar of the sea, rising and falling in soft cadence, so can one hear the murmur of music welling from the holes of Mr. Hadley's fiddles.

There is local interest in Mr. Hadley's fiddle making for he was for a number of years a resident of this city while plying his trade of a machinist, although the most of his life was passed just across the eastern boundary of this state in Hope Valley, R. I., where his fiddle making was only one of his several avocations for there he devoted no little part of his time to newspaper work.

UNCASVILLE LAWN FETE ATTRACTS MANY VISITORS

Several parties from Norwich motored to Montville Wednesday evening to attend Rev. Fr. O'Meara's big lawn party for the benefit of St. John's new church. The grounds were beautifully decorated with electric lights, which could be seen at a great distance from the grove.

A variety of novel and entertaining features were provided for the large crowd in attendance and all the departments of the fete were liberally patronized.

FINED FOR GOING BY RED LIGHT

Now that the flashing signal for traffic guidance at Broadway corner has been painted with complete directions, and the public has had ample time to learn its proper use, the court of the city is showing no leniency with those charged with failure to obey the red, orange and green signal lights.

In court Thursday morning two operators paid $5 fine for failing to follow instructions, one man coming from out of town and another from Norwich. A third local man was let off by the court and several others were allowed to go after receiving a talking by the court.

Strange as it may seem some autoists still claim they did not know the blinker was there, others claiming that the light is not visible at all points. The court however is not inclined to look easily on these excuses, following rulings in other cities, that ignorance is no excuse. With the signal explained by painted instructions a driver should be warned in sufficient time to prevent a violation.

MAY SUSPEND JEFFERSON CAMPAIGN UNTIL SEPTEMBER

C. Francis Donnelly, state director of the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation, Inc., was in Norwich Thursday in connection with the raising of Norwich's contribution to the national fund for the preservation of Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson. Mr. Donnelly was in conference during the day with Dr. James J. Donahue, member of the Connecticut state committee. He intended to confer with Mayor Milo R. Waters, also a member of the state committee, but was unable to do so as the mayor is confined to his home on Laurel Hill avenue by illness. However, Mr. Donnelly plans to return to Norwich Saturday for the purpose of conferring with Mayor Waters who expects to be able to return to his office by that time.

While no definite announcement has been made yet, it is probable that the local campaign will be suspended until the week of September 13-20. Similar action has been taken in several other Connecticut cities where local activities have not reached the point where it is possible to hold the campaign earlier.

Monticello is now a National memorial and patriotic shrine. For almost a century it had been the hope of patriotic Americans that Monticello might be purchased from its private owners, and preserved as a fitting memorial to the author of the Declaration of Independence. Effort after effort was inaugurated each with an unselfish zeal—but the wish still remained unfulfilled.

On April 13, 1923, Jefferson's 180th birthday, the various groups engaged in the effort to make Monticello a national shrine, joined hands and organized the Thomas Jefferson memorial foundation. A charter was granted under the membership law of the state of New York and the organization was completed, not for any commercial gain or profit, but dedicated to the purchase and preservation of Monticello, and to the keeping alive of those fundamental ideals which all Americans inherit from Thomas Jefferson.

The total purchase price was set at $500,000, of which $100,000 was to be paid within several months at which time the legal title and possession of the property was to pass to the foundation; and an additional $100,000 was to be paid by the foundation accepting title subject to an existing mortgage of that amount; and the balance of $300,000 by the delivery of the bonds of the foundation payable within a three year period.

The campaign was then launched to raise a fund of one million dollars, one half of which was required for the purchase of Monticello, and the other half for the endowment and educational fund. Patriotic education was the keynote of the campaign. The governors resolved that this movement should at all times be a dynamic force in keeping alive those ideals, of which Thomas Jefferson was the life-long ardent champion—Civil liberty, religious freedom and universal education for all the people.

On December 1, 1923, payment of the first $100,000 was completed and the formal deed was received and recorded, conveying the legal title to Monticello to the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Foundation. Immediately the foundation took possession of the property and welcomed the patriots of America to visit this new American shrine which now at last belongs to the American people.

The governors of the foundation have appointed the following committee on restoration of Monticello to serve not only in directing the restoration of the interior and exterior but also as a jury to pass on any relic or furnishing which may enter the mansion:

Professor Fiske Kimball, the chairman of the committee, is the leading authority on Jefferson's work as an architect; he is chairman of the committee on historic monuments and scenery of the American Institute of Architects.

The other members of the committee are: R. T. Haines Halsey, chairman of the committee on American Decorative Art of the Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, and Charles Moore, chairman of the commission of fine arts of Washington, D. C.

The roof and outside of the mansion have already been restored, repaired and painted. The road from the entrance gate to the mansion, covering almost a mile, has been thoroughly rebuilt and is now in perfect condition to take care of the ever increasing traffic going over this road.

The Garden clubs of Virginia have particularly undertaken the task of caring for the trees which Jefferson planted at Monticello. This work is now in progress.

There are promises from many people who own Jeffersonian relics that they will present them to Monticello. The governors are arranging to have each article so presented suitably marked by a card bearing the name of the donor.

TO SEAL ALL TREASURES OF CATHOLIC CHURCH IN MEX.

Government Order is Understood to be to Prevent Removal of Treasures or Church Property—The Government Contends That All Church Property Belong to the Government—Catholics Are Continuing Great Manifestations of Steadfastness to Their Faith.

MEXICO CITY, July 30.—(AP)—Roman Catholics of Mexico today gave way to a great manifestation of devotion to their religion and grief as the last few hours slipped by before the new governmental regulations become effective.

The extraordinary scenes of religious emotion of the past fortnight marked by the flocking of thousands to their churches and shrines, were surpassed as vast assemblages swamped the cathedral in Mexico City, the shrine of "Our Lady of Guadalupe" and other beloved places of worship.

There was a poignant note at these final services, for tomorrow Roman Catholic priests will withdraw from the performance of their religious offices under the orders of the archbishop of Mexico. Their action is intended as a protest against the government's religious regulations, which they regard as striking at the very heart of the church in Mexico.

As the day drew to a close, the attorney general's office announced that department of justice agents will seal and place under government charge all "annexes" of all churches. By this is meant every church office or structure except actual places of worship, including the archbishops' and bishops' offices, vestry offices, sacristies and places where church treasures are stored.

This order is understood to be for the purpose of preventing the removal of treasures or church property. The government maintains that all church property belongs to the government, although it has not seized the property and has allowed the churches to continue in possession.

Barefoot men, women and children trudged over the rough, sunbaked road to Guadalupe today by thousands. Often their feet were bleeding. Numbers of gently nurtured women, unaccustomed to the hardships of life, tramped under the broiling sun, telling their beads and brushing shoulders with sturdy Indian woman, inured to the elements and hardships.

From every part of Mexico came similar stories of barefoot processions to favorite shrines or local church as a special demonstration of grief on the last day of the priestly services for no one knows how long. The number of priests and the capacity of the churches were inadequate many thousands waited in vain for the priestly offices. Often there was a heartbroken sob as realization came of inability to secure baptism, confirmation or the marriage service.

Great crowds camped all last night around the cathedral in Mexico City and the Guadalupe shrine, and long before daylight lines were formed at the entrances. Most of those who came through the day were disappointed and tonight, wearied and dejected, they dragged themselves away reluctantly.

Those who camped outside the cathedral, lay huddled upon the bare ground or the cold flagstones of the cathedral steps, sleeping fitfully and praying at intervals; sometimes grouping around a small fire of sticks and rubbish, for the nights are cold in this high altitude.

After an all night vigil, which in many cases came after a futile day long wait, these crowds were joined at the entrance by many more thousands.

Women greatly predominated within the churches, in the crowds waiting outside and in the barefoot processions filing along the road to the shrine so dear to Mexican hearts where the virgin of Guadalupe three centuries ago revealed herself to a humble Indian.

Within the Guadalupe shrine a sea of faces was turned to heaven. Thousands of candles burned before the shrine and the various altars and in the hands of worshippers. At all times the majority of the women were weeping. Every confessional was besieged and the priests were on duty unceasingly.

At the cathedral, hundreds of police were stationed, inside and out. They were only partially successful in keeping the crowds in orderly formation.

Through streets in the heart of Mexico City's business section where several fashionable churches are located, wedding processions of the wealthy classes followed each other every few minutes, with all the usual pomp of street display. Although between 75 and 100 weddings among the wealthy classes were solemnized today, it is estimated that many others desiring marriage ceremonials were unable to obtain them.

Masses and other ceremonies continued almost unceasingly; oftimes several different ceremonials were under way simultaneously in the same chapel. Many cripples received privileges which were denied able-bodied would be worshippers. One pitifully deformed boy, who usually sits begging at a downtown corner managed to crawl to the edge of the cathedral crowd, where further progress was impossible. "Can't I get in?" he asked. A big burly Indian took him in his arms and started through the crowds, giving explanations as he went. A way was made readily for the beggar boy while thousands waited in vain.

At dusk services had already ceased in most of the churches, carrying out the orders of the Mexican Episcopacy, as a protest against the new religious regulations. The priests began closing the doors in the late afternoon, so as to be able to prepare inventories of church property before departing.

Thus many thousands of Catholics, still hoping to enter the churches for final devotions, were turned away disappointed, although before the services were suspended at the cathedral, the church authorities granted the sacrament of intention to all those in the waiting crowd. This constituted general confirmation of the act of propitiation by the thousands who could not be reached personally.

Just before darkness settled over the city, a cordon of police was thrown around the cathedral, the police, stationed a few feet apart, preventing anyone approaching. The cathedral itself was dark and deserted; no one was in the court yard except a few priests, completing the inventory for delivery to the property committee tomorrow were inside.

Across from the deserted cathedral loomed the president's palace. In the Plaza de la Constitucion, upon which the cathedral and the palace front, crowds were beginning to gather, but they appeared to be there merely out of curiosity.

EMBARGO ON MUNITIONS TO MEXICO TO CONTINUE

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., July 30—(AP)—President Coolidge does not expect that any action whatever will be taken in the immediate future about lifting the embargo on arms and munitions to Mexico

Question of raising the embargo of January 7, 1924, it was said today in behalf of Mr. Coolidge, has been discussed by the president and Secretary Kellogg from time to time over a long period but no definite conclusions have ever been reached on the subject.

While there have been indications that the matter might be discussed by them again when Mr. Kellogg is a guest at the summer white house next month, it was made clear that no immediate action toward raising the embargo could be looked for at present

POPE LOATH TO IMPOSE INTERDICT IN MEXICO

ROME, July 30—(AP)—From the highest authority it is learned that Pope Pius does not desire to impose an official interdict in Mexico, unless this measure—which has not been used for almost three centuries—is absolutely necessary.

It is pointed out that the present condition in that country, superficially resembling an interdict, through the absence of the celebration of masses and other religious functions, is not the result of action either by the Holy See or the Mexican Episcopacy, but is a reaction to the conditions imposed by the Mexica government, rendering impossible normal religious life.

While the pontiff is deliberating on the steps to be taken, the Vatican is being inundated with a flood of messages from all parts of the world, particularly Spain and the Latin-American republics, enthusiastically commending his attitude and urging stronger measures.

On the other hand there is a strong current among the cardinals here, all of whom are deeply concerned over the controversy in Mexico, and other ecclesiastics in favor of mild action, they feeling that the situation may be solved without resorting to a measure the consequence of which perhaps may be too permanent and wide-sweeping.

MSGR. FITO CRESPI ORDERED EXPELLED FROM MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, July 30—(AP)—Monsignor Fito Crespi, in charge of the apostolic delegation in Mexico City since the expulsion of Monsignor Caruana, the papal muncio, was ordered expelled from the country today. The order came at the direction of President Calles because the government considered his presence in Mexico "inconvenient."

Monsignor Crespi was given 24 hours to depart, but on intervention of the Italian legation the time was extended to 48 hours. He will, however, leave tomorow night for Linden, New Jersey, where he will visit relatives for a few days on the way to Rome.

In a statement to the Associated Press Monsignor Crespi said:

"I am leaving Mexico with a clean conscience. I have no taken participation whatever in the present religious conflict, which has been handled solely by the Mexican archbishops and bishops. My attitude has been absolutely neutral in all Mexican local affairs, and the authorities are acquainted with that fact.

"But I am the representative of a power which has publicly announced its support of the Mexican Episcopate's attitude and my presence is not desired Let God's will be done."

MEX. FEDERAL TROOPS ORDERED ON PATROL

MEXICO CITY, July 30—(AP)—Detachments of federal troops have been ordered to patrol the streets and roads in the villages and open country of the federal district, ready to give assistance to the municipal authorities of the towns and villages if disturbances arise over the religious situation.

The troops traveling in motorcycles and automobiles have instructions to shoot anyone offering resistance.

Worshippers at the Catholic church of Santa Julia in Tacuba, a Mexico City suburb, became excited this afternoon when two aldermen and the municipal secretary came to the church to discuss with the priests the delivery of the church to a municipal committee tomorrow. They massed around the officials and began stoning them, preventing their entry to the edifice.

Many of those inside and outside the church were Indians.

If the public bites, the bark of the critic is harmless.

MEXICO CITY CATHEDRAL SURROUNDED BY POLICE

MEXICO CITY, July 30—(AP)—With another pope's representative ordered expelled, government agents closing under seal Catholic offices and structures, including buildings containing church treasurers, but not the actual places of worship Catholic spirits, already sorely shaken, reached darker depth as the last day of priestly services in the churches drew to a close.

Federal troops are patrolling the country surrounding Mexico City, where the excitement of the people, particularly the Indians, is reported to be greatly increasing. The police within the city have been strongly reinforced and ordered to keep utmost vigilance. Military guards about public buildings have been tripled, and federal troops throughout the country are under arms waiting orders.

CABLED PARAGAPHS

NAPLES, Italy, July 30—(AP)—Vesuvius has renewed its activity, but expert volcanologists say there is no danger of a disastrous eruption. The activity within the cone was becoming more intense and there were constant deep rumblings.

TOKYO, July 30.—(AP)—Prefectural authorities of Niigata province, on the opposite side of the island from Tokyo, Japan, estimate the dead and missing in the recent flood there at more than 300. Seven hundred and fifty houses were washed away and 8,000 more submerged. Several thousand acres of rice fields were destroyed.

BEIRUT, Syria, July 30.—(AP)—Benent J. Dory, of Memphis, Tenn., recently sentenced by court martial to eight years at hard labor for deserting the French foreign legion, will shortly be taken to North Africa to begin the sentence. His appeal from the sentence was denied by the military court of appeal, which failed to carry a recommendation for clemency.

SEC'Y MELLON NOT ABROAD ON GOVERNMENT BUSINESS

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 30.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon of the treasury department has not gone to Europe on any government business but rather to get away from government business. It was said officially today at the executive offices of the summer white house.

Answering in the negative questions as to whether Mr. Mellon might enter into foreign debt funding negotiations abroad, officials said in behalf of President Coolidge that the secretary as head of the treasury department has no authority as chairman of the American debt funding commission, it was added, his powers in that respect have been largely exhausted under the law, except for two or three small items involving amounts owed by Greece and other nations whose obligations have not been funded.

The commission was entrusted with negotiating settlements of the foreign war time debts, it was pointed out, and when it reported an agreement and this was accepted by congress its authority in the matter ceased.

Mr. Mellon, it was added, merely has gone abroad to enjoy a vacation with his son, and to visit his daughter in Rome.

LABOR TROUBLE AT THE BIGELOW CARPET WORKS

THOMPSONVILLE, July 30.—(AP)—Following a two weeks' tryout of the new scale of wages at the Bigelow-Hartford Carpet works here, the Moquet setters in the Axminster department tonight voted not to return to work tomorrow because of dissatisfaction with the new wage schedule.

There are 140 setters, all women, who walked out on July 16 after receiving their first week's pay at the revised scale. After a conference with officials of the company, they returned to work agreeing to give the new schedule a two weeks' tryout. This conditional agreement expired today.

In a statement issued by a committee representing the setters, it was claimed that the highest pay received for 48 hours work last week was $22 and that the average was $17. It was said that this was a drastic cut below the wages received previous to the inauguration of the new scale.

Should the walk-out continue, it was claimed that the entire Axminster department employing several hundred hands, would soon be affected as the setters supply materials for the other works in this department.

NO CLUE TO ROBBERS OF $65,000 FROM B. & M. TRAIN

BOSTON, July 30—(AP)—Solution of New England's first train holdup and arrest of those three men who yesterday stole $65,000 from a Boston and Maine baggage car on the Amesbury branch in Salisbury appeared no nearer tonight although the day was spent by the authorities in grilling a variety of witnesses.

Before state, local and federal investigators gathered at the Amesbury town hall, the crews of the robbed train, neighbors from the vicinity of the holdup, bank and postal employes familiar with the shipment from the Federal Reserve bank in Boston to the Powow River National bank in Amesbury, all underwent a secret examination.

A. F. MYERS NEW MEMBER FED. TRADE COMMISSION

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., July 30.—Abram F. Myers, of Iowa, was given a recess appointment by President Coolidge today as a member of the federal trade commission.

Mr. Myers, who was born at Fairfield, Iowa, in 1889, succeeds Vernon W. Vanfleet, resigned. He is a republican and has been senator attorney under the assistant to the attorney general in Washington. He was employed in the department of justice for many years, rising from a sub-clerical position.

SALE OF ONE-EIGHTH INCH OF LAND IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, July 30.—(AP)—Tiny yet regarded by the buyers as important one-eighth of an inch of land was sold and recorded here today. The almost microscopic portion of realty is on the site of the old post office in Church street. It was sold by L. H. Levine to Adolph Perlroth and Joseph C. Weibel to straighten a boundary line.

The price paid was not given but Levine said the adjustment was made on a basis of a return for favors done.

MAYOR OF CANTON RETAINS A NOTED CHICAGO LAWYER

CANTON, July 30.—(AP)—Mayor S. M. Swarts, of Canton, this afternoon appointed Joseph Roach, noted Chicago criminal lawyer, as advisory counsel to Acting Chief of Police Earl W. Hexamer. Roach is to aid the police department in the investigation into the murder of Don R. Mellett and vice conditions in Canton.

ALLEGED M'PHERSON FINGERPRINTS BLURRED

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 30.—(AP)—Fingerprint experts of the police department announced today that finger marks obtained in a cottage at Carmel so far examined could not be identified as those of Aimee Semple McPherson, owing to their blurred condition.

The death house in Charlestown (Mass.) prison was full yesterday for the first time in 17 years when all three cells were occupied by the so-called "carbarn murderers."

Mrs. Hall Released On Bail of $15,000

Judge Announced That Some Fairly Important Evidence Had Been Uncovered.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., July 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Edward Wheeler Hall of New Brunswick, regained her liberty tonight in $15,000 bail after having spent 44 hours behind the bars of Somerset county jail on a charge of murdering her husband and his alleged sweetheart four years ago.

The 49 year old matron was arrested late Wednesday night, after, authorities said, "a mass of new evidence" pointing to her as the slayer of the rector of fashionable St. John's Episcopal church, in New Brunswick, and Mrs. Eleanor M. Mills, his pretty choir singer, had been discovered in an investigation ordered by Governor Moore and state authorities.

She was released by order of Chief Justice Gummere to whom defense attorneys appealed today at Point Pleasant. He directed Mrs. Hall to furnish $7,500 bail in each of the murder charges.

Accompanied by two of her lawyers and Mrs. Edward Carpenter, her sister-in-law, of New Brunswick, and other Mrs. Hall emerged from the main entrance of the jail at 7:25 after Sheriff Tunison had made a personal appeal to the crowds to stand back.

Mrs. Hall smiled several times posed for photographers on the walk leading from the jail entrance, and laughed out loud as the crowds which failed to heed the sheriff's order, jostled her in to her car.

The automobile pursued by a host of newspapermen and photographers left town on High street, going east, and Russell E. Watson, one of the attorneys, directed the chauffeur to drive to Newark.

Warden James P. Major, of the jail and the Somerville police force also attempted to hold back the crowd eager for a glance of the complacent looking woman who showed no sign of worry over the events of the last 40 hours.

She was dressed in black and wore no veil over her face.

What took place in the jail before Mrs. Hall's release was not revealed but the prisoner was not set at liberty until after two supreme court commissioners had been called to approve her bail.

John F. Reger who is acting County Clerk Walter Crater, had called in to accept the papers, was not there at the time of Mrs. Hall's release, his place having been taken by Hugh K. Gaston. Both live in Somerville.

Prosecutor Bergen refused to comment on Mrs. Hall's release or on the amount of bail required.

He said no other arrests were contemplated at the present and that the grand jury would not be called into special session to consider the question of indicting Mrs. Hall.

"The case will be presented in the regular way to the September jury which convenes on the third Tuesday in September," he asserted, adding that it would not be the first to come up at that time.

"Some fairly important evidence was uncovered today," he continued. "A number of witnesses were interviewed but I connot reveal their idenuty."

STRANGE DISAPPEARANCE OF DEEP RIVER MANUFACTURER

DEEP RIVER, July 30.—(AP)—Philip R. Pratt, 37, proprietor of the P. R. Pratt Manufacturing company here, disappeared from his office during the forenoon today and at a late hour tonight more than 200 residents aided by a German police dog, drafted into service from New Haven by the state police, were seeking the solution of the mystery surrounding his actions.

A note found on his desk in the office by his wife, who became alarmed when he did not come home to dinner read: "Too much work for one. With 'th' another year will end it all. God bless my wife." The message was written in his own hand writing and was found lying beside the contents of his pockets, including keys, watch and chain and pocketbook.

There was much speculation concerning the meaning of "th" in his note. Mr. Pratt was said to have been in good health and the theory that he inferred "total bankruptcy" was advanced. It was supported by the report that the proprietor of the company was known to have a large financial obligation to meet on August first.

Good Showing Made By Cotton Goods

In the Monthly Review of Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

BOSTON, July 30.—(AP)—New England business activity during June was at a lower rate than during May, the monthly review of the Federal Reserve bank of Boston said in its issue of today. "The decline, however, was smaller than the declines reported in either of the two previous months," the review said. "The New England business activity index which makes allowance for the usual seasonal fluctuations in production and the volume of trade, was slightly lower in June than a year ago, and nearly ten per cent lower than the average for the first three months of 1926.

"For the first time in three years no decline in consumption of cotton by New England mills in June as compared with May. Furthermore, consumption in June this year was larger than in the corresponding months of the past two years. Sales of cotton goods at important mill centers improved considerably in July."

The report said that the same was true of wool consumption in June, although this industry was not as active as the cotton. "The shoe industry of New England," the review went on, "is the third of the major industries in the district to report a larger volume of output in June than in May for the first time in three years and a higher rate than for the corresponding month of either of the past two years.

Production of paper by New England mills has been declining steadily since last April, following a decline in the volume of orders which began about the first of February and came to an end early in June. The building industry is very active but the volume of contracts awarded in New England during June declined more than the usual seasonal amount and was below the volume of a year ago.

"Commodity prices have fluctuated within narrow limits since last April, a slight rise in June being practically offset by a decline in the first three weeks of July. Notwithstanding cooler weather than usual, New England department stores sales were but slightly less than the largest June sales on record.

ADDITIONAL CONTRIBUTORS TO ILL. PRIMARY FUND

CHICAGO, July 30.—(AP)—Additional contributions by officials of Illinois public utilities companies to the senatorial campaign fund of Frank L. Smith, chairman of the state commerce commission, were uncovered today by the senate campaign funds committee before it adjourned the inquiry into the Illinois primary over until next Tuesday.

Allen F. Moore, campaign manager for Smith in his successful fight for the republican senatorial nomination over Senator William B. McKinley, testified that Clement Studebaker, of South Bend, Ind., and Ira C. Copley, of Aurora, Ills., contributed a total of $45,000. This is in addition to the $125,000 which Samuel Insull, Chicago utilities executive, testified he gave. Studebaker, who made two gifts of $10,000 each to the Smith fund, is one of the purchasers of Senator McKinley's central Illinois utilities. The senator retains an interest in those utilities and is chairman of the board of the Illinois Light and Power company.

Asked about a statement by Timothy F. McCarthy, an East St. Louis newspaper man, that Smith managers had offered $6,000 to Charles Scendry, president of the foreign voters league, for the support of that organization, Moore said he knew nothing about it.

After the adjournment of the committee sessions, Senator Reed left for St. Louis, where he has a week end engagement, while Senator LaFollette, the only other member here, returned to Wisconsin to resume his speaking campaign against the renomination of Senator Len Root, republican, who is opposed by Governor J. J. Blaine, running as the "progressive" candidate.

MISS BROWNE WILL MEET MISS WILLS IN FINALS

EAST HAMPTON, N. Y., July 30.—(AP)—Miss Mary Brone of California, captain of the Whightman Cup tennis team which recently brought back the international trophy, probably will meen the American champion, Helen Wills, in the finals of the Maidstone club invitation tournament here Sunday.

Miss Browne played one of the most brilliant matches of her career today in defeating Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory, former American champion, 6-4, 6-4. Mrs. Mallory hit out with her old power and precision but Miss Browne covered court beautifully and refused to concede anything.

Both players showed far better tennis than did Miss Wills in conquering Mrs. Frederick Schmitz of New York, 6-2, 11. Several times hte champion erred when called upon to quit the baseline, but offered no complaints after the match, her second since her operation for appendicitis.

Looking Fresh as a Killarney Rose.

To be sure, it came up at the Bridge club; but for that matter hadn't it been spoken of behind tea cups for nearly a year—ever since the Lees had settled in the old estate on West road? How could any mortal woman, Cynthia Lee included, come home from shopping, looking as though she were walking in from a swim?

Cynthia's guest confided the answer. "She has an easy time shopping, because she knows just where she is going before she sets out.

"First she read the advertisements, cutting out and arranging the ones that show the things she wants. Then she swings around the circle and comes home—That's all there is to it."

If you want to come home from shopping looking as fresh as Cynthia Lee, read The Bulletin's advertisements daily.

Study the advertisements. They are so much better than buying at random.

HEART ATTACK FATAL TO SENATOR CUMMINS, IOWA

Was Stricken Suddenly at His Home in Des Moines at 4.30 P. M. Yesterday—Had Not Complained of Any Symptoms of the Attack—Health Had Been the Cause of Concern for Several Months—Senator Cummins' Death Will Necessitate the Election of Two United States Senators in Iowa Next November.

DES MOINES, Iowa, July 30.—(AP)—Senator Albert B. Cummins, veteran political leader of Iowa, died at his home here at 4.30 o'clock this afternoon.

Senator Cummins was suddenly stricken with an attack of heart disease and died a few moments later. He had not complained of any symptoms of the attack. His health, however, had been the cause of concern for several months.

Surviving him are a daughter, five sisters, a brother, two grandsons and a great-grandson.

Since the death of Mrs. Cummins, the senator had made his home here with two sister, Miss Margaret and Miss Anna Cummins.

Senator Cummins' death will necessitate the election of two United States senators in the November election in this state, one to fill his unexpired term which ends March 4, next. The republican and democratic committees probably will be reconvened within a few days to nominate candidates for the short term.

SENATOR ALBERT B. CUMMINS

Senator Cummins seemed in the best of health and as late as Wednesday made his regular visits to his office. On Wednesday night he had dinner with Frank Kauffman, Des Moines banker, and an intimate friend. Mr. Cummins was in high spirits and was looking forward with zest to work on his autobiography to which he contemplated devoting his attention during the coming winter.

The other sisters of Senator Cummins are Mrs. Lou McHenry and Mrs. Theodore Grefe, both of Des Moines, and Mrs. Lyle Sutherland, of Sioux Falls, S. D. C. Cummins, a brother lives here.

Senator Cummins' daughter, Mrs. Hollis A. Rawson, also resides here as do the grandchildren, Cummins and Thomas Rawson, and great-grandson, Albert Cummins Rawson.

Senator Cumming' farewell address to the constituency which he represented for 30 years, was delivered over the radio at the close of his campaign for re-election last June. His last public address was in the senate a few days earlier, during the debate on the farm relief question.

The unexpired term may be filled by gubernatorial appointment and some political authorities considered it probable that Governor Hammill will appoint a successor, owing to the time remaining before the term expires, March 4, next. Governor Hammill is now in the west attending the conference of governors.

Failure to obtain renomination, coupled with infirmities of age and his close application to senatorial duties, is believed by his friends to have hastened the Iowa senator's death.

During the recent session, he served as chairman of the judiciary committee, Senator Watson of Indiana taking over the chairmanship of the interstate commerce committee, on which he retained membership as the ranking republican. He pressed, but unsuccessfully, for action on his bill to facilitate consolidation of railroads, and as the head of the judiciary committee had supervision over a wide range of prohibition proposals, action on most of which went over until the December session.

Elected to the senate in 1908 as one of the pioneers in the movement which swept so many insurgents into the United States senate from the northwest, Albert Baird Cummins remained to become a regular of the regulars. He ascended to high places in the leadership of the republican organization and served for more than five years as president pro tempore of the senate.

An exponent of what was known as the "lowa idea" in tariff legislation, since translated into law in the flexible tariff, Mr. Cummins early found himself in violent disagreement with the republican leaders on the fundamental principles of protection and joined with Dolliver, Bristow, Clapp and Beveridge in the memorable senate fight over the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

While thus placing himself in the forefront of the ranks of the republican progressives, as they were defined in those days, Senator Cummins allowed the progressive movement to run ahead of him. As a result, some of the progressive element in his state opposed their former leader in his ambition to succeed himself in 1926, and the old guard leaders came to his rescue.

Although the tariff furnished the vehicle in which Mr. Cummins first rode to nation-wide attention, his real life work in the senate was in the moulding of railroad legislation. His first serious task in life had been in railroad construction and while he turned later from that to the law, it always held his interest.

His work on the Michigan road attracted the attention of capitalists and he was offered a position by those who were building the Rio Grande. Cummins started for Denver, but he never got there. While waiting for his train in Chicago a friend suggested that he remain and study law, which he did.

After being admitted to the bar in Chicago, he removed to Des Moines, where he worked his way to the front rapidly.

It was without his own consent that he broke into politics in 1887 when some republicans bolted their party and named him as an independent candidate for the legislature. He was elected and served one term. Five years later when the leaders of the republican party in Iowa set about to reclaim the state from democratic rule, he was made the chairman of the state convention.

Soon afterwards Mr. Cummins made his first fight for a place in the United States senate, but was defeated by a narrow margin. He rallied to his support many young men, and the party divided into Cummins and anti Cummins elements. In 1901, after a stormy campaign, he was elected governor, a place he held until his elevation to the senate.

Early in his senate service Mr. Cummins obtained a place on the interstate commerce committee and as its chairman in 1910 he became joint author with Representative Esch, of Wisconsin of the transportation act under which the railroads were returned to private operation after the war. Few pieces of legislation enacted by congress in recent years have become the center of such controversy. The transportation act brought down on Senator Cummins the wrath of organized labor, and was the chief factor in the wide opposition that developed to his renomination to the senate in 1920.

Born February 15, 1850, near Carmichaels, Pa., Mr. Cummins was the son of Thomas and Sarah Cummins. His father was a carpenter and the son picked up the elements of that trade as an odd-time helper to his parent. He attended public school and later entered college at Waynesboro. Early in his college career he felt the call of the west, and, borrowing $50 from a banker uncle, set out for the territory beyond the Mississippi.

After a long journey he landed in Iowa, but soon found that the tales of untold riches easily acquired in the then virgin country were in a myth recounted in the books of his school days. After his liquid assets had dwindled to $6, he obtained a place in the office of the recorder of Cyalton county. The pay was small and which he contemplated devoting his attention during the coming winter.

The other sisters of Senator Cummins are Mrs. Lou McHenry and Mrs. Theodore Grefe, both of Des Moines, and Mrs. Lyle Sutherland, of Sioux Falls, S. D. C. Cummins, a brother lives here.

Senator Cummins' daughter, Mrs. Hollis A. Rawson, also resides here as do the grandchildren, Cummins and Thomas Rawson, and great-grandson, Albert Cummins Rawson.

MEDIATION NOT REQUIRED THREAD CO. AGENT ASSERTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, July 30—The strike at the American Thread company is no longer an actuality of the present, it was reasserted in a reply of the company, through Agent Don H. Curtis of the local mills, to overtures made by the strikers' committee that the strike differences be taken up before the state board of mediation and arbitration. Although taking note of the spirit which actuated the movement to have a settlement of the strike brought about, the company makes answer, through Agent Curtis that, in his opinion the situation as it now stands does not warrant assistance and that the Willimantic mills are employing all the operatives necessary at present. In a previous announcement Mr. Curtis stated that 1,700 operatives were now employed at the plant. This number is regarded as normal for the summer season, which is considered dull. The strike started March 8, 1925, in protest against the imposition of a ten per cent wage reduction. Considerably over two thousand employes figured in the strike. After issuing due notice of the reopening of the mills which had been closed for several weeks, the company brought in workers from other citiesto fill the places of the strikers who failed to return to their posts.

SOLD WHAT WASN'T HIS, COVENTRY MAN IN JAIL

WILLIMANTIC, July 30—Michael J. Dubrouck was committed to jail from the Coventry town court Thursday night when found guilty on the charge of violation of a conditional bill of sale. He pleaded ignorance, stating that he needed the money to pay farming expenses and he sold a pair of horses and wagon purchased, on condition, from John Kearns, of East Hartford, to John Kingsbury of North Coventry, Kingsbury was the complainant in the case. Kearns sought to recover when the money was overdue and upon learning that the horses and team had been sold to Kingsbury, he effected a recovery as he was still the legal owner. Kingsbury said he would wait ten days for the payment of $250 which he had given Dubrouck for the outfit. The accused was sent to jail until he could raise the money. If he fails to have the amount in ten days he will be bound over to the next term of the Tolland county superior court. Justice of the Peace Albert M. Gilman held court and Grand Juror Robert G. Brooks prosecuted.

Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Remington of this city and the former's father, R. B. Remington of Saratoga Springs, N. Y., who has been visiting here, have gone to the latter place, to attend the funeral of the senior Remington's son, Frank Remington, who was killed during the tornado Wednesday. The building in which Mr. Remington was staying and which was in the path of the twister, collapsed. The body was sent to Saratoga Springs. The young man was connected with the Flagler system of hotels. He leaves his father, two brothers and two sisters, residing in Saratoga with the exception of R. G. Remington.

Jointly charged with assault and breach of the peace when presented in police court Friday morning, Arthur Connors 21, of Valley street extension and Edgar Breton, 30, of 253 Main street pleaded not guilty and each blamed the other for the trouble, although they admitted fighting. The fight took place at a dance Thursday night in the old American Thread company fire brigade quarters on Union street under the auspices of a club. Signifying that there seemed to be trouble every time a dance was held at the headquarters Deputy Judge Andrews said he would make an example of the case. He then fined the young men $15 and costs, each assessment amounting to $26.95. Other witnesses heard were, Edward A. Jackson, janitor at the town building, Ralph Van Deck of South Coventry, a friend of Connors, Walter Corcoran, another friends and Captain of Police Frank McLean.

Farmers and gardeners welcomed the heavy rain which fell for several hours up to about five o'clock Friday morning. Not so welcome, however, was the shower to members of the street department, for they had to spend several hours removing an accumulation of sand and rubbish which had been washed down the gutters and which clogged the drains on Main and Valley streets. Sand wash-outs also covered the trolley tracks between here and South Windham and while awaiting for this obstruction to be removed the Norwich-Willimantic trolley due at the Main street terminal here at 6 a. m. was 45 minutes late in arriving.

John Malone, 53, and James Lynn, 54, both of Providence and Napoleon Martin, cotton weavers out of work, were charged with intoxication, when in police court Friday morning. They pleaded guilty. The three men walked into the police station in a drunken condition late Thursday night. Judge Andrews imposed a fine of $10 and costs, amounting to $17.15 in each case. Having no funds the three men were taken to Brooklyn jail.

LEONARD BRIDGE BOY DROWNED AT COLUMBIA

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, July 30.—Abraham Dinar, 17 year old son of Joseph and Annie Dinar, who resided on the Old Green place at Leonard Bridge, was drowned in Columbia lake about 4 o'clock this afternoon, when seized by cramps. The boy was attempting to swim from the dock opposite the Brown property on the south shore to a float some 75 feet distant. The boy, accompanied by Irving Weintraub, neighbor and friend, had covered about half the distance when he called the name of Irving and sank. His body was recovered 35 minutes later by Joseph Lafleur of this city. His chum grappled with him in a desperate and courageous effort to save him and both youths went beneath the surface of the water. The body of the Donar boy went directly to the bottom and did not rise to the surface again.

The young men had ridden several miles on their bicycles to the lake and went directly into the water. It was said to have been Abrahim Dinar's first attempt to reach the float.

Medical Examiner Lewis I. Mason of this city, acting in the absence of Dr. W. L. Higgins of Coventry, pronounced death due to accidental drowning, but said that the elements of exhaustion, fright and cramps contributed primarily to bringing on death, as only about half a pint of water was taken from the body after its recovery.

Several men joined in the search for the body, among them Mr. Lefleur who conducts a summer resort on the Brown property and Fred Gazzelle, of Hartford, a summer resident at the lake. Mr. LaFleur found the body lying in 25 feet of water after search made difficult by the darkness of the day. Mr. Gazzelle, who is a registered Red Cross life saver, Dr. M. H. Frost of this city and Columbia and others attempted resuscitating treatment but to no avail. Death had apparently been instantaneous. The drowning, which was the first one at any of the resorts in this section this season, cast gloom over the entire colony of lake residents and over the St. Joseph's Girl Scouts' camp on the opposite shore.

Abraham Dinar is survived by his parents, an older brother, Harry Dinar and two sisters, Molly Dinar and an infant sisters, all of Leonard Bridge. He was to have left with friends for a visit in New York Saturday.

Trial calendar:

In the case of the state, Warren D. Nichols vs. John Cummings of Worcester, Mass., the state police was represented by William A. Riddell of that department and Third Assistant Attorney General Louis V. Jackovony of Providence. There were two complaints, one for reckless operation of an automobile on Atlantic avenue, near Crandall avenue, at Pleasant View beach and one for the operation of a Rhode Island automobile by a driver with a Massachusetts license. A plea of not guilty was made to the reckless driving charge and the case continued two weeks with bail set at $300.

The defendant, who drove an automobile for Charles M. Lamb, at Pleasant View, changed his plea of not guilty to guilty to the complaint of driving without a license. He said that he had operated an automobile for two years and for just one month in Rhode Island and as he knew of drivers with New York and Massachusetts licenses who operated Rhode Island registered machines, he did not think Rhode Island papers necessary. Judge Williams said that it did not appear to the court that he had operated a domestic car without license maliciously and imposed a fine of $10 and costs.

State, Thomas E. Brown vs. Edward and Concetta Liotta. Attorney Dunn said that Mrs. Liotta, an important witness for the defense had just left the Westerly hospital and that a certificate for her non-appearance in court could be obtained from Dr. J. Gordon Anderson and asked for a week's continuance. Insisting that the certificate be field for record, Town Solicitor Ferguson said that the state, as the witnesses were police officers, had no objection and the cases were set down for next Friday.

State, William L. Kay vs. Samuel M. Roderick, Jr., of Providence. The defendant, aged 25, entered a plea of guilty to operation of an automobile on July 24th at 5 p. m. on the Nooseneck hill road in Hope Valley at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper. When no attention was paid to Officer Kay's whistle it was necessary for him to pursue Roderick two miles toward Westerly before overtaking him, the claim being made that the whistle was not heard. A fine of $35 and costs was imposed.

Walter H. Dawson, 16, complained of by Officer Kay for operating an automobile recklessly in Hope Valley, when he passed three autos on a hill, changed his plea to one of nolo. Represented by Attorney Roache the court was informed that the defendant was not familiar with this section of the country and operated an automobile for a living in Providence. Judge Williams imposed a fine of $40 and costs.

State, Warren D. Nichols vs. Phillip L. Brundage of Carolina, R. I. For the defendant Attorney Roache entered a plea of nolo, withdrawing a previous plea of not guilty. Assistant Attorney General Jackovony told the court that State Trooper Warren D. Nichols had entered the premises without a search warrant, after he had obtained permission from the defendant. Search of the premises produced liquors in the garage and house. Attorney Roache denied that privilege was given to search the premises. Rhode Island State Trooper Sergeant Carroll told the court that the defendant had given no further cause for complaint, after the visit by the state trooper, Nichols. Mr. Jackovony said that Col. Chaffee, head of the state police department had recommended that a substantial fine be imposed. Judge Williams stated that in the case of Michel Dominic, in a similar raid made at the same time on request of Attorney Turano a suspended sentence was given at the request of th attorney general's department.

A suspended sentence was imposed by Judge Williams on Brundage, the case to be returned to the district court at the same time as that of Dominic's.

James Salimeno, represented by Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown on a second complaint for possession of intoxicating liquors, was represented in court by Attorney Roache, was found guilty and sentenced to pay a fine of $300 and costs. Notice of an appeal was given by Attorney Roache to superior court for Washington county, September term and bonds of $500 were required.

Officer Fred Ferraro testified to raiding the Salemeno place, 73 Pleasant street, June 23rd at 1:30 p. m., accompanied by Police Patrolman LeRoy H. Norman. He found the door to a rear room in a single story house locked but was soon given admission. In this room was a bar with dry faucets, but the officers secured one quart of ginger mint julep, one bottle of Flegelapan, one quart of Old Parr whiskey and one pint of gin, which was turned over to Chief Brown and taken by him to Providence for analysis by the state chemist. On the premises was also found Joe Salimeno, brother of James. Officer Ferraro testified that the place was opened up about three months ago.

Officer LeRoy H. Norman corborated the testimony of Ferraro on the witness stand and Chief of Police Brown testified to taking the liquors to Providence and the return of the analysis showing more than one-half of one per cent alcohol.

Tag day in Westerly for the Westerly Visiting Nurse association netted $1,052.35, which was most gratifying to the district nurse workers, for the day was generally rainy. DANIELSON

WEATHERBEE TO BE CHARGED WITH MURDER OF INFANT

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July 30—Swiftly following the institution of habeas corpus proceedings by Attorney Irving M. Miron in an effort to secure the release from Brooklyn jail of his client, Raymond Weatherbee, held without bail, Coroner Arthur G. Bill and the state have taken action that will bring Weatherbee before a justice of the peace in the town of Thompson Saturday afternoon, to face a charge of murder.

This development became known during Friday, when, it was understood, the coroner, who has been in Silver Bay, N. Y., all week, had made a finding under which Saturday's arraignment of Weatherbee will be made.

Weatherbee is to be charged with causing the death, within a few minutes after its birth, of a girl baby born to Miss Agnes Pytko, 17, of Wilsonville, who has said to the coroner that Weatherbee was the father of the child. Full information as to the grounds for bringing Weatherbee in court to face such a serious charge is not revealed by the coroner or the state officers who have been investigating the case since it developed, about a month ago.

From information obtained from Miss Pytko while he was a patient at the Day Kimball hospital following the birth of her child, State Officer E. V. Sicenamea of the Danielson barracks, on dafter a long search of the river bottom and a cove near Wilsonville, brought the body of the child to the surface. A rope was tied around the child's waist and to the other end of the rope a heavy stone was attached.

During the present week habeas corpus proceedings were started in an effort to obtain the release of Weatherbee, who stoutly maintains his innocence of any participation of the affair for which he is held. Sheriff Charles A. Gates, as jailer in charge of the county jail, has been served with a process requiring him to produce Weatherbee in the superior court at Hartford next Tuesday morning before Judge M. P. Waldo Marvin that the court may hear representations by Attorney Miron as to Wetaherbee being held illegally and as to why he should be released.

In view of the proceedings scheduled for Saturday afternoon, there was much speculation today as to how Weatherbee's fortunes will fare in the court appearances he is scheduled to make.

FRANK A. CHASE DEAD— CIVIL WAR VETERAN WAS 92

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, July 30—One of Killingly's oldest residents, a soldier of the United States, died this afternoon at his home in Dayville—Frank A. Chase, 92. Mr. Chase was a native of the town of Killingly, as were his parents, Harry and Marcelina Alexander Chase. He was born May 14, 1833.

During the Civil war Mr. Chase served as a member of K company, 18th Connecticut Volunteers, largely recruited in the town of Killingly. After the war he returned to Killingly and had lived at Dayville through all the years since that time. Mr. Chase leaves a daughter, Miss Gertrude Chase, of Dayville. Daniel Meehan is a stepson and Frank Bennett of Ballouville is a nephew.

There was something about an automobile seen here Friday afternoon that suggested a climate far different from the one this area has been experiencing for the past fortnight, for the registration was that of Alaska. Three women made up the party in the machine, which was placarded forward with a sign that read "I'm Shiftless But Not Lazy," and at the rear with another sign bearing the inscription "Danger—20,000 Jolts." Of course it was a Ford.

Hunters are looking forward with anticipation to next fall's open season, for there appears to be a greater number of game birds in territory hereabouts than has been reported in a number of years. Partridges are particularly abundant and pheasants, too, appear to be more numerous than ever before. Quail, under the long closed season extending to 1927, have multiplied rapidly and are to be seen in greater numbers than for many years.

A new baseball team of alumni members of St. James' school has been organized and is to play its first regular game on Connecticut Mill field Sunday afternoon with the regular teams of St. James' school, which has been making a remarkably good showing this season. The alumni team is made up of boys about 17 or 18. They have had some practice session together. While the St. James team is made up of much younger boys, they will give a good account of themselves against the alumni.

As in merchandising establishments, the postoffice has some novelties for sale this summer. They happen to be in the form of postage stamps. One of them is a sesqui-centennial stamp, issued incident to the exposition being held in Philadelphia, another a stamp known as the Ericson. They are pretty in design, but of denominations not in general daily use, therefore are not familiar to the average person.

Incident to the sesqui-centennial observance at Philadelphia, one reads that this is the 150th anniversary of the building of the General Putnam inn, long known as the Mortlake house, at Brooklyn. It is one of the oldest inns standing in Connecticut and is of great historical interest. Within its walls General Israel Putnam often whiled away an hour and just across the highway in the field in which he left his plow to answer the call to arms. A heroic figure of the famous officer mounted on his horse surmounts a great granite pedestal on the grounds of the inn. It has been suggested that the General Putnam inn may become the Wayside inn of Connecticut and it is said that Henry Ford intends to visit the inn and inspect it during the present summer season.

PUTNAM

FINE GOVERNMENT BUILDING POSSIBLE FOR PUTNAM

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, July 30.—Putnam is to be one of the six cities in Connecticut to be surveyed to determine whether it will be allotted a government building or not. The survey has been ordered by the federal board in charge of the building program. The other cities are Hartford, Waterbury, New Haven, New London, Bridgeport and Stamford.

A rough draft of a form questionnaire, which is to be sent to postmasters as a preliminary step in the survey, is being completed, preparatory to presentation to Postmaster General New. Under one plan being considered this questionnaire would be sent only to postmasters whose offices have annual receipts of more than $25,000.

When the details of procedure are worked out, probably within the next 30 days, surveys of the New England cities will be begun. On the result of the survey this summer and fall will depend how much congress will be asked to appropriate out of the $100,000,000 just authorized.

About $15,000,000 of the funds appropriated by congress in the last session must be placed under contract within three years and the first year's program will include the buildings most needed for government business. Appropriations for each community during the past session were made public during congressional debate.

Petitions from chambers of commerce and other civic organizations for consideration of the needs of individual communities are being given careful consideration by the board, it is declared.

The question is, will Putnam get its new post office?

WOMEN'S SMOKING ROOM IN NEW THEATRE PLANS

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, July 30.—Hyde Smith of the S-A Amusement company started this week to call on contractors who are experienced in the building of theaters to leave a copy of the plans and specifications and to ask them to submit their bids at once on the work.

The new theater is to be built in the rear of the block formerly owned by Charles Seder on Main street and the revised plans meet the ideas of Hyde Smith and Jacob Alpert, the members of the firm. The blueprints show that the new playhouse will be a handsome structure and will be equipped with all modern appointments, even including a room where women may smoke, if they wish, between the acts. The specifications cover more than 100 pages closely typewritten.

It is expected that the contract will be awarded within the next two or three weeks and that the work of construction will be begun not later than the first of September.

The fellowship in music that was awarded Miss Fannie Obietz of Putnam, by the Juilliard Musical Foundation carries with it $1,000 in cash. Miss Obietz felt justly elated over the tribute that the fellowship in itself conveys, but the splendid cash emolument was wholly unexpected. The eminent musicians at the head of the society feel that Miss Obietz possesses a musical talent of a high order that should have every opportunity for development. On her return to New York in September she will resume her studies at the Graduate School of the Foundation on East 52nd street. During her first term she studied at the New York Institute of Music which is affiliated with and under the direction of the Juilliard Foundation.

Mrs. Edward J. Carpenter, 67, of Killingly avenue, died at the Day Kimball hospital this morning, having been ill for a long time. She had been at the hospital for two weeks. Early in the spring she had been a patient there for more than two months, but improved and was able to go home for a time. Mrs. Carpenter had lived in Putnam for many years.

No golf was played at the joint meeting of the Putnam Rotary club and the Danielson, held Thursday afternoon and evening at the Putnam Country club. There were several tables of cards in play during the afternoon and between 40 and 50 Rotarians were at the club for the summer. John T. Cahill, the superintendent of the Putnam Chautauqua, was the speaker and gave an interesting talk on the Rotarian motto "Service Above Self," as exemplified in the life of Abraham Lincoln. After the supper and address, Mr. Cahill invited the members of the clubs present to be his guests at Chautauqua where the play "Applesauce" was given.

At the annual meeting of Putnam Woolen company, Arthur S. Wheelock of Uxbridge, Mass., who has served as president for many years resigned, as he wishes to retire from active interests in outside affairs. Rolfe W. Smith of Leominster, Mass., was elected president to succeed Mr. Wheelock; Silas M. Wheelock of Putnam was elected treasurer and Henry A. Wheelock of Putnam was made secretary. A board of directors elected consists of the above officers and Arthur Weelock and Stanley H. Wheelock, both of Uxbridge, were elected to serve for one year.

The Putnam Patriot cup for the second period at Camp Woodstock was awarded Julius Newmann, of New Britain. Honorable mention was given Richard Gilpatric of Putnam, Plummer Wiley of West Hartford and Guy Hastings of South Manchester. This cup is given each period during July to the boy making the most advancement during his stay at the camp and who best exemplifies the camp spirit.

Another cup was awarded for the first time, the Thomas Sloan Memorial cup, given by Dr. Sloan of Manchester, in memory of his son, a former Woodstock camp boy. This cup is awarded the boy of 14 years or younger who makes the most progress in swimming during the four weeks in July.

Resinol heals

Seven Mile, Ohio, Feb. 13:—"I am a farmer and am out-of-doors all my working hours. During harvest time last year, I became badly sunburned about the face, neck and arms. They were so irritated and pained so intensely I could hardly stand anything touching them. I tried various remedies, but nothing did me any good until I tried Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment. I was relieved by the first application and by the time the first jar of ointment and cake of soap were gone my sunburn had vanished. I am always a booster for Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment." DO YOU KNOW AS MUCH AS YOUR CAT?

She's a knowing cat.

She asks for little—just her meals, a saucer of milk and a place in the sun. She gets plenty of sleep and exercise. She never worries, never frets. What is the result? Such vitality and resistance that we say, "Cats have nine lives."

What does your cat do when she is not well? She eats catnip, if she can find it. She eats grass and certain green plants to which her instinct leads her.

Your cat takes herbs for a tonic.

Did you ever stop to think that Old Mother Nature, who supplies the herbs necessary to your cat's health, has also provided the herbs necessary to your own well-being?

You don't have to hunt for them as the cat does. The herbs you need are skillfully blended and compounded in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an old-fashioned tonic that will help to restore your energy.

Feels Better Now

Mrs. Gust Green of 401 Lincoln Park Boulevard, Rockford, Illinois, writes: "I was weak and run-down but the Vegetable Compound has helped me and I feel better now. I recommend it to all women who need more strength."

MONEY POWER

Money can purchase so many things; not everything; but it can bring to its possessor a world of comfort and happiness — the things that make life worthwhile.

Saved money is the BEST money. It seems to have greater purchasing power. Perhaps the reason for this is because it represents the Fruits of Labor.

Money is power indeed! And Labor also is Power; that is, if it shows a net result.

Save and be POWERFUL. Our Bank can and will help you.

North Stonington's Old Home day which had been planned for Aug. 26 has been postponed to Sept. 23 on which date it will be observed in connection with the annual grange fair scheduled for Sept. 21, 22, and 23. GAS TAX FOR ROADS

When the New Britain Record declares that Connecticut ought not to be obliged to pay any more for its roads than Massachusetts we must agree with it. When it regards the tax on gasoline as an injustice we are compelled to differ with it.

Connecticut collects a tax of two cents on each gallon of gasoline sold within the state. The proceeds of this tax are for the purpose of building and maintaining the highways of the state. There is a constant demand for more and better roads. It is a matter of economy that they be kept in good repair and it is quite proper that those who demand the good roads and use them should stand the expense of providing the improvements.

That is the purpose of the gasoline tax in Connecticut, and there are but a very few states which do not resort to a similar method of taxation. For the most part the money obtained from this tax in other states goes for road work although it is used for different purposes in various communities than differing from the practice in Connecticut.

The auto would not be what it is today for good roads, and there are but few intelligent auto owners who do not appreciate the opportunity of contributing to the cost of road building for the sake of the advantages which are obtained. Inasmuch as the modern roads are for the autoists benefit it is only proper that the autoists should pay the bill and it is quite fitting that they should pay in accordance with the use they make of the roads. The man who doesn't run an auto pays no gasoline tax. The man who drives a light car, the one who drives a heavy car or the truck owner all pay in accordance with the amount of gasoline consumed and that invariably means the mileage they have made or the load carried.

We cannot get anything much fairer than that. It is the equitable method of raising the money for road building much more so than by a bond issue, and inasmuch as the autoists pay the tax it is only right that the money should be spent for their benefit, and good roads are certainly a benefit to them.

ANTAGONIZING THE LISTENERS

We do not know what it will amount to but it is only a logical development when a movement is reported as underway at Chicago for the purpose of organizing the radio fans for the purpose of refusing to have anything to do with those stations which have disregarded the regulations of the secretary of commerce and taken wave lengths belonging to other stations.

That at least shows the attitude of those who listen in. They recognize the importance of having each station respect the restrictions and they realize the bother which is caused when stations refused to abide by the regulations, even though it has been held by the attorney general that the secretary of commerce has no authority to make certain restrictions.

The point that seems to be clearly set forth is that the listeners recognize the need of regulation and appreciate what has been done by the department of commerce in assigning wave lengths and requiring each station to stay in its own yard. They approve the sanction which the radio stations had previously given to departmental regulation and they demand that it be continued, because when it is not it means unsatisfactory conditions for them.

It matters no difference, of course, to the radio stations how many listen to their program. They can operate [illegible] no one receives their offerings but they are seeking more listeners because they make listeners unhappy and bring about their own downfall when they are spiting only themselves. It is this that the listeners through their contemplated organization hope to bring to the attention of the radio stations which show a disposition to encroach upon the rights of others. The threat should be warning enough to the broadcasters for by it them must realize that they are not a power unto themselves but dependent upon their listeners, and a station so which no one is listening might as well put out the lights shut off the current and lock the doors.

THE SELLERS OF POISON

With more than two scores dead as the result of drinking poison liquor in and about Buffalo, the dispenser of the stuff is known and he has offered his assistance for the purpose of prosecuting those who have double crossed him.

This is but the repetition of what has happened in other places where the desire to get rich quick has resulted in the selling of wood alcohol for grain alcohol even though it was known to be deadly poison. The impression may have been gained that inasmuch as the drinkers seem to be able to dispose of most anything that looks and acts like pre-war liquor they are getting more and more immune regarding poison. Occasionally there is wholesale evidence to the contrary and there is a great hue and cry over the conditions.

Whatever may be said concerning the seller of the poison in and about Buffalo, or the fact that he was engaged in the deliberate violation of the dry law, he apparently relied upon the honesty of others to furnish him with a beverage that would not mean quick death. He appears to have been tricked quite as much as were those who drank his alcoholic beverage, except that the misrepresentation did not deprive him of his life. He lives to rue the day that he ever got into the illegal rum selling business, while those who trusted in him, bought his goods and drank it are dead, blinded or sick. That he should desire to vindicate himself as far as possible is natural. He cannot bring back the dead or restore sight. Whatever penalty he may pay will not do that but he has the opportunity of putting an end to the gang that has been engaged in the distribution of such poison liquor on a large scale. Under ordinary conditions he would have nothing to say but his experience has driven him desperate. He has had brought home to him the necessity of ending such dangerous business in a most emphatic manner and when he acts he can by no means be branded as a squealer. He now sees the need of ending a rotten and deplorable state of affairs.

SETTLING THE DEBT

From present indications France is not going to bother about the debts to other nations until it has brought about an adjustment of more pressing problems. It is going to delay the debt settlement with this country until fall, and about the same time it is planning to take up the adjustment with the British. Time may bring about a change in this program.

As far as a completion of the ratification by this country it makes no difference whether France acts now or in October. Not until congress is in session again will there be a chance for the senate to act, and the senate will not act until France has indicated what it is going to do.

Early ratification on the part of France of the debt settlement arrangements have been regarded as desirable for the purpose of improving France's credit. The disclosure of its purpose in this respect would ease the job of getting loans which are needed in the betterment of the financial conditions in that country and the stabilization of the franc. If France can obtain such loans from other sources than Great Britain or this country it can let the debt settlements drift along.

It is a matter which has been hanging fire for several years and it is probable that the effects of a failure to reach an agreement have bothered France much more than the countries to which it is a debtor. It must not only face the debt adjustment in the future but it must deal with conditions which have accrued, in part at least, as the result of the attitude concerning the debt in the past.

SENATOR A. B. CUMMINS

In the sudden death of Senator Cummins of Iowa there has been removed one of the prominent figures of the upper house of congress. For the past 18 years he has represented that state in the senate and been a leader who played a conspicuous part in that body. There were the days when Senator Cummins was regarded as more or less of a radical. Experience changed that attitude until only a few weeks before his death the voters of his state decided he had served them long enough and called for his replacement by one of unquestioned radical views. Iowa has spoken and Smith Brookhart will doubtless be his successor as the result of the next election, but death has cut short by nine months the period for which he was elected to serve, and it is not improbable that the recent primary result had a heartbreaking effect upon the veteran.

Senator Cummins was a man six years beyond the three score and ten but until within a short time he had always maintained a vigorous activity and was responsible for much important legislation. Death has hastened only by months the termination of a highly creditable period of service in the national legislature that had been recently fixed by his constituents. Iowa has lost a wise and ardent representative.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The double influence of St. Swithin and dog days is making itself felt.

"Excessive heat harmed tobacco," says a headline. Did it make it go up in smoke?

With the passing of July there's only five weeks to Labor day and the county fair.

A Chicago murderer has pleaded guilty. Perhaps he needed a place to spend the night.

From the start they have made there's no ground for complaint about the dog days thus far.

The Fergusons of Texas are apparently newing political conditions from a different angle this week.

If Senator Borah can settle the Passaic strike perhaps Premier Poincare will be seeking his services.

The man on the corner says: One of the most popular books for the vacation trip is a well filled pocketbook.

Over in Bavaria a young man was arrested for theft because he blushed when accused. Criminals couldn't do a thing like that.

Only a matter of about seven weeks to the end of the straw hat season and no arrangements have as yet been made for an extension.

How long will it take to get such stuff as has killed a score and a half along the Buffalo-Niagara border out of the nation's system?

If the bad spots in the main city streets are not going to be repaired wouldn't it be a good idea to stick a pole in them and put "danger" placards thereon and a red lantern at night?

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Among the choice bits of literature that most children are taught in their formative years in this choice classic:

"How doth the little busy bee
Improve each shining hour?
He gathers honey all the day
From every opening flower."

The obvious lesson here is to be up and at it, but we can hardly expect little children to be up and at it "every shining hour," that is to be gathering honey. It may be a question if it is the best thing for the bees. Science has greatly increased our knowledge of bee life. We know for an actual fact that they have a form of social life. The have order and something that is akin to military discipline. But do they have any recreation? It is certainly pretty tough if they have to spend every shining hour in gathering even honey. One wonders if they don't attack the flowers in relays.

Three hundred and seven years ago yesterday the first representative American legislative assembly met at Jamestown, Virginia. That it was a very dignified convention goes without saying. It would hardly have comported with the spirit of the times had it been otherwise. When we regard the general character of the Jamestown settlement we know that it was ceremonious. As the type of the settlement was that of the established Church of England, we can readily see how it would differ from the early political gatherings of Plymouth and Boston. And yet apart from the form the religious element was conspicuous. And will anyone say that in these 300 years of representative government the religious element has not acted as a rudder to the ship of state? Legislative assemblies as well as sea craft need rudders.

We have just passed the anniversary of another great event that transpired in the last week or July of 1866. This was the completion of laying the Atlantic cable; an event that was a great factor in unifying the two great continents. It brought Europe and America into living touch as they had never experienced before. The rising generation may not be familiar with the name of Cyrus W. Field, a member of a famous family years ago. Field again and again saw his pet scheme fail. More than once did the cable part in the great depths or the Atlantic, and Field himself was nearly financially ruined. But at length his iron resolution to win was triumphant, and he will be forever remembered as one of the great benefactors. In him we have a wholesome example for the young. He knew he had a great thing to give the world, and he was bound that nothing but death should make him falter.

Nothing marks the present age more distinctly than the number and utility of its labor-saving devices. We are perfectly familiar with the machinery that has revolutionized the manufacture of woolen cloth. The material was once carded, spun and woven by hand. And almost everything else we use or wear was done by hand. This process was of coure so slow that it naturally limited production. It was the introduction of machinery that made the mammoth factory possible. Goods hand-made could hardly supply the demands of one hundred million people. Among the latest devices for saving labor is a machine for signing checks. Those used by those concerns that send forth checks on stock four times a year running up into six hundreds of thousands can affix original signatures to a great number at once. Two men can now do in ten days what would take one man three months to do.

Not in the preceding 5,000 years has such improvements been made in communication between one place and another as in the last 15 years. As a good concrete illustration of this statement take the signing of the Declaration of Independence, which occurred, of course, July Fourth, 1776. In just one month and a day later—on August 5, it was received and read in Charleston, South Carolina. The distance between these two cities can now be made by an express train in about 12 hours. Today King George in Buckingham palace, London, hears a concert while it is going on in New York, and we think it is nothing for business men in Boston to talk with their associates in Montreal and other distant cities. When we compare the old stage coach with the modern airship, we wonder what the next invention will be.

Recently in our Sunday school lessons we have been studying about Moses. And when we take in the varied activities of his life we cannot help comparing him with another prince of Egypt who lived in the long ago. The name of this ancient epicure was Tut-Ankh-Amen. By no stretch of the imagination can it be said that these two careers were parallel, although there were some points in common. Moses by adoption was a prince. He enjoyed the advantages of a court that could educate him in the lore of the day. Such advantages were also the lot of Tut-Ankh-Amen. But later in life Moses had the hard and thankless job of leading Israel from bondage to liberty; the other prince died in luxury and obscurity. Which would you rather be the immortal leader and lawgiver, or just a splendid mummy for science to puzzle over?

One sometimes wonders if disorder is not just as much an organic part of nature as of human conduct. We know that disorder has attached to human conduct ever since this world has been graced (?) by the presence of man. Has not the natural world been kicking up didos for an infinitely longer period? Why this frequent infraction of supposedly fixed laws? In fact can we rightly call any law fixed that is being so repeatedly banged straight between the eyes? On Sunday night, July 18, a terrific thunder storm attacked the North Atlantic states. Great havoc was wrought in many places. Trees uprooted, buildings unroofed, boats overturned, wires unstrung, and worse than all this, humanbeings slain. Can we call this criminal action? If there are automobile smashups in most cases we find there has been criminal carelessness; if we find little children lying in the fields dead from violent causes we say they have been murdered. Exactly how can disorders be adjudicated in conformity with moral law?

While vacation is not, because it cannot be, wholly given up to leisure, yet one is supposedly more free to pursue leisure than at other times. One cannot be all the time vigorously engaged in vacation. It is a bounden duty to provide ample time for rest. There is no better way of resting than having a book in hand. Doing absolutely nothing is the poorest possible way of getting rest. Hence the question is, What shall I read? Largely follow your inclination; this is safe just in proportion as the inclination has been trained. Charles F. Richardson, for many years professor of English literature at Dartmouth, wrote a little volume with this title, The Choice of Books. Nothing better on the subject has been published.

Bishop D. A. D. Jeglich, of Ljubljana, Jugo-Slavia, was the guest of honor at a farewell supper given at the Greek Catholic hall by the parish of the Holy Cross church in Bridgeport.

FIREBALLS SEEN IN NEW ENGLAND.

When the appearance of fireballs in the northeastern part of the United States was reported in November and December last year, requests and questionaires were broadcast through newspapers and radio by Dr. Harlow Shapley, director of the Harvard college observatory, asking that observers of the phenomena communicate with the observatory and give, by means of the questionaires, as accurate reports as possible of the facts of their observations. Hundreds of answers were received at the observatory, and have been carefully studied, with highly satisfactory results.

Dr. Willard J. Fisher, working at the Harvard observatory under the auspices of the National Academy of Science, has gathered together and organized all available data, and a full account of these meteors, with illustrations, will appear in the August-September number of Popular Astronomy and also in the Journal of the Royal Astronomical society of Canada.

Dr. Fisher has prepared the following summary of the study of these fireballs, made at the Harvard observatory with the help of the hundreds of volunteer observers who answered Dr. Shapley's questionnaire:

"Fireballs are bright meteors, comparable with Venus, or brighter. There is no way to set up divisions among meteors, separating faint shooting stars from bright ones, these from fireballs and these again from the great bursting bolides whose fragments sometimes shower the earth, and are later picked up as meteorites. But the shooting stars attract little attention, and meteorite falls are excessively rare; while fireballs are bright enough to be widely observed by very many people at once.

"Recently two opportunities to see these remarkable phenomena came in the way of people in New England, Canada and the northern Middle Atlantic states, and from them the Harvard observatory has received a great many reports of observations.

Located by Church Bells and Comets

"The first came in the morning of November 15, on a beautiful Sunday, when hosts of people were on the sidewalks or on the highways or out fishing; it caught the eyes of golfers between putts, and of steady people on the way to church. The time was thus extraordinarily well determined, as well as a sexton's watch can fix time; for, from North Haven to the Green mountains, the first church bell had ceased, and the last bell had not yet rung. As soon as the front page items about it in the Monday papers were read, Director Shapley of the Harvard observatory, decided that it was a matter to be followed up immediately. So a questionnaire was spread through the newspapers and by radio, with the immediate result of a flood of letters at the observatory. In two or three days there were a 100, and within a week or so, 140.

"When the observers' stations were plotted on a map of New England they were found to be very dense about Boston, and to thin out from there toward all points of the compass, but with this curious limit. South of a line drawn across Massachusetts, from Chatamport to New Ashford, there were no observers. This turned out not to be due to bad weather south of this line, for the sky there was clear. It could only to be explained as due to the rotundity of the earth, which hid the meteor behind the haziness of the lower air. In the region north of this line many people who saw this "bolt from the blue" drew their watches, which combined with the church bells to fix the time. During the few seconds it was visible some persons noted landmarks, and later got bearings with magnetic compass. About Boston the fireball was north 17 degrees east. Combining with north 22.5 degrees east at the Vesper club, north 65 degrees east at West Pawlet, Vt., and north 52 degrees east at Swiftwater, N. H., and with some rougher bearings in various places, it follows that the meteor plunged toward the bend of the Androscoggin river, in southern Oxford county, state of Maine. The meteor sloped steeply down from east to north, a ball brilliant against the clear blue sky even in the bright sunlight, and dragged behind it a short bright tail, which rapidly vanished and left no train in the sky. With this direction and at this time of day, it could not have been one or the famous November showers of Leonids. The ball burst before reaching the horizon of Boston, probably. Many widely separated observers thought it came to earth within a few miles or a few rods, but nobody has been able as any of these places to unearth a stone with that odd varnishy glaze which marks the true meteorite after its blazing contest with the earth's atmosphere.

"Several observers sent in finished and instructive pictures of this meteor in flight; especially Miss Helen Pearson of Portsmouth, N. H.; F. W. Hale of the Vesper Country club, and Sidney Prichard of Boston.

Meteor Dust Catches Last Rays of Sun

"The second opportunity came after sunset of December 29.

"Over the Ontario countries of New York, and west of the Finger Lakes, there was clouds; but elsewhere the twilight glows lingered in a sky of surpassing clearness, bright enough to hide the western stars, except Venus, Jupiter and a few first magnitudes. All the shops had turned out homeward, the trolleys and the sidewalks were full. A great fireball, at 5.56, sloped leisurely across the west, and left behind it a long-lived straight train of white, which changed through pink to smoky color and faded out. The shadows of states in Ohio valley were succeeded by others from further west, and passing upward by the hanging cloud they left it in darkness. But first the winds or the upper air tore at it, and wrung its straightness into a form which to many suggested a question mark. The first flash was bright on the walls of rooms in Massachusetts; by 15 or 20 minutes later the hundreds of thousands of eyes had seen the glowing train.

"On the next morning this too competed with divorce and murder on the front pages. So Dr. Shapley again said to go after it; the newspaper sowed the land with questionnaires, and Station WEEI filled the air. Immediately another flood of letters poured into the observatory, and the process of reading, acknowledging, and reducing the facts to order began again. Meanwhile, the people of Quebec and Ontario had also seen the great sight, and their astronomers took the same course; so Director R. Meldrum Stewart, at the Dominion Observatory, was receiving numerous letters in reply to press and radio calls in Canada. The mass which had come to Harvard was so great however, that the two directors decided to lump all together, making about 350 reports in all, and to have the data studied at the Harvard Observatory, under the auspices of the National Academy of Sciences. The extreme points from which reports came were Orillia, Ont., Chipman, N. B., Madison and Monhegan, Me., Block Island, Spring Lake beach, N. J., near Easton, Md., Bridgeport, W. Va., and Newark, O.

"On mapping the observers' stations and the bearing of the meteor, it became plain that there was no single meteor, but a shower of bright fireballs and lesser meteors, all within a few minutes. This made a jack-straw puzzle of the data, but it has been possible to disentangle a good deal of the pile and to show that in it there were at least seven identifiable meteors. Two of these came from the southeast, over Medway, Mass., and over New Haven, Conn., and the rest from a little west of south, over or near Johnstown, Pa., Bloomsburg, Pa., Hornell, N. Y., Oswego-Clayton, N. Y., and less certainly, over places to north or west of Lake Ontario and more or less southerly from Ottawa. Besides these there were undoubtedly others, which could not be sorted out.

Fellow Member Cremated Hooking Rids

"The best reported of these was the Hornell meteor. For this it was possible, by watch times, cross bearings an dother facts, to show that it burst about 41 miles up in the air and about six or eight miles east of Hornell, (having come down on a slope of about 35 degrees from about S. 22.5 degrees west, with a speed through the air of about 13 miles per second. The initial height, when it became visible, was about 64 miles. If any fragments of it are to be found, they should be looked for along a band a few miles wide from Naples to Sodus, N. Y. These facts, taking into account the attraction and revolution of the earth show that the meteor had swung around past the sun and was on its way out to the void again, when it caught up with the earth, on a slant from behind, and hit the air a crooked blow, which ended the meteor.

"About 20 years ago, Professor C. C. Trowbridge, of Columbia university, looked up the records of meteor trains. He found that long-lived trains like those of Dec. 29, 1925, in eight well-determined cases, stretched with various lengths and slants in the upper air, but all between the height limits of 65 miles above and 45 miles below. The train of Dec. 29, near Hornell, seems to have been formed within nearly the same limits, in a region of the atsmophere distinguished not only for meteor trains but also for an ozone layer and for remarkable relations to radio waves.

"The speed of the Hornell meteor through the air, 13 miles per second, was the difference in speeds of a stern chase, so to speak, and the actual speed of the meteor through space was 26 miles per second. Now this is the so-called parabolic speed, the speed which the pull of the sun could give to a thing falling from infinite distance by the time it would be passing the earth's orbit. So this object was definitely a member of our solar system, formerly circulating free among the planets, asteroids and comets of our family but now floating dust, till this settles from the air down to land or water.

One Good Photograph, Why Only One?

"The bright train of the Hornell meteor was photographed by D. O. Woodbury at Schenectady, N. Y. He held his kodak against a piazza post, and gave it two minutes with the stop at 7.7, wide open. This photograph was capable of quite exact measurement, and fixed the direction of the train and its angle above the horizon very well. In these days of unlimited amateur photography it is odd that nobody else succeeded in taking the meteor train. Another picture as good as Mr. Woodbury's, taken about the same time in Ontario or Pennsylvania, or elsewhere north or south of Hornell, would have fixed the position of the object excellently, better than has ever been done before. Perhaps another chance will fall in the way of our millions of kodak owners, and a few of them will follow this good example. Three or four series of such pictures with the watch times of opening would be worth more than hundreds of visual observations, no matter how careful. They would give us information about the currents of the upper air, which we can get now only from meteor trains.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

George W. P. Hunt, who has announced his candidacy for sixth term as governor of Arizona, was the first governor of that state, having been elected to the office in 1911. He is a Missourian who comparatively early in life invaded Arizonia and for a time roamed its plains as a ranch owner and cattle raiser. Then he turned to storekeeping, became well-to-do, organized and managed a large trading company at Globe, and in the course of time was sent to the lower house of the territorial assembly. When the convention sat in 1910 to draft a Constitution for Arizona he was a prominent member, and a year later he was elected first governor of the new state. In 1920, in an interval between his terms in the governorship, Mr. Hunt was named by President Wilson to be United States minister to Siam.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Endorses Ruth Spellacy's Idea.

Mr. Editor: Ruth W. Spellacy certainly says something and shows by what she says that her eyes and ears are open.

The foolishness in connection with prohibition talk goes ahead of any foolishness the world ever heard of before. Not only that, but the many crimes that are attributed to prohibition are equally foolish.

Miss Spellacy speaks loudly when she says "The good people turn away and attend to their own business, etc., etc." In this town the grand jurors held a court of inquiry as the law directs and not one single person among those "good people" went near.

Officers finally searched some places and after the search was over and cases all settled one of the leading "good people" told one of the officers where they should have searched. He took good care to keep his information under his hat until it was of no use. The "good people" mentioned above did not go near the grand jurors' court with this information.

Ruth Spellacy also makes a point on light wines and beers, but the fact is 99 out of 100 who howl for "light wine" don't know what they are talking about. I have never believed that congress should pass any such legislation as the prohibition amendment to the constitution. Thirty-one states are already prohibition, and one by one were becoming so, in time each state would have made laws governing the sale of liquors; but prohibition as passed and prohibition under the Volstead law are two entire different things. Had the Volstead act never been passed each state would have long ago handled the question successfully. Now, however, a repeal of the Volstead act would set back the cause of temperance centuries to say the least, as private manufacture of every kind of intoxicant has become almost a science and laws cannot be passed to take away what the people have learned. There is but one thing to do and that is press on.

I attended a circus in Plainfield not long ago, was there all day and never saw the sign of intoxication. The last circus I attended before prohibition there were hundreds more or less intoxicated and only one saloon in the village. Not only that the oldest resident of Plainfield cannot remember a circus in pre-prohibition days without some signs of "the critter", be present. You can often hear people say go to this and that town or city and get all you want anywhere. The facts are exactly opposite. One man, a physician to be exact, told me a few days ago he could go in any old place in Philadelphia and buy anything he wanted. I named one street where there were formerly nearly a mile of saloons and other questionable joints now completely free from such places and of course he hadn't heard of that. He further said I even went in a saloon and drank a glass of real beer. Knowing him to be a strict temperance man I asked how he knew, and his reply was "well its the only glass of beer I ever drank and I don't know, but it foamed all right."

Keep on, Ruth Spellacy, you have got the right idea.

C. B. MONTGOMERY.

Carp in The Quinebaug

Mr. Editor: In an item about carp in the Quinebaug, in the Bulletin of the 29th inst. your Danielson correspondent says he does not know how they got into that river.

About 40 years ago, my brother Thomas J. Brown, (now of Plainfield), owned a farm about one half mile below Packer. He built a dam across a brook running through the farm. This brook ultimately reaches the Quinebaug. He stocked the pond thus formed with German carp. The railroad company complained about the water flowing back onto their property, so the dam was destroyed. The carp therefore probably started on their pilgrimage to the river.

In Bennett's cove on the Quinebaug about two miles below the outlet of the brook, carp, estimated by fishermen to weigh from 15 to 25 pounds, have been seen.

Is this the answer?

Respectfully,
W. H. BROWN.

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Noyes Point?

Noyes point lies on the ocean-side and about 10 miles beyond Westerly, R. I., a trip to this point affording one opportunity to visit several nearby beaches in the ride along the shores, a delightful afternoon trip from this city.

Leaving Norwich by way of Route No. 17 to Westerly, via Preston bridge, the driver takes Route No. 1 upon leaving Westerly and continues along the Post road for about 5 miles beyond Westerly, until reaching Dunn's corner. At this point a turn to the right over a branch road brings the driver straight into Noyes Point, another 5 miles, making a run of about 29 miles.

Returning the driver could follow the shore roads to Watch Hill, thence back to Westerly and home, a round trip of about 63 miles.

On the return on reaching Westerly one could return either by Route No. 1 into Groton and thence home over the Military highway or return through Old Mystic and Center Groton to Groton, in which case the round trip would approximate about 72 miles.

Side trips on the return via the Westerly-Groton highway, Route No. 1 would take the driver through the picturesque villages of Stonington, Noank, Mystic and various other seacoast villages of great interest historically.

A Human Quadruped

Jennie Marie, age four, fell into a fish pond but fortunately was rescued without injury.

Later, in telling of the incident, she wound up her vivid description by exclaiming gleefully: "And only my hind feet were sticking out of the water."

A Financier

Paul, aged four, is a financier. He is left handed and his parents have been striving for some time to teach him to use his right hand at the table. He has been making wonderful progress since a reward of a penny a day was offered to him.

But on a Sunday recently it was noticed that Paul was using his left hand at the table, seemingly forgetting all he had been told about using his right hand.

"Why, Paul," said the lad's father, "why don't you use your right hand? You will not get your penny if you don't earn it."

"Because this is Sunday," the lad replied.

"But why can't you use your right hand on Sunday and get your penny?"

"Because it is Sunday, and even if I got a penny I couldn't spend it."

Reddy and Barker Become Acquainted

Friendships old and friendships new
Are only good when they are true.
—Old Mother Nature.

Acquaintance goes before friendship, but by no means are all of your acquaintances your friends. Reddy Fox is one who has many acquaintances, but few friends. People who are sharp and think themselves smart, and who perhaps really are smart, are likely to have few friends, but many acquaintances. Reddy never misses a chance to make an acquaintance, for he long ago learned that sometimes acquaintances may be very useful.

Every night after his first sight of Barker the Seal, Reddy visited the place on the beach where the rocks were and where they made out into the water. For several nights he saw nothing more of Barker.

"He probably was just resting there that night," thought Reddy, as he made his way down to the rocks just after gentle Mistress Mooh had begun her nightly climb up among the twinkling stars. "Probably I'll never see him again. Just the same, I should like to get acquainted with him.

Seeing him so near, somehow Reddy didn't feel so anxious to become acquainted.

Reddy stopped abruptly. For a moment he could only stare. On a flat rock almost within jumping distance from the shore was the stranger who spoke first. "Hello!" said he. "Who are you?"

"I'm Reddy Fox. Who are you?" replied Reddy.

"Im Barker the Seal," said the stranger, who looked very sleek and glistening in the moonlight.

Reddy put on his politest air. You know he can be very polite when he wants to be. "I am pleased to know you," said he.

"You don't know me," replied Barker rather gruffly.

"I'm pleased to make your acquaintance," Reddy corrected himself hastily.

"That's different. I'm glad to make yours," replied Barker.

"If you please, Mr. Seal, where do you live?" Reddy asked.

Barker stared at Reddy so long and so hard that Reddy began to feel uncomfortable. "Where do you suppose I live?" he demanded in his gruffest voice.

"I haven't the least idea; truly I haven't," Reddy hastened to say. "You see, this is only the second time I have seen you. I thought I knew everybody who lives on this part of the shore."

"Shore!" snorted Barker. "Shore! Do you think I live on the shore? I should say not. I live in the sea."

Then for the first time Reddy noticed that Barker had no legs. At least, they were not like any legs Reddy had ever seen. Where his front legs should have been, according to Reddy's idea, were what looked like two paddles. He had no hind feet. That is, Reddy thought he had no hind feet. When he moved, he flopped about on the rock. No one who flopped about like that could make much of a success living on shore. But it was equally hard for Reddy to imagine anybody but a fish living in the water all the time. "Are you a sort of fish?" he inquired.

"No!" snorted Barker, and looked more indignant than ever. "Fish, indeed! I'm no more of a fish than you are but I live in the sea just the same."

The next story: "Reddy Sees a Lobster."

Sunday Morning Talk

The Love of God.

We are told in Ephesians "to know the love of God, which passeth knowledge." This seems at first reading a paradox, but it is not; we can know the love of God, but we can never know all its wonderful greatness. When we witness from the deck of a steamer at sea a grand sunset that not only glorifies the heavens above but ripples in crimson light across the billows of the ocean, the golden gleams leaping from cloud to cloud now flashing, now fading into tints delicate and pure, melting into the blue sky, the heart thrills with praise to God who has made this world so beautiful. Do we think we have seen all of its beauty? To eyes, perhaps, far away, there have been depths and glories we have not seen. Perhaps we have not been as receptive as we might have been, and have missed some of the joy the Lord intended for us, because we are not in touch with Him. When we are in touch with Him, His love flows into our hearts and casts out fear, not awe of our God, but the fear that doubts His love and His promises, that after promising to take all our cares and burdens to Him and to trust Him picks them up again and tries to go forward bearing them, ignoring His promise, cast thy burden on the Lord. True love, that is, love that has been lighted by a spark from the Divine, does literally cast out fear. How can we fear when we know we are in the hands of our heavenly Father?

How we dislike a man who asked questions merely for the sake of getting a chance to answer them!

NORWICH CATHOLICS ASKED TO PRAY FOR MEXICO

All Catholics in Norwich, in common which Catholics throughout the diocese have been asked by Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of the Roman Catholic diocese of Hartford to pray for the Catholics in Mexico Sunday.

This request is contained in a letter to the clergy. It accompanies a letter from Archbishop P. Fumasoni-Biondi, apostolic delegate at Washington, which calls attention to a communication which the apostolic delegate has received from Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of the state at Rome.

Bishop Nilan's letter to the clergy follows:

"In accordance with the desire of the Supreme Pontiff, the clergy of the diocese of Hartford will invite the faithful to offer prayers for Mexico on next Sunday, the Feast of St. Peter in Chains.

"Till further notice the oratio Pro Papa will give place to the oratio Pro Quacumque Tribulations, which will remain the oratio imperata till further notice."

OBITUARY

John H. Ryan

Following a lengthy illness the death of John H. Ryan, 59, occurred Friday morning at 9:20 o'clock at his home in Lebanon. Mr. Ryan was born in Colchester April 12, 1867, the son of the late Martin and Margaret Brennan Ryan. Early in life he took up the occupation of farming and had made his home in Lebanon for the past 24 years.

On June 15, 1898, in St. Patrick's church, Norwich, by the late Rev. Hugh Trainor, Mr. Ryan was united in marriage with Miss Mary A. Fitzgerald, who survives him with six children—John Jr., Edward J., Charles J., Esther M., Ruth M., and Helen E. Ryan, all of Lebanon; two brothers, William and Frank Ryan of Gary, Ind.; and three sisters, Mrs. John Wade of Colchester, Mrs. Mary E. Wall of Norwich and Mrs. Margaret T. Brown of Jersey City, N. J.

Mr. Ryan was of quiet and modest habits and his pleasing disposition made it possible for him to gain a wide acquaintance in Lebanon and this section. News of his death will be learned with regret and sympathy will be extended to those left to mourn the loss of a loved one.

Mrs. Frederick Frazier

The death of Elizabeth Frazier, 54, widow of Frederick Frazier, occurred Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at her home, 30 Town street, after critical illness of a week, although she had been in failing health for the past few years. Two months ago Mrs. Frazier was stricken with a serious attack of heart trouble, which was accompanied by an aggravated cough. During this time she was removed to the home of her daughter, Mrs. Michael Buckley, who resides on the same street. Mrs. Frazier recovered sufficiently to return to her home, where she rallied for about three weeks.

She was born in Germany, Feb. 15, 1842, having come to this country when a girl of 15. A few years later she married Frederick Frazier, who died many years ago. The greater part of her life has been spent in different locations in Norwich Town. For the past 20 years her home has been on Town street, she having moved from the old Goodell house at Harland's corner a few years ago to the present location. When health permitted she attended the Norwich Town Methodist church.

Mrs. Frazier is survived by a son, Charles F. Frazier with whom she made her home, a daughter, Mrs. Michael Buckley, and two granddaughters, Miss Dorothea Elizabeth Buckley and Miss Marion Louise Buckley. A nephew is Frederick Adams of Worcester, Mass. All during her long life she was a most industrious woman, continuing until her health failed. She was a devoted mother and her happiness and contentment was in her home, where she spent her quiet and unassuming life. During her illness she was most tenderly and dutifully cared for by her family.

Among those on the general committee for the congress are Drs. Daniel Sullivan and Winthrop E. McGinley of New London and Drs. Robert R. Agnew and Charles C. Gildersleeve of Norwich.

The committee on enrollment and publicity for New London county consists of:

Dr. Sullivan, chairman; Drs. Emanuel A. Henkle, Charles B. Graves, Winthrop E. McGinley and E. Oliver Winship, all of New London; Drs. Agnew, Edward J. Brophy, Albert C. Freeman, C. C. Gildersleeve and Frederick P. Shenk, all of Norwich; Dr. William H. Gray, Mystic and Dr. George H. Jennings of Jewett City.

Can Produce Sugar in State

Production of sugar in extensive Connecticut acreage withdrawn from tobacco cultivation has been found to be practicable, it was brought out in a conference of United States Secretary of Agriculture William F. Jardine, State Commissioner of Agriculture Philo T. Platt and Kurt Grunwald, a consulting agricultural entol in Hartford Thursday.

Soil and laboratory tests have been so satsfactory that Mr. Grunwald, a representative of the Great Eastern Sugar Co., Inc., of Medford, L. I., guaranteed the erection of a $1,500,000 sugar factory in central Connecticut if central Connecticut farmers will agree to furnish annually the crop from 5,000 acres planted to sugar beets.

Revenge may be sweet, but seeking it is likely to sour one's disposition.

COMMITTEE LAYS PLANS FOR EASTERN CONN. BARBECUE PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN

A meeting of the publicity committee of the Thames Valley Citizen's committee, in charge of arranging for the eastern Connecticut barbecue to be held on the banks of the Thames river, met Friday evening at the Community house at Gales Ferry. Various phases of the publicity campaign were discussed and recommendations were made to be acted upon by the general committee which is to meet about the middle of August.

The sugestions made at the meeting included newspaper publicity, printing of full size posters for trolleys and other vehicles, that the co-operation of merchants be secured in displaying publicity in store windows; that the clergymen of the city be asked to aid in the publicity and that mailing cuts be printed for use on all letters and also for nearby postoffices which have stamping machines.

A general discussion of the barbecue took place following the business session and on adjournment arrangements were made for another meeting of the publicity committee within a few days.

The Boy Scout activity committee met Thursday evening at Camp Wakenah, New London Boy Scout camp at Gardner lake, a good representation of the committee being present. Chairman F. S. Burdick of New London presided at the meeting when plans were discussed for the barbecue and it was voted that the Boy Scouts take an active part in the program.

It is planned to set up a Boy Scout village or camp similar to the one set up at Springfield, only on a smaller scale, to show the activities of Boy Scout life. The services of the scouts will also be tendered for patrol work and messenger work.

Following the meeting the committee members were guests of the New London scouts at a chicken dinner. James J. Hammond, secretary of the New London Chamber of Commerce, addressed the gathering giving an inspiring talk on the Thames valley. After the meeting the members attended an entertainment by the Boy Scouts in the camp dining hall, this feature of the evening being greatly enjoyed.

The committee gave a vote of thanks to the New London Boy Scout council and to F. S. Burdick, for the many courtesies extended by the council.

PLAYGROUNDS CHILDREN TO HAVE BICYCLE PARADE

According to present plans of Supt. Earle E. Brigham of the local playgrounds, a bicycle parade will be held by the local playgrounds in the early part of August. The prize for the best decorated bicycle will be a handsome new bicycle which is now on display in Jack's Sport shop on Ferry street. All those wishing to enter should hand in their names to their playground instructors as soon as possible.

Starting Monday the Academy campus will again be available for interplayground contests. The playground games were called off during the week just closed because of the lack of suitable grounds. On Monday morning at the campus the Laurel Hill and East Side grounds will play off a postponed American league game, while on the afternoon in double-header will be staged at the campus with Elizabeth street and Lake street playing the first game, starting at 1:00 p. m. and Greeneville and Jail Hill playing the second starting immediately after the first one is ended. All of these games were postponed from the last two weeks.

Sessions in the playgrounds for the children of the East Side are being held in the Bishop school yard this week by Instructor Mildred Peckham while the Duwell field, regular meeting place is unavailable.

Games of horseshoe seem to be very popular at the Jail Hill playgrounds and many spirited contests in this sport are held there daily.

Sessions in the various grounds were curtailed somewhat by the rain of Thursday.

The Hobart avenue ground under the supervision of the instructor, Teresa Fitzgerald, is to stage a lawn party in the near future, for which plans are now well under way.

The Greeneville playground under the supervision of Instructors Edward Sullivan and Constance Raymond is to present dramatics in the form of several playlets in the near future. Rehearsals for these are being held at the grounds daily.

NEW LONDON, July 30.—George A. Sturdy, about 60, died tonight at the Hotel Mohican after an illness of about two weeks of complications of diseases. He is survived by his wife and so far as is known has no other near relatives. Mr. Sturdy, who had resided at the Hotel Mohican about six years, has been identified in the newspaper business as a journeyman and publisher. Since that time he has been employed in a clerical capacity by Brainard Lodge of Masons. His health became impaired about six months ago and at that time he underwent hospital treatment. His decline was gradual and for the past two weeks he had been confined to his room. A change for the worse occurred earlier in the week and he died about 10 o'clock tonight.

BELL WILL WARN AS TRAFFIC LIGHTS CHANGE

Alderman Patrick F. Sweeney announced Friday that white chalk marks are to be put at Broadway corner within a day or two, the white lines to mark the stop line for autoists and also safety zones for pedestrians. The working plan calls for autoists to stop at the white line when red or orange is showing and thus allow people a chance to cross when traffic is clear.

It is also understood that the commissioners have in mind a plan of speeding up traffic at Broadway corner by allowing motorists to make a right hand turn into Broadway from Main street when the red is showing against the traffic flow through Main street.

Owing to continuous complaints that the traffic lights are not visible to operators of motor vehicles the commissioners are to put the bell on the beacon into commission once again, this bell to ring every time the light changes. When the blinker was first installed the bells were used but businessmen nearby protested against this noise and the bell was silenced.

CIVILIANS TO START TRAINING AT FT. TERRY

The civilian military training camp is scheduled to open Monday at Fort Terry. Returns from all over the state are slow, and not one city or county in the state, according to the latest available figures, has fulfilled its quota of recruits.

Of the allotted quota for Connecticut, 646, there were 356 applications and 316 acceptances. This leaves 332 short of the quota, and it is doubtful if this total which is needed to fulfill the Connecticut quota will be filled.

Figures for Connecticut are: Hartford county, quota 159, applications, 103, acceptances 91; New Haven county, 196, 81; Fairfield county, 151, 90, 78; Litchfield, 35, 22, 24; Windham, 35, 23, 16; Middlesex, 23, 7, 7; and Tolland, 11, 3, 3; total quota 648, applications 356, acceptances 316.

The war department recently authorized an increase of 500 over the original quota of 3,000 in the First corps area and to that additional number applicants may be accepted until Aug. 5 for Fort Terry and Camp Devens. In the beginning it was intended to send accepted men from this state to Fort Terry, but now these may have their choice of that fort or Camp Devens.

By courses accepted men had to July 17 been assigned to Camp Devens as follows: Basic, 928; red, 444; white, 139; blue, 47; total 1,558. By courses assignments to Fort Terry to then were: Basic, 212; red, 117; white, 32; blue, 8; total, 369. Men assigned come from all of the six states in New England. There are also stations for training at Forts Ethan Allen, McKinley and Adams.

Connecticut exported commodities valued at $11,922,032 during the first quarter of the current year, an increase of $1,927,420 over the state's foreign shipments of $9,984,612 in the corresponding three months of 1925, according to a statistical export survey made public Friday by the department of commerce. By virtue of this export increase Connecticut not only ended the first quarter in 22nd position among all the states from an export standpoint as compared with its rank of 27th at the conclusion of the first quarter of last year, but finished ahead of Missouri, Tennessee, Iowa and Alabama, all of which it trailed during the first quarter of 1925.

Foreign shipments of machinery and machinery parts from Connecticut in the first three months of this year surpassed all other exports and were valued at $3,814,953. Iron and steel manufacturers ranked in second place with export valuations of $2,135,962, while firearms and ammunition valued at $793,411, was third in export importance. Among the other principal exports from the state during the quarter under survey were: Rubber and rubber manufactures, $549,297; brass and bronze, $532,548; cotton manufactures, $480,762; copper and copper manufactures, $380,766; gasoline, $373,205; clocks and watches, $161,217.

Change in Naturalization Laws

A change in the naturalizaton laws, adopted by the last congress, is now in effect in the Connecticut district and no longer requires the presiding judge in the naturalization court to hear the questioning of applicants for citizenship. An order to this effect has been signed by Federal Judge Edwin S. Thomas.

Until recently it was required by law that applicants for admission to citizenship, had to be questioned in court by the presiding judge, or by the naturalization examiner in the presence of the judge and in open court. With so many women now being made citizens an dchanges in the laws which changed their status of citizenship, congress provided that the questioning of applicants might be done outside the courtroom, and at naturalization sessions of the court the presiding judge might accept the recommendations of the examiner for admission or rejection of the applicant.

MISS COLLETT PLAYS BRILLIANT GOLF TO BEAT MISS ORCUTT ONE UP

EASTERN POINT, Conn., July 30.—(AP)—In one of the most thrilling finishes ever displayed in a golf match, Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., today came from behind and winning five of the last six holes, overcame a lead of 4 up and won the eighth annual women's invitation golf tournament of the Shenecossett Country club, by defeating Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., one up.

It was Miss Collett's fifth victory in the event, but never before has she been called on for such spectacular golf as Miss Orcutt forced her to play today. The national champion shot the 6,512 yard links in 82, one over women's par, while her 19-year old opponent, who was medalist in the qualifying round with 82, today took 83. Having thrown away several holes during the first half, Miss Collett, found her game just as Miss Orcutt began to weaken, and to the amazement of the gallery turned apparent defeat into a brilliant victory.

It was a battle of the putter so far as the play was concerned although one was dubbed it, the battle of the tees, because the names of both players and the club ended with two T's each. Miss Collett could not get control of her putter for 12 holes and saw holes slip away after she had reached the carpet on even or better terms than her younger opponent.

But, just as the large gallery of gaily dressed women had conceded the title to Miss Orcutt, the national titleholder settled down and played unbeatable golf on the last 6 holes, getting two birdies and 4 pars.

Three down and five to go, both players were bothered by the moaning of a fog horn at the mouth of the Thames, on the 413 yard 14th and barely halved in par 5. But Miss Collett showed that she had found her putter while Miss Orcutt's putting during the siren's screech became mediocre on the greens. The next hole saw the lead cut again, for Miss Orcutt barely reached the edge of the 13th, tabled green and her ball bounced back and rolled part way down the slope. Miss Collett was well on, and got a par 3 to be only two down. Then Miss Orcutt found a trap with another wide good drive on the 16th, popped out short and took 5, being only one up when her opponent got down in a perfect 4.

Sniffing victory, Miss Collett unleased a drive of 235 yards on the 418 yard 17th, while her opponent made 200. Both were a trifle short on the green in two, but Glenna ran up dead for her second birdie, squaring the match. Two good drives gave the players an equal chance at the home green, but Miss Orcutt pulled her approach short into a deep trap. She made a game effort to halve the hole, snapping out well and bobbling the up on her putt for a par 4, but Glenna was well on with her second and got down in two putts for the victory.

Miss Collett had a trifle the better of the driving, although Miss Orcutt is famous in that department. The New Jersey player was bolder with the brassie and for most of the journey more exact in the short game.

The victor reached the finals by qualifying in 12th place with an 89, defeating Mrs. C. J. Downey, Springfield, 6 and 1.

At the same time, Miss Orcutt slipped with all her clubs, found sand traps, stymies and mental hazards and yielded up the battle on the 18th green when her putt for a par 4 bobbled the cup and just stayed out.

Miss Collett was never up until that moment, having lost the third hole to a birdie, after they had shared the first two in par. After two more pars, Miss Collett evened affairs again by taking the short sixth in par, but from that point to the 17th hole, she always was down. The champion pulled out of bounds on the long 7th, and although she played the hole perfectly after that misadventure, she lost for Maureen got her second birdie.

Miss Orcutt tok the 9th with a par 5, to be 2 up at the turn for Glenna got in a trap, taking 42 to reach the halfway mark to Miss Orcutt's 40. Trapped again on the 10th Miss Collett was 3 down and when she took three putts on the 12th for the 4th time in 6 holes, she was 4 holes to the bad with only 6 to go.

Then like the changing fog on the seashore on the south of the links, the fortunes of the players reversed.

Miss Orcutt slapped her drive on the 538 yard 13th, the lowest hole on the course; and although she followed with a screaming brassie and was nicely on in 3, she found herself stymied when she came to putt for an eagle 4. She played wide of Glenna's ball and missed her comeback, while Glenna was down in 5 for her first birdie.

Mrs. C. B. Alker, Glen Head, N. Y., 2 and held Payson, Portland, Maine, 4 and 2. Mrs. F. E. Dubois, Portchester, N. Y., 5 and 4, in the order named.

Miss Orcutt won the gold medal in the qualifying round with an 83 and yesterday won the driving contest. She defeated in order Mrs. C. F. Eaton, Jr., Wellesley Hills, Mass., 3 and 2, Mrs. N. K. Toerge, Locust Valley, Long Island, 3 and 2, Marie Jenny, New York, 3 and 2, and Mrs. J. S. Cassriel, Chicago 1 up.

Miss Collett has been erratic all week, failing to win the gold medal in the qualifying round, but she went through all of her matches successfully—having her narrowest escape today.

TIMELY HITTING ENABLES RED SOX TO BEAT TIGERS

DETROIT, July 30.—(AP)—Timely hitting gave the Boston Red Sox their third victory out of four starts against the Tigers, the Red Sox winning, 4 to 3. Zahniser weakened after the seventh inning and Heimach finished. A Tiger rally that put men on second and third with two out in the ninth was ended when Heimach fanned Wingo. It was the first series that Boston had won from Detroit this year.

RIVERVIEW CLASHES WITH FAST SYRACUSE CLUB TODAY

What is expected to be the best baseball attraction in the eastern part of the state will be staged this afternoon at the Norwich State Hospital diamond when Riverview clashes with the fast New Process Gear Co. club of Syracuse, N. Y. The visiting team comes to Norwich with an enviable record and in New York state is considered to be one of the fastest clubs outside of organized baseball in the state. This is evidenced by the fact that last year the New Process club captured the Central New York semi-pro title and in exhibition clashes with international league clubs made a wonderful showing.

The lineup of the Syracuse club includes a number of nationally known baseball stars of minor league experiences, two of the most prominent being Knapp and Lefty Baldwin. Tom Gaughan, an old time leaguer and manager is at the helm of the Syracuse club and has piloted his charges through several successful seasons. Seldom does a team of the calibre of the Syracuse club play in the smaller cities and Norwich is indeed fortunate to be visited by this club.

Manager Zemke of the Riverview team will send in his full strength against the Syracuse boys. Tony West will do the hurling for Riverview with Joe Belair on the receiving end. Lefty Harrell will cover the first sack while Joe Hamel and Mondi Normandin will take care of the territory around the keystone position. Nap Liberty will be at third. In the outfield will be Harry Mills, Jack Clabby and Lefty Dugas, the heaviest hitting trio of outer defense men that Riverview has ever assembled. The game today means a world to the local club which has a strong claim on the state semi-pro title having defeated the leading contenders for the title. In the last 24 games played the Riverview club has lost but five. The lineups:

Syracuse—Knapp rf; Jennings 2b; LaFontaine lf; Burns 1b; Hanson or Carr cf; Dotter ss; Foertsch 3b; Lane or Kegan c; Baldwin p; Bossett p.

MISS RYAN AND MISS GOSS REACH ESSEX CLUB FINALS

MANCHESTER, Mass., July 30.—(AP)—Miss Elizabeth Ryan, of Santa Monica, Calif., and Miss Eleanor Goss, of New York, will tomorrow in the finals of the Essex County club women's invitation tennis tournament. Miss Ryan today reached the finals by defeating Mrs. A. H. Chapin, Jr., Springfield, 6-1, 6-3. In the other semi-final, played yesterday, Miss Goss eliminated Mrs. J. D. Gorbiere, of Boston.

The courts were heavy after the rain of yesterday and last night and the conditions appeared to hamper Mrs. Chapin more than her opponent, who retained the lead throughout.

Semi-final matches in the women's doubles, and in the mixed doubles, also were decided this afternoon, as well as one remaining fourth round event in the mixed doubles. Miss Ryan reached the finals in both doubles tournaments. In the mixed doubles she is teamed with Edward Chandler, Berkeley, Cal., and in the women's doubles with Miss Goss, her opponents in the singles finals.

RICHARDS PLAYS BRILLIANT TENNIS TO REACH SEMI-FINALS IN METRO

NEW YORK, July 30—(AP)—Vincent Richards scored one of his most impressive triumph of the year at the Crescent Athletic club today to gain the semi-final round of the Metropolitan tennis championship with William T. Tilden, national titleholder, Takeechi Harada of Japan and Dr. George King of New York.

In the most convincing tennis he has played since his return from European invasion with Howard Kinsey, the youthful Olympic champion went through the defense of Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., to win decisively 6-2, 6-2. Advancing with him to their brackets, Tilden was carried to three sets by Lucien E. Williams, of Chicago, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2. While Harada overwhelmed Hugh G. M. Eelleher of New York, 6-1, 6-4. Brian I. C. Norton, former South African star, went down to unexpected defeat at the other match of the quarter.

While Richards' sparkling rallies provided the high spot of the day's play, they were hardly more sensational than the defeat of Norton at the hands of the New York veteran King. Norton, who was ranked five places ahead of King at No. 9 last year, made a stirring uphill fight in the first set after trailing at 5-3 and 40-30. Here his foe braced to carry the battle 20 games for victory.

Summaries:

Singles—fourth round:

William T. Tilden defeated Lucien E. Williams 6-4, 5-7, 6-2.

Takeitchi Harada won from Hugh G. M. Kelleher, 6-1, 6-4.

TAFTVILLE A. A. PLAYS TWO GAMES OVER THE WEEK END

Taftville A. A. will go against two strong clubs this week end, meeting the fast New Departure team of Meriden at the Providence street grounds this afternoon and clashing with the Socony team of New London at the J. B. Martin grounds on Sunday.

The game this afternoon is bound to be one of the fastest games of the season at the Providence street grounds. The New Departure club is a neat aggregation of ball players with a reputation of being as fast a club in the state. This club has won ten out of thirteen starts, the Riverview club being one of the few teams to hand them a defeat. The New Departure club boasts a number of former Eastern league players in Eddie Hart, Hackbarth and Alexander. Besides they have Sam Massey of South Manchester, one of the smoothest little second sackers outside the leagues.

If Taftville can hang a defeat on to this club it will be no small step toward a claim for state honors and with the Riverview-Taftville series slated for next month it will give the fans a line on the two clubs. Taftville will probably use Lefty Buckland against the Meriden club saving Lefty Jarvis for the Socony game on Sunday. The lineups of the two clubs will be:

New Departure—Corkins, c; Hackbarth c; Scott, Cygan or Big Ed Walsh p; Eddie Hart, 1b; Sam Massey, 2b; Dwyer ss; Halibach 3b; Alexander lf; Gibson rf; Zelike cf.

Taftville—Eccleston c; Buckland or Jarvis p; Cardie 1b; Tombari 2b; Gauthier ss; Yerrington 3b; Leo Jarvis lf; L. Jarvis or Gaudette cf; Dona rf.

STIMPSON REACHES FINALS IN N. E. AMATEUR GOLF

NYATT, R. I., July 2—(AP)—E. S. Stimpson, of Brae Burn and F. C. Newton, of Country, fought their way to the finals of the New England amateur golf tournament here today. Stimpson, in the semi-finals this afternoon defeated Herbert Jacques, of Country, 3 and 2, and Newton put F. N. Hancock of Metacomet, Rhode Island state champion, out of the running, 2 and 1.

A 36-hole match, starting tomorrow morning, will be played between Stimpson and Newton to decide the New England championship.

Play today, on a course made soggy by rain, was featured by Newton's victory over Jessie Guilford, of Woodland, in a struggle which required 23 holes of play for a decision.

J. B. MARTIN TEAM PLAYS AT WORCESTER THIS WEEK

On Saturday the J. B. Martin nine travel to Worcester to be the guests of the Crompton & Knowles club of that city. This will be the second time this season that these two clubs cross bats the first game being taken by the Loommakers by the tune of 5 to 4 in one of the best battles witnessed on the local grounds, going fifteen innings. The Velvetmen will leave Saturday morning about eight o'clock and a royal bunch of rooters will follow them on their trip. The J. B. boys have been put through a stiff workout.

PLAYGROUND SPORTS
Jail Hill Midgets Win

Les Carroll's Jail Hill grounds midget baseball team won a spirited 10 inning contest from Ed Sullivan's midget Greeneville nine at the latter grounds on Friday afternoon by the score of 12 to 11. The game was exceptionally hard fought throughout and it was not until the last man was out that the issue was decided.

Matthew pitched well for the winners and also received good support in the pinches. Cox and Bellone also did good work for the Jail Hill team.

Quinn pitched well for the losers but his support failed him at critical moments. He was the star for the Greeneville nine, both in the field and at bat.

A return game is expected to be played later in the season.

T. C. A. S. Team Challenges

The Tin Can Alley Sluggers will play the Taftville Red Tops Sunday afternoon at the Academy campus at 2 o'clock. If challenge is accepted call 1052-2 today between 2 and 3.30 o'clock. The lineup for the Sluggers is Stephano c; Worthy p; Miseki 1b; Tunney 2b; Tooth 3b; Simons ss; F. Hughes lf; Slaga cf; Hansen rf.

BORG CONTINUES HIS RECORD-BREAKING SWIMMING

PHILADELPHIA, July 30—(AP)—One world's record was shattered and another established in the National A. A. U. swimming championships in the sesqui-centennial pool today.

Arne Borg, Illinois A. C., Swedish star, who yesterday broke the half mile mark, continued his record-breaking performance today by clipping 47 3-5 seconds from mile mark in the outstanding performance of the meet. He swam the mile in 21.46 2-5.

Sunday's Game

As the J. B. Martin team will be in Worcester over the week end the Taftville A. A. will have the use of the diamond and will play the fast Socony team of New London. This game should be the stellar attraction of the Sunday games in the eastern part of the state and a fast game is expected. The Socony team has a real collection of star players including Eddie Burns, Artie Couillard and Joe Barry all well known to local baseball fans.

Lloyd Jarvis will probably be Manager Troland's choice for the pitching burden and his team will lineup the same as for Saturday's game. The Socony lineup will be: Couillard 1b; Foote 2b; Harran cf; Scribner rf; Eardier c; Barry ss; Burns 2b; Beany lf; Harry Mills lf; Chappell p.

Towners to Play Two Games

The Taftville Town team will play two games over the week-end, the second game of the series with Hanover to be played Saturday at Hanover and on Sunday the Towners will play the fast Pioneers of Groton at Groton. The Taftville team will lineup as follows: Lamory c, Dudek or Pete Finn p, Phalen 1b, Rockdale 2b, Lemius 3b, Martin ss, Finn lf, Burelle sub. The team has an open date a week from Saturday and would like to hear from some fast team.

Federals Win

The Federals defeated the Greeneville Rosedales 11 to 2 in a one-sided game Friday evening at the West End Community diamond. Kotch pitched good ball for the Federals and allowed but three hits while his teammates pounded Nevins hard. A feature of the game was a home run by Mulin with one on base. Goldblatt and Cimikoski starred for the Rosedales.

Attention Versailles Cubs

The Orioles accept the challenge of the Versailles Cubs for a game to be played Sunday at Versailles. If agreeable call 680-3.

Very soon a beginning will be made with the construction of the Amsterdam stadium, in readiness for the 1928 Olympic games, and an idea of the immensity of the project will be gathered from the fact that before the concrete work can be constructed 400,000 piles, each 50 feet in length, will have to be driven into the ground.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

A Candid Confession

I often think if I were rich of how
I'd help the poor,
Of how I'd have both food and clothes
delivered at the door
Of some poor fellow who was sick and friendless as a rat,
And how I'd go about all day performing stunts like that.

But when I seriously reflect on what I fail to do,
(And possibly this selfsame thing may have occurred to you.)
Unto myself I must admit, although the thought doth sting,
If I were rich the chances are I would n't do a thing.

If You Know

If you knew a note from you
Had a wealth of comfort in it,
Or for just on fleeting minute
Would make bright a colorless room
Darkened now by pain and gloom,
Where a friend of yours is lying
Weak and helpless, maybe dying,
Would you not with love indite it?
Well it would! Why don't you write it?

If you knew a word from you
Had a charm sad eyes to brighten
Hope to raise and care to lighten,
Strength to send a friend or neighbor
Braver to his daily labor,
Power to scatter every doubt,
Every dismal thought to rout,
Would you not with pleasure say it?
Well, it has! So why delay it.

If you knew today that you
Were an influence widely spreading,
That wherever you go treading
You're a power for good or bad;
That within yourself you had
Both the means and talents ample
To become a high example,
Would you sullenly refuse them?
Well, you have! So why not use them?

A Sermon in Rhyme

If you have a friend worth loving,
Love him. Yes and let him know
That you love him, ere life's evening
Tinges his brow with sunset glow.
Why should good words ne'er be said.
Of a friend—till he is dead.

If you hear a song that thrilled you,
Sung by any child of song,
Praise it. Do not let the singer
Wait deserved praises long.
Why should one who thrills your heart
Lack the joy you may impart.

If you hear a prayer that moves you,
By its humble pleading tone
Join it. Do not let the seeker
Bow before its God alone,
Why should not your brother share
The strength of "two or three in prayer?

If you see the hot tears falling,
From a brother's weeping eyes,
Share them, and by kindly sharing
Own your kinship in the skies,
Why should anyone be glad,
When a brother's heart is sad?

If a silvery laugh goes ripping
Through the sunshine on his face,
Share it. 'Tis the wise man's saying—
There's health and goodness in the mirth.
In which an honest laugh has birth.

If your work is made more easy
By a friendly, helping hand,
Say so. Speak out brave and truly,
Ere the darkness veil the land.
Should a brother workman dear
Falter for a word of cheer.

Scatter thus your seeds of kindness,
All enriching as you go—
Leave them. Trust the Harvest Giver;
He will make each seed to grow.
So until the happy end,
Your life shall never lack a friend.

ANOTHER CORNER MEMBER

Dear Editor of Social Corner: I enjoy your Social Corner very much and would like to join, but do not understand very much about becoming a member.

I was introduced to a lady in Danielson one day this week who opened her pocketbook and asked me if I were a member. Surprise, I looked in and saw one of your club membership pins. I answered, "No, but I intend to join." She said, "Just write your name and send it in," and that is what I'm doing.

"MY DELIGHT IS MY GARDEN"

Dear Editor and Sisters: Have just finished reading the letter of The Friendly Voice and feel she is a sister after my own heart, for my delight is my garden. We did not plant this year, as we are soon leaving to make our home in California, but as I had prepared my lettuce bed in the fall, I planted it and for all it has been such a bad summer we have had extra fine lettuce and such quantities of it we were able to share with friends. In my border of perennials I have had a clump of the beautiful dark blue delphinium and back of it is a red rambler and the old fashioned fragrant white rose that has a creamy center. I do not know the name of it, but it is beautiful. Now I did not plant these to make the effect, but it is there, the colors of our flag and we all love it. Speaking about bugs and every other insect that torments the gardener, I've followed in the train of the miserable caterpillar and gone from tree to tree and vine every morning for weeks, and just as I would think they were all gone would find a new crop.

I've had a fine crop of currants this year as I spray with arsenate of lead when the currants first form, that seem to kill the eggs of the worms and the grape vines never were so full as this year. I've found that as soon as the rose bug comes by dusting the grapes in the morning when the dew is on them with slug shot, that they will never bother them. I do it twice and it does the trick. I picked 123 quarts of strawberries from our patch, but they suffered from want of rain. Glad to see it today when I have my garden in my new home will write and tell all about it. We have an acre but part of it will be in chicken units and rabbit hutches. Best wishes to the sisters of all the clubs.

GREETINGS FROM SISTER READY

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Just so it cannot be said of me, "she is a slacker." I will try this hot afternoon to write a few lines to let you all know I am still in this side of the promised land. Just at present there is a gentle breeze and it is very welcome.

Thursday evening one of the goodmen of the house said to me I want to arise at 3:30 tomorrow morning as I want to get an early start. I just sat and looked at him and said What? I wanted to be sure I had not made a mistake in the time, as that meant 3 for me, and daylight saving time at that. I told him as that was an unusual time of arising I was afraid I might miss it and he had better set the alarm clock. He did and it never "alarmed" at all. But I was awake and on the job just the same and had the pleasure of seeing the great electrical storm. I think I saw the bolt of lightning that stuck the girl's college in New London.

I enjoyed the day with Club No. 6. I found the sisters very pleasant and sociable. I also enjoyed the sisters of Club No. 1. my old home club of Willimantic. The ride was very fine and we all had such a good time together.

I want to thank all who remembered me on my birthday.

Scottie: I am well thank you and am on this side of Jordan.

Catnip: I haven't had that call yet.

Aunty No. 1: How is the garden coming on? Just dandy I trust.

Biddie: It did seem good to hear you cackle once more.

Sweet William: How are you this hot weather? This is good weather for the car.

Theoda: Was glad of our visit together homeward bound.

Edna Marie: Was glad to see you again.

I did all new members welcome. To the sick I send good cheer and sympathy to all in sorrow.

Best wishes to all from.

WORDS OF OLD SONG WANTED

Dear Social Corner Members: How have you all enjoyed the heat wave? I think Aries poem about keeping quiet the best way. The one Nema sent about the picnic was good. Dinner is my best meal and I prefer to eat at a table.

How nice and cool since Saturday. It makes one feel more like working.

Peggy Anne: Seems a long time since your name has appeared in the Corner. Am glad you wrote again. You mentioned about Pollyanna. I will remember her.

If any of the sisters have the words of the old song, I Dreamt I Dwelt in Marble Halls, wish they would send them in. It will be greatly appreciated.

I enjoyed reading the page last Saturday especially the letter from The Friendly Voice and hope to meet her in the near future.

Best wishes to all.

OVER THE MOHAWK TRAIL

Dear Social Corner Friends: Well at last I have found time to write a few lines and tell something about my trip on the Mohawk trail. Words fail to describe it but I will try and give you some idea. I was very glad to see so many nice letters, but better than I could have written. Well we took our lunch with us and got some of it packed the night before as we wanted to start early in the morning and Monday morning bright and early we were on our way. We went to Putnam first and then to Webster, Oxford, and Worcester, and as we went along the Berkshire hills began to loom up and such hills I never saw before and then we went through Rutland, Athol and Orange, and as it was nearly dinner time we found a very nice shady tree where we stopped and ate our lunch, and how good it tasted as it always does out of doors! We ate our lunch at a place called Erving and after resting a while in the nice shade we were rather hurried from the place as a strange dog put in an appearance. We were rather afraid as there has been so many mad dog stories of late so we were on our way again. We passed through Miller's Falls and Turner's Falls and Greenfield, a very beautiful place with those wonderful hills in sight all the way. I thought I had seen some large hills in Connecticut but they are not to be compared with the hills in Massachusetts and then we came to Shelburne, Charlemont and to North Adams. After turning the hair pin curve anyone would think the road led on farther but that seems to be the end there at the curve. As it was getting about night and we were rather tired of riding we stopped at a place a little out of North Adams and put up for the night. It proved to be a very nice place with every convenience.

I don't think I told you but there were four of us in the party, my two daughters and my sister-in-law so we had a jolly time you can bet. In the morning after sitting on the verandа awhile we started on again. The next place was Williamstown and then Lake Taghconic a very beautiful lake. The next place was Pittsfield a very large city and I must speak right here about Mt. Tom. We rode for miles and miles with it in view and I think if I go anywhere another year that will be my trip is everything is well. It must be a wonderful sight.

Lenox, Lee, Huntington, Woronoco, Westfield came next and I think it was about this time we saw the most beautiful view of the Berkshires. It was wonderful to look on hills or all sizes and shapes and the way they were situated. It was just lonely and then we came to Springfield another pretty city and on to Palmer, Brimfield, Sturbridge where we went in a place to eat our dinner and then to Southbridge, and then to Quinnebaug and Woodstock where we were invited in to supper with relatives. As we had a little trouble with the auto we had to stay a little longer than we expected to but we got fixed up started for home arriving home at about 11 p. m. and I would advise anyone if they wanted to take a little trip they couldn't find anything much better. It is not very expensive. We were only gone one night and we feel well repaid for going as it gives one something different to think about. Well sisters how did you stand this last week of hot weather? I planned my dinner every day and fixed it in the morning so as to let the fire go out through the hottest part of the day. I made a salad for one day and another I made a chowder which did not take much fire to warm up and so on every day. I think we can get along without so much fire if we try. Hoping to see some of the sisters before the summer is over will try to get to some of the picnics.

Best wishes to all.

BE REAL FRIENDS

Dear Social Corner Folks, One and All: Well "Ma" has come to life again although that terrible hot weather almost got the best of me. Now Fuller Phun who in the world are you? If I had seen you wave I surely would have answered it but so many go by my house and we are quite away from the road I don't always see things I ought to and then maybe I see things I ought not too. Some sights along the highways nowadays.

You stop the next time you go by and make yourself known. You say you visited the same friends I did in Brooklyn and had the same driver. How could that be, for my son drove me and he has not been there since. I told him. He laughed and said there must be some mistake, but anyway do visit that old church if you get a chance, it's worth while to do so. I want to attend the meeting on All Saints day there is possible. They have one every year. I have been having lots of rides and outings lately for the day taking our lunch and eating it where ever we found a place to suit us. It makes a change and as we cannot all leave for only a day at a time on account of about 500 chickens to care for such outings do us all good. Love the summer time and long days but they will soon begin to shorten. It doesn't seem possible the first of August is so near.

Now, sisters, don't work too hard and don't stand and iron every piece. I put away towels of all kinds, sheets everyday pillow slips and underwear without any ironing and when you begin to do this you will be surprised how many things can be put away without the flat on them. I had an uncle who was a doctor and he used to say it was much more healthy to do so. They certainly do smell so nice and fresh right from the line.

I have worked hard this dry summer to keep a few plants alive by carrying water an am rewarded by having some blossoms t olook at. Have had a nice garden for all it has been so dry today. I am to have a quahaug chowder for dinner. Dou you smell them cooking? I wish I might be at some of your picnics and want to attend some meetings this fall. I've not seen or heard from Bug for a long time, I suppose she still lives in the same place.

Now let's all be friends and real friends not the kind who is so nice to your face and the minute your back is turned say something different. Life is short at the best and almost done for some of us so let's show our friendship while we have the chance, remembering that we pass this way but once and let's try and leave good thoughts behind us, a little kind word, a smile, or a little thoughtful act. How we all cherish them in our hearts! So don't let's forget to do our share.

Yours same as ever.

A GRAPE FRUIT COCKTAIL

Dear Sisters: For an appetizer to serve to the first course of a luncheon, a grape fruit cocktail is particularly good.

Peel two large grape fruit, remove the pulp from the partitions and put about 2 tablespoons or bar sugar over the pulp. Let stand about 2 hours. Put six blanched almonds in a sherbet glass, also one marshmallow, cut in quarters, and about 2 tablespoons of grape fruit juice and pulp. On the top of each glass of the mixture, place a maraschino cherry. The above quantity will serve ten people.

Greek Salad: 1 large raw carrot, 1-2 small head cabbage, 1 teaspoon salt, 5 stalks celery 2 green peppers, 3-4 cup mayonnaise. Dice the carrots, celery, cabbage and peppers. Mix thoroughly. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Cinnamon Cookies: Cream 1-2 cup butter with 1 cup of sugar, 1 heaping teaspoon cinnamon, 1-2 cup sweet milk, 2 cups flour to which has been added 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons cream tartar. Roll very thin using more flour if required. Cut into fancy shapes and bake. Please try and report to

ROUND ROBIN.

ANOTHER BUSY GARDENER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I certainly enjoyed reading what A Friendly Voice had to write about her garden, especially about scarecrows, etc. I used to always have one or two in my garden to keep away the birds and chicks, so the people who went by thought that comical looking lady was me. Well, I got tired of being taken for a scarecrow so decided to put up a wire fence. The was sent to me about four years ago, which I have greatly enjoyed.

I am a lady well along in years, live alone. "Just around the corner" in a house by the side of the road" which my father built over 50 years ago. After he died the little cottage home was all my own together with 1 1-2 acres of land. I live here summers only and gardening is my chief delight. I love "God's great out-of-doors" and am kept busy every minute of my time. There are two maples in front of the house, a nice large, clean lawn, eight full grown ash trees, two pines, two elms, one pear and one peach tree, eight different kinds of roses and many other shrubs.

There are red, white and black currants two kinds or cultivated raspberries which I have sold in abundance year after year, except this year (the recent hot weather just ruined them.)

My garden contains almost everything to be found in a medium sized garden and one of my neighbors told me it was "The best ever". I would advise every one who plants a garden to put three foot wire around such things that wood chucks love to destroy. It pays, you can sleep better nights. A friendly wood chuck lives here in the wall, but he objects to wire fences and hasn't showed up this year.

Nema: Your cat and kitten story was a good one. It makes me think of Pixe is Pigs.

Fuller Phun: I think you must be one of my neighbors. Some way your letter sounds very much like you.

TWO PICNICS THAT WERE ENJOYED

Dear Editor and Sisters: Howdy this beautiful warm day; and it is a warm one, I'll say.

Haven't written for such a long time wonder if you will recognise the name. But thought I must write and tell what a fine time Foxglove and I had at the two picnics we attended, at Allyn's Point and at Atlantic beach. (By the way was Atlantic beach ever called Noyes beach? Mr. Whirlwind thinks it was.)

On the morning of the 7th Foxglove and I started for Norwich to attend the meeting. We understood it was to be held in the Buckingham. On arriving we were told there was no meeting but a picnic at Allyn's Point so not the least disheartened we asked the way of Officer Carroll and blithely proceeded on our way where we landed in due time for dinner.

We were nicely seated under the big shady apple tree before a long table bountifully spread, when without warning the bench gave way and down went and the heavy weights of which yours truly was the middle one. No one hurt and nothing spilled.

After dinner we lounged on the banks of the Thames river, sang songs had our pictures taken and drank lemonade until (I for one) nearly "busted." So much for the Point. We thank the hostess for such a cordial welcome and good time.

On the 9th, Foxglove filled her car and we started for Atlantic beach. What a wonderful place for a picnic. The pavillion is nice and roomy with a fine view of the beach and it was some view when the bathers were in the water. I had more fun watching them than if I were in.

After the dinner, which was fine and plenty of it, many went bathing. Those who stayed in the pavilion enjoyed a fine program.

Just before leaving for home Foxglove and myself enjoyed a ride on the flying horses, just to finish a perfect day. We reached home about 7:30.

Milky Way: So glad to have met you and hope to meet you often. Glad you belong to the Corner.

Dom Pedro: Glad you are able to be out again.

Wiltwyck: Pretty hot working in the garden these days it is so hot. Glad you are having such good luck. It has been so dry my little garden does not look much.

Creflo and Joan: Glad to see a letter from you. Joan, think you owe me one.

E. M. R. C. P.: I know you owe me a letter. Trust you are not ill, or too busy.

Balsam Fir: So pleased you are having such good times.

Twice Twenty: Wish you could have been with us at Atlantic beach. You would have enjoyed it so much. Sorry you are not to have one at Oakland. "Here's hopin" there will be a large gathering at Sister Dean's the fourth of August.

So glad to have met so many of the new members and trust I will meet them again in the near future.

Will ring off for this time or the editor will get tired of printing this.

GREETINGS FROM MAVIS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: We certainly had some nice letters in the Corner last week.

Peggy Anne: I was very glad to hear that you have the Bulletin again. I hope we will hear from you occasionally.

Crimson Rambler: I am expecting to go to Sister Dean's with Foxglove and Whirlwind next week, Aug. 4 and hope to see you there.

Sister Kitty Lou: I would love to meet you, can't you come?

Old Faithful: The last I heard from Anna Z she did not get her Courier and I think that is the reason she hasn't written. I will see if I can stir her up.

Ma of Greene Gables: Wish I might see you in Norwich Wednesday.

Imogene Graeff: How much sugar do you use in your lemonade syrup?

Friendly Voice: I enjoyed your letter very much. I used to have a garden and all kinds of flowers and I miss them greatly. I hope to have another some day.

Amy: Are you going to Norwich Aug. 4? Please write me about Betty.

MAVIS.

REVARNISHING A PIANO

Dear Social Corner: To the sister who wished to know about varnishing a piano I will tell you my experience. Take this paint remover that is advertised and put it on with a brush. The varnish will loosen and peel right off after a few applications. I used the steel wool to rub it with.

Then wash with hot water and strong soap, after it has thoroughly dried, it is ready for the stain. The stain I used was a stain and varnish as well. It takes about four coats of this. I think you will be satisfied with your work.

KITTY LOU.

VARNISHING A PIANO

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: See many interesting letters about the trip to Atlantic beach, and other vacation trips being enjoyed by the sisters.

Naomi: I agree with you, "Everyone needs a vacation," and I do hope the man, who wonders why his wife went insane after staying at home 23 years without taking a vacation will live long enough to find out. Why, it happened.

Round Robin: How surprised I am to know that the Social Corner has nearly 1,000 members. It is indeed time to ask, "Where art thou?" Your recips for the meat pie sounds good. Your other recipes sound good also.

Fuller Phun: Was glad to see your advise about red ants. Have tried borax but it does no good. You asked about varnishing a piano.

While I have never tried varnish on a piano, I have used sapolin with great satisfaction an other pieces of furniture. It can be tought in all wood shades and stains and varnishes all in one process, and on each can are full directions. Use sand paper or steel wool to clean off original finish. Perhaps this suggestion may help you.

Peggy Anne: I am sure you are glad that your hubby has subscribed for The Bulletin, especially as you are living at a distance from the Social Corner center.

Best wishes and happy vacations to all. Sympathy to all in trouble or who are ill.

ECLIPSE.

ENTERTAINMENT FOR HOT DAYS

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: This weather is hard for the well let alone the sick. It has been very trying. The people who prophesied we were not to have any summer weather will change their minds I am sure.

Just read Social Corner letter from Mrs. Dan who is to try the mahogany cake. It is certainly delicious. The sugar cookie recipes I sent in I failed to state 1-2 cup butter. I wish would try Charley Chaplin's meat pie. It is certainly great. Round Robin's biscuit with the orange flavor is fine.

My recipes for icing are very nice. I receive the recipes from a cake maker. She made President Wilson's daughters wedding cake. I have it and will send it to you if you wish.

It was a very hot day and the children were very restless, so I decided to make a potato family. You would not think that you could turn plain old potatoes into people, dolls, and even potato cows, and horses, and pigs and chickens and one of the nicest things about them is that rain or sun will not hurt them. The smallest potatoes I make into chickens. Take two toothpicks for their legs and stick a few feathers here and there for their tails and wings and stand them up on the grass. For cows we took a larger potato and twisted up toothpicks for horns and tied a bit of string or rope to a pin for a tail and a short bit of wood for legs and there is your cow. Now for horses. I leave the horns off and untwist a bit of rope to make it a long flowing tail, and pin on some more untwisted rope, only very much shorter bits up here by the head for a mane. I give them much longer legs thanthe cows Then I make a potato family.

For mama, papa and the children, grandmother, uncle and aunts, I had to carve their faces. Let some of them stay fat for they say fat people are always jolly. I dressed the potato women in shawls and wrappers and capes out of crepe paper. I made some hats and hoods.

This is a good idea for a hot day as there will be plenty of hot days and plenty of potatoes and the children will know what to do next.

Thanks to Nema for the cat story.

Fuller Phun: I think you are right, they all could write nice letters if they tried. You have got to use your brains and others people's brains and experiences. I think if all the new members should write the older members would be glad to give them the space. There are several who would be willing to cut out entirely for awhile for I know I would for one.

I will be glad anytime to give the space to the new writers if they will only write.

KITTY LOU.

SOME GOOD HINTS

Dear Corner Friends: I really appreciate helps. Eclipse, for I am always looking for different methods of cooking and useful ways of doing other things.

Many mothers have found it a good plan, when making a number of children's clothes, to finish all the different parts separately, one time cutting out dresses or suits, another sewing up long seams. In this way much unnecessary work is eliminated.

Rub your suede shoes with medium emery paper. The shoes thus cleaned have the appearance of new.

A small fire shovel will be a great help in removing pans from the oven.

To keep beefsteak, fry as for the table only be sure it is not the least bit rare. Then pack it closely in jars and cover well with melted lard. Store in a cool place.

Equal parts of peroxide of hydrogen and ammonia used frequently will in time destroy the constitution of the hair. It will not prevent the growth of new hair, however. The application of a little subnitrate of bismuth and glycerine to the parts immediately after the hair has been plucked out with tweezers prevents the reappearance.

ETHELYN.

VISITING THE BEACHES

Dear Social Corner Friends: Don't faint but here is Biddy with her cackle in good prim and her feathers all ruffled up for a good old cackle. What a lovely time we did have with No. 6 at Atlantic beach! What a beautiful place for a picnic! Everyone who went that day pronounced it the best beach ever. Twenty one from Club No. 1 went and just think, sisters, we went in Martin's parlor bus. Well, I didn't get enough of the store that day so we filled our own car Sunday and filled our ice kit with goodies and started around eight o'clock in the morning. First we drove through to Watch Hill as the couple who were with us had never been to any of the five beaches we took in that day. Then around to Atlantic beach for a couple hours of bathing. Then we drove out on a side street and laid our cloth for dinner under a beautiful maple tree. We certainly did justice to the food. We then started for Watch Hill again, as we didn't get out before. We may have stayed there 30 minutes. Then on our way back we took them all around Pleasant View took the lovely ride to Groton Long Point stopping quite a spell watching the airplane flight. Last we crossed over to New London by ferry and stopped at Ocean Beach a spell. I only got out long enough to go through an Indian's car that is travelling around the world. I do not care for Ocean beach; it is too public for me. I like a quiet beach. We came over the military road home and stopped at Aunty No. 1's for a good drink of cool spring water, getting home around ten o'clock. Lovely day, lovely ride and no tire trouble. Can you beat it for 122 miles? My daughter and little grandson faired the worst in sunburn. My daughter can hardly move her arms. Nothing like the salt air. Let's all go again sisters, what say?

Peggy Anne: There, you have heard me cackle. I remember one little "mascot" 18 years ago. What a nice time we did have up to Lake Waugumbaug in South Coventry, didn't we?

Ready: Thank you for the jolly ice. Is it too late?

BIDDY.

ELVA ENTERTAINS CLUB 5 ON AUGUST 4

Dear Social Corner Editor: I am writing to say that Club No. 5 will meet with Sister Elva 16 Town street, August 4th. All bring dishes and something good to eat, also if you have anything to read or sing bring them along. Fancy dancing or anything good for the order is in tune.

Hoot Owl: Thank you for the birthday card.

Lady Lou: Thank you also for the birthday card. They were both great. We had a lovely time at Mrs. Harvey's at Allyn's Point this month with about 20 there and all in good trim and spirits. It is right on the water and although it was a hot day we had a fine time.

Hope Foxglove and Whirlwind will be able to come this time. They are real good sports. Will ring off now for this time.

CALAMITY JANE.

WANTS PARTY AT BEACH

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I almost know someone will saw my pen is getting rusty, but it is not so, for I am writing with a new one. My name has not apeared for some time but there are several who have not written. First I have not been very well and second I have been very busy. I hope all the sisters are enjoying this fine weather after the hot spell and I hope I'll feel able to go with the Social Corner on its next trip but I am having some fine auto rides with my grandson, which improves my health.

I am wishing, as some others are, that we will all go to Ocean beach. Will Theoda please get up a party to go. Anytime but August 14 to 22 will suit me.

RED CEDAR.

SUZANNE JOINS CORNER

Dear Social Corner Editor: May I come into the Corner? I have wanted to for a long time. When so many new ones were listed each week, I felt I was not needed. But the letters of July 10th were so few. Maybe I can rush in while some are at the clubs or on a vacation.

As there is already a Black Eyed Susan, may I use as a name Suzanne?

PREPARING FOR MYSTIC MEETING OF CLUB NO. 6

Dear Social Corner: Every Saturday when The Bulletin arrives the first thing I look for is the Social Corner page. The letter of our gifted writer Lucille Drew about her trip to Washington interested me greatly. Have been there twice and expected to go last April with the D. A. R. but sickness prevented. Those who have not had the privilege of seeing our national capital can appreciate a letter so well written describing some of the sights that everyone enjoys seeing. She did not speak of visiting Memorial Continental hall which is open to the public with a guide to show them the entire building. States have taken great pride in furnishing that at great expense and the museum is worth visiting. In two years it is expected that Continental hall will be built at a cost of nearly two million, exclusive of furnishings, where no doubt many conventions will be held in the years to come. It is expected it will cost $90,000 a year to maintain the building.

Was sorry to miss Club No. 6's meeting at Atlantic beach but hope to see all the members of No. 6 and many from the other clubs at the meeting August 17 which will be held in Mystic grange hall, main building. The trolleys pass the building.

I wear my Corner pin and last week Deborah who lives here now noticed it and said she would assist and was glad to see a Shore Line club started. Am going to try for new members here and am looking for this meeting to bring them in. If the members would like to have ice cream to serve at cost price that day just say so in your letters and we will get it.

B. NATURAL (Club No. 6.)

FANS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: The extreme weather of last week, brought forth the use of the fan, which had been almost dormant, the earlier part of the season. Concerning fans that were popular some years ago, there were quite a variety in size and design. We used to have very pretty Japanese fans, that "opened and shut," of various colors and printed scenes of far away people, houses and landscapes in the isles of Japan. This style of a closed fan, was convenient to carry, when we were going to church or some other indoor meeting. It was also common to carry the fan, by a fancy cord or ribbon and in some cases, by a slender little chain, attached to the "ring" or the fan, and by tying onto the leather belt, which was worn, around the waist. The large palm leaf fan always gave the best service when a "breeze" was needed. Probably a good many "girls" of my age will remember the fans we used to use at school, the ones and shut splint and covered with fancy paper, and it was quite a fad to have each other write their names onthe fans. In those days a nice white fan, of silk and ivory slats and some made of feathers was considered a very dainty gift for graduation. As time progresses, it brings its change and the old style fan seems to have taken a back seat. The up-to-date method for the temporary relief during the heated season is the "electric" fan, which is a great convenience everywhere. What a comfort to the patients in the hospitals, in the restaurants where eating may be enjoyed, in the stores and in public buildings. The expense is very slight so that many private homes have them in use, especially in the sleeping rooms. We are often reminded of the "good old times," but it appears to me, that the present times surpass in conveniences, everything of previous record. We should be glad it is so, and that the inventions are still going on. If our mothers and grandmothers, could have used the modern "washing machine," what a wonderful help, it would have been, and the many electrical appliances, the lighting system, the flat iron, an last but not least, the fan. Yes, again I repeat, we of today, should be very grateful for these privileges of comfort and enjoyment.

I hope all Social Corner sisters will try and attend the picnics for it really means a pleasant outing for a day and a change from the ordinary home work. It is interesting to learn "who is who," and to make new acquaintances, also to retain the friendships of former meetings.

Kind regards to all.

JENNIE.

LONG SOCIETY

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: Among the old outlying settlements around Norwich there is none presenting more charm and interest than Long Society. The abrupt turn in the road reveals the stern, old town house on the hill, standing aloof like some vague ideal, the burying ground with its leaning tombstones guarding the graves of past generations, the neighboring cluster of old-fashioned dwellings, it is yet like a story of the ancient historians.

Somewhat over 2 years ago, the district known as Long Society was organized, its name originating in its extreme length, running to the Shetucket river. At that period the Long Society district on the east side of the Shetucket river was set apart as the church home for the people of that section. Neologists, apparently, did not exist in that community, but this little Hamlet on the isolated country side has its unique history.

Presumably in the central part of the society the town house or church was built in 1716, and the adjacent dwellings, schoolhouse and tavern are equally, as ancient. The cluster of ancient houses has not been disturbed and are quite unchanged. Humble and austere in some respects, but with the atmosphere of satisfaction and contentment. Two or three modern houses have been added to the community in later years. For the most part these houses are occupied by the descendents of the original settlers of Long Society. The old tavern is now used as a dwelling, and the little red traditional schoolhouse has been enlarged and used for other purposes.

In the old graveyard on the hill surrounding the church are the irregular mounds which mark the resting places of the worshippers of two or more centuries ago. Even with close study these crude markers can scarcely be read. The name of Holden, Corning, Giddings, Harvey and Fitch are among the prominent ones, and by whose industry Long Society has been perpetuated.

The old church was rededicated in February 1889, and an earnest endeavor has been made to continue the services.

But serious as were these old New Englanders, the severe meeting house, defiantly standing as the signal of salvation, the weird death heads grotesquely carved on the tombstones, nature's more generous and uplifting gifts, the forest flowers, the sweet brier rose trailing over perfumed ways, the ferns green leaves have festooned this hillside burial place, and despite the darkened draperies of the pine trees have lifted the solemnity and made this hamlet a picture of serene repose.

The old Harvey homestead was abandoned. The shimmering lilac bushes on the knoll at the right showed that life was not illusory. One lonely white lilac bush guarded the side entrance. Below the pond, where once the lilies floated, gleamed in the sunshine. The old homestead with its grass grown steps, even weeds had made their appearance lured me on, and wandering through the tall grass plucked for myself the purple lilacs that still made beautiful the old homestead. It would be a poet's picture to describe the solemn realities of a forsaken farmhouse, and a poet's imagination to reveal its beauty. Yet, the silent tragedies of life are these upon which romance is founded and the slumbering passions of life are recorded.

The dreams of childhood's years, the faces of by gone friends, the memories of youthful episodes came to mind, but only the flowers of hope were left to welcome the stranger where once the laughter of youth was heard.

From the brow of the hill where the meeting house stands to the westward swept the wide expanse of country, and yonder stood the little house where as children we gazed with awe across the country ways to the "town house" on the hill, and as the straggling tree tops darkened the horizon, and the visions of the past were again revealed, the picture was that as of yesterday.

THE LITTLE SPINSTER.

RECIPES FROM MAJESTIC

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Hot weather has come at last and it has been something awful here in Rhode Island.

Rhody Louise: Will you be glad, when it is time to go to the country?

Kitty Lou: How did you stand the hot weather? Wasn't it awful!

Neighbor: How are you? Suppose you will see Rhody Louise soon. It has been awful hot here in the city. I am sending a few recipes, also a poem.

Cherries and Pineapple: 2 cups chopped pineapple, 4 tablespoons sugar, 1 cup pitted cherries.

Mix and pour over the whole any juicy fruit you have left. Serve ice cold.

Cantaloupe Salad: Scoop out the inside of the melon with a teaspoon, and put the pieces on ice. Also chill the shells. Make cream cheese balls, adding chopped nuts and a little sugar. When ready to serve, put the pieces of melon the cheese balls and shredded lettuce into the empty shells, and pour fruit salad dressing to which has been added a little whipped cream.

Baked Cornstarch Custard: Two cups milk, 2 tablespoons cornstarch, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 eggs, grated ring of lemon, or vanilla.

Boil the milk, and while boiling add to it the cornstarch, having first mixed it with a little cold water or milk. Remove from the fire and stir in the sugar, the yolks of the eggs and the flavoring. Then fold in the beaten whites of the eggs. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake for half an hour in a slow oven.

Best wishes to the editor and sisters.

MAJESTIC.

MENTAL BALANCE

Dear Social Corner Friends: We know now that mental care for ones mind is just as necessary as physical care for the body. But all scientific ideas are so new to us that we are still apt to continue in the old way, and not use better ideas when we do know them. The mind must have its regular daily amount of food and work, exercise and interests if one is to keep mentally strong and well balanced; the same as the body must have suitable food and exercises if one wishes to keep in good condition physically.

Each individual needs always to plan to do his own work and interests without dictation and unpleasant interference from other persons.

The young child should form the habit of being happily busy with something adapted to his age and condition, and look forward each morning with pleasant anticipation to his regular daily work, of course mostly play in the small child; but the labor of dressing and caring for his personal needs furnish the business part of his daily duties and he should be taught to care for himself as young as possible.

Regular planned and reasoned out occupation furnishes the mental control and balance which everyone must have.

We need to remember that everything except just the animal instinct and animal muscular activity has to be taught to every individual.

We hear so much about mental deficients; while the real fact is that almost all of them are just untaught persons, just undeveloped in mind, because untaught.

The lecture method in teaching with no teaching in the home is the worst possible condition. We hear so much about the teacher has so many children in the room that she cannot possibly teach them. Of course she cannot and we don't want her to. We expect the minister or lecturer to speak for a short time to a roomful occasionally; but the child in school is doing his own daily work and living his own life and forming his habits of mind and body and fitting himself for adult life, and teaching should not interfere or take very much of his time from his own work and efforts, only just enough to help him over the places that he cannot understand by himself.

Every day to reason out and plan something it may be important work or not, the reasoning and planning is what exercises the mind and keeps one well balanced mentally.

We look forward to reading all the vacation trips, but so few are able to take long journeys, that the home study and travel by books will be the only way after all that the majority can get a far away outing.

But one can by help of books, maps and pictures travel around the world and perhaps know more about it than some who really go there.

So if we cannot go in person lets take the study trips and go as far as our leisure permits.

It is important that every young person should see enough of the world to be able when older to enjoy the travel by books and imagination, in this way the life is always a full and happy one, even if shut in.

1492'S MUSTARD

Dear Corner Sisters and Editor: Well, Nanna was glad to see you finally got up courage to write. Please don't think I meant to tell a wrong story about sending that recipe but when I went to get it I couldn't find it, but came across it the other day and will write while I have it in mind. Have had company since I saw you last.

Votami wouldn't it be a good idea for Prof. G. B. to start an evening class in Dutch? We might be able to start quite a class if we tried.

Just Pete: I see you are as giddy as ever. Are you getting rested any? How do you like? I've been going some, took a long auto ride in June went nearly 200 miles, went by Alfara's and I think by Theoda's but didn't know which house and didn't get a glimpse of her. Had a lovely ride, enjoyed every minute as I was never in that part of the state before.

I wonder if any of the sisters ever tried my scheme with ants. There used to be a piece in my reading book about heaping coals of fire on some one's head. Thought I'd try it on the ants. When I discovered those small brown pests on my swing shelf down cellar

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGING BY BOAT GETS NEW LONDON TAILOR TO COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 30—Max Basson, 35 Truman street, employed as a civilian tailor at Fort Terry, Plum Island, who was arrested Wednesday night by a United States Coast Guard, charged with transporting liquor on the artillery reservation, was presented before United States Commissioner Russell H. Cornoyer this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Probable cause was found and Basson was held for trial in the United States District court at its September session. Henry Marcus, a North Bank street merchant, qualified as surety on Basson's bond of $1,000, to assure the appearance of the accused in the federal court.

Basson arrived at Fort Terry from Fort Wright with several bottles of liquor in a suit case, which, it was claimed Basson intended to sell to the soldiers. Basson, however, denies the charge, claiming that the suit case was given him at Fort Wright by a soldier whose identity he does not know with the request that the suit case be given to a soldier, who would be looking for Basson. Basson also claims that he did not know the contents of the case.

WIFE OF BAPTIST PASTOR DIES IN PENN. HOSPITAL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 30—Mrs. Mary Potter Elder, about 55, wife of Rev. Joseph A. Elder, 88 Williams street, died yesterday afternoon at the Robert Packer hospital, Sayre, Pa., where she underwent an operation for the removal of goitre Wednesday. Besides her husband, Mrs. Elder is survived by two sons, Freeman and Thomas P. Elder both of this city, and a sister, Miss Ellie Potter, of Pennsylvania, who is associated with Governor Pinchot's administration in an official position. Mrs. Elder was born in New London, the daughter of Thomas W. and Ellen Culver Potter. She was educated in the schools of this city and about 25 years ago married Rev. Mr. Elder, who is pastor of the Huntington street Baptist church, in which church Mrs. Elder was an active worker.

Mrs. Elder had suffered for some time for the trouble for which she sought treatment at the Pennsylvania hospital and left for Sayre last Saturday. Following her arrival at Sayre, Mrs. Elder was admitted to the institution. Wednesday the operation was performed and it was believed that it had been a success, but yesterday Mrs Elder suffered a change for the worse.

A gang of young roughies that has terrorized the neighborhood about Blackhall, Prest and West Colt streets for a considerable time was lodged in jail today to await a hearing in the police court Saturday. All are youths who have been a cause of unrest and trouble in the neighborhood of their homes for a long time. Complaint has been made to the police and officers once broke up the gangs but that condition did not prevail long. The youths resumed their vicious conduct and their annoyance became more aggravated as time went on. They disturbed a store keeper there so that he made complaint yesterday and four of the gang were corralled. When they were in court today their parents did not appear and did not manifest interest in the cases that would indicate that they were concerned in the future of their children. So the hearings were continued to Saturday morning and the youths were held in bail of $50 each. Failure to supply bonds took them to jail where they will remain till court convenes tomorrow.

Only two drunks were presented for disposition today. They were both transients who claimed to be seeking employment. They were ordered to get out of town.

Charles and George DeBiasi have completed their education and are now entering upon professional careers, the former as a lawyer as a graduate from Fordham college, and the latter as a civil engineer as a graduate from Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Frederick S. Badet, a former New London resident, a native of this city, who has made his home in South Bend, Ind., more than 50 years, is visiting here. When he went to South Bend that city was about the size of New London in population, while now it has 100,000 residents and New London has perhaps doubled its population. Mr. Badet is emphatic in the opinion that this city should make an effort to get manufacturing industries started here. That sort of effort made South Bend what it is now, one of the most prosperous cities in the Hoosier state.

Autoists are complaining of the limited space allotted to them for parking purposes. They point to Pearl street and say that while parking was prohibited in that highway when Bank street was a one-way street the regulation is still continued. Last night autoists who parked their cars in Pearl street were directed to move them, notwithstanding rain was falling and there was very little traffic.

The danger spot was reported to the department of public safety this afternoon that repairs could be made at once.

The additional box section of the post office was completed today and the added boxes will be put into use within a day or two. The increased number of boxes is 248, in addition to 18 drawers and already applications have been made for about one-third of the new boxes. For several years the number of boxes has been insufficient, there being so many applications for boxes that men and women desiring boxes were forced to wait many weeks and sometimes many months, before there was an available box. When an appropriation for added space for the post office was made, several months ago, it was decided to add this number of boxes by taking away a part of the floor space of the main building and make up for the space taken in the addition that has been constructed on the rear of the building and which is nearing readiness for occupancy. Beside athe added boxes and the added working floor space, three stamp windows have been added and the money order and registry department has been increased by added space allotted.

The pastime of the fishermen in New London and vicinity is now the capture of eels and as the snake-like fish are biting good many are being caught daily, but more abundantly at night. During the late afternoon and early evenings men and boys gather at the wharf of the Fishers Island Navigation company and fish for the eels, with more or less success, but after nightfall the fishermen change their location to the municipal pier and there many good-sized eels are landed throughout the night up to about midnight. This evening there were a dozen or more fishermen on the pier and all of them had good luck.

Shortly after 1 o'clock this morning an unidentified boatman had a close call from drowning in the Thames river. Had it not been for the timely arrival of a United States Coast Guard launch a fatality would undoubtedly have occured. The man in a launch was heard to cry for help from a point about midway between the New London and Groton shores and directly opposite the Union station. The launch put out from the state pier when the cry was heard by sailors and when the boat was reached it was found to be disabled and leaking considerably. The occupant, whose name was not given out, was taken aboard the launch and his craft was towed to the pier.

MAURICE SWANSON CAUGHT WITH WHISKEY IN CAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, July 30—Maurice Swanson, of Groton, was arrested by state police fro mthe Groton barracks, this morning, charged with violation of the liquor law, the specific charge being transportation. He was later released, upon furnishing a surety on his bond of $1,000 for his presentation in the Groton town court next Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Swanson's car has been suspected by the state police for a number of weeks as having been used for transporting liquor through Groton and this morning a watch was kept for the car. About 11 o'clock Swanson was observed driving the auto along the military highway headed toward Norwich. The officers held up the autoist and a search of the tonneau revealed 12 gallons of alleged whiskey. Swanson was arrested and the automobile and liquor seized.

Swanson, who formerly resided in Norwich, it is claimed by the state police, has been actively engaged in the transportation of liquor through Groton for a long time, although he was never caught in a position where a search of his automobile was considered advisable. A watch was maintained for the auto, however, and when it was sighted near the submarine base today, it was decided that the time for a search had arrived. This being made the liquor was found.

Swanson, it is understood, has been engaged in the delivering of liquor in and around New London and Norwich for a long time, receiving his supply from Rhode Island and Massachusetts cities.

GALES FERRY

The annual community picnic in which the summer residents in Gales Ferry unite with the residents for the benefit of the M. E. church was held Tuesday on the grounds at the home of Noyes B. Allyn. The day was ideal and there was a large attendance including parties from Norwich, Hartford, Burnside, Middletown, New London, Mystic, Uncasville and Westbrook. Courtland E. Colver was general chairman of the affair. A fine round clam chowder dinner was served at 1 o'clock, with ham sandwiches, pickles, lemon meringue pie, cake and coffee. Grace was said by Rev. J. P. Ackley of Burnside, pastor of this church 25 years ago. The new pastor, Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton was chairman of the after-dinner speaking. He presented Miss Gladys Russell of Jersey City, who spends her summers at Brown's Crossing, and who recited in a most pleasing manner Betty at the Ball Game. George T. Meech of Middleton, a former resident of the place, and a veteran of the Civil war, was next presented and addressed Mr. Allyn, on whose grounds the assembly was held, Mr. Colver, the general chairman, and the women's committee. Mr. Meech spoke in a humorous vein. Rev. George H. Wright, a retired Methodist minister, living in his new home here, spoke on the pleasure it gave him to live with Gales Ferry people again. Mr. Wright was a former minister of the church here. Rev. Mr. Hamilton spoke for Mr. Allyn in behalf of the permanent fund of which Mr. Allyn is promotor for this church. Miss Russell then gave her second number, "When We Haven't Said Our Prayers." Rev. Allen Shaw Bush, a retired Congregational minister living here, spoke interestingly, and in conclusion Charles Latham of Hartford, a native of Gales Ferry, was heard. He is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Latham. His father was superintendent of the M. E. church school for many years. Mr. Latham spoke very pleasingly. Sports occupied the remainder of the afternoon, under the direction of Henry J. McLeer of Brooklyn, N. Y., with Percy Burnham, also of Brooklyn, starter; judges, Mrs. J. F. Reynolds and Miss Dorothy Frost of Montclair N. J. The series of races included sack, eggs and spoon and three-legged races for the juniors, a race for girls, one for boys, and a suit case race furnished much amusement. Blue, red and white ribbons were awarded, the winners. Prizes were given those having the largest number of ribbons, and were boxes of candy. The first prize went to Nancy Pitcher, second to Nancy Escher, with Doris Gorman third for girls. Among the boys Niles McLeer won first, Paul Miller and Kenneth McLeer second and third, respectively. The tug-of-war afforded much amusement, and was between the married and single men. The gross receipts for the dinner, with the sales of the Ladies' Aid society's tables, the flower table, ice cream and lemonade and the gifts to the permanent fund were over $350.

Adam Larrabee of Windham attended the picnic at the grounds of his uncle, Noyes B. Allyn, Tuesday and renewed acquaintance with local friends.

The funeral of Frank W. Morgan was held Tuesday afternoon at funeral parlors in Mystic. Mr. Morgan died suddenly at his residence in Ledyard Sunday last, being found dead in bed. He was a veteran of the civil war, having enlisted when only 13 years old as a drummer boy. There is probably only one more Civil war veteran left in Ledyard, Charles Cornstock of Gales Ferry. Mr. Morgan was the great-grandson of Simeon Morgan, who was killed at Fort Griswold. He owned a small place in Ledyard. He was the father of five children, who were all present at the funeral, Frank, Fred, Mary, Hattie and Laura. Rev. G. F. Goodenough had charge of the services at the undertaking parlors and at the grave in the Morgan cemetery, Ledyard. A squad of soldiers was sent by a nearby regiment to perform the last rites for a brother soldier. A volley was fired at the grave and taps were sounded. The casket was draped with an American flag and there were beautiful floral forms. Relatives acted as bearers.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Whispering Canyon, the new Banner Production feature picture made from John Mersereau's story of California's big-timber country, which will be the attraction for four days at the Broadway theater, beginning Sunday as the first feature was filmed at the huge logging plant of the Standard Lumber company near Sonora, Calif., in the heart of the redwood belt.

Every facility of that big plant was placed at the disposal of Director Tom Forman so that the logging and mill background and atmosphere might be correct in every detail.

The canyon in which the lumber camp is located and where practically all of the scenes for Whispering Canyon were shot is the same that was used in making The Covered Wagon.

One of the big scenes in Whispering Canyon is the wrecking by dynamite of the dam from which power is obtained to run the hero's sawmill. Another is the fight between two gangs or lumberjacks and the kidnapping of the heroine, Tony Lee, acted by Jane Novak, who is the featured member of the cast. Playing opposite her is Robert Ellis. Other leading players in this Banner feature production are Joseph Swickard, Eugene Pallette, James Mason, Lee Shumway and Edward Brady.

Frigidaire Refrigerator

There will be plenty of cold drinking water to relieve the thirst of the wearied sight-seer at the sesqui-centennial exhibition in Philadelphia this summer. The Delco-Light company has just shipped a large consignment of Frigidaire electric refrigerator compressors and cooling coils which will be used to chill the drinking water on the centennial grounds.

Two large and interesting exhibits are being fitted up by the company for the exposition. The Delco-Light display will consist of a miniature farm layout, showing the lights coming on, one at a time, in various parts of the house, as the family arises in the morning. The lights in the barns and out-buildings appear, water begins to run in the drinking troughs and various bits of small power machinery, such as churns, washing machines and other equipment commence to operate.

The Frigidaire exhibit occupies 3,000 square feet of floor space and is expected to be one of the most interesting sights in the Palace of Liberal Arts. It sets forth in painstaking detail the evolution of refrigeration, from the time caves, springs and running water were used, through the natural and artificial ice periods, culminating in the development of electric refrigeration.

The complete Delco-Light line of power and light plants and the complete line of electric refrigerators, both household and commercial, will be shown at the sesqui-centennial.

Visitors at Atlantic City this summer will also have an opportunity to see the full line of Delco-Light plants and Frigidaire installations. The Delco-Light company has been appointed a liberal amount of space in the permanent General Motors exhibit on Middle Pier. The General Motors exhibit will be opened August first, Boardwalk and Virginia avenue.

Breed Theatre.

Paris—glittering, colorful—and sometimes dramatic by the sheer sombreness of it, forms the background for one of the most vivid plays of the screen season, in Edmund Goulding's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Paris," coming to the Breed theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

It is a tale told in lights and shadows; in moods and in influences rather than by adherence to the usual device of plot. It shocks with its surprises, even in the nature of the roles played by well known players and out of it Goulding has evolved one of the most toothsome entertainments screen fans have been given in months.

The story is a vivid mystery laid in the dens of the Apaches, with Ray, as an American tourist, enmeshed in a queer Apache feud, and falling in love with Miss Crawford, the Apache dancar.

He doesn't win the girl, however—and therein lies a dramatic and surprising climax with some very remarkable acting. The story, incidentally, is Goulding's original, directed by himself.

Douglas Gilmore, famous on the stage in "White Cargo," also plays a role startlingly new to him as "The Cat," Paris underworld gang leader. Michael Vasaroff, Mme. Rose Dione Jean Galeron and other well known players are seen in well chosen parts.

The scenic settings, depicting sinister Paris underworld haunts, famous pleasure palaces of tourists, and other Parisian atmosphere, are carried out on a lavish scale, and the types, representing hangers-on in the Paris underworld, are the last word in realism.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

After a spell of nearly a month of temperatures over 90 degrees, Norwich a half century ago, dearly got relief through a severe thunder storm. Four inches of rain fell during the storm and lightning struck fully a score of places in and around the city.

News of the week taken in part from the Norwich Bulletin of the week of July 23rd, 1876 is as follows:

Monday, July 24, 1876—The first rain storm for many weeks took place yesterday, beginning with a violent thunder storm which lasted for over two hours, the rainfall being very great and too violent to be of much value. On Franklin street the water was ankle deep at 7 o'clock and in practically all sections of the city the streets were badly washed out. Four places in the city were struck by lightning during the storm, the strike at the home of G. F. Brooks of Sherman street doing most damage, also stunning Mr. Brooks and completely burning the slippers from his feet.

Andrew H. Fuller is working at scripture distribution in this city and has found 100 families so far who do not attend any church, also 138 children who do not go to Sunday school. His work is backed by all denominations for he leaves a record of families, their church or non affiliation behind him when he leaves town.

A man aged 93 years lives in Ledyard and claims he is not a success because he has never failed for 10 cents on the dollar and never contributed original poetry to a newspaper. We regard him as a success and wish him luck for his 100th birthday.

Yesterday was the first of 29 consecutive days on which the mercury failed to register over 90 degrees and the first in 33 days that it has fallen as far as 71 degrees.

Four inches of rain fell in the downtown section during the storm yesterday, while the measurement at the reservoir stood at a little over two inches.

Tuesday, July 25, 1876—At a meeting held last night to organize a boat club it was voted to call the club the Norwich Rowing association. The following officers were elected: President, George F. Kinne; first vice president, William Noss; second vice president, William Neilson; secretary, Phil Spelman; treasurer, Thomas Shannon.

George M. Loomer was elected treasurer, C. K. Bushnell clerk and C. H. Talcott was reengaged as principal for another year.

Thirteen telegraph poles between Norwich and Jewett City and five between Norwich and Montville were struck by lightning during the storm early this week.

Thursday, July 27, 1876—The Wauregan house, which has been closed for several months for repairs, will be opened early in August. The interior has been extensively altered and repaired and is now one of the best fitted houses in the state. About $25,000 has been expended on the alterations. The house has been plumbed for hot and cold water and a 40 horse power boiler installed for heating purposes. A new kitchen, laundry, bakery and wash room, marble floors in the main halls, and a new roof over the entire building make up some of the changes. The hotel has been rented for ten years to Mr. D. Doolittle of Waterbury who is to refit the house with new furniture. Norwich now has a modern hotel to compare with any in the state.

H. Gurney and J. Gallivan, employes of the Richmond stove company engaged in a boat race last evening from the dock of the stove company to the buoy and back. Gurney's time was 17 1-2 minutes and Gallivan's 18 3-4 minutes. Much money changed hands and the race was exciting throughout.

Harris, with the district committee, were made a building committee to inquire into the cost of construction. The annual tax rate bill was postponed until costs could be obtained.

The Bulletin argues strongly against the use of the new centennial handkerchief, which through some carelessness has been made as an American flag. This paper feels that it is a direct blow at the American flag to use it for such purposes.

SOCIAL CORNER

and in my side board in the dining room, I proceeded to clear the place of all dishes, etc., then laid down a cooky and hung bottles of sweetened water in the rose bushes near the windows, thinking I wouldn't complain if they would only stay in those two places. Have had no more trouble with them, can use the other shelves just the same and the ants don't trouble anything. No patent on this.

Mrs. Dan: Glad to hear you have got home. Didn't know you was sick until I saw it in the paper. Did you notice my blue rose? It was lovely, just covered with blossoms.

Here is my recipe for mustard that we think particularly good.

Mustard: Rub three teaspoons of dry mustard in warm water to a stiff paste, add one half cup vinegar, a pinch of salt and the beaten yolks of two eggs. Set the dish in boiling water and stir until thick. Add a tablespoon of butter and sugar to taste stirring until dissolved. I only make one-half at a time.

TWO GOOD POINTERS

Dear Sisters and Editor of the Social Corner: For tired, aching, burning feet take two tablespoons of Epsom salts to three pints of warm water in a pan and soak the feet ten to 15 minutes.

If anyone is plagued with ants, big or little, black or red, just put borax on the plank and they will leave. If it gets wiped off put on more.

LILLIWEEN.

RIDING THROUGH THE BERKSHIRES

Dear Editor and Sisters: I'm afraid if all the sisters were like me we would not have any Social Corner very long. Perhaps I ought to change my name to Ben Puttinstoff, for I've been intending to write for a long time, but each week have put it off again until the next.

We spent the glorious Fourth in North Adams, this year; going up Saturday afternoon by way of Jacob's Ladder, Pittsfield and Williamstown, and returning Monday through Pittsfield and Winsted and Hartford. All the way through the Berkshire valley we saw the wild blackberries in full bloom. It made me think of Sister Potlatch who said she was going after wild blackberries, on June 13, I think it was; while at home, around Willimantic, the blossoms were all gone and the green berries were just set.

It was my first trip over Jacob's Ladder, and I'd heard so much about it that I guess I expected too much—was rather disappointed in fact. I liked the view from Avon mountain (on our return trip) much better.

Sunday, the Fourth, which was also my 25th wedding anniversary we went over the Mohawk trail as far as Whitcomb's summit, where we stopped to let the younger members of our party climb the tower, then went back as far as the white schoolhouse, where we left the trail, following a country road to Monroe, South Readsboro and down the Deerfield valley to see where the New England Power company is putting in a new dam, not far above Monroe Bridge. The water power there by the way, will help supply Willimantic with the "juice" for lights and power.

We stopped for a few minutes at my old home in Monroe. It is about 30 years since we moved from there and of course it is very much changed, and not for the better, I'm sorry to say.

The fields all through the Berkshires give a good example of how weeds will spread. When I was a child a very small patch of Devil's paintbrush grew in the meadow across the brook from the house. It was so small that an ordinary umbrella would have covered it. Now the fields everywhere about there are brilliant with its orange red blossoms and it seems to be thicker than the common white daisy used to be. It was very much in evidence all the way up from Pittsfield.

From Monroe Bridge we went to Readsboro, Hartwellville and back through Stamford Valley to North Adams, a very pretty drive. Just before reaching Readsboro we stopped and crossed the Deerfield by the suspension foot bridge and went through the big Whitingham power plant. The water for this plant is brought two miles through the mountains from the Whitingham dam.

It is something of a jump from motor trips to telephone books, but I'll end by telling you how much better a loose leaf note book ring is than a string to hank your telephone book by. Use one large ring if you have it, or get it for that purpose. I had two small ones so I fastened one in the book and the other through the first ring. They do not pull out, or break and are easily detached to put in the new book when it comes.

I wonder if X. Y. Z. would send in the recipe for the sour cream salad dressing I used to like so well when we were doing light housekeeping? Would like it very much.

Your eyes are human. If you tire and strain them, they will tire and strain you. Headaches, neuralgia, nervousness, indigestion, that dizzy or fatigued feeling, may be warning signs of strained vision.

Near and far-sightedness, cross-eye, and astigmatism can be corrected with properly fitted glasses.

If after an examination, we advise glasses, get them and use them. The time to have this examination is NOW!

RALLY STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP)—Another sharp rally in stock prices under the leadership of General Motors and United States Steel, common, which established new high records for all time at 194 3-4 and 149 1-4, respectively, was abruptly halted late today by the marking up of the call money rate to 5 per cent. General Motors fell back to 186 1-2 and then rebounded to 188 1-4, off 2 3-4 net, and Steel sagged to 148, where it was still up 2 points on the day. Final quotations in the general list disclosed considerable irregularity, with the total volume of business running well over 2,000,000 shares.

The higher money rate followed the heavy calling of loans in anticipation of first-of-the-month requirements, and did not reflect any marked change in the credit situation. The day's trade news continued favorable with an increase in lead and copper prices and predictions of further stiffening of the quotations for steel bars, shapes and plates. The weekly mercantile reviews reported further improvement in both wholesale and retail trade, and stressed fact that the seasonal slackening in various lines has been much less than usual this year.

Revival of speculative interest and strength in the railroad shares, the general average of which closed higher on the day, was one of the most interesting incidents of the session.

In the industrial group new high records for this year, or longer, were registered by a wide variety of stocks including American Can, Case Threshing Machine, Consolidated Gas, Dupont, Republic Iron and Steel preferred, Sears Roebuck, Timken Roller Bearing and Westinghouse Air Brake.

Motors gave a better exhibition of group strength than they have for some time. Hudson, which has been sluggish of late, suddenly jumped over 5 points to 68 7-8, closing near the top.

The late selling was widely regarded as a natural correction of the markets technical position, which obviously had become weakened by the rapid and sustained advance in many issues during the past week. Offerings generally were well absorbed, less than a score active issues showing net declines or a point or more.

Wheat advanced sharply on unfavorable crop weather in Canada but lost a good part of the day's gain on realizing. Cotton futures closed 17 to 21 points net lower on more favorable weather reports from Georgia and Alabama. Raw sugar was unchanged, but coffee prices were slightly firmer. Rubber prices broke 1 1-4 to 2 cents a pound in reflection on speculative disappointment over the decision to make no change in the amount of exports permitted from British rubber-growing possessions.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent. advanced to 4 1-2 and thence to 5 as banks called about $25,000,000 in loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady in quiet trading.

ALLYNS POINT WOMAN HEARS OF PERSIAN PERSECUTIONS

According to word received by Mrs. W. R. Duffy of Allyns Point reports of intensive religious persecutions in Persia in which believers of the Baha'i faith are suffering martyrdom at the hands of Moslems of the fanatical Shi'ite sect have been brought to London by Miss Martha Root, international journalist, who in an interview told of the tragic happenings in several Persian communities which have reached Baha'i headquarters at Haifa, Palestine. Miss Root, an American Baha'i, who has been circling the globe as an advocate of the Baha'i movement, has communications from the Baha'i headquarters, which state that in the Persian town of Jarum alone 12 persons, men women and children, have been put to death, some of them in most atrocious ways.

Also, in the province of Adhirbayjan, in the town of Maraghih the Baha'is have been pitilessly denied the civic rights and privileges extended to every citizen of the land. They have been refused the use of the public bath, and denied access to such shops as provide the necessities of life. They have been declared deprived of the benefits and protection of the law, and all association and dealing with them denounced, as a direct violation of the precepts and principles of Islam. It has been authoritatively stated that the decencies of public interment have been refused to their dead.

NEW DINING HALL FOR Y. M. C. A. CAMP AT LAKE

On a site overlooking the beautiful Gardner lake from one of the most advantageous points, work was started Friday on the construction of a large boat house and dining hall at Camp Terrehegan the Y. M. C. A. camp. Construction will be pushed along in hopes of having the new building completed in about two weeks. It will cost about $2,500.

The new building will be 64 feet by 24 feet, located near the shore on a side hill directly over two large springs that will furnish an abundant water supply. The dining hall will be located in the center of the building with dimensions of 24 by 24 feet with a class room 24 by 24 on one end and a kitchen pantry and store room on the other end of the main floor. The kitchen will be 15 by 6, the pantry 8 by 8, and the store room 6 by 7.

The building will be of frame construction with the dining hall enclosed with a roof and three feet side walls. The rest of the building will be entirely enclosed. Beneath the main floor space is provided for the storage of boats, canoes and tents. The dining room will seat 72 persons comfortably and can be used for a lecture room when the proposed pavilion is erected at the camp.

AMERICAN LEGION

In accordance with the policy of the American Legion of caring for the interests of our World war dead, the national legislative committee makes the following announcement of interest to all Legionnaires:

"The sons of our buddies killed in action or who died prior to July 2, 1921, of wounds or disease received in the World war, through efforts of the American Legion, will now have an opportunity to attend West Point or Annapolis through special presidential appointment. This is provided through public law 343, passed by the present congress, and signed by President Coolidge on June 8. These special appointments will be in addition to those already provided by law and are strictly limited to the sons of our dead.

"The new law provides forty additional cadets at the United States Military Academy, and forty additional midshipmen at the United States Naval Academy. One-half of them shall be appointed from the sons of the officers who were killed or died, and one-half from the sons of enlisted men who were killed or died, in the army, navy or marine corps. The number of applications are not restricted to any section of the United States, although qualification is limited by ability to pass the examinations required of the other applicants.

"The age limits for West Point are between 17 and 22 years on July 1 of the year of entrance. At Annapolis not under 16 and not more than 21 on April 1 of the year of entrance. Information concerning examination for entrance should be obtained by writing the Adjutant General of the Army for those who desire to attend the Military Academy, and to the Secretary of the Navy for those desiring to enter the Naval Academy.

"This information should be given the maximum of publicity, so that all boys desiring to take advantage of the new law may be granted the opportunity to make application.

"The passage of this law is a splendid recognition of the American Legion and of the sacrifices of our buddies who have gone before."

One of the most popular features of the convention was the playing of the band. A class of 5330 candidates was initiated on the opening night of the convention.

Supreme officers elected included Norman Heyde of Toronto, Canada supreme dictator and E. M. Stafford of New Orleans, vice supreme dictator, their election being made by the 1204 delegates present, the largest number ever to attend a Moose convention.

JUNIOR ORDER MECHANICS

Buckingham council, No. 14, Jr. O. U. A. M. held its regular business session Wednesday with Councilor William Ellal presiding. During the evening final plans were made for the bean supper and picnic arranged by council.

The picnic will be held Sunday at Pautipaug Hill, Baltic, at the farm of State Secretary J. W. Wellington. Those who will attend the picnic will meet at Buckingham Memorial at 10.30 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and transportation will be provided.

The committee has secured prizes for the various contests and races. A feature of the day will be a ladies swimming race and there will also be a ball game between the married and single men. The huckleberry pie eating contest and the watermelon contest for the children are attracting considerable interest. There will also be a tug of war, between the married men and the single men. Those members who are unable to be at the Buckingham Memorial at 10.30 o'clock should take the Baltic car and get off the car at Baltic ina where autos will await them to take them to the picnic grounds.

At the meeting Wednesday evening a committee was appinted to arrange for a fishing party to be held next month. Two members were reported on the sick list. They are Brother Babbitt who is suffering from an infected finger and Ord Leseman who has been seriously ill since Monday and is a patient at the North Hudson hospital, Weehawken, N. J.

Brother Miller of Washington council, No. 2, Providence, was a visitor at the meeting and gave an interesting talk on his 10 years membership in the Order. POETRY

En Garde, Messieurs

En Garde, Messieurs, too long have I endured,
Too long with patience borne the world's rebuff;
Now he who shoulders me shall find me rough;
The weakness of an easy soul is cured.

I've shouted, leathern-lunged, when fame or gold
Were won by others, turned to aid my friend;
Dull-pated ever, but such follies end;
Only a fool's contest, and in the cold.

My doublet is in tatters, and my purse
Waves in the wind light as my lady's fan;
Only my sword is bright; with it I plan
To win success, or put my sword to nurse.

I want no longer for the primal blow;
Henceforth my stroke is first, I give offense;
I claim no more an over-dainty sense,
I brook no blocking where I plan to go.

En Garde, Messieurs! and if my hand is hard,
Remember I've been buffeted at will;
I am a whit impatient, and 'tis ill
To cross a hungry dog, Messieurs, en garde.

—Robert Bridges.

"Such Stuff as Dreams Are Made Of"

Now all the cloudy shapes that float and lie
Within this magic globe we call the brain
Fold quite away, condense, withdraw, refrain
And show it tenantless—an empty sky.
Return, O parting visions, pass not by
Nor leave me vacant still, with striving vain.
Longing to grasp at your dim garment's train.
And be drawn on to sleep's immunity.
I lie and pray for fancies hovering near;
Oblivion's kindly troop, illusion's blest:
Dim, trailing phantoms in a world too clear;
Soft, downy, shadowy forms, my spirit's nest;
The warp and woof of sleep; till, freed from fear,
I drift in sweet enchantment back to rest.

PLOT AGAINST LIFE OF PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

Announcement of Discovery Made by Authorities in Mexico City—Nature of the Plot Has Not Been Revealed—Catholics of Mexico Worshipped in Priestless Churches—Government Employes Paraded Through Important Centers as a Demonstration in Support of Government's Religious Regulations.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1—(AP)—While the Catholic world prayed for Mexico today, in response to instructions from Pope Pius, and Mexican Catholics knelt in priestless churches, members of the Regional Confederation of Labor, together with government employes, paraded through Mexico City streets and other important centres of the country as a demonstration in support of the government's religious regulations.

The discovery of a plot against the life of President Calles, who is looked upon by Mexican Catholics as chiefly responsible for enforcement of the religious laws, was made known by the authorities last night, but how or when it was intended to kill him was not revealed.

Dolores Lemus, a young city hall stenographer, who from the window of the office where she was employed could look upon the presidential palace, was arrested first; then several others alleged to be implicated, were traced. The authorities assert that those arrested are Catholics; that Senorita Lemus is a member of the League for the Defense of Religious Freedom. The others headed by Senora Baquedano, wife of a soap manufacturer and her 18 year old daughter, are said by the police to support the league's policy.

The venerable Archbishop Mora y Del Rio, lay abed in his suburban residence utterly exhausted from his labors of recent weeks, when he was on duty from early morning until after midnight each day, saying masses, and confirming thousands.

So far as could be learned, the people, their feelings inflamed by events of the past few weeks, kept themselves in control throughout the demonstration today. But reports continued to come in indicating disturbances and clashes in various parts of the republic yesterday afternoon and last night when th echurches were turned over to the citizens committees as the priests withdrew.

The utmost police and military vigilance was continued throughout the day, soldier of the federal arm resting upon his arms, in readiness for instant duty.

The plot against President Calles was discovered through an investigation conducted by General Alvarez, head of the presidential staff. According to the police, a secret service operative, under orders from General Alvarez, got himself accepted as one of the plotters, and in this way he met Senora Clemencia Baquedano. The police say Senor Baquedano, is also implicated, an dthey are searching for him.

After Senorita Lemus was apprehended, she requested someone at city hall to call a certain telephone number to say she was arrested. The police found it was the Baquedano residence, where the secret service operative said he had attended meetings of the conspirators and where he testified he had once heard Senora Baquedano say: "It is better for one man to die than to shed the blood of many."

The police proceeded immediately to the residence, where they made the other arrests. These include Andres Araujo, son of a Mexican senator; Enrique Creilana, said to be a Spanish subject; and four female servants of the Baquedano family. All of them are described by the police as members of the League for the Defense of Religious Liberty.

The economic boycott proposed by the league for the defense of religious liberty, composed largely, if not altogether of Catholics, is taking effect in some parts of the republic, according to special despatches. This boycott is designed to bring about a cessation of purchases, except absolute necessities, thus creating an economic slump, which the league's directorate hopes will react so unfavorably as to force the government to modify its religious policy.

In some towns, all Catholics are reported to be wearing mourning, houses are draped with crepe, while all Catholic owned business places were closed for five minutes at noon Saturday. Meanwhile all Catholics—meaning a vast majority in these places—meaning a vast majority in these places—knelt in front of homes and stores.

Bemoaning the plight of their church and praying for its relief.

The Episcopal Christ church cathedral doors were open today, permitting those desiring to meditate and pray, to enter. Dean Peacock, forbidden to officiate, conducted communion in his private residence at eight o'clock this morning, which was construed as not constituting a violation of the law.

POPE DEVOTED DAY TO MEDITATION AND PRAYER

ROME, Aug. 1.—(AP)—By the express desire of Pope Pius the entire day at the vatican was devoted to meditation and prayer in behalf of Mexico. Thus, there were no ceremonies, all audiences and receptions were countermanded, and the pontiff celebrated mass earlier than usual in his private chapel. He admitted no one dedicating the service to Mexico. After the mass he knelt longer than is customary, absorbed in deep, fervent prayer for the relief of the people of that country.

In the afternoon, Pope Pius accompanied by Monsignor Migone Private Chamberlain, entered the Pauline chapel, where he remained for 15 minutes, again praying for Mexico.

Afterwards he drove through the vatican grounds, and on his way back he stopped once more at the Pauline chapel and knelt before the sacrament, invoking the protection of the Almighty in behalf of the Mexican faithful.

Prayers for Mexico were also recited in all the churches of Rome and Italy, attended by large crowds, especially at St. Peter's, St. John, Lateran and St. Maria Maggiore. The ceremonies acquired special importance at San Pietro in Vincoli (St. Peter in chains) today, being the festival of that church.

STATEMENT MADE BY PRESIDENT OF MEXICO

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—President Calles of Mexico, in a copyrighted statement published in the New York Times, denounced "the rebellious attitude" of the heads of the Roman Catholic church in Mexico and affirmed that his government was merely upholding its civil rights.

Replying to the pastoral letter issued by the Mexican Episcopacy July 25 in which the government was charged with making it impossible for the church to continue many of its religious functions, President Calles denied any intent at suppression except in the case of "illicit acts remote from that pertains to the spiritual."

The clergy, he charged, "try to invade and do invade the spheres of politics and government and provoke movement of disorder and incite secretly or openly to rebellion."

The opposition of the Mexican Episcopacy to the regulations forbidding priests to criticise the government, the president declared, "indicates they are taking advantage, or wish to incite by ignoring the laws or to spread propaganda against the government or, in general, for purposes that are not of a religious but of a political nature."

"We ourselves," he added, "tolerate attacks of every kind, very often in tribunes that are not religious in character, that is to say, in the newspapers, in social meets or in places in which advantage is not taken of a state of religious conscience which always implies almost passive obedience and special meekness and in which there can be no controversy concerning the ideas expressed by the priests."

EPISCOPATE READY TO ENTER INTO A TRUCE

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Willingness to enter into a truce with the Mexican government for a reasonable length of time until by means of a national plebiscite the Mexican people may express themselves concerning the religious controversy, is expressed in an exclusive statement by the Mexican Episcopate to the Associated Press.

PRIESTS AND NUNS HAVE ARRIVED FROM MEXICO

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—While prayers in behalf of the Roman Catholics in Mexico were said in St. Patrick's cathedral and other Catholic churches throughout the city today, 21 nuns, priests and students, who left Mexico as a result of the religious regulations, arrived here aboard the steamship Regina Maria Christiana. They were all from Mexico City.

Six Marist students in the party were Mexican youths between the ages of 14 and 18 years, who are preparing for the priesthood. While their status of Mexican citizenship would have enabled them to remain in Mexico, they said they considered it would mean a surrender of their religious belief and they chose to continue their religious training in either Franco or Spain.

Seven nuns in the party were sisters of the servants of Mary, who left Mexico on the instruction of their superiors in France and Spain. They will go to the Chapter house at New Orleans. The priests were mostly Spanish, and they will return to Spain.

Members of the party said they left Mexico because they believed it inevitable that serious trouble would arise as a result of the Mexican government's regulations prohibiting foreign priests or religious teachers from continuing their work in Mexico.

"I am afraid, and so are my friends, that if some peaceful settlement is not soon reached there will be much bloodshedding," said Father Jeaquin Arrigo, spokesman for the priests. "We hold no bitterness for the Mexican government or for the Mexican people. The misfortune of the clerical party in Mexico and the cause of the crisis, is that none of the professional people-lawyers, doctors and professors lent support to the clerical party, thus leaving the clerical party standing alone and unaided."

In compliance with the pope's instructions, prayers were said in all Catholic churches here today. Thousands of Catholics attended the services and prayed for the Catholics in Mexico. At St. Patrick's cathedral a solemn high mass was celebrated at 11 o'clock, and was followed by an exposition of the blessed sacrament. Until vesper services at 4 o'clock, the blessed sacrament remained exposed to public devotion on the main altar.

Prior to his preaching a sermon, the Rev. Raymond Murray announced that a pamphlet fully explaining the situation in Mexico would be placed in circulation later in the week by the national Catholic welfare conference.

Part of the services in the cathedral was the recitations by the congregation of the litany of the saints, the special prayer for the occasion. The Rev. Charles McCabe, sub-deacon of the cathedral, in another prayer, asked that your suffering brethren in Mexico be given strength in persecution and constancy in their holy strength," and that "light be given their persecutors that they may see the evil of their ways."

FRANCE TO HASTEN ACTION ON ITS FOREIGN DEBTS

PARIS, Aug. 1—(AP)—The debt settlements between France and the United States and between France and Great Britain now appear likely to come up for ratification by the French parliament during the present month before the summer recess.

Ever growing opposition of financiers, as reflected by the press, to shelving the Washington and London funding agreements until October, apparently has caused Premier Poincare to recede from his determined and oft-announced position of "no immediate ratification."

A communique issued by the semi-official Havas agency tonight, evidently inspired by the government, is authority for this statement. The communique reads in part:—"Information published in an evening paper attributing to the premier the intention to adjourn to a very distant date examination of the American and British agreements concerning French debts is groundless.

"On the contrary, M. Poincare intends as soon as the financial projects now before parliament are definitely voted.

To have an exchange of views concerning the inter-allied debts with the finance and foreign affairs committees of the chamber and senate, which had already been officially asked by the preceding governments to study the report on the Berenger-Mellon and Caillaux-Churchill agreements."

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Beneath the golden dome of the state house where for many years he directed the destinies of the state he loved, Senator Cummins today lay in the solemn dignity of his final rest as the people of Iowa, whom he served for nearly 40 years, gathered to pay tribute.

From far corners of the state, thousands entered the marble corridors of the capitol to pause a moment before the bier of the veteran statesman, whose unexpected death Friday brought to a close a distinguished career as governor and senator.

In a steady stream, from 9 o'clock this morning until 5 o'clock tonight, they passed the catafalque with its mounds of flowers and guard of honor.

Tomorrow at 4 o'clock, Senator Cummins' close friends and associates, including a committee of 21 United States senators and the entire Iowa congressional delegation, will gather at the ld Cummins home in West Des Moines. Boyhood friends will act as pall bearers.

RELATIVES ARE CONFIDENT THAT PRATT WILL RETURN

DEEP RIVER, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Despite the fact that Philip R. Pratt, 27 year old manufacturer, disappeared under circumstances indicating that he had committed suicide, members of his family today expressed the opinion that he would soon return with a satisfactory explanation of his actions.

Residents of this town, who have been searching the woods since Friday when Pratt disappeared, leaving a note on his desk which indicated that he had taken his own life, abandoned the hunt today. A few persons were in the woods but no organized search was attempted. The townfolk apparently have accepted the opinion expressed by Pratts' family and friends that the manufacturer has not committed suicide and that he will soon be back.

Toll of Last Week's Hurricane in the Bahamas—400 Persons Reported Missing.

NASSAU, Bahama, Aug. 1—(By wireless to the Associated Press)—The known death toll of the hurricane, which swept the Bahamas with devastating force last week has been placed unofficially at 126. Four hundred persons are reported missing, a hundred boats sunk and property damage estimated at $8,000,000.

The sponge fleet did not suffer as great a loss as was at first feared, as only 80 of the 400 boats had gone to the sponge banks when the hurricane struck the islands. Others were in harbor, due to an agreement with sponge buyers that there would be no more purchases until September.

All of the 80 vessels are believed to have been lost with the 350 members of their crews. Of the hundred or more boats lost or unaccounted for, 60 were in Nassau harbor in the storm.

As vessels are made available in Nassau harbor they are dispatched to outlying islands with such supplies as can be gathered in an effort to minister to those made homeless by the storm, refugees are being housed wherever they can be lodged and the work of checking the dead grows with the reclamation of avenues of travel and communication.

Thirty-five persons, half the population of Green Turtle Cay, off Adelaide in east New Providence escaped death when they sought safety from the raging hurricane in the village church. The island of Exumu and Eluethera ravaged they suffered heavy losses from the hurricane but gave no details of casualties or of property damage. Shipping men reported here, however, that 200 persons were homeless on the islands.

Twenty-seven refugees arrived here today from Exumu. Reports were received of the schooner Brontes, bound from Nassau to San Salvador with 22 men, going down with all aboard. The Celeste with 12 persons, the Columbia with 15, the Graceful with 8, the Sydney with 6, the Sarah Jane with 6 and several other smaller craft, all of the sponge fishing fleet, met similar fate.

The schooner Rowen with five persons aboard dragged her anchor in Nassau harbor and has not been seen since. The schooner Frances E., also was swept out of the harbor but later was found cast high and dry on the beach but no one was found on board. The schooners Iona, Forward and Venture were lost but 11 persons aboard them were rescued.

Fourteen women, seven children and six members of the crew of an unidentified schooner are reported to have drowned when their boat sank at Exumu island. An unidentified craft is also reported to have sunk with 22 persons aboard at Cat island.

All along beaches at Nassau and smaller islands of the group are to be found schooners of varying dimensions, piled high by the storm. Many were pounded to pieces by the heavy seas while others settled to the bottom.

ISRAEL ZANGWILL IS DEAD OF PNEUMONIA IN LONDON

Noted Jewish Playwright Had Been Under Treatment in Hospital—Was Organizer of the International Jewish Territorial Organization—Had Made Several Efforts to Create Settlements Abroad for His Race.

LONDON, Aug. 1—(AP)—Israel Zangwell, noted playwright and man of letters, died at the hospital at three o'clock this afternoon. He had been under treatment in a hospital at Midhurst, Sussex, for two months, but his condition did not become serious until about a week ago, when he gradually became worse. He died at the hospital at three o'clock this morning. The direct cause of death being given as pneumonia.

Israel Zangwell, who was perhaps the greatest contemporaneous commentator on Jewish life, being an ardent Zionist and founder of the International Jewish Territorial organization, made his literary reputation with a novel—"The Children of the Ghetto" —in 1892. He was the author of many Jewish plays, some of which were produced in New York in English and Jewish.

Zangwill was born in London, February 14, 1864, spending his early childhood and school days in Bristol and Plymouth. After entering the profession of teaching at Spitalfields, he deserted it for journalism, subsequently founding and editing the Literary Journal Ariel, and the London Puck.

Long before the establishment of a Jewish homeland in Palestine, Zangwill had made several efforts to create settlements abroad for his race, suffering from persecution under the czarist regime in Russia.

At the Zionist congress in Basel in 1905, he urged acceptance of a British proposal regarding a Jewish settlement in British East Africa. Later he advocated a plan to settle Jewish families in Galveston, Texas, and, in 1908 he suggested Mesopotamia as the place for a Jewish homeland.

Zangwill visited the United States in 1904, 1908 and 1923.

The Jewish man of letters was an early champion of woman suffrage. In the great war, he appealed to all Jews to support the allies and urged the formation of a Jewish foreign legion to fight against the central powers.

TO INVESTIGATE SUICIDE OF BARONESS ROYCE-GARRETT

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 1.—(AP)—A concluding chapter to a story carried its principals from the awake of a Russian revolution through the hardship and poverty and one of them to death probably will be told tomorrow when a coroner's jury investigates the suicide of the Baroness Royce-Garrett, who leaped from the 15th floor of the Everglades hotel Friday night.

Baron Michael Royce-Garrett tonight was under a physician's care in the custody of police, Arrested last night in a thicket ten miles north of Miami, clasping a piece of heavy twine, the baron told police he was at the point of hanging himself.

A suicide pact made years ago in Russia should financial difficulties ensue more hardship than they could stand, caused him to plan his death and as he described events leading to the death of his youthful wife he expressed disappointment that she had not died with him as she promised.

Baron Royce-Garrett, formerly of the Russian nobility and a veteran of the world war and the first battles o the bolshevik, met Vera Lavrora in a Russian hospital while recuperating from the amputation of a leg. A noted singer, she had lost a heritage of $5,000,000 in the Russian upheaval. They fled their country and two years ago arrived at New York. The musical accomplishments of the baroness attracted attetnion in the east and she appeared in several theatrical entertainments. Seven months ago the couple came to Miami.

The spectre of poverty which had haunted them since the collapse in Russia of the nobility dogged them.

"Yesterday morning — Friday—my wife told me the time had come to die——that she could not work or fight any longer, and that we must die together," the baron told police.

"I do not know how to express it in English but my wife and I believe in reincarnation of souls and because we loved each other and had lived together we decided to die together."

DAWES GIVES HIS VIEWS OF AGRICULTURAL PROBLEM

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Vice President Charles G. Dawes predicted that the agricultural west will eventually find a satisfactory and an "American" solution of its economic problems through "energy harnessed by intelligence," in an address here tonight before 14,000 Coloradonns gathered in the municipal auditorium to celebrate Colorado's 50th year of statehood. Mr. Dawes described the spirit of the west as, "determination of purpose—energy harnessed by intelligence—ambition dominated by high purpose—a universal willingness to work, and, underneath all these attributes, an attitude of reverence toward the traditions of the race, the family, the church, and the great American constitutional institutions."

The vice president ventured the opinion that "in the fundamental attitude of the people of the west toward all American institutions we found one of their greatest safeguards and that upon all fundamental questions concerning property and individual rights, the west will be in the vanguard of defense when they are attacked."

Turning back to the dark days of the '90s, when the west went through the "gruelling experience of a temporary collapse of its fondest hopes" Mr. Dawes declared that its people then, as now, in adversity as well as prosperity, stood solidly behind law and order, American institutions and the American constitution."

"The west talked some in those days," he said, "but it worked more."

"The west is young, and being young, it is often impatient. Like the young, it rails quickly at deep-seated abuses. If it sees anything wrong in the administration of the government it does not discuss the hopelessness of changing it or the desirability of keeping it because of certain illegitimate benefits to the community. It arises and attacks it.

The "present unrest in the west," in connection with 'agricultural conditions was described by Mr. Dawes as not being based on a demand that agriculture have preferential treatment over other industries, but that agriculture have equal treatment with them under the law."

STATE PREPARING MURDER CASE AGAINST MRS. HALL

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J. Aug. 1—(AP)—New Jersey was preparing today to clear its skirts of the imputation that "Jersey justice" lagged in the first investigation four years ago of the murder of the Rev. Dr. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills.

State Senator Simpson, chosen by Governor Moore as special prosecutor for the state, said he would carefully scrutinize the handling of the case in 1922 to see whether "anyone was impeding justice."

As one of the first steps in the new investigation of the crime, in connection with which the clergyman's widow, Mrs. Frances S. Hall, was arrested Wednesday at midnight, the bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills will be exhumed, it was learned yesterday from a supposedly authoritative source.

Mrs. Hall who was released Friday in $15,000 bail, will be called before an extraordinary grand jury, it was reported soon after the inquiry gets under way.

The "mass of new evidence" upon which Prosecutor Bergen of Somerset county acted in the midnight arrest of Mrs. Hall was pieced together from the alleged statements of witnesses, including Mrs. Jane Gibson (the "pig woman" of the original investigation) William Phillips, a night watchman near the Hall home, and two of the Hall maids.

NOTE IN BOTTLE WAS SIGNED "WALTER WARD"

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—A note signed "Walter Ward" saying that the son of the wealthy baking man was being held prisoner on an island off Suffolk county, Long Island, was found in a bottle washed ashore at Riverhead, Long Island, tonight. Police were notified and immediately began an investigation.

The note said: "Held on Robin's Island. For God's sake send help."

Ward, who was acquitted on the murder of Clarence Peters in an alleged blackmail plot in 1922, disappeared last May 6. His abandoned automobile was found near Trenton, N. J.

On last June 9 a carrier pigeon with a message attached to its leg purporting to be from Ward was picked up at Bryn Athyn, Pa. The message said Ward was held prisoner at a shack on the Delaware river. Search of the banks failed to uncover any trace of the missing man.

Police said tonight that they had been requested by the Ward family to drop the search for Walter shortly after his car was found. Sheriff Howe of Suffolk county announced his intention of searching Robin's Island, despite the possibility of another hoax.

F. W. ROSEBROOKS BOUND OVER FOR DEATHS IN NYE COLLISION

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 1—Probable cause was found, in the case of Fred Ward Rosebrooks of 151 Pleasant street, this city, charged with manslaughter, when he was presented in police court Saturday morning. He was bound over to the superior court under bonds of $5,000. The amount was furnished by his employer, Willard H. Smith. About four o'clock on the afternoon of Saturday, July 3, Rosebrooks was driving a heavy truck owned by Willard H. Smith, Inc., which collided with an Oldsmobile touring car containing the driver, Raymond A. Nye, 20, who was instantly killed, his brother, Mrs. Jessie Nye who died four hours later at St. Joseph's hospital, his father, Arthur C. Nye and sister, Miss Grace Nye who escaped injury. In his finding in the case, Coroner Arthur G. Bill, of Danielson, held Rosebrooks criminally negligent in driving the truck at a rate of from 15 to 25 miles an hour, the charge against the young man was that of being criminally and grossly careless in driving the truck.

Twelve witnesses had been summoned by Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher. Arthur C. Nye and his daughter, Miss Grace Nye, claiming that they would be unable to bear, listening once more to a detail and description of the tragedy which cost the lives of half their family, were excused and the stenographic reports of their testimony given before Coroner Bill during the inquest was embodied in the evidence taken during the court session.

The reading of the complaint was waived by Rosebrooks' attorneys, Williams A. and John E. King. Judge Frank H. Foss presided at the session.

Howard J. Keegan, 17, of 107 Oakland Terrace, Hartford, recently a resident of this city and only witness to the entire happenings of the accident, was the first witness. From a distance of about 250 feet he saw the Nye car traveling north, on Jackson street, and the truck driven by Rosebrooks some ten or 15 feet in the rear. The truck driver apparently attempted to turn to the left of the road to pass the car when the right front wheel of his machine struck the left rear fender of the Nye car, pushing that vehicle into the gutter at the right of the road, then striking it again at a point near the front seat and crushing the machine against a tree. The truck turned over on its left side.

Gunnar Nelson, 20 of 16 Carey street, who was with Keegan at the time, said he heard the crash and told of what he saw afterwards.

Former First Selectman Russell A. Andrews said that from his house veranda 600 feet distant he noticed the truck going at a fast rate of speed which he believed was in excess of the limit allowed by traffic laws. He did not notice the Nye car until he heard the crash.

Francis A. Boucher, of 296 Jackson street, testified that he saw both machines when they passed his home. The Nye car was going at a slow rate of speed. A short time later the truck driven by Rosebrooks came along at a rate which he estimated at about 30 miles an hour. He did not see or hear the accident.

Other witnesses heard relative to the speed of the truck or as to the condition of the persons or cars as they found them immediately after the accident, were Peter Rivard of Friendship street, Nelson C. YOUTH AND GIRL ARE HELD FOR DEATH OF INFANT

DANIELSON, Aug. 1—At Brooklyn jail on Sunday were two young people who may have to pay with their lives to compensate the state for an affair in which they find themselves involved. They are Miss Agnes Pytko, 17, of Wilsonville, in the town of Thompson, and Raymond Weatherbee, 25, of North Grosvenordale, both bound over without bail, Saturday afternoon, following a hearing before Justice Tourtellotte in the town of Thompson on charges of murder in the first degree.

State Attorney Howard C. Bradford of Putnam said Sunday morning that they will be presented before a grand jury at a later date. State Attorney Bradford did not name the date when a grand jury will be convened to consider such evidence as the state has to present in this amazingly interesting case, but in the usual order of events it will come in September. Should this grand jury return a true bill, Miss Pytko and Mr. Weatherbee, alleged parents of a child that the state will say was murdered within a few minutes after its birth, will go to trial before a jury of their peers, and, should there be a verdict of guilty there, the penalty for both of them may be death.

It is to such a pitiful state that an ill-fated romance between two cotton mill employes has progressed.

Testifying at the hearing Saturday afternoon, Miss Pytko told a sordid tale of giving birth to a female child at 2:30 on the morning of June 30th of this year, while she lay on an old raincoat in a field on the banks of a cove of the river that flows by Wilsonville. She told the court how she had wrapped the new-born infant in an old apron and, alleged that Raymond Weatherbee had then tied a clothesline around the waist of the little form, attached a heavy stone to the other end of the line and then carried the double burden to the bank of the river, while she, with her back turned waited until she heard the splash of heavy objects thrown into the water and for the return of Weatherbee, who she says announced "I have drowned the child."

Weatherbee did not testify at the hearing on Saturday, contenting himself with his previously reiterated denial of any knowledge of the affair, nor were any of the other witnesses summoned by his counsel, Attorney Irving H. Miron of Putnam, throughall present in court, heard, on the witness stand Attorney Charles L. Torrey of Putnam, representing Miss Pytko, merely demurred to the complaint of murder of the first degree against his client, which demurrer was overruled and Miss Pytko committed to jail without bail. It would appear that both the state and counsel for the defence were content at the hearing at North Grosvenordale on Saturday to temporarily let matters take their course and battle over the lives of two young people after the case has been before the grand jury and eventually comes to trial in the superior court for Windham county.

There was little sign of stress or strain on either Miss Pytko or Weatherbee as she, a bit confused girl, faced court and counsel and a room filled with men—she alone of her sex—to tell as dreadful a tale as has been told in a court room in Windham county for years. Weatherbee sat beside his counsel the picture of unworried complacency, facing the girl who was accusing him in an affair that may lead to his death on the scaffold. Experienced court followers would call Miss Pytko a good witness. At first she had to be urged to speak more loudly, but she never indicated that she was suffering any mental strain, nor did she falter under cross examination or change any material statement she had made under direct examination telling of what happened on the fateful night of June 29-30.

Briefly, under direct examination by State Attorney Bradford, who regards the case as so important that he went to North Grosvenordale Saturday to assist the local prosecutor, was this: "I met Raymond Weatherbee at 12:30 p. m. June 29 near the mill where we worked in the same room at North Grosvenordale and told him I was going to have a baby that night. I thought. He said 'I will come at midnight and help you'. I went home on the trolley to Wilsonville and, after a light supper, went to bed at 10 o'clock and fell asleep I awakened at 2 a. m. and was feeling so that the time had come. I got up, put on some clothes, went downstairs and outdoors. I saw Raymond coming up the hill. I went into the shed and from the rag bag brought out an apron and an old raincoat. Raymond came and kissed me. He asked me if I had a rope and I went into the shed and got a long piece of clothes line. We then walked through the fields to near the bank of the river. The child was born as I lay on the old raincoat Raymond stood by watching. After the birth I saw the child raise one of its legs in the air, but it did not cry. I wrapped the child in the old apron then Raymond tied the rope around its waist, went to a nearby wall and got a heavy stone and tied the stone to the other end of the rope. Then he carried the child and the stone to the river and, while my back was turned, I heard a splash. Raymond came back and said 'I have drowned the child' He helped me back to the home of my married sister, where I have been living. I said to him, 'there will be trouble over this' and he walked away without answering, going in the direction from whence he came."

Miss Pytko testified that she was back in bed at 3:15 a. m., having been absent from the house only 45 minutes, and that after again retiring fell asleep. Her condition was such the following day that she had to be removed to the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Under a searching cross examination by Attorney Miron Miss Pytko was asked, among many other things—"Did you offer no protest against Weatherbee proceeding to drown the child, to take away your own new-born flesh and blood and throw in the river? Did you do anything or say anything that would stay Weatherbee from taking the life of the baby?" The girl's answer was an unruffled "No," but, she added, I did not want him to do it.

During the course of her cross-examination Miss Pytko admitted having been accused of stealing money when she was but 15 years of age, but denied the truth of the allegation, although she admitted having had sexual relations at that time with a man whose age she estimated at 35 years.

Pressed by Attorney Miron to explain why she had made various statements to State Officer E. V. Streamans of the Danielson barracks, one of these statements including an admission that she herself had thrown the baby into the river, she finally said that she eventually involved Weatherbee because State Officer Streamens had cleverly caught her lying over a matter involving the wearing of a pair of slippers she at first said she had worn on the night the baby was born. "I told the truth then,' she said. The inference was that she had tried to shield the man she now accuses until she was trapped by her own disagreeing statements.

That the baby delivered by Miss Pytko was born alive and was dead before it was thrown into the river was the opinion of Dr. R. C. Paine, medical examiner for the town of Thompson, and the witness following Miss Pytko on the stand. Dr. Paine was permitted to read his autopsy report as testimony. He said that he had found the child had a fractured skull at the left temple and described this fracture in detail. The fracture could not have been caused by a blow from a fist, the doctor believed. Dr. Paine would not venture an opinion as to how the fracture was sustained, but was convinced that the child had been alive at birth, and dead when thrown into the water. He explains that upon performing the autopsy he had removed the lungs of the infant, that they were free from water and that they would float on water, evidence that the child had breathed and that it was dead when it was consigned to the river. The fact that the infant had breathed showed that it had been born alive. "The lungs of a still born child will not float" the doctor testified. There was further testimony on the part of Dr. Paine to indicate that there would have been water in the child's lungs had it been thrown into the water while alive. The doctor's testimony made the fracture of the child's skull of outstanding interest and speculation as to how it occurred.

State Officer E. V. Streamens as a witness in the case told in detail of the weeks of work he put in on the case, of the interviews with Miss Pytko, of the search of the river and the eventual finding of the body of the infant, near where Miss Pytko said it would be found as she lay suffering and in some doubt of recovery in a hospital bed at Putnam. Officer Streamens testimony was as fascinating as any tale involving such an investigation could be and is regarded by the prosecution as extremely important to the proceedings that are to follow. Officer Streamens worked practically all the past month on the case, though he had progressed so far in his investigations by July 3, that the arrest of Weatherbee and his consignment to jail was brought about. The detail of these investigations would fill columns.

Because the brakes on his automobile failed to work Saturday morning, when he was approaching the Main street crossing as the gates were descending upon the approach of a southbound passenger train, scheduled to stop here, Alfred Grass, resident in Foster, had an experience he will not forget. A woman and a child were in the machine with him as it failed to respond to the brakes and went under the gates, the front wheels almost upon the track in front of the approaching locomotive. Mr. Grass swung the machine sharply to the left and hit a fence that runs along the side of the railroad trackand separating it from Furnace street. He had squeezed into a mighty tight place where he was safe by inches from being wrecked by the train—a space between the gates and fence and the track—so what minor damage was done the fence and to the car was immaterial beside what might have happened had he been less resourceful.

At St. James' church Sunday the 9:45 mass was a service of sacrifice and prayer for the Roman Catholics of Mexico. In his remarks of the morning Rev. F. X. Richards, M. S., recalled that persecution is the lot of this church—and always will be. He cited the efforts of Herod to have the Christ child slain and of the difficulties that have periodically beset the church through the more than 1900 years since it was established. Parishioners here were counseled to pray for the church and its people in Mexico. An outline of the long history of the difficulties of the church in Mexico was given by Father Richards.

The roof of the north wing of the new high school is about ready for the slate. This is significant as indicating the efforts the contractors are making to get this new addition to the school ready for September, when a new school year will begin. Lathers and plasterers will hurry their work this week and finishers will be on the job at the earliest opportunity. If the north wing is not ready for the Tuesday after Labor day, a situation will be at hand as to having the high school open on time, ready to take up its regular work. It is for this reason that no delays that are avoidable will interfere with the rush work that will be the feature of the August activities at the school.

Tuesday will be a great day for telephone company employes in the eastern district of the Southern New England Telephone company. From New London, Norwich, Putnam, Willimantic, Mystic, Lyme, Saybrook, Danielson and a score of other points in the district they will gather at Moosup pond for the annual field day and shore dinner party that has been a feature of the employes' annual social activities for a number of years. About 250 are expected to be present from the various departments and invitations have been extended to officials of the corporation at New Haven to come and have a real holiday with the members of the company family in the eastern end of the state.

A committee has arranged for a big shore dinner that King George Jacques of East Killingly will prepare and the Lionel and Mae beach will be alive with the telephone people. A program of sports, including a baseball game, is on the list of events for the day. Then there will be dancing at the Casino. Nothing will stop the telephone people having a good time. When they set out to do that particular thing, they can be as faithful in extracting joy as they are in maintaining service under any and all conditions. Tuesday is their day off—but not for all of them. The hello girls and people, in other departments throughout the eastern district will be on their jobs, seeing that the public gets its usual good service.

There is a possibility that the Service battery, with other units of the 102d field artillery, will camp at Fort Ethan Allen, Vt., next summer.

PUTNAM

TOTAL OF 72 GUARANTORS FOR 1927 CHAUTAUQUA

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Aug. 1.—Chautauqua will return to Putnam next year as it has for several years, 72 guarantors having been secured to cover any deficit. Because the number of guarantors for the engagement just clos was comparatively small in number and the number of tickets sold not as great as in former years, the amount that each guarantor had to pay was $10.30.

The seven days for Chautauqua for 1926 were brought to a close by the Dunbar Singing Bell Ringers in one of the most delightful programs of the week. Good voices, pretty costumes and a varied program made their entertainment a most enjoyable one. Notwithstanding the bad weather the tent was filled each evening during the week. During the latter part of the week securing the pledging of tickets for the next year's Chautauqua was in the hands of the local committee and they have been meeting with good success.

The series of entertainmnts this year was one of inspiring music, interesting and eloquent lectures and two strong plays. Frank McGlynn played the leading role in "Abraham Lincoln," the same part he has played for several years in first class theaters in big cities all over the United States. Then there was also the comedy "Applesauce," a play of altogether a different type, which kept the audience in continuous laughter.

The officers of the Junior Chautauqua took over the reins of the city government for one hour during the week. Arthur Ross was mayor, Helen Varbedian was town clerk, James Denning and Rose Bove signed for police duty but as the weather was so wet, it was not necessary to make any arrests. Russell Ryan and Martha Thayer were service commissioners and looked after the health department, municipal building, the fire department and the police station.

Trolley car service between North Grosvenordale and Webster has been abandoned and the rails are being torn up. Trolley cars in the city of Webster have also been abandoned. Instead of trolleys from North Grosvenordale the Putnam bus will now be met by a Webster bus. Putnam people have become used to the present bus system and are receiving excellent service between Putnam and Norwich, although some people still claim that they miss the trolleys.

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 1—The two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Adam Rojeske is in the isolation hospital in Hartford with infantile paralysis. Within a few days he seemed not to be well, and lost the use of his legs. He was taken to a Hartford physician Saturday.

An act of vandalism which seems to have no reason, was committed near the house of E. F. Burleson last week. During the early evening one of the family heard a noise near the house as if someone were pulling grass. As children frequently come there to pull clover for their rabbits, no attention was paid to it. A neighbor across the street called out several times "Get out fo there!" But the family supposed that he was calling to these children. The next morning a large shrub was found pulled up by the roots and left lying on the ground. It was too large to carry away, and why the act was committed is a mystery.

Pepin.

REVISING THE DAWES PLAN

The revelation made at Williamstown of a plan of the International Chamber of Commerce to revise the Dawes plan cannot fail to be of interest. That two of the American framers of the original scheme, Owen D. Young and Henry M. Robinson, are behind the proposal, will give it an endorsement which it might otherwise not have had. The revision would establish an international corporation for the development of French colonial resources. The United States and other nations financially able would furnish money to Germany, which in turn would purchase raw materials and manufacture machinery for the use of France in North Africa. The United States and other financial sponsors would hold a first mortgage on the project as a guarantee for the loan.

Germany needs assistance in order to make reparations payment to France in kind. The Germans require money in order to develop raw materials into manufactured product. The plan proposed would lighten the strain on Germany, take care of the French share in reparations and assure that transfer of payments will not result in dislocation of currencies or other evils.

Because of the high standing of those behind this proposal, both Americans as well as foreigners, it is bound to receive serious consideration. The International Chamber of Commerce hopes that the very character of the goods transferred and the use of their use would make for peace and reduce unemployment and provide for normal French economic development.

Some revision of the Dawes plan, successful as it has so far been, is inevitable, it is generally agreed. That this revision will take the form of some such project as has been proposed, seems probable. It has become more apparent all the time that the various financial and economic arrangements for liquidation of the war are subject to revision. Flexibility to meet changing circumstances is important and when the broad general good is the end in view to be attained, revision is a desirable step to take.

EUROPE'S CAPITAL FLIGHT

When financial instability becomes serious, it is inevitable that there shall be a movement of fluid capital to a refuge regarded as safe. Such is apparent in the increased demand in Europe for the securities of enterprises in the United States, this demand being the result of currency unsettlement in France, Italy and Belgium. In the last ten days international bankers in the United States have had many orders from France to make American security purchases, especially of the better grade of railroad shares. The amount of capital thus invested probably has been large.

Ultimately it will return, and its return may be expected to begin immediately on the restoration of confidence in fiscal integrity abroad. Securities bought in this country will be disposed of as a rule to American investors. Europe's own need for capital is so great that residents there fortunate enough to be possessed of liquid assets find abundant opportunity for their resources.

So the current flight of capital from Europe is temporary and incidental. Logic is against its continuance if reasonable stability in finance and trade can be assured abroad. Immediately though, the flight is making harder the guaranteeing of that very thing. That was a difficulty faced in Germany when rehabilitation was undertaken. It was conquered, despite the fact that the flight of capital apparently was more extensive than from any other European power.

PROTECTING THE CANAL

Control and defense of the Panama Canal would be questions of the utmost importance to the welfare of this nation in the event of international complications of serious aspect. The new commercial treaty recently signed between the United States and the republic of Panama wisely provides for co-operation between both parties for the protection of the canal. It is stipulated that in the event of war between America and a foreign power, Panama, which by reason of the canal would assume the position of an important factor, will automatically consider herself in a state of war as an ally of the United States. Military co-operation for the protection of the canal is provided for in detail covering the operation of naval and aircraft. As a purely defensive measure this section of the treaty represents judicious statesmanship.

COST OF A CHILD

Through careful study of all the elements of cost from birth to the eighteenth year, the federal department of labor finds that the cost of rearing a child in the United States is $7,200. The exact total is $7,238, made up of the following averages: Birth cost $250, food $2,500, clothing and shelter $3,400, major items, including school provided by the community, through high school $1,150, health $284, recreation $130, insurance $54, sundries $570.

Of course there are many parents in this country who are not able to spend that sum on their children, and a great many others who spend much more for the period of life here considered.

The federal bureau based its estimate upon family units of five, father, mother and three children, having an annual expenditure of $2,500. There are families that do not have that much money to spend each year; indeed, the average income of families is below that sum, though that has been agreed upon as a sum necessary to properly care for a family consisting of five members.

These are interesting studies, for they have to do with child life, and the more we know about the child and the child's needs the better it will be for us. The first thought in connection with these conclusions is that we are not doing as much as we ought to do for the children of this country in order properly to equip them for efficient social service and to make them self-sustaining and independent; but we are progressing in that direction, and the time probably is not remote when we will be meeting these vital obligations in more satisfactory fashion.

NEW ENGLAND'S FARM MARKET

Speaking at Amherst, Secretary Jardine told the truth when he said that no market in the world for agricultural products surpasses that which is close to the doors of New England farmers. Within a day's reach of them, he said, lives one-fifth of the total population of the United States. The question for New England farmers is how to reach that market properly. The secretary's figures included the population of the state of New York and probably of New Jersey, each served by their own agricultural sections, but even without these, the New England urban and industrial population furnishes a rare market opportunity for its farmers. It is a market too that is sought by farmers from other sections, competition coming from the middle and far west, which attempts to overcome the handicap of long distance transportation by producing cheaper and putting the product on the market in superior quality or condition.

A prosperous industrial population provides a market for farm products in New England of which the agriculturalist should never lose sight. Neither the farmers of this nor any other section can afford to jeopardize the advantage they enjoy through the patronage of a busy industrial population. The preservation of the best market in the world is not so much a matter of protecting agricultural products from foreign competition, though that may be necessary, as a matter of protecting industrial products that come into sharp competition with European manufactures produced on the basis of a much lower scale of living for both industrial worker and farmer. If the eastern agricultural market is the envy of agriculturists elsewhere, it is because it is a market made by industrial prosperity which in turn is the result of intelligent protection. There is no scheme of farm aid so fundamentally important as this.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Cocoa stains on table linen should be washed first in cold water. They will then be removed more easily.

A good way to tell when ham is fried enough is by the fat. When the fat is brown (not burned) the ham is done.

Turnips and beets are improved by adding one or two tablespoons of sugar when cooking.

When boiling fowls or fish add to the water the juice of a half a lemon. This will make them beautifully white.

Spiced fruit, mint or currant jelly, mint or caper sauce are excellent relishes to serve with lamb or mutton.

After using, an electric iron should be carefully covered to protect it from dampness, and the cord should be disconnected.

You can make a very satisfactory dustless duster by saturating cheesecloth in kerosene oil and hanging it in the sunlight to dry.

The grease that sometimes shows itself on coat collars may be removed by a brush dampened with water in which salt has been dissolved.

The flavor of shrimps is improved if boiling water is poured over them a short time before they are served and drained away immediately.

When making fruit pies dampen the edge of the pastry with milk instead of water—it holds better, and the juice is not so liable to boil over.

The unsightly ring left by cleaning fluids when used for removing spots may be avoided by placing under the spot a pad made of thick, absorbent cotton.

The continual ripping off of buttons by the clothes wringer can be prevented by folding the buttons inside the garment and holding it flat as you turn the wringer.

If new enamel saucepans are placed in a pan of warm water and allowed to come to a boil, and then to cool, they will be found to last much longer before either cracking or burning.

CANNING HINT

Get a cheap metal teapot to melt paraffin and keep it for that purpose. The melted paraffin pours easily just where you want it, and need not be used all at one time.

FLIES

Kerosene, rubbed over the screens and casings of windows, will keep flies from collecting there ready to swarm in the instant the door is opened. Do not use too much or the odor will be offensive.

SILVER

Wash table silver once a week in water to which a little ammonia and whiting has been added, rinse in clear, hot water and dry on a clean towel and the drawer or box in which it is kept lined with felt or some absorbent cloth.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

After washing the hair it should hang down the back for a few hours at least. It is a bad plan to wash it at night, as sleeping packs the hair together tightly too soon after the shampoo.

A deodorant cream and an astringent toilet water should be added to your traveling "beauty kit." These preparations may be used to keep the armpits sweet and cool. The lotion may also be used to relieve excessive perspiration on the palms, forehead and neck.

There is nothing so refreshing as hot milk to the very tired person. It should be heated to the scalding point, a little salt added and drunk as hot as possible. It is also a sleep producer and nerve quieter.

Unless you wish to return from your summer motor trip with a crop of fine new wrinkles around your eyes, you must take special care to avoid eyestrain. If the glare of the sun is great, wear tinted motor goggles. At bedtime and in the morning bathe your eyes in weak boric acid solution. If you are riding in a train, sit with your back toward the engine so that when you look out of the window the landscape will recede instead of rushing toward you. Rest your eyes occasionally by closing them.

INLAID LINOLEUM

Unless one is experienced it is wise to have a professional lay the inlaid linoleum. It is an art in itself, and after one has paid the price demanded for good linoleum it is foolish not to pay the added amount and have it laid smoothly. It will last much longer if done right.

TURPENTINE FOR RUGS

Go over the rugs once every so often with a broom dipped in hot water to which a little turpentine has been added. This will freshen a faded carpet wonderfully and at the same time prevent moths.

INQUIRE FIRST

Before purchasing material for a suit or coat inquire if it has been sponged. If it has not been sponged, every spot of water will show and if caught in a shower, the garment is very likely to shrink.

FOOL 'EM

If your family should drink milk and will not do it, hide it in the food and make them eat it. Look in your cook book for recipes containing a quantity of milk and use one at each meal. One night a cream soup, the next a pudding, the following a chowder, and so on.

FISHY UTENSILS

It is wise to line the baking dish with either buttered brown or oiled paper when cooking fish. It will certainly take away the unpleasantness of cleaning the baking pan.

HARDENS JELLY

When jelly does not set properly, add the juice of a lemon or a bit of white vinegar, and the difficulty will be overcome.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Red and white plaid alpaca is used effectively to line a wrap of heavy silk.

The heel of this season's pump is quite apt to be of a contrasting leather with the rest of the shoe.

Smart new pumps for evening wear are of gold metal cloth woven in paisley pattern in paisley colorings.

For warm summer evenings a wrap of pleated chiffon collared with light summer fur is a most satisfying possession.

Navy blue is increasingly popular as the season advances. In georgette crepe and in foulard it is seen in the largest quantities.

Velvet plays a prominent part in the midsummer mode. The velvet coat and the small velvet hat are the smartest things you can wear. Black is, of course, the proper color.

Two new shades of pink, known as Trianon and Recamier slightly on the order of ashes of roses, are being exploited in Paris.

The ukase is that jabots shall be visible in front only. That is to say, the white collar should never be worn outside the coat.

A new shade of blue just the color of cornflowers is introduced for midsummer wear. It is featured in frocks and hats. This color is particularly becoming.

An attractive coat of gray twill has ruffles of pleated silk of the same color that run from wrist to elbow. Ribbon also binds the coat and forms the upstanding collar.

The vogue for polka-dots is reflected in handkerchiefs of the finest linen, with wide colored borders broken by polka-dots to match the center of the handkerchief. They are exceedingly smart.

A spray of roses small and flat is made of mother-of-pearl. It is sewed to the lapel of a coat very much as one would attach buttons. They come in pastel shades of silver, orchid and peach.

SUMMER COLORINGS

For the summer sport frocks the pastel hues have the preference and there is a wide range from which to choose, the list including the beiges, such as Josephine, golden wheat, oakbuff, macaroon, seashell, and cinnamon pink; in cool gray greens such as palmetto, dewkiss, lichen green, and sea moss; in the pleasant blues of slate, steel, arctic and bluet; in violet such as La Valiere, crushed violets and mallow.

Something of an innovation is the two-piece frock in contrasting colorings. The skirt is usually white, and the blouse may be of phantom red, June rose or wild honey. When there is a three-tone combination it is usually carried out in the rose shades, in arctic, slate and navy blue, or the browns designated respectively as sun tan, titian gold and copper brown.

An outstanding color in the fashions of midsummer is a clear fresh yellow which appears in sports costumes as well as in charming sheer frocks for afternoon and evening. Even millinery reflects the vogue for this color. It is featured in both straw and felt hats.

BEACH ACCESSORIES

The accessories of the beach costume are quite as important as the costume itself. Cape, cap, bag, rug, umbrella and cushions are nowadays considered essential to looks and comfort on the sands.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Leftover lemon rinds should be placed in the wash boiler with the clothes to boil. They will make the clothes snow white.

Add a teaspoonful of powdered borax to the water in which handkerchiefs are to be washed. It will whiten them perceptibly.

Always hang colored clothes in the shade wrongside out and where there is a current of air to dry them quickly if you wish to minimize the possibility of fading.

Flannels should be washed in several waters, all of the same temperature.

The ideal ironing board is covered first with a thick pad, then with cotton, tightly and smoothly stretched.

Flannels that have been poorly washed and are hard and shrunken can be restored to their former softness by soaking them in gasoline for a few hours. Then wash in soft soap suds as usual. Rinse in the same temperature clear water.

MAKING STARCH

Use luke warm instead of cold water to break down the starch. Then, when it has been reduced to the proper consistency by boiling water, add a pinch of fine salt and stir several times with a wax candle. This will make the iron run smoothly and give your linens a polish that nothing else can impart.

REMOVES INK MARKS

Should a treasured piece of linen get into the laundry and return with a number on it in ink, this method will take the ink mark out: Apply a saturated solution of cyanide of potassium with a camel's hair brush. As soon as the marks disappear wash the linen in cold water.

TO TEST JELLY

A good way to tell if jelly is done is to put a teaspoonful of the syrup on a small dish and then place the dish directly on the ice. If in about five minutes the syrup is firm and jellied, your jelly is done. But if it runs while so cold the jelly requires more cooking.

CONCERNING WOMEN

The technical high school in Winnipeg has decided to experiment with a uniform dress for its girl students next term.

Swimming, is recommended by a prominent woman doctor as an excellent form of exercise for business girls, especially in the open air.

Mrs. Ella A. Slade, wife of the sheriff of Cheboygan county, Mich., is a candidate to succeed her husband, who under the law is ineligible for reelection.

Before the Revolution a woman judge was unheard of in Russia; today no fewer than 41,000 women sit on the bench as justices in the lower courts in that country.

The first known wrist watch was worn by Queen Elizabeth of England. It was a ruby and diamond studded bracelet affair and was given to her by the Earl of Leicester in 1572.

GOOD COLOR SCHEME

Always keep your white satin shoes and your white silk lingerie wrapped in blue tissue paper. This prevents yellowing.

QUIET YOUR NERVES

You can stop the unpleasant creaking of a door by rubbing the hinge with a piece of soap.

RECIPES

Dark Cake: Take 1 1-2 cups sugar, 1 scant cup lard, 1 cup sour milk, 3 cups flour, 1 cup of cocoa, stirred up with strong coffee, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in sour milk, 1 teaspoon baking powder and 2 eggs. Cream sugar and lard, add eggs and cocoa, then the flour and sour milk alternately.

Delicious Corn Bread: Take 1-2 cup sugar, 1 large tablespoon butter, 1 egg, 1 cup buttermilk, 1 cup flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon soda, pinch of salt, 1 cup yellow cornmeal. Cream sugar, butter and salt together, and egg, milk, flour baking powder, soda and cornmeal and bake in a moderate oven.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Major General William Lassiter, who has been assigned to command the Sixth Corps Area with headquarters at Chicago, is known as one of the foremost artillery experts of the United States Army. After graduating from West Point in 1889, he passed in quick succession from one rank to another. He served with his battery at the capture of Santiago in 1898; aided as military attache in London in 1916; took part in the Aisne-Marne offensive, the St. Mihiel drive, commanded the Second army in the Toul sector, led the 2nd division in the march to the Rhine, and later became chief of artillery of the Third army. After the war he became commander of the Panama Canal department. General Lassiter only recently returned from Arica where he was in charge of the arrangements for the proposed plebiscite to determine sovereignty over the provinces of Tacna and Arica in dispute between Chile and Peru.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Declares Prohibition a Farce

Mr. Editor: In self defense, in this my last letter on this or any other subject, I again claim your indulgence.

The government of these United States, is declared to be of the people, by the people, and for the people, with state rights held inviolable. At a conference of governors held in Wyoming, July 27, Gov. Trumbull of Connecticut among them, it was declared that all recent amendments to the constitution commencing with the 15th, with the exception of the 17th, are distinctly in violation of state rights principles, and are separately and collectively weakening. Personally I am in favor of prohibition, but desire a brand that will prohibit. In following the trend of investigation I have discovered that corruption has been unveiled, not only implicating enforcement officers, but men holding high positions in trust for the people. Some of the greatest howlers for prohibition are men who had well stocked cellars before prohibition went into effect and still maintain them. I do not know much about the morals of South Coventry, Conn., or Marblehead, Mass., but I do know something of prevailing conditions in this and adjoining towns and cities. In most of these, court judges have been extremely lenient for first offence, $100 fine with suspended jail sentence of 10 days. Now if jail sentences had been enforced the jails would overflow. Again these violators of the liquor law are not wanted there, once there they are simply guests of the state, adding to the states expense. The federal government is very strict about evidence in such cases—evidence must be of the most conclusive character in order to convict. We have a multiplicity of laws, some good, some bad, a great many laws still on the books have become obsolete on account of unpopularity. Prohibition should be left in the hands of the individual states. Intemperance is an evil of long standing, and should be corrected by, education not by compulsion. There are other evils to contend with besides intemperance, the morals of the rising generation need attention.

Observe the salacious literature displayed on all book stalls and news dealers windows, the increase in crime, of insanity, suicide and divorce. This state has its full quota of each. It is a fact that intemperance has been responsible for a great deal of misery and suffering, but not to the extent that some would have us believe. As to our morals, the least said the better. Sodom and Gomorrah side by side with our modern cities of New York and Chicago would stand in a pretty poor light. Of labor and labor conditions the writer has experience a-plenty, having been in its midst for nearly 80 years. His father, a soldier in the Union army 1861-5, he a lad then 11 years of age, obliged to go to work; spent two weeks gratis, day of 15 hours learning to manipulate a machine, after which he went on pay, for a 12 hour day, six days a week. $2 week year, he received the munificent sum of one dollar and forty cents per week. Can either of the ladies relate similar experience? Let the people to whom I am replying extend their crusade against all other evils as well as intemperance and all well disposed persons would be grateful to them. As an advocate of prohibition I contributed to the Anti-Saloon league, investigation has shown me that but a fraction of it went for the purpose intended, the major portion going into the pockets of officials who like flies gather around the sweetest morsel in sight. I still contend that prohibition and enforcement, as it now exists, is a farce.

Beacon Lights

Mr. Editor: If there were a few strong beacon lights that would flash into the brains of our city officials and shoot a little intelligence into them, there probably would not be so many unnecessary arrests of people who pass by this beacon at a time when they are supposed not to.

That large piece of junk would be a very useful piece of material to decorate Hollyhock Island with and help to fill up the river with the rest of the garbage material in that section, and incidentally there is another one near the watering trough on Washington street that would be a very useful article on Hollyhock Island also.

This flashing beacon which seems to be the source of so much financial return to our city court of late is a perfectly useless article to the city of Norwich. It has been given a good trial and aside from mulching dollars out of good citizens, it serves no other purpose. It is ridiculous to see at times three and sometimes more big strapping policemen loafing around the corners for the purpose of blowing whistles for unfortunate visitors to our town or some citizens who may have accidentally passed by this beacon.

After the policemen were given their salary raise, it strikes me a more useful occupation might be found for them than to have them loafing around the corners harassing public citizens.

On boat race day that beacon blocked the traffic all the way to Gales Ferry. On the day the circuit races were at the Fair Grounds traffic was likewise blocked for a mile beyond the beacon, all for no purpose as there was no traffic going in other directions.

It has been tried and has proven itself a successful failure. If we have too many policemen, so they have to be hanging around the squares watching that beacon and annoying citizens, then that part of the force should be dismissed as an unnecessary evil on Norwich society. It is not the province of the city government to annoy people who come into the city of Norwich to do business or to annoy its own citizens by this kind of nonsense, to say nothing about the dollars and cents that are taken from their pockets in the form of legalized extortion.

It is about time that something was done to relieve that traffic situation and improve it. It was hoped that this beacon would do it. It has failed so far and the sooner the city government stops taking money out of the pockets of our law-abiding citizens the better it will be for the city.

PROGRESS.

Reddy Sees a Queer Fellow

Because you've never seen a thing
Don't say it cannot be.
The strangest thing you've ever seen
May common be to me.
—Barker the Seal.

And that shoe fits the other foot just as well. You'll find it so, all through the Great World. A thing that is unbelievably strange to you may be very commonplace to me, and a thing that seems impossible to me may be so familiar to you that you do not give it a thought.

Never had he seen anything like this

Of course, Reddy Fox knew a whole lot about crabs. He was quite used to seeing these funny fellows scuttling sidewise whenever he came along. He had found out that some of the biggest ones could pinch hard enough to make him yelp. They really are very queer fellows, these crabs, looking as they do like huge spiders in shells. But Reddy was so accustomed to them that it never occurred to him that they were queer.

But when one night he found on the beach a dead, queer-looking creature that had been cast up by the waves, he was the most surprised for you ever saw. Never had he seen anything like this. His first thought was that it was some kind of a crab. It had legs very much like the legs of the crabs. But then he discovered that the body was altogether different. The body was long and seemed to be in several parts which were hinged. And then the pinching claws! Never had Reddy seen anything like these. There were two of them, one being a little bigger than the other. One look at them was enough; he certainly didn't want to be pinched by either of those claws. The shell of this fellow was a dark green, which looked almost black, and there were places on the big claws that were red.

Barker the Seal, lying on a big rock not far from where Reddy had found this fellow, called to Reddy to ask what he was staring at so.

"I don't know what it is," replied Reddy.

"What does it look like?" inquired Barker.

"It looks like a crab, yet it doesn't. It's got the biggest claws I ever saw," replied Reddy.

"Bring it over here where I can look at it," said Barker.

Reddy hesitated. He didn't like to admit that he was afraid to pick that thing up. But he was. You see, he wasn't quite sure that it wasn't alive. Finally he got a hold of it by the tail and dragged it over.

Barker merely gave it a glance. "Pooh!" said he. "That's nothing but a lobster. There's nothing queer about that. That one is dead, anyway."

"What's it like when it's alive?" inquired Reddy. "It's funny I've never seen any running around on the beach."

Barker began to laugh. "What are you laughing at?" demanded Reddy.

"The idea of Big Claw running around on the beach," replied Barker.

"Crabs do, and this thing looks something like a crab. Anyway, it has legs like a crab and claws like a crab only bigger. Why shouldn't it run around the same as the crabs do?" said Reddy.

"Because a lobster lives in the water and not on land; that's why," replied Barker. "If that one was alive, it wouldn't be up here. And let me tell you that if you ever find a live one you want to keep away from those big claws."

"Huh!" replied Reddy. "You don't have to tell me that. I wonder if it's good to eat."

"Good to eat!" exclaimed Barker. "If there is anything better to eat than Big Claw the Lobster, I don't know what it is. But you want to get one when he hasn't any shell."

Reddy looked at Barker suspiciously. "Say that again," said he.

ELDERLY COUPLE ATTACKED BY MIDNIGHT BURGLARS IN LISBON

Beaten unmercifully with heavy pieces of cord wood, and threatened unless they handed over their money, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Malanski of Baltic, R. F. D., 1, living about a mile beyond the Inland Paper Board company plant at Versailles, handed a $20 bill to one of the two robbers and thus escaped possible death late Saturday night. The first news of the holdup came shortly after 11:30 Saturday night when the Malanskis ran to the home of James Wade, about a half mile from their home, awakened them and asked for assistance.

Constable Audrey Potter of Lisbon and Constable John Joubert went to the Malanski home and began an investigation. Constable Potter requesting the Norwich police to send a doctor to attend the couple. Dr. Paul F. Gadle found Mr. Malanski suffering from two broken ribs and both he and his wife were covered with painful bruises caused by the beating they had received at the hands of the robbers.

According to the story told to Constable Potter Mr. and Mrs. Malanski and their son, aged 10 years, had returned home late Saturday night after taking a son and daughter to New London. They ate their supper and retired. About 11 o'clock they were awakened by two men who entered their bedroom and began to beat them with heavy pieces of cordwood, shouting as they wielded their weapons, "Give us your money, give us your money." The Malanskis put up a fight but against odds and Mrs. Malanski finally reached under a pillow on the bed and took out a $20 bill and handed it to one of the robbers, the pair immediately making their escape.

The couple could give no clue to the identity of their assailants but the boy, who was found hiding beneath the mattress on his bed, stated that both men wore brown overalls, were masked and that one was stout and the other small.

One suspect was found by the officers but the Malanskis could not identify him as their assailant and he was allowed to go. The search continued through the night and on Sunday Sheriff John T. Dolan of Jewett City took up the work of searching out the robbers.

One theory held is that the burglars were acquainted with the Malanski home for they got by the dog without causing him to bark, the dog being known as an excellent watch dog.

It is alleged that there has been trouble for sometime in the neighborhood of the Malanski home, a number of residents of that section being at odds due to fights over milk cans. These fights have led to court action on several occasions and it is believed that the attack Saturday night may have been another outgrowth of ill feeling prevailing in that section of Lisbon.

OLD LYME CHURCH MODEL FOR CHAPEL

To George Cardinal Mundelein, archbishop of Chicago and sponsor of the 28th international Eucharistic congress recently held at Mundelein, Ill., goes the distinction of adapting Colonial period architecture to a Roman Catholic church according to George E. Farrell in The Hartford Courant.

Of particular interest to Connecticut is the fact that Cardinal Mundelein chose the First Congregational church of Old Lyme as the model for the Immaculate Conception chapel at the seminary of St. Mary of the Lake, Mundelein, Ill., where the Eucharistic congress was held.

As a former summer resident of Old Lyme, Cardinal Mundelein learned to appreciate the simple beauty of Colonial architecture as it flourished under the influence of Sir Christopher Wren and when he elected to have the dormitory group at the seminary done in Colonial style he chose the Old Lyme church as the church model most suited to these surroundings.

The present Connecticut edifice is an exact likeness of its predecessor which was burned July 3, 1907. Surrounded by stately, arched elms, this classic example of Colonial period building in the ecclesiastical field stands as a famous and beautiful landmark at the corner of the Street and Ferry lane. The original meeting house, built in 1668, stood a short distance from the present church and accommodated Old Lyme worshippers for 90 years before it burned. Colonel Charles Griswold, a son of Governor Roger Griswold, was visiting in England when he learned that the old meeting house had been destroyed. Thereupon, Colonel Griswold drew up plans for a new and finer edifice and used as his model a London church designed by Sir Christopher Wren. These plans he brought home with him and they were followed in building a church that combined the classic with the simple, rather severe lines of Colonial structure.

The Rev. Edward M. Chapman of New London, a member of the faculty of Connecticut college, who served about six years as pastor of the Old Lyme Congregational parish, had taken over the church only a few weeks when, on the night of July 3, 1907, it burned to the ground. The loss of so beautiful and celebrated an edifice was felt keenly by the townspeople and no time was lost in reproducing one to take its place.

WEST SIDE MAN HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Charles Connell, No. 245 West Main street, had a narrow escape from death about 11.30 o'clock Saturday night when gasoline which he was pouring into his automobile tank flared up in his face. Mr. Connell was working on the machine at his garage on Fairmount street, getting it ready for use Sunday morning. There was water in the gasoline tank and he had emptied the tank and was refilling it with gasoline from a water pail. He was smoking a cigarette and fumes rising from the tank ignited.

There was a flash and the fire shot back into the gas tank. The flames singed Mr. Connell's hair and eyebrows and both his hands were burned, the right hand being quite badly burned. Mr. Connell went to his home where he received first aid and was taken to the office of Dr. Louis Cassidy by Fireman William Burns, who was on his day off.

A bell alarm was pulled in from box 115, corner of West Main and Forest streets. The department made a quick run and the fire was quickly extinguished. Fortunately the gas tank did not explode. The garage is owned by David Sadinsky of Aqueduct street.

DIPHTHERIA ON DECREASE THROUGHOUT THE STATE

Dr. Stanley H. Osborn, state commissioner of public health at Hartford, has prepared a comparative statement of the number of cases of disease in the state for the six months of the years 1922, 1923, 1924, 1925 and 1926.

One of the most satisfactory facts established by the figures in the success of the efforts of the department, in co-operation with the medical authorities in every town of the state, to immunize persons against diphtheria. In the first six months of the year 1922 the number of cases reported to the department was 1,413. In the first six months of this year the number had fallen to 759. The immunization of school children is about 95 per cent. perfect.

In the first half of the present year there were 16,143 cases of measles reported, the largest number in 11 years. In the first six months of 1922 the number was 5,773. The report of new cases of this disease for last week shows that the disease has about run its course. The total number of new cases had fallen to 48.

In 1923 there was a serious outbreak of small pox in the first six months, when the number reported was 428. This number fell to two cases in the first six months of the present year.

In the period for which the figures are given cases of infantile paralysis fell from nine to four. Cases of pulmonary tuberculosis for the past six months of 1926 were 17 fewer than they were in 1925, when the number was 807.

The number of cases of influenza fell from 5,036 in 1922 to 179 in 1924, but they had increased to 1,593 in the first six months of the present year.

LINEMAN ELECTROCUTED AT NEW LONDON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 2—The second fatality in four days occurred this afternoon when Lawrence A. Poirier, 143 Thames street, Groton, and employed by the Connecticut Power company, at its Williams street sub-station, died of internal injuries following his coming in contact with a live wire and causing him to be precipitated from a staging upon which he was working, to the ground, a distance of about 30 feet.

Poirier had been at work on the staging the greater part of the day and about 5 o'clock and when his day's work was nearing an end, his body accidentally came in contact with the high voltage wire, the shock of which caused the body to be thrown off the staging. Dropping to the ground the body landed flat, causing the chest to be crushed and producing internal injuries that caused Poirier's death before medical assistance arrived.

William Laura, another employe died at the hospital Saturday as a result of burns received at the plant last Wednesday.

TO INSPECT EXPERIMENTAL SUGAR BEET PLOTS

State Commissioner of Agriculture Philo T. Platt will hold an inspection this week of experimental plots of sugar beets being cultivated in different sections of the state. He said that announcement of the discussion of Connecticut's sugar beet prospects which occurred when United States Secretary of Agriculture Jardine and his traveling companion, Kurt Grunwald, visited him Thursday, had heightened interest in the subject and that the experiments would be closely watched.

"Our part is to see whether a sugar beet of suitable sugar content can be economically grown extensively in Connecticut", the commissioner explained. "Mr. Grunwald is already satisfied that it can, as he said Thursday. We will publish information about teh tests as fast as we get it and of course leave it to the farmers to decide whether it is an industry they care to enter."

STATE CHAMBER BACKS AMERICAN LEGION PLAN

The Connecticut Chamber of Commerce endorsed the plan to have the Legion posts of the state represent Connecticut industry in the Philadelphia national convention parade. The letter sent out by Clark Belden, acting secretary of the state chamber to secretaries of local chambers reads:

"At the 37th annual convention of the state chamber the assembled members and delegates passed a resolution endorsing the plan whereby the Connecticut posts of the American Legion will display Connecticut's industries in the national parade of the American Legion in Philadelphia in October.

"This resolution instructed the acting secretary, on behalf of the state chamber, to lay this plan before the local chambers of commerce and request that they co-operate with their local manufacturers.

"Briefly, the general plan is to have a local Legion post costumed and carry banners setting forth the type of product for which each city is noted, such as Hartford, the Insurance City; Waterbury, the Brass City; New Britain, the Hardware City; Danbury the Hat City; Meriden the Silver City; Stamford, the Lock City, etc.

"The state chamber is sending to its industrial members a letter setting forth the plan and requesting them to co-operate through their local chambers of commerce.

"This plan furnishes an excellent oppertunity for the various sections of Connecticut to advertise themselves at Philadelphia before thousands of people from all parts of the country. The expense to the local chamber will be extremely small.

"Will you kindly get in touch as soon as possible with the commander of your local Legion post and work out with him a plan of co-operation with your leading manufacturers.

"This plan was placed before the 37th annual meeting by W. S. Alexander, treasurer of the Puritan Bank and Trust company of Meriden and state chairman of the Philadelphia convention committee of the Connecticut Department of the American Legion."

TAFTVILLE WINS BOTH ITS WEEK-END GAMES WITH BRILLIANT PLAYING

Taftville A. A. won both its week end games beating the New Departure team of Meriden 9 to 0 by forfeit and nosing out the Socony team of New London 2 to 1 in a pitcher's battle between Lloyd Jarvis and Chappell.

Sunday's game was a pretty duel of pitching strength in which Jarvis outpitched his New London opponent and Jarvis won his own game in the ninth inning with a smashing hit to deep left that brought in the winning run. Taftville scored first in the fourth inning but Socony evened the count in the sixth and it loked like an extra inning game. With the score deadlocked in the ninth Chappell weakened and passing one man the next two singled and the stage was set for Lloyd Jarvis. With the count two and two Chappell laid one in the groove and Jarvis promptly walloped it to the out skirts of the field. It was good for at least two bases but Jarvis halted at the first sack.

Both teams played a good fielding game and although the Socony team was inclined to be a little crabby the game was well worth seeing. The score:

Saturday's Game

Taftville A. A. scored a 9 to 0 forfeit victory over the New Departures of Meriden through the stubbornness of Eddie Zeilke of the visitors. With Alexander at bat in the eighth inning, men on first and second, with one out, Zeilke stood within ten feet of the batter, coaching Alexander on every pitched ball. Being ordered by the umpire to a place twenty-five or thirty feet away from the home plate Zeilke refuse to be budged. Given the required time to either get back to the line designated for him on penalty of being ordered out of the game, the stubborn Zeilke insisted on staying where he stood. Both manager and captain of the New Departures were asked by the umpire to remove the offending player but to no avail. After warning the captain that unless Zeilke was replaced within the required time, the game would be forfeited. Still grubborn as a mule, the erratic Zeilke refused to be moved, with the result that the game was forfeited to Taftville.

Such tactics as employed by the visiting player hurt baseball, and it is to be hoped that they never put in another appearance in these parts. With the score 2 to 0 in the eighth in Taftville's favor, it looked as though the visitors were of the opinion that they were in a hick town, playing a bunch or hicks, only to find that the boys were too much for them, and something had to be done to attempt to break up the combination.

Buckland twirling for Taftville, was master of the situation at all times, and even though the game ended suddenly, it was the general opinion that the visitors would be blanked anyway. The score:

LIGHT FIGHTERS HOLD LIMELIGHT THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.— (AP) —Lightweights and bantam weights will share the boxing interest on this week's calendar with considerable attention directed at Louis (Kid) Kaplan's entrance into the lightweight division Tuesday night at the Queensboro stadium against Tommy Cello, the coast boxer.

The Meriden youth, who recently abdicated the championship in the featherweight class because of difficulty in making the weight requirements, has found the training in the 135 pound much to his liking as he will be able to fight at his natural weight.

Ace Hudkins, of Lincoln, Neb., clashes with Stanislaus Loayza, Chilean boxer in the main 12 round struggle at the Coney Island stadium Tuesday night. Hudkins, one of the most promising lightweights from the middle west, established himself among the front rank contenders of his division by his recent four round knockout over Ruby Goldstein.

CHAPIN AND WHITE ARE CANDIDATES FOR DAVIS TEAM

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The list of candidates for the 1926 American Davis cup team has been increased to ten with the addition of Alfred H. Chapin, Jr., of Springfield, Mass., and Lewis N. White, of Austin, Texas.

Chapin and White both have performed sensationally in early season tournaments, the Springfield youth registering a victory over William T. Tilden. They will report with the fleet of the Davis cup squad at Forest Hills, Long Island, August 9, for trial matches under the direction of the United States Lawn Tennis association.

This squad is dominated by the "big four"—Tilden, William M. Johnston, Vincent Richards and R. Norris Williams, the latter also serving as captain—but a spirited fight for recognition is promised among the remaining candidates. Besides Chapin and White, they include Cranston Holman of Leland Stanford, Ed Chandler of Leland Stanford, Ed Chandler of the University of California, the intercollegiate champion of 1925 and 1926, Wray Brown of St. Louis, and George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago.

RICHARDS BEATS TILDEN FOR METROPOLITAN TITLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—(AP)—Vincent Richards defeated William T. Tilden, national champion, in the final round of the metropolitan tennis championship today, 6-2, 6-3, 4-6, 6-2. It was Tilden's third consecutive defeat of the year at the hands of Richards.

Today's triumph was the most decisive over Tilden ever scored by his youthful rival. Although in their six year struggle for supremacy of the courts, the Olympic champion has frequently taken the measure of the tall Philadelphia, each time previously he has been forced to go five sets.

The match developed sensational tennis of few errors and many spectacular shots, with both players apparently at the top of their game. Tilden called upon every strike at his command to stem the tide, but his rallies beat in vain on the brilliant racquet of the defending metropolitan title holder.

The upset snapped Tilden's march of triumph in the north, where he had won four successive tournaments before facing Richards today.

LENGLEN NOT TO COME TO AMERICA THIS YEAR

PARIS, Aug. 1—(AP)—Suzanne Lenglen will not visit the United States this year. Although no official announcement has been made it is authoritatively stated the French tennisster has declined the offer for a tour of the United States made to her by Charles Pyle, American sports promoter.

It is understood that Mr. Pyle failed to convince Suzanne that she could proceed to the United States and retain her amateur standing.

Charles H. Greenhaus, called the "boy wizard of Wall street," was sentenced in New York to serve two years in Atlanta penitentiary for using the mails to defraud in the sale of Florida land.

SYRACUSE TEAM PROVES TOO STRONG FOR THE FAST RIVERVIEW CLUB

In one of the best played games of the season witnessed by the largest crowd of the year Riverview went down to defeat Saturday afternoon, 3 to 1, at the hands of the New Process Gear Co. club of Syracuse, semi-pro champions of central New York. The game proved to be the equal of any big league game and was marked by fast fielding, sparkling catches and hard hitting giving the crowd one of the best exhibitions of baseball seen here in some time.

With the exception of the first inning when the Syracuse team collected three runs, Tony West kept his hits well scattered and was accorded good support by his teammates. Kimball who pitched for the Syracuse team held the Riverview hitters well in hand and although he failed to strike out a single player hits were scarce ilines. Riverview was unable to touch Kimball except for punky taps which were easily fielded.

The first inning spelled defeat for the Riverview club when Syracuse slipped three runs over the plate. West passed the first man to face him a sacrifice followed and one run scored on Jennings double. Burns singled and Jennings scored. Burns was forced at second by Carr but Dotter brought Carr around with another single. This ended Syracuse's scoring for the afternoon as West tightened and although several times the visitors had men on bases fast fielding held them there. Lefy Dugas made a spectacular one-hand running catch of a ball that cut down a good chance for Syracuse. Jack Clabby also contributed to the fielding features with a pretty running catch.

Riverview scored one run in the third inning when Kimball weakened and passed West and two successive hits brought him around. The home club threatened in the ninth inning but Riverviews' hitters were unable to produce when a hit would have meant the game.

BOOT TO BOOT LEADS IN MONEY WINNINGS

CHICAGO, Aug. 1—(AP)—Boot to Boot's triumph in the American derby makes the gallant little idle hour campaigner the leading money winning American thoroughbred of the year.

The $89,000 to the winner of the richest race in the history of the American turf, by a sweeping finish at Washington park yesterday, puts the colt's earnings since January at 111,095, beyond and other 1926 race's by a comfortable margin.

Carairis, W. T. Anderson's winner of the Coffroth, ranks second with total winnings of $100,175 and Samuel Riddle's Crusader is third with $98,500.

In winning the fifth derby of the year for Col. E. R. Bradley and adding his contribution to those of his illustrious stablemate, Bubbling Over and Bagenbaggage, Boot to Boot has brought the Kentucky turfman further distinction as the owner of the year's leading money winning stable. Purse moneys poured into the Bradley coffers since January total $251,577, ahead of Harry Payne Whitney's earnings by more than $60,000.

Understood to have been given Bradley's check for $10,000 after he piloted Bubbling Over to Victory in the Kentucky derby, it is said Jockey Albert Johnson will find a similar check waiting at Saratoga, for his superb ride of Boot to Boot.

MISS WILLS DOWNS MISS BROWNE IN FINALS

EASTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 1.—(AP)—Helen Wills, national champion, defeated Miss Mary K. Browne, 6-3, and 6-2, in the final round of the Maidstone tennis tournament today. Although it was the first final match she has played since the operation she recently underwent in France, Miss Wills played championship tennis throughout today's contest in which both players were Californians.

In her powerful stroking game and her physical endurance, Miss Wills showed no effects of her operation in France, and she convinced the large gallery, which witnessed the match, that she is ready for the Seabright and Forest Hills tournaments.

Miss Brown, who lost with her usual fine sportsmanship had a share of glory when she won the doubles match with Mrs. Molla Mallory. They defeated Mrs. Edne Hoeser and Miss Alice Frances, 6-3, and 6-0.

GIRL SWIMMER SETS NEW MARK FOR BOSTON LIGHT

BOSTON, Aug. 1—(AP)—Miss Mae Elwell, 17 year old Revere swimmer, defeated Eva Morrison of Pictou, N. S., in a match race to Boston Light today by one hour and 46 minutes. Half blinded by the stinging salt water, Miss Elwell covered the last mile or two of the 14 mile grind with her eyes closed, following the snapping fingers of Frank Murphy, her pilot and coach, whenever she strayed from her course.

The two girls plunged off the Warren avenue bridge at 5.24 a. m. and Miss Elwell left the water by the light at 11.38 o'clock. Her total time of six hours and 14 minutes bettered by more than an hour the women's record of 7.22 established last year by Irene Hessenius of South Boston.

YANKEES ARE ROLLING ALONG IN GREAT STYLE

NEW YORK, Aug. 1—(AP)—The pennant-bound New York Yankees have outclassed all other clubs on the big time circuits, a midsummer inventory of the major league reveals.

Braced by a 10-game winning streak, the Hugmen closed July with a margin of nine contests on their closest competitors, the Cleveland Indians, who have managed to hang on to the heels of the leaders in their most recent spurt.

Unlike the National league scramble where the first division clubs have been running closely bunched, the crest occupied at frequent intervals by new tenants, the Yankees kept residence at the top in the American from early season and were never seriously threatened.

Performances for the past week gave the Huggins' outfit and Tris Speaker's tribe six victories apiece and no defeats. Five triumphs have been recorded in the New York invasion of the west and as for the prospects of clinching the bunting, the Yankees feel about the same as the cat getting ready to eat the canary.

Boston's Braves refuse to be shelved in the cellar and finished the week pursuing a seven-game winning streak in seventh place. Dave Bancroft's club passed through without a setback and its five markers in the win column was the outstanding feat in the National.

Pittsburgh retained the peak by taking four out of six games while the best the Reds could do was to win two of six which was largely due to bumping into the Boston snag again.

The Giants were saved from a complete shutout by a double victory over the Cardinals who loom as the lone hope of St. Louis fans to bring home a championship. Chiefly through the guidance of Rogers Hornsby, the present pilot of the Cards, the club has been able to remain in the front rank within striking distance of the premier run this season.

Directing the National parade, the Cornsilks had a two-game leeway on Cincinnati and were four contests in front of the third place Cardinals.

The St. Louis Browns had a bad break in brushing up against the fast moving Yankees and concluded the week with a goose egg in the one-sided. The veteran Walter Johnson white washed the Browns in a 9 to 0 count as the Senators started a week end stay in St. Louis.

The Cardinals led all teams for the high totals with 35 runs and 80

S. F. FRIEDMAN, NEW LONDON, SUICIDED IN NEW YORK HOTEL FOUR DAYS AGO

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 1.—S. Fred Friedman, about 38, vice president of the Columbia Leather Goods company, 180 Garfield avenue, and a resident at the Hotel Mohican for several years, committed suicide at the Hotel Astor last week, but when it is not known.

The lifeless body was found Saturday afternoon and in the opinion of a representative of the medical examiner, death occurred about four days ago. Freidman, who was well known here, it is understood, had been in financial straits and this fact, it is believed, caused him to end his life.

Friedman left New London last Tuesday afternoon and went to New York where he registered at the Hotel Astor as was his custom whenever he went to that city, which was frequently. Yesterday afternoon when he failed to present himself about the office of the hotel, his room door was forced and his lifeless body found. Friedman having swallowed some powerful drug.

Hilda Johnson, a maid in the employ of Viggo E. Bird, Waterford, who was taken in charge by the police a week ago, when she alleges she was assaulted on the outskirts of the city by James Gorra, Boardwalk, Ocean Beach or Zahary Korn, was discharged at Lawrence hospital today. She is being held as a material witness against her alleged assailant, whose case is scheduled to come up in the police court Tuesday morning. In default of bail of $1,000, Hilda was delivered into the custody of Policewoman Jane Cassidy. The girl's father, Karl Johnson of Gleason street, Worcester, Mass., came to New London today, believing the girl would be delivered into his charge, but he was compelled to return home without her, pending the disposition of the court case tomorrow.

An automobile, driven by Gus Nunes, 117 Bayonet street and a motorcycle driven by Richardson Nonanan, on the rear seat of which was Vincent Hogan, a sailor attached to the U. S. S. Dubuque, collided this evening on Williams street. The motorcycle was damaged and Hogan sustained lacerations of the right leg between the knee and ankle. He was taken to Lawrence hospital for treatment.

Arthur Collins, 20, Crystal avenue, a store clerk, was arrested at Ocean Beach this afternoon by Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky, charged with breach of the peace. He furnished a surety on his bond of $50 in John Cochrane, for his presentation in the police court Monday morning. Collins was at the resort about 7 o'clock when he engaged in a quarrel and in spite of the efforts of the officer to cause Collins to cease in his boisterous conduct, he persisted in creating a disturbance which resulted in his arrest.

Miss Ida Carlone, 20, of North Agawam, Mass., suffered lacerations of the scalp this evening when the automobile she was driving collided with a telephone pole on Broad street, corner of Jefferson avenue. Robert Haste, colored, a mess attendant at the United States coast guard section base, state pier, was seriously cut this morning when he was forced through a plate glass window of the furniture store of B. Kaplan, 90 Bank street. Haste was found on Union street by Patrolman John Clifford and taken to the police station, from where he was taken to the hospital where several stitches were necessary to close the wound.

Haste, according to information in possession of the police, was walking along Bank street and when in front of the furniture store, he engaged in a quarrel with two civilians. Haste had been drinking and it is claimed his conversation so much displeased the civilians that a fight started and ended when Haste was knocked through the window. After his head came in contact with the thick glass and lacerated the scalp to the extent that the skull was laid bare, Haste walked through Bank street, to Pearl, to Green, to Cross, to Union streets, leaving a trail of blood until he was found by Patrolman Clifford. Haste declared that he would be unable to recognize his assailants if they were arrested.

Patrolman Elwood Bailey is confined to his home by illness.

BURNED BY ELECTRICITY, WILLIAM LAURA DIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 1—William Laura, 127 Elm street, employed by the Connecticut Power company as an electrician at the company's sub-station, Williams street, died at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital Saturday noon of third degree burns received last Wednesday morning when 33,000 volts of electricity passed through his body. Since suffering the burns, Laura has been in a critical condition and his recovery was not anticipated. He suffered the burns while at work on a feeder wire that carries the current from the Eastern Connecticut Power company plant, Montville, to the sub-station. In some unexplained manner Laura fell against the wire and in another instant his clothing was ablaze, the garments being burned from his body and the man sustaining severe burns from head to foot.

Michael Zebeck, a Coast Guardsman, stationed at the state pier at East New London, appeared somewhat vindictive when in the police court Saturday charged with a breach of peace in attacking Rodwin Johnson, a chauffeur in the employ of a family here for the summer. He rather resented efforts of the court to get the facts concerning his conduct on State street, about 10 o'clock the previous evening when he met Mr. Johnson and his wife coming from a theatre. Zebeck declined to let his name be known so he was arraigned as John Doe, and was quite surly then. That didn't hinder the proceedings however, and Mr. Johnson in a minute was on the witness stand where he related the cowardly conduct of Zebeck in attacking him without any provocation whatever. Zebeck approached Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and insulted them by telling them they ought to be at home where "all the other dead ones in this city were." Mr. Johnson resented that sort of liberty taken with strangers so he asked Zebeck if he was under the impression that such conduct was permissible in a pretended Gentleman. This aroused the brute from the coast guard station and he pitched into Mr. Johnson and walloped him in the head. Mrs. Johnson, though astonished, endeavored to separate the men, but she was unsuccessful and called a pedestrian passing who hurried after an officer and the battle was all over. Zebeck was locked up and spent the night in a cell at the police station. In court he hid behind the subterfuge of a coward and declared that he was intoxicated and did not remember what had happened the night before. He was surly and disposed to be offensive even on the witness stand. Policeman Sheehan, who made the arrest, exposed the lying testimony of the accused man by saying that he did not show any evidence whatever that he was under the influence of liquor. Indeed Zebeck then refused to state his name. When he had humiliated himself and had disclosed that he was guilty as charged, Judge Prince fined him $100 and ordered him committed for a term of six months. On the way to the county jail Zebeck told the committing officer that his purpose was to be discharged from the service of the government. He admitted that he knew all that occurred when he attacked the couple on the street, and said it was part of the plan to thus get out of a service. He did not like Zebeck said he was a Hebrew and that his home was on Long Island, statements that are regarded as false also. If he had an idea that he was to get leniency from the prosecutor by professing to be a Jew he was sorely disappointed.

Breed Theater

Charles Ray—in the habiliments of an American millionaire's son—and no trace of the country about him; Joan Crawford, glittering beauty in the drab costume and character of an Apache dancing girl in the Paris underworld; Douglas Gilmore, delineator of aristocratic Britishers, as The Cat, sinister ruler of the Apanche gangsters of Paris—these are some of the surprises in store for screen fans in Paris, Edmund Gouldking's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production now playing at the Breed theater.

It is a vivid, exotic tale of Paris—not the glittering Paris of tourists, the gay cafes and the brilliant night life—but the other side of Paris—among the Apaches and desperadoes who form a world of their own in a subterranean kingdom. It is a gripping mystery drama in which the actors themselves, in the diversity of their roles, create an atmosphere of suspense that is carried out through every moment of the tense drama. And—there are laughs galore, too. Goulding has evolved what is undoubtedly as great a piece of entertainment as has ever graced the screen menu.

Broadway Theatre

Seldom is so heatreful of patrons more thrilled by a feature picture than they were at the Broadway theatre last night when Banner Productions' new mystery drama, "Whispering Canyon," from Mersereau's novel, opened a four days' engagement. The story is one of rapid action and crashing situations which carries the spectator along at a breathless clip. Tom Forman did an excellent job of directing, increasing the suspense with every episode unfolded.

"Whispering Canyon" is a story of big trees, big men and a lovable, courageous girl in conflict with a ruthless and wealthy lumberman, Lew Selby. He seeks to despoil the girl, Antonia Lee, of her inheritance, a valuable timber tract known as Whispering Canyon, and to force her lover, Bob Cameron, to abandon the sawmill left to him by his murdered father. He is defeated in the end by their courage and dogged persistence but only after spectators have been kept on the edges of their seats for an hour, tingling with suspense at the dangers and adventures into which the lovers are plunged.

The case is an exceptionally meritorious one, headed by Jane Novak, who is featured as Antonia, and Robert Ellis as Cameron. They receive excellent aid from Josef Swickard, Lee Shumway, Eugene Pallette, James Mason and Edward Brady.

The second feature is also one to keep all tense and expectant with thrills of the big top when "The Carnival Girl" was unfolded on the screen. Marcon Mack, Allan Forrest, Frankie Darro and Geo. Siegman are featured.

UNUSUAL SPEED MAINTAINED BY WILLYS-KNIGHT "SEVENTY"

The most satisfactory way to test the actual road speed and endurance power of an automobile, its handling ease and economy features, is by highway driving in congested traffic conditions. Such a test reveals the true virtues of the car under natural conditions.

Recently a Willys-Knight Seventy carrying five adult passengers was driven from New York city to Montreal, Canada, a distance of more than 425 miles in less than a dozen hours.

The tour was started on July 3rd, one of the most heavily trafficed periods of the summer season. Leaving New York at 7:30 p. m. the driver and his party reached the Canadian city at 6:30 a. m the following day. The actual time was recorded at 11 hours including "time out" for meals, fuel, water and other necessary stops.

Allan H. Wesson of New York, the driver of the car, checked his driving speed which shows an average of 45 miles per hour during the entire trip. His gasoline consumption figured exactly at 21.5 miles per gallon.

The unusual speed maintained by the Willys-Knight "Sevents" was attained under natural traffic conditions. While the highways were not congested to the point of actual stoppage the traffic encountered was extremely heavy with holiday tourists.

The flexibility and roadibility of the "Seventy," together with its handling ease, aided materially in attaining the speed.

"Patch"

A dog who, accompanying his maste to the train to bid him goodby, was ru

His was a nature loving, brave an

Sometimes dogs die, and sometime men do, too.
Besides, you say, each dog must hav
his day,
So thank your stars death took you
dog, not you.

O false philosophy! Have you no

There is a Being mightiest of all
Who rules alike o'er man and beas and bird,
And who takes note of every spar
row's fall.

But I forgive you. "Patch" you did no
know.
His was a nature loving, brave an
true;
And were he now to hear you speak ing so,
I am not sure but he'd forgive you
too.

And you were loving, Patch, and wher
the wind
To vexed Hermoothes your dear mas

He little dreamed what love he left be hind
Nor that your life went out with him from shore.

Yes, Patch is dead; "And what of that,
you say,
"Sometimes dogs die, and sometimes men die, too."
You're right, alas! My dog has had his day,
And I could wish that I had had mine
too.

Fledglings

Why should we waste and weep?
The summers weave
A nest of blossoms deep.
Sad hearts, why grieve?
We downy birdlings are
Unfledged for flight.
God's love-wind woos afar,
Its name, Delight.

From arcades vast and, dim
What songs disthrall?
Through nature's endless hymn,
Our kindred call.
Mysterious murmurings,
When night is lone,
Glide, as to lift our wings
For flights unknown.
In melody we form,
By sweetness fill
For gladness, pure and warm
Our bosoms thrill.
Soon shall our choiring bands,
Usborne for glee,
Find in God's garden lands
Their bridal tree.

Eternity prepares
Her gift in time
And flows by fragrant airs
That lead the prime.
Chill shadows touch the eyes;
Their orbs are wet;
But God shall for us rise
When stars have set.

They have since played a dramatic part in the various Greek revolutionary movements.

The great cattle country of southwest Texas, usually an expanse of sunburned plains and hills in fact as well as in the minds of readers of western fiction, this summer is a veritable garden. Due to the abnormal rains the grass is thick and long, and there is more range than is needed for the hundreds of thousands of grazing cattle. Cattle men say that not in several years has there been so much vegetation in the area between San Antonio and El Paso. Last year was a year of severe drought.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, July 31—(AP)—Cheerfulness over the business and financial outlook was reflected this week by a sharp upturn in stock prices under the sensational leadership of high priced industrials; the further recovery of the French franc on the surprisingly large vote of confidence given by the chamber of deputies to the new Poincare government and the brisk rally in wheat prices on unfavorable weather reports and reduced crop estimates.

Judged by the averages, stock prices have recovered approximately 33 per cent of the ground lost since the drastic March reaction. On the recovery over a dozen issues, including United States Steel common, General Motors and Texas Gulf Sulphur, have sold at the highest prices ever recorded. The advance has been based primarily on the unusual mid-summer expansion of business, the prospect of increasing prosperity in the agricultural regions, the continuance of relatively easy money and expectations of "melon cutting" by some of the large industrial concerns.

The sharp reduction in the Canadian crop estimate, coupled with reports of unfavorable weather in certain wheat growing sections of the west has revived talk of $1.75 wheat in Wall street. It is generally conceded that higher wheat prices would go a long way toward eliminating discontent in many agricultural districts. Freakish weather has made it practically impossible to estimate with any degree of accuracy, the size of the 1926 cotton crop, but earnings to September 1 are expected to run behind those of last year, due to the lateness of the season.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

The Hollyhock

A hollyhock was planted once beside a gray stone wall,
'Twas many years ago when she was quite a baby small;
In fact she never knew that she was going to be tall.

'Twas by a cottage door she lived,
a charming little spot,
She really thought that hers was an extremely happy lot,
In winter it was homely and in summer not too hot.

Around the cottage garden ran a gurgling little stream,
It gurgled to the hollycock and woke her from her dream,
"When you're grown up," he asked, "will you be red or pink or cream?"

"Grown up!" she said, "That sounds to me a jolly thing to do.
So far, though I've been happy, still my interests have been few.
I'll try, and see." And then the hollyhock just grew and grew.

Above the cottage wall she grew before her work was done.
And then the buds came up her stalk and smiled to meet the sun.
Their little faces nice and red with all the joy and fun.

Oh, how they loved the bright blue sky above them and around!
Right glad they were that God had let them grow and leave the ground,
For climbing up that cottage wall true happiness they found.

E. Madge Carless in The Christian Science Monitor.

The Woggley Tooth

One of my teeth got looser and looser
Till it woggled from side to side
But when anyone mentioned the dentist to me
I ran to my room and cried!

It finally got so wiggly and loose
It hung in my mouth by a thread,
But I was a terrible coward-cat
And made myself trembly with dread.

Then Uncle Jim Harris came down to our house
(He always makes funnies for us,)
And laughed, "The idea! Such a tooth's a disgrace
Here we'll fix it without any fuss."

He tied a long string to my woggely tooth,
The loose end he tied to the door,
"Now," he said, "we'll both race to the top of the stair
And don't start till I holler 'Four!'"

We got set on our marks, Uncle Jim counted four,
And away we both ew up the stair.
When I felt in my mouth for my woggely tooth
There wasn't a sign of it there!"

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Well Wide Awakes we're all cooled off now after passing through nearly a week of intense heat and so we can get together for another little talk, which, this week, will be on the subject of sunburns.

The reason Uncle Jed picks out this subject is because he is in possession of a sunburn that would take first prize in almost any sunburn contest. (Please do not send in recommendations on how to make them feel better for Uncle Jed likes 'em.) In saying that sunburns are something to like we must all bear in mind the way in which a person looks at a sunburn.

When summer comes everyone who is an out of door sport likes to poss

TAFTVILLE

The Pioneer Boys of Taftville are to hold their annual reunion and outing this year on August 8th at Rocky Point. For many years now, this organization, which has a membership made up of old time residents of Taftville, has gathered at some popular shore resort to enjoy a shore dinner, and to enable the members to talk over their boyhood days together. Each year the membership list increases, many coming from distant parts to mingle with friends of their younger days. Last year the Pioneers met in Taftville, and the village has never seen such a big celebration and crowd. This year all Taftville Pioners will go by automobile to Rocky Point. George W. Weller is the local Pioneer in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Edwin Gordon Crowdis of North Third avenue, and her sister, Miss Doris Palmer of Bridgeport, who is her guest for the summer, are at Fishers Island, N. Y., where they have a cottage for the month of August.

The members of the Ladies Rifle team of the German Shooting club of Lisbon, accompanied by their husbands, went by special bus Saturday to Savin Rock, New Haven, for an outing.

Miss Frances H. O'Connell has returned to her home in Hartford after spending the past three weeks with Mr. and Mrs. Earle M. Wood and family of North Third avenue.

BURGLARS GET $20 AT MANWARING STORE

Thieves manifested their presence for the second time within a month around Niantic Friday night when the store of Charles J. Manwaring and Sons and the store of Charles Williams, both located on the Black Point road, were entered and about $20 in cash stolen from the Manwaring store. As far as can be learned nothing was taken from the Williams store, the thieves evidently seeking only cash. The disappearance of a rowboat owned by Gus Anderson of Niantic, was believed to be the work of the thieves also. No trace of the boat could be found Saturday in the vicinity.

The breaks were discovered Saturday morning when the stores were opened for business. Both stores were entered by means of windows. In the Manwaring store the thieves first broke a glass and then, unable to unlock the windows, ripped out a section of the sash. Efforts to open the store safe were apparent from mutilation, evidently done with a heavy hammer or axe.

MACHINE STOLEN FROM FERRY STREET WRECKED IN CRASH AT GROTON

Stolen from Ferry street about 11:30 o'clock Saturday night a Chrysler roadster, 1926, model, was wrecked at Groton less than an hour later and a marine attached to the U. S. submarine base at Groton, who took the car from this city, was arrested by the state police. The roadster is owned by Everett Douglass of Penobscot street and he had parked it on Ferry street. Shortly after parking the roadster Mr. Douglass found that it had been stolen.

A report was immediately made of the theft of the car at police headquarters and a general alarm sent out to all officers on duty to be on the watch for it and police departments in nearby cities were also notified. About 12:30 o'clock Captain Thomas P. Murphy of the local police department was notified by a Groton garage man that he had the roadster in his garage, it having been taken there following a crash in which it was wrecked. Mr. Douglass was notified by the police as to the whereabouts of his machine and he left immediately to claim his property.

PHAETON STOLEN HERE STRIPPED AND ABANDONED

A Chrysler phaeton, 1925, model, dark blue in color, owned by Walter Manseau of Jewett City, stolen from Fox hill Saturday night, was found Sunday afternoon stripped and abandoned on a side road between Hallville and Poquetanuck. Mr. Manseau parked the machine on Fox Hill while he was attending the carnival at the Duwell grounds. Returning for the car after the carnival he found it gone.

Mr. Monseau immediately reported the theft at police headquarters. He could not remember the registration number of the machine and his auto registration and driver's license were in a pocket of the car. Later Mr. Monseau notified the police that the number of the machine was 32-726.

An all night search was kept up for the missing car which it was thought had headed toward Westerly. The car was evidently driven off the main highway at the Hallville road, and taken to the side road where it was found Sunday and stripped. As both rear tires had been stolen by the thieves it was necessary to tow the machine to Norwich.

FOUR ARRESTED ARTER TROUBLE AT CARNIVAL

Four men who engaged in a fight at the carnival on the Duwell grounds Saturday night were gathered in by the police and booked at police headquarters on charges of breach of the peace. They gave their names and addresses as follows:

Cornelius F. Daley, 25, Everett, Mass.; William Daley, 21, Everett, Mass.; Anthony Banas, 27, Norwich; Frank Dembinski, 42, Norwich.

The Daleys were operating a game at the carnival, and according to the story of the trouble, Banas and Dembinski, who were playing the game, got into an argument with the carnival men over prizes, and a fight ensued. The quartette were arrested by Sergeant Matthew Delaney and Officers Allen, Quinn and Riley.

NEW YORK MAN HELD FOR BREACH OF PEACE

Following an agrument over tickets at Hill Top Saturday night, Harold Brewer, 23, New York city, was arrested by Officer Clifford Crary on a charge of breach of the peace. It is said that Brewer presented three tickets for a party of five men and girls at the dance hall. An argument ensued and it is said was carried to extremes by the New Yorker.

DRIVING WITHOUT LIGHTS AND NO REGISTRATION

Hans Krueger, Norwich, 19, was arrested Saturday night by Officer Howard Coburn for violating the motor vehicle laws. He was driving without lights and when questioned by the officer it was found that he had no automobile registration with him. Krueger will appear before the city court this (Monday) morning.

DRIVER HELD AFTER MACHINE HIT POLE

After the machine he was driving hit a telegraph pole at Mt. Pleasant and Summit streets Saturday night, Richard Schneider, 46, Norwich, was arrested by Officer Albert Lamphere on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor. The machine was partially wrecked and was disabled in the crash. As it was obstructing the highway the police moved it against the curbing.

Schneider was booked at police headquarters and locked up for the night.

FOUND STOLEN HUDSON COACH ON MAIN STREET

About 2 o'clock Sunday morning Officers Hugh McAvoy and William Sharvan discovered a Hudson coach, registration N-9795, stolen in New London Saturday night, parked by the curb on Main street, near the entrance to the N. Y., N. H. and Hartfoard railroad. The coach had been abandoned.

PRAY FOR PERSECUTORS OF MEXICAN CATHOLICS

Sunday, at the four masses in St Patrick's church, the congregations were asked to offer special prayers as well as their holy communions, for the persecutors of the Catholics in Mexico. While praying for the ending of the persecution in its unjust and un-christian ferocity, prayers were offered that those in authority might be led to see the error of their ways and be pardoned for their inhumanity. At the same time, the congregation joined with the others in the 200,000,000 Catholics throughout the universe in beseeching God to so rule as to restore to the persecuted Mexican populace the consolation of their religion.

The special prayers were in accord with the request of the Supreme Pontiff, Pope Pius XI, that the Sunday which was the feast of St. Peter in chains, be devoted to petitions to the Almighty with this intention. In every mass offered through the world Sunday the prayer, "Pro quacumque tribulation" (for those in tribulation) was offered instead of oratio "Pro Papa"—prayer for the Pope—spiritual head of the universal church—all petitions being offered for the intention of the Holy Father as stated, in behalf of speedly spiritual relief for the Mexican Catholics, who form nine-tenths of the population of that distracted country. There was a great manifestation of fervor in the local church—many received communion at 7:30 from the rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May assisted by Rev. John J. Reilly, the communicants being led to the altar, by the members of the Children of Mary. Members of the Immaculate Conception sodality also received communion in a body, when Rev. Father Reilly read the low mass at 9, requiring the assistance of Fathers Galvin in administering communion. The same fervor characterized the closing service of the day, at 10:30. At every mass the epistle read was that for the tenth Sunday after Pentecost, I. Corinthians XII. 2: 11 and the gospel Luke XVIII. 9-14, the latter the parable of the Pharisee and the publican.

In accordance with the instructions from the Holy Father, there was no spirit of vindictiveness in any of the petitions—merely prayers that God in His wisdom open the eyes of those who just now have the upper hand through injustice. In his letter to Cardinal Mundelein, that just man President Coolidge has declared, "The day of the despot is past." The hundreds and thousands praying Sunday realize that with patience all Mexicans wrongs will be righted, in God's good time.

Meeting for Dog Show

At a meeting to be held this (Monday) evening, Charles E. Townsend who has been appointed to act as superintendent for the dog show to be held at the New London county fair, will confer with the bench show committee to arrange details and perfect an organization for the show. The dog show is awakening much interest among dog fanciers in Connecticut and Rhode Island and Secretary Gilbert S. Raymond has already received offerings of 10 special prizes of cash, cups and trophies to be offered at the show. A list of these specials will be published later and within ten days a premium list and entry blanks will be mailed to all dog fanciers in southern New England.

MRS. HARKNESS, WATERFORD, PAID $110,000 FOR BIBLE

The Gutenberg Bible is now the property of the Yale University Library, says The Catholic Transcript. It was recently purchased from the Benedictine Monastry of Melk, Austria. The price paid was $110,000—the highest ever paid for a book. The Benedictines of Austria like nearly all their fellow countrymen of the present day are poor enough. Mrs. Edward S. Harkness' $110,000 must have come to them as a great relief.

Mr. and Mrs. Harkness, who purchased this costly book, have their summer residence at Goshen Point, Waterford.

CONN. STILL LEADS IN CLOCK INDUSTRY

Time Pieces of Old and New Connecticut is the title of an article in Connecticut Industry, the publication of the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut, Inc. The story of how the state became a great clock and watch-making center is written by Miss Anna B. Sands, assistant secretary of the association.

"Today Connecticut leads in the manufacture of clocks and watches, as it led 100 years ago," says the article, "and it is due to the faithful acceptance by the manufacturer of today of the traditions of old Connecticut, coupled with modern and efficient production methods, that time-pieces have been placed within the reach of all.

The article is illustrated by views showing the history of clocks in Connecticut. There is a view of the old Guilford church which contains the first tower clock in Connecticut. There is also an interior view of the works of this clock.

A photograph of Seth Thomas and the Seth Thomas clock in Independence hall, Philadelphia, one of Eli Terry and his first clock, the dial of which was beaten from a cooking utensil, pictures of Chauncey Jerome and his factory in New Haven, and one of the dial of the largest clock in the world, made by Seth Thomas for the Colgate company, are also included.

Attention is also given to the famous Ingersoll dollar watch which is made by the Waterbury Clock company. This concern has the only watch crystal factory in America the article points out.

The article concludes with a statement that at present factories of this state produce daily 8,663 wood-case and miscellaneous clocks; 21,445 alarm clocks and 28,500 watches, that every watch and clock made in any Connecticut factory receives innumerable inspections before it is sent out and is accompanied by the fullest guarantee, and that practically all types of clocks are manufactured in the state.

LOCAL SHUFIX MEN VISIT NEW YORK

Norwich and New London Shufix men were included in the delegation of 400 Shufix men from various sections who attended the annual outing of the company Sunday at New York and Coney Island. The local men left for New York about 7 o'clock in the morning, arriving in the metropolis about 11.30 o'clock.

At Coney Island a shore dinner was enjoyed and among the speakers was George H. Moles of New London, formerly of Norwich. Mr. Moles expressed the hope that the outings will become an annual event hereafter.

On their return to New York city from Coney Island the Shufix men visited the acquariam, the Statue of Liberty, Riverside drive and the Tombs prison. The local men arrived back in Norwich about 10.30 o'clock. Present from this city were Sam Belone, Tony Chales and Vito Lavello. Those who attended from New London were George H. Moles, A. Di Palma, S. Sanelli and Tom Wojewaski.

THE HAPPY HOUSEWIFE

Four walls can make a house, but it takes a woman to make a home.

The woman who prepares nourishing and attractive meals, does her housework without grumbling, raises a family of healthy boys and girls and still finds time to be a pal to her husband and a friend to her neighbors, is accomplishing the biggest job in the world. Homes like here—little havens of peace and love—are the bulwark of the nation.

To be a successful homemaker a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-

PROTEST SEIZURE OF P. E. CHURCH PROPERTY IN MEX.

First Instance of the Taking Over Property of Any United States Protestant Denomination Since the New Religious Regulations Became Effective—Representations Sent to the Department of State by U. S. Consul General Weddell at Mexico City—Conditions Throughout Mexico Are Reported Tranquil.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2.— (AP) —It was learned today that representations, which are interpreted here as equivalent to a protest have been sent to the department of state by United States consul General Weddell as the result of the first instance, so far known of the taking over of church property of any United States Protestant denominations since the new religious regulations became effective.

Mr. Weddell informed the department of state that police closed the Episcopal church of San Hose de Gracia Saturday night and turned it over to a committee of citizens appointed by the mayor. The church has been in charge of a Mexican rector under jurisdiction of Bishop Frank W Creighton, of Mexico City, presiding bishop of the Episcopal church in Mexico

San Jose de Gracia has been owned by the Episcopal church since 1868 when it secured its property from Benito Juarez. The deeds to the property are held at present in the Episcopal headquarters in New York. The doors of the church are now opened but the mayor's committee is in charge.

The Mexican authorities say that the church was taken over because the rector had falle dto register and to give to the municipal authorities the information required under the religious regulations ordering all religious officials to enroll themselves.

Official indications, given by both Mexican and American sources, are that the taking over by a citizens committee of the San Jose Episcopal church has every prospect of being amicably adjusted without resort to diplomatic exchanges.

OBREGON SUPPORTS CALLES IN RELIGIOUS CONTROVERSY

NOGALES, Ariz., Aug. 2—(AP)—Former President Alvaro Obregon, considered a potential president candidate in the 1928 Mexican elections, late today threw his support to President Calles in the nation's religious controversy by declaring that "the high dignitaries of the Catholic church are united this conflict." The statement was contained in a signed declaration to the Associated Press.

It was general Obregon's first public statement regarding the central government's policy since the religious law was enacted.

The statement follows

"The strident the dignitaries of the Catholic church provoked this conflict, when, through the mouth of its authorized representative, Senor Monsenor Dr. Pascual Diaz, the first declarations were made public, with an evident restriction against the fundamental principles of the constitution of the republic.

"These declarations, without any previous incident that could have brought them on, coincided with the international crisis provoked by the big foreign interests, which considered themselves injured by the promulgation of the petroleum and allen land laws.

"All of us who know the proselytizing clergy through the different centuries of political conflict that Mexico has been obliged to sustain since its independence, know that it is not a mere coincidence, these actions of the clergy.

"Furthermore, we know that these acts of the clergy were for the deliberate intention to accumulate a great responsibility and to demonstrate to the interested foreigners that within our own borders they had allies to combat our own constitution, thus placing at the service of the political interests the faith of the believer.

"The federal government has been obliged to dictate as a result of the conflict and in which authorities of all categories have intervened. These are should have been deplorable acts.

"The conflict will disappear automatically when the directors of the Catholic church in Mexico will subordinate their vanity, to respect and declare they are ready to obey the laws and the authorities and there to see they are complied with and when they advise this to their followers, all believers."

CONDITIONS IN MEXICO REPORTED TO BE TRANQUIL

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3—(AP)—Although a tense feeling of uneasiness is manifested in many parts of Mexico, the normality which has prevailed in Mexico City since the dare-up on Saturday night which accompanied the suspension of services in Catholic churches as a protest against the new religious regulations, continued today. Reports from distant parts of the nation were similar quietude.

Thus far the Mexican government has taken no action with reference to the suggestion made yesterday by the Episcopate that a truce be arranged. During this truce, the Episcopate proposed that the new religious regulations be suspended for a reasonable length of time to give the Mexican people a chance to hold a plebiscite on the entire situation growing out of the present controversy.

Conspiracy Not Serious

Police today stated that the conspiracy to kill President Calles, which was reported Saturday night, apparently had not come beyond the stage of mere talk. However, they detained six more men and one woman in addition to the men and woman arrested Saturday night. The police who are becoming convinced that the affair never had the prospects of reaching a serious stage, say that there was considerable violent talk among the small group gathered in a private home discussing the religious situation.

According to the police, Dolores Lemus, a young stenographer, who was among the first arrested, led conversation in which "grave threats" were made against the president. The police said that apparently no actual steps were taken for fulfillment of the said oath.

Economic Boycott Not Fait

The economic boycott proposed by the League for the Defense of Religious Liberty in opposition to the government's religious policy so far shows little if any affect in Mexico. Business circles here, however, have much apprehension over the cutting down of all business except in absolute necessities as proposed by the league. While the capital has not suffered any noticeable affect of this campaign, business men fear that the results will not be noticeable soon.

Meanwhile reports indicate that distinct affects of the campaign are being felt in other parts of the country.

In many towns Catholics are wearing mourning, have draped their homes and their business houses in black, are avoiding amusements and are purchasing only enough provisions to keep going.

On the other hand, theaters, motion picture houses and yesterday's regular bull fight drew the usual crowds in Mexico City.

Government officials express the belief that the tranquility which has prevailed since the religious regulations became effective indicates there is little likelihood of serious developments. Nevertheless the authorities have not relaxed their vigilance.

Military Forces Ready

Military and police forces, over the usual number, are in barracks and reserve stations ready for instant action if necessary.

The Regional Confederation of Labor, the dominant labor organization, which is actively supporting the government's religious policy, is conducting a nation-wide campaign by speeches, literature and newspaper publicity, opposing the economic boycott. It announces other steps will be taken if necessary to prevent artificial reduction of the nation's business. In reply, Catholic authorities say they do not see how the regional confederation can prevent the people from not going to amusements and not spending money if the people so elect.

The main section of the Mexico City cathedral continued closed today, although the adjoining chapels were open. The reason for keeping the cathedral closed was that the inventory of its magnificent treasures has not yet been completed.

Most of the other Catholic churches were open but only a small number of worshippers could be seen. There were no police or civilian guards about the edifices, no crowds, and not even evidence of the municipal citizens' committees appointed by the government to take charge of the church buildings.

The church doors were simply opened, with the people quietly coming and going, kneeling for prayer and everything proceeding as usual, except no priests were seen.

TRUCE PROPOSAL REJECTED BY PRESIDENT CALLES

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 2—(AP)—President Calles has rejected the proposal for a truce in the religious controversy made by the Mexican Episcopate.

In a statement to the Associated Press, the president says:

"This executive has already made known its opinion regarding the religious situation. Replying to the Episcopate statement, I will say that the federal government will only limit itself to act with the required energy to enforce the laws of this country."

Although President Calles has rejected the true offer which was made in a statement to the Associated Press yesterday, gestures for peace are still under way.

Tentative steps, it is learned authoritatively, are being taken which are expected to result in informal personal negotiations between Attorney General Ortega and a high dignitary of the Mexican Episcopate whereby a settlement of the religious situation may be reached.

Overtures are also understood to have been made for a prominent layman, who is close to the Episcopate and also personal friend of President Calles to attempt as intermediary to bring about an exchange of views in a conciliatory spirit between the archbishopric and the chief executive.

Observers are convinced that President Calles' formal reply, considering the wordings of the truce proposal could hot have been other than rejection. Issuance otherwise he would have abandoned his often announced position. Those well informed, however, think that reasonable prospects exist for some other settlement, not involving openly announced yielding of ground by either side.

CLAIRE DUX, PRIMA DONNA, WEDS CHARLES H. SWIFT

CHICAGO, Aug. 2—(AP)—Green and yello wdecorations of the University of Chicago chapel, the bride's peach chiffon gown and her bouquet of roses and lilies gave the color to a gray day for the wedding this afternoon of Claire Dux, opera favorite, and Charles H. Swift, millionaire packer and patron of the arts.

The service, read by Dr. T. G. Soares, of the department of theology of the university, closed to the bride the career in grand opera which won her decorations from three European rulers and which brought her to America four years ago as a prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera company.

The wedding, at the Joseph Bond chapel of the university, was attended by friends of the pair, after which relatives were guests at a reception and dinner.

The announcement said the project when completed will represent an investment of many millions of dollars. The financial management of the enterprise will remain in the hands of Stone and Webster.

LONDON, August. 2—(AP)—The Central News correspondent at Belgrade is responsible for a report that Jugoslav war minister has ordered army commanders to pursue Bulgarian comitadji (irregulars) who invaded Jugoslavia, back to Bulgarian soil. This would be tantamount to a declaration of war.

BERLIN, Aug. 2—(AP)—The first commercial air ambulance has been completed for the German air service at the Dornier-Wal plant at Friedrichhaven. It is a seven passenger, high-speed plane. The interior is enameled to facilitate disinfection and it contains two berths for seriously wounded, four invalid chairs and room for two attendants.

BRUSSELS, Aug. 2—(AP)—Surrendering her state railways to private ownership in an effort to wipe out the national floating debt, Belgium, in peace as in war, is assuming the lead for sacrifices among the countries of Continental Europe whose finances are in a precarious condition. The holders of the treasury bonds have been ordered by King Albert, in his position as financial dictator, to exchange them for preferred stock of the National Railroad company, which has taken over the state railways.

CHORUS GIRL CHARGED WITH SLAYING AN ACTRESS

MOUNT HOLLY, N. J., Aug. 2—(AP)—Betty Queen, chorus girl, of Macon, Ga., was held without bail today for the action of the grand jury on a charge of having shot and killed Margaret Craig of Des Moines, Iowa, an actress known on the stage as Pearl McSherry.

Miss Queen was held for murder under the law despite the fact Ellis Parker, Burlington county detective, was of the opinion the killing was accidental, the result of a desperate attempt of Miss Craig to prevent Betty Queen from committing suicide.

The shooting occurred Sunday night in a summer cottage occupied by the girls and by Dorine O'Connor of Centralia, Ill., another actress. Miss O'Connor was held as a witness, but Detective Parker said he would be willing to release her on bail if she could obtain security.

Miss Craig had auburn hair and was known to her friends as "Reds."

The three girls had been in a stock company in Philadelphia and after the season closed they rented the cottage at Brown's Mills.

Last night Miss Craig and Miss O'Connor went bathing and when they returned they found a note signed "Clip," the nickname of Miss Queen, indicating she intended to kill herself. Rushing into another room, Miss Craig saw Miss Queen pointing a shot gun at herself. Miss Craig tried to take the gun away from her and in the struggle the weapon was discharged.

The shot was heard by Breven Clemengon, a neighbor, who investigated and found Miss Craig on the floor of the cottage and Miss Queen nearby with the shot gun in her hands and screaming that she had not meant to kill her companion. Clemenson brought the wounded girl to a doctor here but she was dead upon arrival.

Miss Queen and Miss O'Connor were given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Throckmorton late today and committed. Miss Queen became hysterical and would not be consoled.

All three young women were said to have been married, but Miss Queen and Miss O'Connor were reluctant to talk about themselves or their families.

In holding Miss Queen, Throckmorton explained the girl had been guilty of a misdemeanor in trying to kill herself. The fact that another girl lost her life as the outcome of the suicide attempt necessitated the murder charge.

Miss Queen admitted she had been drinking for two days to "drive away the blues." "It didn't do any good," she said. "They kept coming back. I didn't have any money and I didn't see any use in living."

CONDITION OF CHARLES W. MORSE IS SERIOUS

BATH, Me., Aug. 2—(AP)—Charles W. Morse, former New York financier, steamship magnate and "ice king," was gravely ill at his summer home here tonight, the result of a shock which he suffered yesterday. Because of the age of the patient and the fact that the stock was his second, Dr. Byron F. Barber, his physician, admitted that his condition was serious.

The physician said that Mr. Morse was unconscious all day yesterday, but had rallied later. Tonight he remained in a semi-comatose condition. In reply to a question as to whether Mr. Morse realized what was going on about him, Dr. Barber said: "Yes, as much as he did before he was stricken."

It was learned today that his daughter, Mrs. John Geiger, of Chicago, would arrive here tomorrow to be with her father in his illness. Miss Jennie R. Morse, a sister, was with the aged patient today and his son, Harry Morse, came from his summer residence at Squirrel Island to visit him. The son later in the day was called to New York on business.

Mr. Morse suffered his first shock last year. He came to his summer home here from his New York residence July 10.

HISTORIC LAND FIGURES IN REAL ESTATE DEAL

BOSTON, Aug. 2—(AP)—A plot of land on which the Massachusetts colonists erected their first powder magazine during the revolution today figured in a real estate transaction for the first time in history. The British crown originally granted the land in 1656 to Captain Joseph Curtis, one of the first settlers in what is now the Jamaica Plain district. It remained in the family until today when its transfer to two real estate operators was recorded. The lot is located on Magazine street, which takes its name from the tract's original use.

TRAGIC DEATHS OF BOGAR FAMILY AT BLISSFIELD, MICH.

ADRIAN, Mich., Aug. 2—(AP)—The bodies of John Bogar, 50, his daughter, Agnes, 25, and the latter's daughter, Amelia, 5, were found in their farm home at Blissfield near here today. The father's body was dangling from a rope in the kitchen, the woman apparently had been clubbed to death and the child poisoned. Police were unable to determine if the three were slain or figured in a suicide pact.

Return of Ponzi to Bay State Ordered

[illegible] Ferguson of Texas—Hearing on Habeas Corpus Proceedings at Houston Today

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 2.— (AP) —Request of the governor of Massachusetts for the extradition to Boston of Charles Ponzi, "financial wizard" who is wanted to serve a sentence of from 7 to 9 years as a "common and notorious thief" was granted today by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson.

Ponzi, who is in jail at Houston, has another card to play in his fight to escape return to Massachusetts, hearing on his application for a writ of habeas corpus being set for tomorrow, before Judge Charles Ashe, in district court at Houston.

Should Judge Ashe hold that Ponzi is illegally restrained of his liberty, the governor's extradition order would be without effect and Ponzi would be released from custody.

Should the court refuse to order his release, Ponzi has announced he will appeal to the state court of criminal appeals and then if necessary carry the case to the state supreme court. Pending decision of the appeal he will be entitled to his liberty under $12,000 bond. The appeals court does not sit until October.

"The governor indicated to us that she preferred to have the issues of law presented by defense counsel decidd in habeas corpus proceedings," E. T. Branch of counsel for Ponzi, said, following Governor Ferguson's decision. "We expect to make a determined fight for Ponzi's liberty in Judge Ashe's court."

Alfred Shrigley, assistant attorney general of Massachusetts expressed gratification at the governor's decision.

Mrs. Ferguson's order provides that Ponzi shall be turned over to John F. Mitchell, Boston police inspector.

Attorneys for Ponzi will ask a writ of habeas corpus on the ground that he was arrested illegally when he was taken from an Italian ship at New Orleans several weeks ago.

It is also their contention that he would be subjected to double jeopardy if he is taken back to serve a state sentence for an offense for which he asserts he already has served a federal prison term.

BAHAMA REFUGEES ARE BEING BROUGHT TO NASSAU

NASSAU, Bahamas, Aug. 2—(AP)—(Via wireless to the Associated Press)—Crippled schooners laden with refuges from the outlying islands of the Bahamas, slowly coming one by one into the harbor here, are bringing the story of more loss of life and property as the result of the tropical hurricane last week.

The death list total this morning had mounted overnight to 146 known dead, while 400 still are listed as missing. Reports that the storm had missed the sponge fleet, where a great loss of life was feared, were not confirmed and the sponge boats are not yet heard from.

The sloop Doris, itself showing the effects of the terrific gale it weathered when the full fury of the hurricane swept down on the Bahamas, crept into port today with 23 refugees from Exuma Key, where 500 houses were destroyed and more than 1,000 persons rendered homeless.

Four women and five men on board the sloop Eleuthera are listed lost when the sloop sank enroute to Nassau.

Five men were lost when the sloop Lily G. broke moorings, drifted out to sea and sank.

Four of six men of the crew of the schooner Alberta were lost when the vessel was wrecked on Androsia Island, that island, which suffered greatly from the hurricane, has reported to the colonial government here that crops have been generally destroyed. The government, rushing its work of checking the storm damage, has found evidence that the entire Bahamas have suffered from the storm. Homes and buildings were destroyed in virtually every section of the group, it has been learned.

COOLIDGE HASE BEEN PRESIDENT THREE YEARS

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 3—(AP)—Three years as chief executive of the republic were completed by President Coolidge tonight.

It was in the early hours of August 3, 1923 that Mr. Coolidge took the oath of office by the dim light of a lamp in the Plymouth, Vt., farm house before his father as a justice of the peace soon after the sudden death of President Harding.

No word of comment was made by him today, however, on the anniversary as he approached the beginning of his fourth year as chief executive. Government business occupied him as it does daily during his vacation and there was no indication he would depart from that program tomorrow.

The Rev. William F. McDowell, Methodist piscopal bishop, of Washington, D. C., and Mrs. McDowell were luncheon guests of the president and Mrs. Coolidge at White Pine camp this noon. They are spending several weeks at Lake Placid and their visit was described as merely social.

REPORTS OF ATTEMPTS TO SWIM ENGLISH CHANNEL

DOVER, England, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Reports reaching here tonight are that Miss Clarabelle Barrett, of New York, at 8:30 o'clock tonight was seven miles off the French coast in her attempt to swim across the English Channel from the English to the French coast. The weather was favorable.

Dr. George Brewster, of London, who entered the water at 11 o'clock this morning, at 2 p. m. was five miles off Dover, was compelled to abandon his attempt to swim across the channel at 3.35 p. m. because of the dense fog.

INDIAN PREFERS VANITY MAKE UP TO WAR PAINT

EDMONTON, Alta., August 2—(AP)—There is at least one Indian in Canada who prefers the modern vanity case and makeup box to the war paint of his ancestors, according to H. P. Murphy, trapper and explorer from the Ptarmigan Lake district.

Murphy says that recently he met an Indian on the trail wearing a vanity box where formerly a scalping knife had hung. From this the Indian pulled a powder puff, powdered his face and then extracted a small mirror from the bag to assure himself that his makeup was good.

Expression of Views by Lady Nancy Astor

Declares the Misbehaviour of Girls is the Fault of Their Mothers, and Not Prohibition.

BOSTON, Aug. 2—(AP)—Declaring that she wanted her daughter to be neither American nor English but just what every other mother wants, Lady Nancy Astor, M. P., today escorted her daughter, Hon. Phyllis Astor, 17, and her three youngest sons on a sightseeing tour of Boston and Harvard university.

"The typical English girl and the typical American girl are equally horrible," the quick-spoken Virginian who became the first woman member of the English parliament declared. "Your 100 per cent. American is a rather awful creature. I want my girl to be, as every mother does, that fine type of womah who is above national prejudices."

Lady Astor was positive in her conviction that prohibition is here to stay in America. Terming it "a step toward moral attainment," she answered objections with references to the growth of savings deposits and general prosperity.

"If young girls are misbehaving, it is the fault of their mothers and not of prohibition," she said. "When I was a girl in Virginia there were cocktails about, but we didn't drink them. Our father saw to that. It is no new situation and there is no reason why the girl of today should be more tempted. Really, I can't understand it. There were eight of us and I have six children myself. Catch my daughter doing it!

"The greater freedom of the girl of today is a moral gain not a decline. Her sports and freer relations with men have done her no harm."

Lady Astor declared that General Andrews had the support of every right-minded Britisher in seeking cooperation in the prevention of liquor smuggling. Prohibition, however, has not yet become an issue ni England and at present the coal crisis overshadowed everything else.

England, she said, desired peace but she thought it could not be obtained by peace parades or peace societies "or which you have more in America than in any other country in the world." England would welcome further disarmament conferences but "no sane persons want to talk or discuss disarmament with the situation in Europe what it is."

"England is prepared to pay her war debt and will pay it," Lady Astor said. "The recent attacks on the American attitude were started by the Daily Mail and were immediately suppressed as contrary to the opinions of either the public or statesmen. Such criticism is contrary to the English spirit."

PROTEST BY ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OF NEW JERSEY

NEWARK, N. J., Aug. 2—(AP)—The anti-saloon league of New Jersey today announced it has made direct protest to President Coolidge against alleged violations of the prohibition law in this state.

The organization's communication, a duplicate of an editorial in the current American issue, official league organ, charged that the national administration broke faith in its enforcement pledges.

The letter referring to the plan of having New Jersey under the supervision of prohibition forces in adjoining states, called the commonwealth "an unloved stepchild expected to be content with the left-over garments of her sisters, New York and Pennsylvania."

Going back to 1924, it declared the Rev. James K. Shields was persuaded to withdraw his candidacy in opposition to Senator Edge, "on receiving positive assurances from President Coolidge, through his intimate advisors that there would be a radical change made in the administration of the prohibition law in New Jersey.

"There have been some favorable changes but nothing done that measures up to assurances given by the president as to reforms. Everything cries aloud to the administration that the time has come to quit playing the game of "peek-boo" with Edge and Edwards and have some real, adequate law enforcement work in long suffering New Jersey, otherwise Calvin Coolidge will not have kept faith with those who trust him."

DOES NOT REGARD DRY LAW AS ENFORCABLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Representative Florence P. Kahn, who ardently advocates modification of the Volstead act, voiced her opposition to the prohibition law in a church here yesterday.

The injection of prohibition into her address occurred when Mrs. Minera Swain, presiding at the First Congregational church, asked Mrs. Kahn for her attitude on the issue.

"I am for law enforcement," she declared "but before we can have that we must have an enforceable law."

Applause greeted her statement that government regulation was probably the best answer to the problem of national temperance.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2—(AP)—A gruff holdup man today left his victims money for lunch before he and three confederates escaped with the $3,600 payrool of Cushman and Sons, bakers, of 325 West 66th street.

The same robber poked his weapon into the face of Miss Mabel Mackay, cashier, when she tried to knock the canvas bag containing the payroll into a drawer. He reached into the drawer, shook $5.50 in silver from the bag, and said:

"Here, buy the girls some lunch with this."

FINDS VIRGIN ISLANDERS WORTHY OF CITIZENSHIP

Senator Hiram Bingham Gives Deductions From an Inspection Tour—Asserts That Residents Understood They Were to be Granted Citizenship When They Voted to Approve the Sale of the Islands to the United States—Bingham Will Present His Views to the Committee on Insular Affairs at the Earliest Opportunity.

NEW HAVEN, Aug. 2.—(AP)—That the inhabitants of the Virgin Islands should be granted citizenship, is the opinion expressed by Senator Hiram Bingham who has just returned from an inspection tour of the recently acquired insular possessions as a member of the senate committee on territories and insular affairs.

"They so understood the treaty when they voted to approve the sale of the islands by Denmark to the United States," Senator Bingham said. "They all speak English. Not many use the Danish language. The half dozen newspapers are printed in English. Many of the inhabitants came originally from the British West Indies.

"The present code of laws is based on the territorial code of Alaska, abridged and adapted to the needs of the islands. It was adopted a few years ago by the councils of St. Thomas and St. John and of St. Croix. The fundamental constitution or organic act of the islands is in a temporary adaption of the Danish colonial act under which the islands were being administered at the time of the purchase by the United States."

Senator Bingham believes that the congress should as soon as possible give the islands a permanent organic act in place of the temporary act passed in 1917 and will present his views to the committee on insular affairs at the earliest opportunity.

The senator made the trip to the Virgin Islands at the urgent request of Senator Willis, chairman of the committee on territories and insular affairs. Several bills are now pending before congress looking towards granting a permanent form of government to the Virgin Islands, formerly the Danish West Indies, and providing for their residents to be citizens of the United States instead of "nationals" as they are now.

Senator Bingham said he had found nearly everyone in the islands enthusiastic over the work of the navy. Opportunity was afforded the senator to meet a large number of persons both in public, at meetings of the municipal councils, and in private. No one, the senator said, made any complaint of injustice, cruelty or impossibility of securing hearings at all times by the governor and his official representatives.

"The chief troubles are economic," Senator Bingham said, "St. Thomas is not favored with as many visitors as they would like to have. St. Croix has lost the 'Santa Cruz rum' industry, and is short of plantation laborers. Chiefly the islands are short of rain, there having been a serious drought during the past five years. All the planters have lost money during the dry years. Many laborers have gone to the mainland, and owing to the immigration laws are not as easily replaced from the other West Indian islands as was formerly the case. The planters all hope that some arrangement can be made whereby this situation can be remedied.

"The increased use of oil instead of coal by ocean steamers is, more and more, depriving the large stevedore population of St. Thomas of an opportunity to earn money, coaling ships. This has been such an important element in the life of St. Thomas for the past three generations that the period of re-adjustment to new maritime conditions is causing great hardship to the poor people.

"Some of the more public-spirited land-holders of the islands stand ready to sell small holdings to those who desire to cultivate small farms. The islands can produce a large variety of vegetables and fruit. Truck farming should prove a great boon to the inhabitants. The people are all poor, however, than they need considerable assistance to get started. And it will not be easy to turn hereditary stevedores into truck farmers. Nor is it easy to turn hereditary sugar plantation laborers into satisfactory raisers of diversified crops.

"Everyone took pains to praise the work of the naval doctors and their able assistants, the naval nurses. Public works, roads and reservoirs are in process of construction. Public libraries have been established. Hospitals have been built and enlarged.

"An agricultural experiment station is doing good work. The schools have been improved and extended. More equipment for the manual training and domestic science work is needed. Sanitary conditions are excellent and are a credit to the government. The police are efficient. Law and order prevails.

"The government and the efficient local representatives of the American Red Cross are constantly helping the poor and destitute. The money which has been spent by the congress appears to have been well used. The American people have a right to be proud of the administration of the islands.

"Some 18 naval officers are assigned to duty with the civil government, and are paid out of naval funds. Their work is painstaking, and is appreciated. Especial mention should be made of the particular success which, according to all accounts, is being achieved by the courtesy and tact and ability of the present governor, Captain Martin E. Trench, and his able assistant, the government secretary, Commander C. S. Baker. Many citizens urged that their services be retained for some time to come. Nearly everyone objected to the frequent changes and short term of service which has been the rule under the American regime."

CALL FOR MEETING OF REP. STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE

HARTFORD, Aug. 2.—(AP)—A call for a meeting of the republican state central committee to be held at the Country club, Farmington, at 6 o'clock, standard time, next Tuesday, was issued today by Chairman J. Henry Roraback.

The purpose of the meeting is to fix the time and place for the state convention for the nomination of the republican state ticket and also to determine the time for holding the caucuses and primaries for the selection of delegates to the convention and to the congressional, county and senatorial district conventions.

The time of the meeting was arranged largely to suit the convenience of Governor Trumbull, who returns Thursday or Friday from the governors' conference in Wyoming, Mr. Roraback said. The governor will leave next week for a three weeks' vacation at Moosehead lake, Me.

To conform to party rules, requiring the lapse of a certain period before the caucuses and to the state law, requiring a certain lapse between nominating conventions and election day, it will be necessary for the state committee to put the state convention either in the week beginning September 5 or the week beginning September 12. Since Wednesday and Thursday are the usual convention days, that would narrow down the possibilities down to September 8 and 9 or 15 and 16.

It is customary to alternate between Hartford and New Haven in fixing the place of the state convention. The last state convention, which nominated Hiram Bingham for United States senator, was held in Hartford, and there appears to be a growing sentiment for making this city the permanent place of the convention.

It is probable the bill will be voted before the session is adjourned.

SIMPLE FUNERAL RITES FOR SENATOR A. B. CUMMINS

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 2—(AP)—With simple funeral rites, Iowa late today paid final tribute to Senator Albert B. Cummins, and laid him to rest in Woodland cemetery with the nation and state honoring him. He was eulogized as one of the state's greatest sons.

A number of his colleagues in the senate and house, state political leaders and friends attended the home services, conducted by the Rev. Charles S. Medbury, pastor of the University Church of Christ.

The funeral hour found the state in official mourning with public business at a standstill.

The services concluded, men who had worked for years with Senator Cummins gathered to select a man, on Friday, to finish his unexpired term in the senate.

A call for a special republican convention Friday was issued tonight by Willis L. Stern of Logan, chairman of the state central committee and at the same time a committee was named to frame an official tribute to Senator Cummins.

Sentiment indicates the convention will, through the memory of Senator Cummins, emphasize the new unity of the party and decide upon a candidate acceptable to each faction. This outcome is the hope of the new party organization, privately expressed today.

Iowa leaders also were seeking the counsel of Senator Charles S. Deneen of Illinois, slated to manage the congressional committee's work in the fall campaigns and the advice of other senators and congressmen here for the funeral.

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in great factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators. But all too often a woman wins her economic independence at the cost of her health.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Mrs. Chamberlain lives at 249 Monmouth St., Trenton, N. J. She recommends the Vegetable Compound to her friends in the factory and will gladly answer any letters she gets from women asking about it.

WESTERLY

SULLIVAN GRANITE CO. HEAD CHARGES UNJUST TREATMENT

(Special to the Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Aug. 2—At the August meeting of the Westerly town council Monday morning, there were present Council President John D. Nichols, and Councilmen Rogers E. Trainer, Hatty H. Coleman, Peter Nardone, Isaac G. Smith, A. Clifford Holdsworth and Thomas F. Moore, also Clerk Everett E. Whipple and Town Solicitor John Ferguson.

A petition for a hearing before the council was received from the Sullivan Granite company on the discontinuance of police protection previously given to the granite company's pay roll when transported from Westerly, about six miles to the quarries located in Bradford. Representing the Sullivan company at the meeting were Frank A. Sullivan of the company, legal representative, Attorney A. T. L. Ledwidge and Miss Bernice Burdick, a stenographer.

Attorney Ledwidge in introducing the petition, a lengthy typewritten document, said that the Sullivan Granite company, incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts, had been doing business for the past 15 years. Starting when business in the granite line was slack in Bradford, it had become a large industry there and was probably one of the largest taxpayers. It employed a large number of men who were taxpayers and payments to them by the company were made weekly. Money was taken from the bank in Westerly to Bradford, requiring about an hour for delivery. Without police accompaniment the bearer was subjected to hardship and the possibility of a hold-up. He said about 14 years ago a predecessor of the Sullivan Granite company, in carrying the payroll by horse and wagon to Bradford, was held up with serious injury to the driver and loss to the men employed. So forcibly was the hold-up impressed upon the minds of the people, police officers and town council at that time that the messenger was instructed not to take the payroll unless accompanied by police. At the time of the David Newall Granite company pay roll holdup in Bradford it cost the town considerable money for police activity and the town council offered a reward for the bandits. If police protection was withdrawn the stretch between Westerly and Bradford could become a dangerous one, and the same police protection was asked for as heretofore. The situation was entirely different at Bradford than about Westerly for the 2 1-2 miles from the Bradford station to the quarry was sparsely peopled, remote and heavily wooded. He asked in the name of "all good common sense, wisest economy and good stewardship, that the pay roll be accompanied by a police officer."

He said that Mr. Sullivan should not be forced to the necessity of appearing before the council asking for favors for when the new Bradford schoolhouse was built recently Mr. Sullivan furnished the granite, free. Again when the land about the building was not sufficient for the purpose Mr. Sullivan had given the town a deed for the necessary land. A continuance of police protection of the past 14 years was asked for.

Frank A. Sullivan addressed the council, saying in addition to what the company's lawyer had said, that the withdrawing of police protection for the granite company pay roll the previous week was a "very unfair and unjust thing."

The unusual situation of the Sullivan quarries six miles away from the center of Westerly required him to keep two men as watchmen at his plant, day and night. As for the expense involved in having Westerly policemen go with the pay roll, no extra time for duty was required of them as arrangements had been made with his bank to have the money available between 7 and 8 o'clock in the morning on Fridays, at least for the hour used from records of the town he had learned that the officers were paid at the rate of 50c an hour and now he had been told by Chairman Coleman of the police committee that a charge would be made of $3 for the accompaniment of a policeman. With these figures he was not able to understand why a police tax of $2.50 was imposed upon him and a search of the town treasurer's records showed in no case where anyone had ever before paid such a tax.

Mr. Sullivan said he had made a little personal investigation of the cause for the removal of police protection of the Sullivan Granite company payroll. Arthur L. Perry of the Washington Trust company had told him personally that he had asked the police committee to stop the protection of the pay roll and that Chairman Coleman of the police committee had told him to make the $3 charge and when he demurred to the payment was asked "what three dollars was to him?" If Arthur Perry or the bank had lost a client over protection of payrolls, Mr. Sullivan said he could not see why he "should be pulled into any little petty squabble." All he wanted was fair treatment and no special favors and if there was any "spite" involved he did not want to be a party to it.

Then Mr. Sullivan fired a broadside at the council. "Why should you do as Mr. Perry asks? Are you afraid to loose your jobs?" Because Arthur Perry and Ben Utter picked you out for the council, do you feel obligated to them?" He added that it was all right for Mr. Perry to advise them and that he himself wanted to have his own opinions come before the council and then for the councilmen to use their best judgment in deciding and not to think "that Mr. Perry's word ought to be law!" He said such an attitude was not fair to the citizens of the town and that the council should have confidence in its police department. Along these lines Mr. Sullivan declared that police protection had fallen down. Instead of hiring the chief and having him appointed for a year he claimed, he was only carried along from day to day and that he could be paid $5 and fired tomorrow. There had been no appointment of a deputy chief of police and no appointment of a sergeant, as the law directed. If a man wants protection he has got to pay $5 a day, yet the town spends thousands of dollars in advertising good police and fire departments. Many robberies had occurred and nobody has been caught in these cases because there was no incentive. Mr. Sullivan said he felt entitled to a little protection, for when other concerns had come to Westerly and had been granted a ten year exemption from taxation, although advised to seek the same, he had refrained from any claim, as he did not think it just. He said he had conducted a good, straight, honest legitimate business since coming to Westerly and in this removal of police protection he had been unjustly and unfairly dealt with. He closed by saying "I'll leave it in your hads."

Chairman Coleman of the police committee of the council said he wanted to take an exception to Mr. Sullivan's statement that Mr. Perry had talked to him about the police protection matter; he owed Mr. Perry nothing and that he had no strings on him. He said Mr. Perry had agreed to pay $3 for police protection of pay rolls.

Mr. Sullivanu then asked Councilman Trainer if Mr. Perry had talked with him and received an affirmative reply, but Mr. Trainer added that he thought no member of the council is bound to anyone, and that he would gladly go with Mr. Sullivan to Mr. Perry and verify all that had been said of proper nature. Mr. Sullivan continued that because an account had been lost to the bank the Sullivan company should not be made to suffer. Both he and Mr. Perry were members of the Westerly zoning board, they had always gotten along very well and he had no personal quarrel with him, but he did resent being used to carry out personal spite. He thought the council should act in behalf of the citizens of the town of Westerly and not in behalf of the Washington Trust company.

President Nichols of the council asked Mr. Sullivan if anyone was getting special police protection and not paying for it. Mr. Sullivan replied that he thought "it a pretty small matter, because of friction, to pick on us." Mr. Nichols said nobody else had been held up or shot down and that he himself at one time worked at Bradford and carried the payroll on a bicycle.

Declaring it "a duty, not a protection," Attorney Ledwidge closed the discussion with the statement that when schools were in session police officers were sent to the school-houses to care for traffic when the schools were dismissed and that such steps were taken in congested traffic centers as a protection to persons and to property.

At the close of the council session it was voted that "whereas a hearing was asked on police protection of the Sullivan Granite pay roll on July 29th and granted, Attorney Ledwidge and Frank A. Sullivan appeared and were heard, the continuance of police protection was referred to the police committee, with power to act in the premises."

Bills voted approved were for waterworks (pay roll $3,330.08) $3,706.88; sewer department (pay roll $1,023.08) $935.77; poor department, $654.40.

Town hall (pay roll $210) $50.76; miscellaneous (pay roll $96.93) $734.15, an account of $730 for street signs being approved as when the signs arrived for the reletering the streets of Westerly. Town officers, $1,813.96; assessors plats (pay roll $138.48) $535; mothers' aid (pay roll $20) $1.25; street lights $1,455.77; town advertising $1,000 and police pay roll $1,512.

A report was received and approved from Dr. Samuel C. Webster, showing ten cases of contageous diseases, chikken pox 4, measles 6. The promise was made that the brook in the Pleasant and Pierce street section would be cleaned out in the near future. Mrs. Teresa Trebisacci and Mrs. Marietta Rose again appeared before the council about the brook nuisance and Councilman Holdsworth informed them that the brook was being cleaned and that Engineer Thomas McKenzie was getting plans ready and in a week or two it would be known just what could be done. "Guess we will have to take the matter up with the state," said Mrs. Rose as she left the council chamber.

The report of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown showed 19 arrests for July, divided as follows: Operation of auto with improper lights 2, refusing to show auto license to an officer 1, operation of an automobile at a rate of speed greater than reasonable and proper 2, driving a car under the influence of liquor 1, peddling without a license 1, driving an automobile not equipped with at least two powerful brakes 1, common nuisance 1, possession of intoxicating liquors 2, violent assault 1, reckless driving 2, auto not registered 4, intoxication 1, sales of intoxicating liquor 2.

Three juvenile cases were brought before the court. Town Clerk Whipple complained of destruction to town hall property caused by such youngsters when kept in the detention room and Solicitor Ferguson stated that it was against the law to place them in cells. Two liquor raids were made.

Alexander N. Pasetti, a fire policeman, having the approval of Chief Brown, was voted a police constable.

Councilman Holdsworth reported an amendment to the parking law wherein an auto could not be parked near any hydrant in town and not restricted to the Westerly fire district as formerly. It was voted.

Solicitor Ferguson reported and it was voted to amend the itinerant vendor law of the town ordinances to read "may elect to pay $2.50 on each $100 worth of goods," the same rate as the town tax, and which could not be made to apply to stores opening after June 15th when the town assessment is made. A penalty was also voted that such tax could be cancelled where a false statement was given. The solicitor reported that but two stores had not paid fees at the beaches and these reported checks in the mail.

About September 1, the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company will begin the work of building a line from West Brooklyn to Hampton hill, a distance of about five miles, that Hampton may have electric light and other electrical service for the first time in its history. About 50 contracts for lights already have been signed by the company with Hampton residents. Manager William Sangster said Monday morning that he hopes to have the lights burning in Hampton by Thanksgiving time. Hampton is one of the last outposts in this part of the county getting along without electric service. There are a few other communities, but they are few and far between. Canterbury, is one of them, although lights do extend from Brooklyn into a section of the northern part of that town.

A Danielson boy may be a member of the next legislature of the state of California—Myron D. Witter, publisher and editor of the Brawley News, a daily that is of wide influence in the Imperial Valley. If Mr. Witter becomes an assemblyman from the 78th California district, it will not have been through his seeking the place. On the contrary, he is being subjected to pressure from all sides to become a candidate for the nomination, which will be made within the month. The press of the Imperial Valley has said many kindly and highly complimentary things about Editor Witter and is in the forefront of the campaign to have him enter the contest. Mr. Witter, while a member of county and state republican committees in California, has not been a candidate for office, though wielding much influence in the Imperial Valley, where he is a very popular figure. Mr. Witter left here as a boy of 15 and after a time in the middle west went to Brawley, where he has been located the past 25 years. He is the son of David A. Witter of Furnace street. Work on the interior decorations at the Baptist church is being advanced rapidly, with a view to the resumption of worship in the big room early in the fall. Nothing in the line of repainting has been done to the walls since the new stained glass windows were put in, late in October 1898. Now with the redecoration and improved scheme of lighting, the beauty of the windows is to be greatly enhanced. There are four windows given by the church, one in memory of its distinguished founder, is inscribed: "In memory of Rev. Benajah Cook, died February 10, 1886, aged 40 years. The founder of the Jewett City Baptist church and for ten years its pastor. By his ministry much people were added unto the lord." At the top appears an open Bible. Another is in memory of four deacons of the church and is inscribed: "In memory of Deacon Benjamin A. Smith, from 1851-184: Deacon Frederick S. Brown, 1858-1894; Deacon Thomas G. Reed, 1862-1887; Deacon Samuel Barber, 1883-1884." At the top appears a golden chalice. The other two are in the vestibule and are of plain design. There are also two alike, one the gift of Deacon John E. Phillips and the other in memory of Mrs. Harriet Palmer. At the top of each of these is set a beautiful star design. One given by the Ladies' Aid society is adorned with a cluster of ascension lilies on its central disk. The window by the Christian Endeavor society has on the lower margin the letters C. E. in monogram, combined with the words: "For Christ and the Church." At the top is the symbolic censer from which the incense rises. One on the west side is in the design of a Maltese cross, above which appears the lettering: "Whatsoever Circle." At the bottom is inscribed: "Presented by The King's Daughters in memory of our beloved dead. Organized July 24, 1890." One very handsome window, given by the late Mrs. Alpheus Weaver, is in memory of her father, Deacon Rufus Williams, who was deacon of the church from 1840 to 1859, and of her husband, Deacon Alpheus Weaver, who served the church from 1884 to 1893. Its design is a communion picture with the chalice and clusters of purple grapes. Another is in memory of Shenard and Martha C. Brown, and appearing in the arch at the top are the letters S. B. in monogram. It was a gift from their daughters, Mrs. B. H. Palmer, Mrs. E. M. Swift, Mrs. A. G. Scranton, Mrs. J. D Eccleston, and Mrs. R. R. Church. The 12th window has a cross and crown in the arch, and is lettered: "In memory of Benjamin W. Palmer and Betsy A. Palmer." It was given by the children. These beautiful windows cost but a little short of $1,000.

Finn's tonight. Edmund Lowe and Madge Bellamy in "Black Paradise."—Adv.

It is altogether likely that Henry Johnson, of Pendleton Hill, came across a female helgramite or dobson, as the fishermen call them when they are found under the stones, in the shallows of running water. The Quinebaug in its old eel weirs yields them by the hundred, and, being much in demand by bass fishermen for bait, it does not take the youngsters long to "pick up" a couple of dollars. Even at 10 cecent per crawler. Last week a Pennsylvania firm were charging $4 per 100. The other day two lads got a 4-quart milk pail full to the first measure mark before the water from the up-stream mill came to where they were searching in the Seven Mile Curve of the Quinebaug. As the summer advances Mrs. Helgramite with her flat black head and ugly pinchers, takes on two pairs of gauzy net like wings thickens up her body a bit, and goes flying about the trees and grass for a short period. And in justice to her it must be said, she looks perfectly horrible. It is not uncommon to find one motionless on a fence rent, or attempting to crawl along the pavement. None of the moth species has claws or pinches, or any hard covering.

This was followed by the dramatization of the book of Esther, which was finely done by the children. Thirteen out of an enrollment of 20 received the necessary points to receive the prize, which was a fine Bible. All the others will receive New Testaments. Those receiving the Bibles had committed to memory the following passages during the two weeks—The 1st, 23rd and 100th Psalms, the Beatitudes, Ten Commandments, books of the Old and New Testament, and told two Bible stories.

A number of new signs have been erected by the selectmen one on the state road on the Andover-Columbia line, one at Katzman's corner pointing the way to the Green, one on the Hebron-Columbia line, and a large one on Columbia Green; bidding all welcome.

Forty-five members of St. Mary's Boy choir, of Willimantic, Joseph Gaudreau, leader, are in camp at the lake for two weeks, arriving Monday morning.

Does the Ford next door run better than yours?

WHEN two Fords of the same model vary greatly in performance, look first for the answer in the oil. That is because, in the Ford car both the motor and the transmission must be lubricated by one and the same oil.

Ordinary motor-oils are neither designed nor qualified to meet this dual lubrication problem. And the use of ordinary motor oils in a Ford usually results in jerky chatter, uneven control and repair bills.

That is why a million Ford owners use Veedol Forzol, the oil created exclusively to meet the problem of Ford lubrication. Veedol Forzol is more than a special grade of oil. It is a different kind of oil. It is giving Ford owners smoother performance, and 8 definite economies in operation.

The Eight Economies of Veedol Forzol

10 to 25% gasoline saving	Resists heat and friction
Eliminates costly chatter	10 to 25% saving in carbon
10 to 25% saving in oil	Resists fuel dilution
Increased ability to coast	Reduces repair bills

To get the most from your Ford, stop today at the orange and black Veedol Forzol sign—it's the sign of a good dealer. Have him drain and refill your crankcase with 4 quarts of Veedol Forzol. Then notice the difference in the performance and economy of your car.

A QUESTION FOR CONGRESS

Revelations of huge expenditures of money in the Pennsylvania and Illinois primary elections have brought congress and the state legislatures face to face with the problem of putting a limitation upon the sums which may be used by and for candidates for nomination and election to the senate and house. But a grave doubt is seen whether congress can tackle constitutionally the matter of limiting expenditures in a state nominating primary, particularly in view of the decision of the supreme court in the case of Mr. Newberry, the Michigan senator. It would be that the house and senate could limit themselves to determining whether men and women for whom large sums of money have been expended are entitled to be seated; that the only course open to the two houses would be to proceed by investigation to determine whether large amounts of money have been expended, and expended improperly.

The states themselves are in an entirely different situation. They can deal with their own primaries effectively, provided, of course, that the people are awakened to the need. In the apathy of the voters is disclosed one disheartening aspect of the whole situation.

Large expenditures of money in political campaigns are entirely justified. Even legitimate expenses may even run into huge figures, depending entirely upon the size of the electorate and upon the candidates for office are trying to influence. It would be manifestly impossible to limit the expenditures which may be made by and for a candidate for the senate in New York or Pennsylvania to those which might properly be made in Wyoming or Delaware. But the expenditures made in Pennsylvania and Illinois, running into the hundreds of thousands of dollars, in a preliminary primary, are disgusting, have a smack of corruption. The payment of "watchers" in Pennsylvania and of "workers" in Illinois has meant a stout, a systematic purchasing of votes. In Allegheny county, Pa., it was developed, nearly one-third of all the men and women who supported two of the candidates for the republican senatorial nomination were paid $5 or $10 apiece.

In some form or other the issue that has been raised must be dealt with by congress. The whole problem turns upon the direct primary system. Congress cannot touch the primary. Nor is it sure it can compel witnesses to give certain kinds of testimony. The senate has found it hard to frame any resolution for its own guidance which would be fair to members from great states as well as little states. Nevertheless, the direct primary, with its staggering expenditures and its own peculiar dangers to free government, has raised a question which the nation as well as congress must face.

RELIGIOUS CONFLICT IN MEXICO

The bitter conflict between the Mexican government and the Roman Catholic church is a matter of world wide interest. Other denominations besides the Catholic are affected in certain ways in the conduct of their missions and schools. In the United States and in other countries diplomatic intervention has been urged. Some interests even recommend withdrawal of recognition of the Calles government because of its alleged hostility to religion and religious teaching in the schools. But Mexico's quarrel is purely domestic. Moreover, it presents complex and perplexing phases.

The Calles government—with the support of organized labor—takes the position that its recent orders, including confiscation of church property, exclusion of religious instruction from the schools and rigid censorship of the religious press, are legitimate efforts to enforce the constitutional provisions covering the relations between church and state. President Calles accuses the Roman Catholic hierarchy of willful resistance to the secular regime, of defying the constitution of 1917, and of a determination to set up a supergovernment based on claims to divine sanction. The church is charged with anti-republican propaganda and with irreconcilable opposition to popular education and to cultural progress.

The church authorities protest most earnestly against these charges. They affirm that the government's regulations go far beyond the provisions of the constitution, and that the administrative measures of the government have been and are unnecessarily harsh and vindictive. They point out that the constitution provides methods for its own amendment, and they assert that the church, which objects to some of the anticlerical or anticreligious provisions, has a legal right to advocate their modification or repeal.

To prohibit the religious press of any denomination from publishing or discussing political and legislative news certainly is not to respect the constitutional right of free speech and free publication. Indeed, the Calles government has admitted that some of its orders to the religious press are arbitrary, but it pleads the dangers of conspiracies and disorders as justification for temporary unconstitutional regulations.

It should be possible for temperate and reasonable men in Mexico to bring about a just solution of the religious problem on the basis of a free church in a free state. Any other policy breeds civil strife, which of course is bad for both the church and the state. The conflict is one in which this government can take no part, but all Americans will hope that the struggle will soon end and that the differences between the church and the Mexican government will be composed as soon as possible, leaving a minimum of rancor.

BLONDS AND BRUNETTES

That there is a theatrical war on between the blonds and the brunettes indicates that all the press agents have not yet gone on their annual vacations. These differences are not at all new. Originally it was decided that the white race was divided into two general classes, the blonds and the brunettes. In recent years delvers into scientific depths have endeavored to mark the distinction between the dark and the light. They have attributed more temperament to one than the other, more chances for disease to one than to the other and so on. There has been much talk about the Nordic strain and other strains. The poets have been impartial. One will praise a blond and another a brunette. The present controversy was started by a theatrical producer who declared that blonds will get no nearer the footlights in the coming season than the second row of the chorus. That would leave them closer to the stage door where the lovelorn wait with their limousines. In these days when science triumphs over mere matter there need be no tears shed either way. Complexions and hair run light or dark, according to demand. Providing the kind of pulchritude demanded is not so much a matter of ancestors or pigmentation as it is of theatrical accessories and the supply of the latter seems adequate for all the needs.

SEEKERS FOR THRILLS

Youth's search for thrills leads to strange doings. A young man at Steubenville, Ohio, thought he would imitate Martin Durkin, Chicago's "sheik bandit", and wrote a letter to a wealthy retired manufacturer, demanding $16,000 under penalty of death. The letter was quickly traced to him and he was arrested. "I would have returned the money," he told the police; "I only wanted to see if I could get it."

Giving this young man, who at the age of 20 is married and has two children, full credit for the purpose that he has stated, the case illustrates the instability of a certain type of the younger generation. He wanted a "kick." He wanted to flirt with crime. He sought an adventure. He got it.

This young chap evidently had no thought for his family when he took a chance of blackmail. He will probably spend a couple of years in prison unless the object of his threat shows mercy on him and refuses to prosecute. Then his wife and children will have the adventure, and the sorriest one that can befall. And the pity of it all is that there are many such as he who have lost their moral balance and are deliberately questing for experiences. The Chicago boys who killed a little fellow for a thrill were of this type. They are now in prison for life, having barely escaped the gallows. The news accounts are full of such happenings. Is the law the only correction that can be applied to check this unwholesome morbid tendency that afflicts so many of the rising generation?

ZINOVIEV; WORLD REVOLUTIONIST

Soviet Russia's dream of world revolution is over. Zinoviev, high priest of international destruction, has been ousted from membership in the Russian communist party's political bureau, which controls both the party and the soviet government. Zinoviev is still head of the red internationale but the government has decided to tolerate no further interference from that agency of trouble and turmoil.

Zinoviev's greatest influence in Russia was exercised in the first four years of communist control, the period devoted to making the revolution complete. In that period he evolved his ambitious but utterly fantastic plans for overthrowing all existing noncommunistic governments and bringing the world to the feet of communistic Russia. When communism had demonstrated its incapacity as a form of government, and the more reasonable members of the party wanted to return to rational lines, Zinoviev remained obdurate. He opposed the new economic policy and everything that tended toward constructive reason and progress. He could see nothing but ruin and revolution, confiscation and repression, and, preaching those things in season and out, he became a nuisance to his associates.

Zinoviev met his first decisive defeat in the congress of the Russian communist party last December. There he came into conflict with Stalin—Lenin's man of steel—and was overridden. His humiliation now becomes more complete with his removal from the political bureau. The communist's chief prophet of destruction is, therefore little more than an ordinary member of the party, and under discipline.

UP STAGE, OFF STAGE

(The filing clerk is spending a pleasant half-hour telephoning to her "girl friend.")

"Hello, good-lookin', how're they comin'?

"Just perfectly grand. Why, say, kid, lookit. I'm so well all the time they don't nobody ever give me no—you know—sympathy or anything, see? That's how swell I feel, see?

"Sure, say sweetheart, listen. You remember me tellin' you about the big boss down to our place—how swell he is and how he high-hats everybody and everything see?

"Sure. He's a perfect gen-lemun in every way, but it's like this, see? He's so upstage that when he wants sumpin' outa the files he tells his sekertary to tell the office kid to tell me to dig it out, see, and then we work it backwards the other way—me to the office kid, office kid to the sekertary, seckertary to the boss, see? Wouldn't it make a person laugh? I'll say it would.

"Well, say, kid, listen. If ever he'd know what I know about him! Say! Since the other night I'm wise to why he does like he does, see? It's because he don't never get a look-in at home. That's why. I'll tell the long-eared world it is.

"Say, you'll die, kid, when I tell you. It was like this, see? The other night after me and you had been to the movie and I was goin' home on the L who should come into the car I was sittin' in but him and his—you know—wife and everything and another guy and his dame, see? Say, gee, I pretty near fell off a tree when I seen 'em.

"Say, kid, wake up. How do I know why they was on the L? Maybe all their autos was on the blink and all their shoffers was high-jackin' and all the taxis was busted. I don't know how they got there. But anyway here was the four of 'em and they sits right down in back of me, see?

"Well, say kid, listen. I sure did draw an earful. Say! It was like this, see? Every time the big boss would start sumpin' she'd horn in and cramp his style, see? Maybe he'd start in to say sumpin' like 'You'd oughta been along with us when we was to the opera Thursday night'—or sumpin' like that, and then the dame'd turn 'round to the other dame and she'd say 'Ain't it comical,' she'd say, 'how men folks gets things balled up?' she'd say, kinda laughin'—only it maybe she didn't say just them words it was what she meant to say all right, see?—'we wasn't to the opera Thursday night no more'n nothin',' she'd say." 'It was Friday night,' she'd say. And then she'd turn 'round to the big boss and she'd say 'Pardon me, John,' like he was the governor, 'it was Friday night we was to the opera. What was it you was goin to say?' Then maybe he'd get in a coupla more words before she'd horn in again. Honest, kid, it was a scream. Believe me, he was goin' good when he got in more'n a coupla words.

"Sure, he took it layin' down. He never got to the end of nothin'. Every time he'd start in to tell where they was some time or what they was doin when they was there, she'd turn 'round to the other guy or the dame and she'd tell 'em how John was all wrong like he was most of the time and then she'd give John a chance at another start. But did he ever get anywheres? He did not. Honest, kid, he'd go right to where she told him every time, see? She never let him even make a punt, leave alone a touchdown. And then when it come to about the 11th round he'd just go lay down and leave her finish it up.

"Say, it was a scream. I bet if they'd rode on to Evingston I'd a went along, too, for fear I'd miss sumpin'. But they didn't. They got off ahead of me, and the last thing I heard the dame say was when she says to the other dame 'I just bet'—only maybe she didn't say bet, but that's what she meant all right—'we're gettin' off at the wrong station. I'll ask the guard,' she says. 'I don't never put no confidence in John about those sort of things,' she says, 'because he's always gettin' things mixed,' she says.

"Say kid, it was better'n a movie, see? I pretty near died laughin' all the way home."—Chicago News.

IN DAY'S NEWS

LEON

Nearly a 1,000 people were reported drowned when a dam broke and a wall of water descended upon Leon, fifth city of Mexico. President Calles has sent a relief train to aid the sufferers.

"Blotting out of the center of Leon is a serious catastrophy to Mexico," says a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C. "Comparatively it is a greater disaster than the Johnstown or Dayton floods, because Leon is one of the most important manufacturing centers of Mexico.

"Leon's extensive tanneries, cotton and woolen mills, and other manufacturies were close to the mountain stream which runs through the town. Gomez, the river is called, and when its waters broke loose it sent a flood through the heart of what has been called, 'the happiest and busiest city of Mexico.' Into the wash of the flood the workmen's houses of adobe each dissolved like lumps of sugar in hot tea.

"Citizens of this industrial city cannot be held to account for not guarding against a menace. After Leon had been swept, in 1833, by a similar flood which drowned 200 people, retaining walls and dikes more than a mile in length were built to protect the city. But apparently these walls could not cope with the rush of water.

"Leon, full name Leon de los Aldamas, is on the main line of the railroad from Mexico City to El Paso, in the westernmost corner of Texas, and has a population of 58,000. It is 230 miles northwest of Mexico City, and therefore lies in the famous Mexican highlands where altitude has denied the rights of latitude. A region that ought to be steamingly tropical or a hot desert has been elevated to a temperate zone climate. It is not uncommon to see barely being sown in one field while it is being reaped in the next.

"Leon lies in such a fertile valley that agriculture holds its own easily against the competing demands of mining and manufacturing. Irrigation, however, is at once necessary and picturesque. The fertile valley round about is dotted with small reservoirs mirroring the clear blue skies.

"Citizens of Leon are proud of its industry. 'We are not rich,' they tell travelers, 'but we are workers.' They are proud of La Hormiga (The Ant), the largest tannery in Leon and presumably in Mexico. They grow enthusiastic over the cotton and woolen and silk mills using modern New England machinery. Yet large smoke-stacked factories are not to be seen, for two reasons. First, that electric power is the free gift of mountain streams and second, much of the manufacturing is done in the home. The bridles and saddles for which Mexico is famous are made largely at Leon. Their beauty lies in the tooling, the embroidery and the intricate silver ornaments. This is a task for the craftsman and like the craftsman of the middle ages, he works in Leon at his home.

"Names of the garments made in Leon are new to the average American. Different fashions reign so there is the serape, the robozo, the manta, and the poncho. The robozo is the peon woman's equivalent of the expensive mantilla of the upper classes. The manta, is the white cotton garment worn by laborers everywhere. The poncho and serape are woolen shawls which serve as a overcoat, blanket or raincoat as the need arises.

"A belle of Leon is very particular that her father shall live somewhere on Leon's street car line. It isn't that she is concerned that her father have easy transportation back and forth to work. It isn't that she worries about bringing the family supplies home from market. Street cars in Leon are vehicles of romance. Despite the Hollywood movies the senor does not come on a prancing mustang to his senorita in this corner of Mexico. He comes by street car.

"Wooing is called 'playing the bear' in Mexico. Once a young blood of most Mexican towns has fixed his fancy on a girl he stands long hours before her house. Sometimes he follows her as she promenades, but at a respectful distance. If his attentions are encouraged he receives an invitation to call with the family present during the session. But in Leon the belles and beaux begin differently. The street car line in the city makes a loop. The beaux, therefore, find it expedient to board a street car and ride past the houses of their beloved. Not once but again and again and round and round. And as the car rolls along each watches his especial house for a signal. For the girls, of course, the custom introduces a delightful element of expectancy. One never knows just when the street car will round the corner. One never knows whether the 'bear' will be on that car. For the wooers of Leon it has this additional advantage, they get to see all the girls on the circuit."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Samuel M. Shortridge, who reaches his sixty-fifth milestone on life's journey today, is kept exceedingly busy just now with his campaign for renomination to the United States senate, where he sits as the junior representative of the state of California. Mr. Shortridge has been pretty busy throughout his sixty-five years. In fact, the youthful heroes of Horatio Alger had nothing on the California senator when it came to their climb toward fame and fortune. Left an orphan almost in infancy, he struck out for himself when a mere boy and obtained his education by hard knocks. In Oregon he held his first public office, which was that of a school janitor. In San Jose he became the village lamplighter. In Nevada he turned gold seeker. While working as a blacksmith and teaching school he studied law. As a lawyer he finally won both fame and fortune. And he is a noted authority on the Bible and Shakespeare.

Stories That Recall Others

Both The Same

When news of the cheese clerk's engagement became known in the store there were many congratulations.

"But," said the Boss, "I understand the girl you are engaged to is a twin. How do you tell the difference between her and her sister?"

"Well," blushed the cheese clerk bashfully, "to tell the truth, I don't bother very much."

A Real Antique

A new printing office joke was born the other day in a Massachusetts town where the printing plant was being moved to new quarters after several years' stay in one building.

The movers delved down through a huge stack of papers, all sorts and sizes, the accumulation of years of the editor's "laying back for future reference."

Suddenly one rushed from the building and hailed a passerby: "Say we've found an antique, a real one, in there!" he exclaimed. "It's the original 'ordefs that Noah got when he was told to embark on the ark!"

When a Lobster Can't Pinch

Where'er you go, you'll find it true,
The one you fear is fearful, too.
—Old Mother Nature.

When Barker the Seal advised Reddy Fox that if he wanted to get a lobster at its best to eat, to get it when it had no shell, Reddy promptly thought that Barker was making fun of him. "Say that again," said he. Barker said it again. Reddy looked down at the lobster at his feet. If ever there was anybody wholly protected it was that lobster.

"When does a lobster have no shell?" inquired Reddy.

"When he has outgrown his old one and is waiting for a new one to harden," replied Barker.

"What becomes of his old one?" inquired Reddy.

"Oh, he leaves it kicking around, said Barker carelessly.

Reddy looked at the lobster's big claws. Then he looked over at Barker.

"When does a lobster have no shell?" inquired Reddy

"What, what about them?" he inquired.

"Do you expect me to believe that anybody with big hard-shelled claws like those changes his shell?" demanded Reddy.

Barker laughed. "It doesn't make the least teeny weeny bit of difference to me, Brother Fox, whether you believe it or not. I'm just telling you something that is so, and you're not believing it won't make the least bit of difference to the next lobster that wants to change his shell. Will you please to tell me, Brother Fox, how you think a lobster could grow without getting rid of his old shell every so often, and getting a new one?"

It was too much for Reddy. The more he thought it over, the more clear it became that a lobster inside a hard shell couldn't grow any more than to fill that shell out. But it was just as hard for him to see how it was possible for a lobster to get out of his shell. "Have you ever seen a lobster out of his shell?" he asked.

Barker smacked his lips. "I should say I have," said he. "Just talking about it makes me hungry. I have a notion to look around under the seaweed around these rocks and see if I can find one right now."

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute!" cried Reddy. "If you please, how does a lobster get out of his shell?"

"Oh, he does it easily enough," replied Barker carelessly. "Some of those joints become soft and he draws those claws back through them. Then the shell cracks in certain places and he draws himself out. Then he hides. You see, there are a lot of fish that are tickled to death to find Big Claw out of his shell, not to mention some of the rest of us. He can't protect himself at all then. He has claws, but he can't pinch. Old Big Claw just lies low until he gets a new shell. Then, if he is any wise at all, he doesn't care much who finds him."

"How long is it after he leaves his old shell before he can safely move about and come out of hiding?" inquired Reddy.

"Oh, about a week," replied Barker. "It only takes about that long for his new shell to harden."

"Can he pinch!" exclaimed Barker. "Can he pinch! Well, just let a good big lobster get hold of one of your paws in one of his claws and see what you think about pinching."

(Copywright, 1926, by T. W. Burgess)

HOW WOULD YOU GO

From Norwich to Putnam Wolf Den

Here is a delightful afternoon trip for a person living in Norwich, affording a round trip of about 75 miles, carrying the party through nearly a dozen towns in eastern Connecticut and through country which has scenery to be compared with the best in New England.

Leaving Norwich the driver could proceed by Route No. 12 through Jewett City and Plainfield to Central Village and Danielson, and Putnam, then turn west in Putnam to Route No. 101 continuing along this road for about seven miles to Pomfret station where a left turn carries one into the state park at the Putnam Wolf Den.

Returning home if one desires to make a trip through different towns than were passed through on the trip from Norwich, a left turn on Route No. 101 brings the car into Phoenixville. Then turn left again and continue on Route No. 101 through Chaplin and North Windham into Willimantic, then by Route No. 32 to Norwich.

On the return the driver strikes the section between Norwich and Willimantic which is now being laid W cement. One way traffic prevails here for some distance but travel is fairly good. However one could drive around through Lebanon and into Yantic, a distance of 10 miles, which includes the beautiful scenery of Lebanon heights.

Three men held up the women clerks in the offices of the Hoefler Ice Cream company in Buffalo, N. Y., and escaped with a cash box containing $3,500. The bandits overlooked more than $6,000 in an unlocked safe in the same room where the cash box was kept.

Science Finds Way to Make Pale Thin Children Plump and Healthy Quickly

New Form of Natural Food Makes Them Strong and Sturdy.

Food in youth is the most important thing. Without proper nourishment the foundation for health in after years cannot be built.

Unless children get a plentiful supply of the vital food factors such as vitamins and organic plant salts of iron, lime and phosphorous, they will not have strong bone and sound teeth.

When your children are thin, pale and listless, you can lay it to the fact that they are not getting from their daily food a sufficient quantity of these important elements of life.

You must help Nature build them up by supplying the deficiency. Everybody knows that the best natural way to give children all these vital elements is to give them good old Cod Liver Extract. But because of its nasty fishy taste and odor, many young, weakened stomachs cannot stand it.

Now, however, all disadvantage has been removed by a big advance of Science. A way has been found to concentrate all the vital elements of Cod Livers into pleasant, easy-to-take tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They are a real food help. They quickly build up frail, puny bodies and bring back the bloom of health to white, sunken cheeks.

In fact, the results from the use of McCoy's Tablets have been so remarkable in literally thousands of cases, they are now sold by Lee & Osgood Co. or your favorite druggist anywhere with a specific guarantee to add at least 5 pounds of healthy flesh after 30 days' use or your money will be instantly refunded.

Protect your child's health, fortify his strength for future years. Give him the priceless gift of sound teeth throughout life by beginning treatment with McCoy's Tablets today. 60 for 60 cents.

Acid Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"

Better than Soda

Hereafter, instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.

MRS. ANNIE L. STEECE IS FOUND DEAD IN BED

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 2—Mrs. Annie Lanphere Steece, 80, was found dead in her room at the Crocker house this morning, death coming to her while she slept and from heart disease. Mrs. Steece was Ann Amelia Chapel. She was the daughter of E. Chapel, a shoemaker, or cobbler, whose place of business was on Broad street, midway between Hempstead and Brainard Sts. She married Amos Lanphere, who was the master of a coastwise schooner, one of the largest that sailed through the Sound and to the eastward of this port in the days when much of the commerce and coal was carried in sailing vessels. Capt. Lanphere left her considerable money, and she had added to her competence by the sale of diamonds and jewelry, for she became a dealer in gems and jewelry as a pastime. She sold at her home on Main street, nearly opposite Church. Then she went to California and there married a second time, her husband, being, it is understood about 30 years her junior. That marriage did not turn out to be all that was expected by the wife and she returned to New London. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Mac Moran, widow of an engineer on the New London Northern railroad. Her younger sister, Tunie, died some years ago. Mrs. Steece during the latter years of her life in New London she was engaged in the sale of diamonds, and was known as "Diamond" Lanphere. She was a woman inclined to fashion and style and was a noticeable figure in this city because of that fact.

The mayor said the city council had no authority to order the setting aside of a holiday, but he believed the merchants and others would be glad to decorate with flags and bunting to give the city a holiday appearance. The application of the assistant chief was tabled for council consideration.

PETITION ASKS CITY MEETING FOR APPROPRIATION FOR WEST THAMES ST.

At the August meeting of the court of common council held Monday evening and presided over by senior alderman, Henry Gebrath, in the absence, through sickness, of Mayor Milo R. Waters, a petition was received from over 200 residents of Norwich, especially those in Thamesville, asking that a special city meeting be called for the purpose of voting money sufficient to lay cement on West Thames street on that section of the street, inside and outside the trolley tracks of the Connecticut company, making West Thames street entirely cement construction.

Action by the council on this petition was that it be referred to Mayor Waters for the issuing of a call for the special city meeting. The council also took similar action on a petition from over 50 residents of the city, living between the Point Saloon, so called, and the city line in Greeneville, that police protection be given this section of the city.

A petition for lights on Hammond street was referred to the police committee with power.

A letter was read from Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton, chief of the Norwich fire department, to whom was referred the petition of the Central Vermont railroad concerning the dangerous condition of a building on Sherman street near Lafayette street, abutting railroad property. Fire Marshal Stanton in his report to the council stated that the building was that formerly owned and used for housing Engine company No. 3. He caused the building to be inspected and it was found that the building was about 60 years old, that the walls were plumb and true, but cracked in several places and that pointing up the building would be the only thing necessary. The building is considered safe, some of the cracks having been there for the past 40 years. He further stated that the attention of the owner had been called to the condition of the building and recommendations made for pointing it up. The council then voted that a report or acceptance of the report of the fire marshal, with his statement, be forwarded to the proper officials of the Central Vermont railroad.

The council then approved the recommendations of the board of gas and electric commissioners, through Jeremiah A. Desmond, secretary, for the purchase of land and water rights of the Atlantic Carton company, and further rights of use of water from the Norwich Water Power company, as related in another article in this issue.

The council adopted resolutions accepting deeds and rights and privileges from Frank Cranska of Laurel Hill avenue, for the construction and maintenance of a drain through property bounding Laurel Hill avenue; also one from the Chelsea Savings bank, giving the city the right to prior claims on the rights being purchased of Mr. Cranska, as though the deed to the city was dated earlier than the deed held under a mortgage ty them. Considerations of $1 each to Mr. Cranska and the Chelsea Savings bank are to be paid by the city treasurer for the deeds.

Reports were then heard and the council voted that they take their usual courses. These included the annual report of the recreation commission, for publishing in the council journal.

One claim was received, that of Dr. C. G. Thompson, for a bill of $7.72 for repair charge for a broken spring caused to his automobile while entering Broad street from Boswell avenue. This was referred to the finance committee and corporation counsel.

The council adopted resolutions for the payment of several claims for damages against the city due to falls and injuries sustained by local people due to poor sidewalk conditions. These claims included one of $300 to Attorney C. L. Stewart for his client; one to Earl L. Rollinson of $100 for full settlement of claim for a fall on Main street and one to Charles A. Dowsett for $35 for injuries sustained in a fall on Cliff street.

The council also voted to refund the sum of $20.40 to William A. Fleming on the tax list of 1925, his exemption being that of a soldier, the tax having been levied from the town list which showed the property as owned by G. I. Wheeler.

On recommendation of Alderman Sweeney the council voted that Joseph Wojtkiewicz be named as a supernumerary officer of the police department.

It was also voted that Theodore Beckwith and William Coulkins be named special constables.

The usual bills were then read and took their regular course. The bills were as follows: Cemeteries $1527.22, finance $3455.69, fire $10,772.85, police $6161.76, street lighting $770.14, recreation commission $1893.94, parks $758.09, public works $26,595.44; deep river reservoir $117,081.35, water $5701.57, gas and electric $31,919.13.

NATIVES OF GREENEVILLE WHO HAVE DIED RECENTLY

Mrs. Johnson, who was the wife of Attorney Johnson of Flint, Mich., was accustomed to spend her winters in Florida and died there May 26th.

James McKenzie, who died suddenly at his residence at Carleton Hills, N. J., was also a native of Greeneville who went out into the world and made a fine success. A year ago in June, he came to Norwich from his summer home at Seabright, N. J., aboard his yacht, gathering a company of old-time friends to go with him on a day's cruise out into the sound. His schoolmates were his guests and a special guest of honor was his teacher, Miss Sarah A. Armstrong. At noon there was a course dinner aboard the yacht and on returning to Norwich in the evening the company of 13 were guests of Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, who were registered at the Wauregan during their stay in Norwich. Mr. McKenzie was in the 50's and his sudden death caused sorrow to many friends and relatives who had watched his successful business career with such interest.

John H. Ryan

Funeral services for John H. Ryan were held Monday morning at 9 o'clock from his late home in Lebanon. Requiem mass was celebrated in St. John's church, Fitchville, at 10 o'clock by Rev. Phillip L. Mooney. Miss Mary Bentley was at the organ during the service and at the offertory Mrs. Julia Authier sang Pie Jesu. For the waiting hymn Mrs. Authier sang Beautiful Land on High and as the recessional she sang Ngaras, My God, to Thee.

There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the service, many coming from Waldon and Hudson, Mass., Geary, Ind., New York city, Manchester, N. Y., Norwich, New London, Hartford and Colchester. The beautiful floral pieces were testimonials to the love and esteem in which Mr. Ryan had been held by all who knew him.

Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery, Norwich, where the committal service was read by Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May. The bearers were John E. Fitzgerald, William Fitzgerald, Michael Sullivan, James Mahoney, James Duffy and Teodel Ethier. Arrangements were in charge of Hourigan Bros. of Norwich.

SMALL CHILD HIT BY TROLLEY CAR

Shortly after 7 o'clock Monday evening Shirley Teft, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Teft, was knocked down by a one-man trolley car on Laurel Hill and miraculously escaped death. The child darted from the sidewalk directly in the path of the trolley car.

Motorman William Murphy was unable to stop the car before it struck the child. The injured child was rushed to the W. W. Backus hospital by automobile where it was found that her injuries consisted of a cut which required four stitches and an injured left arm.

The child has been staying with Mrs. George F. Fairbanks, 225 Laurel Hill avenue and the accident happened in front of the house.

LOCAL MAN FINED $200 AND COSTS IN COURT

Motor vehicle cases made up a major portion of the cases before the city court Monday morning, several heavy fines being given by Judge Arthur P. Libby. Richard Schneider of 54 Bentley avenue, found guilty on the charge of operating while under the influence of liquor paid a fine of $200 and costs, a total of $212.20 and will lose his license for one year.

Schneider was arrested Saturday night on Mt. Pleasant street after his car had run into a telephone pole. Officers making the arrest testified to the accused being intoxicated, while Schneider testified that he had taken only a drink of home brew.

Anthony Banas and Frank Dembinski of Norwich and Cornelius and William Daley of Everett, Mass., the latter two traveling with the California Show carnival were fined $5 and costs each when found guilty of the charge of breach of the peace.

The four were arrested Saturday night at the Duwell field when a fight started in front of the stand run by William Daley, when it was alleged that Banas demanded the right to keep on winning canes. Daley refused and the argument started, leading to a free for all fight, which was stopped when officers placed the four men under arrest.

Harold Brewer of Norwich, who claims New York as his residence, paid $7 fine for breach of the peace. He was arrested Saturday night at Hilltop dance hall when he used language too abusive for the management to stand.

Hans Krueger of Norwich paid $25 and costs for operating a motor vehicle without proper registration. His bill was $36.50. The charge of operating without lights was nolled.

Gasoline 1/4c a Gal

Chicago Scientist Discovers Miracle That Gives 1,250 Gallons of Gasoline 1/4c a Gallon.

Try It Free

CHICAGO, ILL.—The automobile world is agog over the amazing results of the strange new gasoline discovery made by the Chicago scientist, L. Forgave. It is an entirely new idea. Nothing ever like it. It is not a mechanical contraption, carburetor device or dope to put in gasoline. Its action is astonishing. Exhaustive tests proved that it is guaranteed to give 1,250 gallons of gasoline for only 1/4c a gallon every 50,000 miles the car runs. It is named Motor-Mystery and is also guaranteed to instantly remove and permanently prevent carbon and to increase power, pep and speed of any car. One of its strangest features is the fact that it is used only once every 50,000 miles. It costs practically nothing and saves over $200 yearly.

A straight salary of $100 weekly with commission and a Free Dodge car are guaranteed to agents everywhere to introduce it quickly. A Free Trial and agent's new plan will be sent without obligation to anyone who writes quickly to L. Forgrave, Director, M.M. Laboratories, 2300 S. Clark St., Dept. 416, Chicago, Ill.

Krueger was arrested on Boswell avenue Saturday night by Officer Coburn. Krueger had no registration for the car, the number plates on his Chevrolet being those formerly used on the Ford he owned.

Four men and one woman indulged in sprees over the week end and as a result appeared before Judge Libby. They were each fined $5 and costs. A Preston man paid $10 and costs for his drunk.

NEW HIGH RECORD FOR GENERAL MOTORS CORP.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(By The A. P.)—Frenzied trading in stock of the General Motors Corporation, which was whirled up nearly 12 points to a new high record around $201 a share, proved a sensation in today's strong stock market.

Following last week's rise of more than 13 points, based on unprecented half year earnings, a frantic scramble to buy the shares developed upon the publication by a financial news ticker of a statement, credited to Thomas Cochran, a partner of J. P. Morgan & Co., that the recent advance had been justified by earnings and prospects and predicting still higher prices for the stock.

The Morgan offices refused to vouch for the statement, which purported to be an interview with Mr. Cochran upon his departure for Europe last Saturday.

In view of the usual conservatism of the General Motors bankers, Wall street was greatly surprised by some of the remarks credited to Mr. Cochran, which contained the statement that "General Motors, with earnings running at the present rate, is cheap at this price, and it should and will sell at least 100 points higher."

JONES HOLDS EAST ENDS TO NO SCORE WHILE TEAMMATES POUND OUT FOUR RUNS

After a week's layoff, the Twilight league got under way again Monday evening, when Yantic shut out the East Ends 4 to 0.

As a result of their victory, Yantic moved up into second place in the league standing with four victories and two defeats, while the East Ends dropped to third place with four victories and three losses.

The game was exceptionally well-played and held the interest of the crowd throughout. A feature of the game was that none of the three pitchers who worked, allowed any walks or hit batsmen.

Gil Jones was in the box for Yantic and pitched one of his best games. He allowed the heavy-hitting East Ends but six scattered hits, and fanned seven. The East Ends had several chances to push over a run but Jones was invincible in the pinches and turned them back without a score.

Files who started to pitch for the losers was hit hard from the very start, and retired in the second in favor of Earl Papineau. Yantic made seven of their eight hits off Files and all their runs. Papineau pitched fine ball for the remainder of the contest but the damage had already been done.

Yantic started off in the first inning with one run. Normandin led off with a double to center, went to third while Hoxie grounded to second and scored on Jerry Lamphere's double off Mills glove.

In the next inning, Yantic continued their attack on Files with five more hits, and three runs. Sweet singled to right as a starter, and went to second on Hamel's one base hit to center. McCall likewise singled t ocenter, Sweet scored, and Hamel went to third. McCall took second on the throw to the plate to catch Sweet. H. Lamphere flied out to left, Hamel scoring from third after the catch. McCall, tried to make third on the play but was out Papineau to Mills. Normandin hit a fast grounder over second which went on out past Moore to deep center, and by fast running stretched the hit for a homer. Normandin's hit was the second home run made in this year's league. Moore being responsible for the other. Hoxie singled to right, but J. Lamphere closed the inning with a grounder to Gaudette.

The East Ends had several chances to score but lacked the necessary punch. In the fourth with one out Coughlin singled, and Moore doubled, but Allard fanned and Papineau grounded to Sweet, retiring the side. In the following inning, the East Siders filled the bases with none out but could not score. Basford led off with a single through short, and went to second on Files hit through the same place. Gaudette hit a fly to center which McCall dropped, and the bases were filled Jones then tightened and pitched some great ball. He struck out Morin, and forced Mills to raise an easy pop fly to Hamel, while Tim Coughlin made the last out with a grounder to Normandin.

Normandin featured with the stick, collecting two doubles and a home run out of three trys. Dinty Moore contributed another one of his numerous circus catches when he ran to deep center for Lamphere's long fly in the fourth.

TAFTVILLE A. A. VS. ST. JOSEPH TONIGHT AT DUWELL FIELD

Owing to a misunderstanding it was announced earlier in the week that the game between Taftville A. A. and St. Joseph would be played at Taftville this evening, but this has been changed and the game will be played on the Duwell field. Taftville is out to even up the series, St. Joseph having won the first game at Taftville a week ago. The Saints are equally as determined to clean up the series with a win in the encounter this evening. Lefty Buckland will probably pitch for the Taftville A. A. and Stanley will be on the mound for the Saints.

HAS ANYBODY FOUND MONDI NORMANDIN'S BASEBALL GLOVE?

After proving to be the star of the Yantic victory over the East Ends on Monday evening Mondi Normandin suffered a severe setback when he lost his pet fielder's glovee. Mondi left the glove on the running-board of his car and forgot it when he drove away the glove probably shaking off the running-board as he drove along. Mondi would rather lose an arm or a leg rather than his glove so if anyone has found the glove they will be doing Normandi a great favor by leaving it at the Bulletin office.

RAYMOND'S COLTS SHUT OUT DESSERT'S BRAVES

Raymond's Colts shut out Dessert's Braves last Friday evening 3-0. It was a pitchers' battle between Burns and Dessert with Burns having the edge on Dessert allowing but one hit, while Dessert was touched for three hits.

A base on balls, sacrifice hit and two singles in the first inning accounted for the Colt's two tallies. Next Thursday evening the Colts will cross bats with the Giants the league leaders. The score:

JUNIOR TWILIGHT LEAGUE

Bearcats vs. G. and E. Tonight

The Bearcats and Gas and Electric nines will clash this evening at the Academy campus in a Jr. Twi league game. This game was scheduled to be played on last Friday but was postponed. Dudek or Finn will probably pitch for the league leading Bearcats while Lamory will without doubt be behind the bat. Woodmansee will probably pitch for the Gas and Electric and Brumme will probably catch. This game is scheduled to start at 6.30 p. m. sharp.

The large loving cup, which is to be donated to the winner in the Jr. Twi league is now on display at Jack's Sport Shop on Ferry street. The league schedule in this league will be completed in about two week's time and from present indications the Bearcats look like sure winners.

The Wicked Nine Win

The Wicked Nine won an easy victory over the Wyoming Wildcats Saturday afternoon at the Slater diamond by the score of 9 to 2. S. Raymond pitched a good game, only allowing three scattered hits and Suzdlo, did the catching. The Wyoming Wildcats will play the Wicked Nine a return game Saturday at 3 o'clock on the J. P. Martin ground.

HOW TO BECOME A GOOD WOMAN GOLFER TOLD BY WOMAN CHAMPS

EASTERN POINT, Conn., Aug. 2—(AP)—Women wishing to be good golfers will do well to contrive to be several other things too, in the opinion of half a dozen of this country's feminine title holders, who were leading contestants for the Griswold trophy, won by Glenna Collett for the fifth time at Shenecossett.

"Don't let golf monopolize your life," advised Miss Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., who although only 19 years old, is metropolitan champion, and made Miss Collett play spectacular golf to win the final round at the Shenecossett meet.

"If you love the game and want to be a tournament player, keep an interest in other sports, and other activities," continued Miss Orcutt, who swims, rides, and plays—basketball and baseball at New York university, where she is a sophomore.

"Tournament tennis decidedly helped my tourpament golf," said Miss Helen Payson, champion product of the Portland, Me., Country club, who during the three years since she was graduated from Smith college, "took up golf" to reduce, and has managed to defeat both Miss Collett and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd as well as reach the semi-finals and finals in a number of important meets. "Other sports have a good place in balancing the athletic development of a woman golfer.

"Men make golf a business—women shouldn't," said Mrs. J. S. Cassriel of Chicago, Ill., state champion, and semi-finalist in the tournament here. "Provided it is not allowed to absorb too much of a woman's time, I consider golf a great boon in my family life. It makes a woman more companionable to her husband, makes her a better sport, better tempered, and more able to understand his outdoor enthusiasm—whichever it is.

"Ford isn't in it with golf in keeping families together," added Miss Helen Coffee, former New Hampshire state champion, "It teaches women, among other things, to take a good trimming."

Asked what particular advice they would give to woman golfers anxious to improve their game, the feminine champions offered suggestions covering everything from practice shots to match play demeanor.

Work out a good, reliable short game, semed to be the most important point atressed in the advice of each. "You don't pay on the drive, but on the sinking," said Mrs. Cassriel, holding that "putting is the secret of the best woman's game of golf." And another move I would recommend to all women golfers is practicing at getting out of the rough with irons. Men are much better at recovery shots than women."

"In my opinion many women golfers of about second rank would do well to stop trying to lengthen their drives and concentrate on their approaches and putting," said Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, former national and British titleholder.

"Women are apt to overawing or to press for distance," said Miss Marie Jenney, former metropiltan champion. "Women should give up trying to get power in their drives, and play a cagey game." Miss Coffey summed up the question.

On the question of nervousness as it affects a woman's game, the stars were divided. "I play better when I'm keyed up," said Miss Payson.

"Slow down every motion," counseled Mrs. F. E. DuBois, a semi-finalist. "Walk slower, swing slower, putt slower, and it is bound to steady down the nerves."

"I never feel nervous except possibly on the last stroke of a crucial hole," said Miss Orcutt.

The services were conducted by officers of Brainard lodge of which Charles F. Potter is master and Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth chaplain. The bearers were Richard W. Johns, P. LeRoy Harwood, Peter F. Huber, Frederick A. Beebe, Frederick W. Edgarton, and George H. Morris. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery and officers of Palestine commandery acted as an escort of the body to its final resting place.

BENJ. W. LINICUS FALLS UNCONSCIOUS TO SIDEWALK

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 3—Benjamin W. Linicus, 71, of 622 Bank street for 19 years employed by the city of New London as building inspector, is in a critical condition at Lawrence hospital suffering from shock and it is feared that he will survive but a day or two. Mr. Linicus was stricken last night. He had been at the quarters of Niagara Engine company, of which he is a member and had decided to go to his home when he became ill. He was walking along Bank street between Lane Avenue and Howard street, after having refused to ride home in an automobile, when he collapsed, falling unconscious to the sidewalk. Pedestrians assisted Mr. Linicus into an automobile and he was taken back to the engine house where he was attended by a physician, after which, he was admitted to the hospital. Mr. Linicus' entire left side and throat are affected and he has been unconscious since being admitted to the institution.

NATHAN HALE YARD YIELDS HUMAN SKELETON

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 2—A human skeleton was unearthed this morning by workmen on the grounds of the Nathan Hale Grammar school, Williams and Waller streets and Lincoln avenue. The skeleton fell apart when handled and it could not be determined whether it was that of a male or female. The skeleton is undoubtedly that of a body that was buried on the land many years ago when it was used as a burial place. This morning when workmen in making an excavation there had dug to a depth of about two and one-half feet they came upon the human bones. The matter was turned over to Health Officer Benjamin N. Pennell, who caused a deeper excavation to be made and the skeleton was again buried.

Sailors figured prominently in the police court this morning. Two of them were charged with tampering with the affections of women. Louis Donner, a chief petty officer, charged that a shipmate had stolen from him the affections of Mrs. Donner. So he loaded up and went to her home on Mercer street and started something. Mrs. Donner has not lived with her husband of late so that when he became abusive to her she asked for his arrest. Donner pleaded guilty as charged and told the story of what led to the trouble. He said he was wrong in abusing his wife, but he had great provocation. Judge Prince warned him that there was a way for him to proceed instead of creating a breach of the peace and then imposed a jail term of 30 days, the execution of which he suspended.

Charles Green, a sailor in the service of the government, was accused of having attacked Salvatore Puretta with a blackjack. A woman, the wife of Puretta, was alleged to be the cause of this encounter also. Salvatore admitted that he was not living with his wife and charged that she and Green were what he called "stuck" on each other. He said they were in the company of each other a great deal of the time and that they were so concerned when Green used a blackjack upon him. The trouble occurred at the home of a cousin of Puretta, on Church street, last week. Green said that Puretta asked him to go from the living apartment of Mrs. Fisher, her cousin, to a stairway and that when he conformed to the request Puretta attacked him. Green declared that he pushed him with both hands and that Puretta fell down the stairway. Puretta denied this and represented that Green attacked him from behind with what he assumed to be a blackjack. The court considered the testimony too conflicting, so suspended judgment.

A couple of Coast Guardsmen reached here from New Bedford Sunday night with orders to report at the state pier this morning at 8 o'clock. They had time on their hands, so they decided to ramble about the town. They got into the southern section of the city and there became anxious as to what the time of night was. They had no watch and decided to refer to the clock of some automobile for their information, supposing they said that automobiles in general carried clocks. They visited three machines without getting any wiser as to time than they were when they sought information. Policeman Edward Riordan observed the sailors going up to cars that were parked and supposed the sailors intended to do what so many others have done, take the car for a ride. They did not attempt to do this however, so the officer took them into custody for tampering with machines in the highway. Judge Prince took into consideration the fact that the sailors were tardy in reporting at their station and suspended judgment against them. The accused are Manuel Mello and Manuel Panchico.

Nina Bryan, with a tenor voice said she was not guilty when given a hearing in the police court this morning, charged with keeping a house of disreputable character in the rear of 10 John street. She made the best defense she could and she had the assistance of William F. Good, who was bad in this case; Josh Hubbard, so black he could hardly be seen in a lighted room; William Driscoll, a white man, Mary King, also colored, and one Herriot, no relative of the French premier. All told a story of social life in the former red light district, but their stories did not avert judgment of guilty, for all but Nina were frequenters of the place and they were fined as such. Nina was ordered to pay $25 and the costs of trial while her society friends were taxed $5 each, with the attending costs. The party had had home brew anyway and perhaps something of greater alcoholic content, for Mary seemed proud of the fact she had contracted, she said by order of the doctor, of taking a drink or two every day in the year. She desired the court to understand that she proposed to continue to take that sort of medicine as long as she could get it. Mary was voluble, and requested Judge Prince to "hold on" a minute when he attempted to have her make her testimony limited to what occurred last night, when she was arrested. The women declared that the police had made a mistake in molesting the people who were in No. 16 and pointed out that had the officers gone elsewhere they might have made a catch worth while. Driscoll said his home was in Groton, and Judge Prince gave him a sharp rebuke for consorting with negroes in a dive like that in which he was found. Driscoll did not wince and disclosed that he had known Nina several years. The case may bring to light others of a similar character.

There were a dozen drunks in the pen and on the benches close to it when the court session opened. They were picked up during Saturday night and Sunday, some down and out, others maudlin drunk. Only one of the bunch relied upon the Fishers Island story to escape penalty for his waywardness. Nearly all the accused were from out or town if they are to be believed in their testimony, and they were in the court for the first time. They did not tell where they obtained their liquor and it would have been useless to have made the effort on the part of the court to ascertain where the liquor came from, or who dispensed it. The accused were both old and young. One of them declared that he had $90 when he reached here while this morning he could count but $20 in his duds. That was a pretty stiff price to pay for a drunk, so he was set at liberty with suspended judgment hanging over him.

Arthur Collins had trouble with Officer Selitnitsky at Ocean Beach because he refused to heed the directions of the officer as to crossing the highway there and afterward mixed things up with the policeman, he holding that the officer had no right to strike him under any provocation, if he did not resist arrest and if he did not attack the policeman. The court heard the testimony of the accused and the accuser and then suspended judgment.

Raymond O'Brien had his first costly experience with an automobile today. He is a sailor stationed at the Coast Guard pier. Saturday he purchased a Ford sedan from a gob companion. He started in to operate the car, but had not obtained a license to do so and ran into a policeman. He admitted that he was aware that he could not run a car without a license, but that he took a chance, nevertheless. He was fined $10.

The funeral of Mary L., wife of Rev. Joseph A. Elder, was held this afternoon at 2:30 at the Huntington St. Baptist church, of which Rev. Mr. Elder is pastor. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of the Montauk Avenue Baptist church, and Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. During the services the choir sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "Oh, Paradise." The bearers were W. A. Ames, D. W. Darrow, Peter Fournier, Herbert Lewis, Frank Ames and H. L. Avery. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

An automobile driven by Adam Maccini, 9 Prospect street, Bristol, R. I., in being driven from the government pier, Water street to John street last night crashed against the gate at the John street crossing of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, the crash resulting in the smashing of the windshield and a window. Maccini reported the accident at the police station and stated that he did not see the gate because of the absence of a light on it.

Blanchard Baldwin, U. S. C. Chewink, this afternoon requested the police to assist him in locating Fred Boight, 16. Boight is described as being about 5 feet seven inches in height and weighing about 160 pounds, has brown hair and blue eyes. When Boight was last seen he was dressed in light gray trousers, blue coat and straw hat. Boight's home is at 91 Providence road, Providence, R. I.

Julia R. Lester has sold a tract of land and barn on Lester street to Hendrik Verkade.

Dr. Carl A. Williams of St. Petersburg, Fla., formerly of New London, has sold a building lot on Addison street to Bessie M. Ockford.

Letitia C. Gardner has sold a residence and large tract of land on the westerly side of Ocean avenue to William Porter.

The funeral of Michael P. Murphy, of Saybrook whose death occurred last Friday at Johns Hopkins hospital, in Baltimore, was held at 11 o'clock this morning at St. John's church, Saybrook and was attended by a large number of mourners. A mass or requiem was celebrated by Rev. James V. Hussan. The bearers were James J. Murphy and Matthew Foley of this city; John P. Kane and Jeremiah O'Connor, New Haven and Robert D Burns and Thomas J. Curran of Saybrook. The body was brought to New London for burial in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of William Laura, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Raymond O'Callahan, with Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley deacon, and Rev. Michael Reagon subdeacon. The bearers were Salvatore Santangelo, Alfred Delaporta, Louis Montanari, Joseph Santangelo, Antone Delaporta and Frank Meno. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

OCEAN BEACH LOCK-UP SUGGESTED TO COUNCIL

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Aug. 3—The city council held a short session this evening. The hot weather induced the members to discard their coats and they went about the business in hand as if they meant to dispose of it with celerity. The city manager announced that he had appointed William Gunn, Jr., inspector of buildings during the absence of Inspector Linicus, who suffered a shock Sunday and is incapacitated, with his return to duty uncertain. There were fewer applications for building and alteration permits than usual, only five being presented. All were granted. They included alterations in the Mariners Savings bank building and the construction of a cottage and a garage.

The city manager reported favorably on the application of Samuel Sellick for the removal of a tree on Jefferson avenue that is a detriment to the garage business he conducts there.

Councilor Streeter moved for the conversion of the comfort station at Ocean Beach into a sub-station or lock-up for use by the police. He called attention to the absolute need of such a station and said that the one patrol wagon the department had did not fill the bill. Manager Holt opposed the conversion of the comfort station and said that the building was in no way fitted for removal. He suggested that the city would act the part of wisdom if it desired a lock-up at the beach, to build such a structure as would be fit for the uses contemplated. The comfort station was in no way adaptable for the use it was proposed to make of it.

Councilor May favored the erection of a building that might be used for a lock-up and told of occasions when the police had sailors to deal with. He said the police were humiliated at times by the jibes of the crowd that watched the making of arrests and that often the patrol was delayed half an hour in getting to the beach. Mayor Fox called attention to the desire of the councilors to keep taxes down, and said the proposition to spend several thousand dollars at the beach was inconsistent with the economic attitude of the lower tax advocates.

Councilor May disclaimed any intention to spend the city's money needlessly, but he would not sacrifice his opinion that the lock-up was a necessity and that the building should be provided. The matter went to the city manager for investigation and report.

Councilor Scott asked that the city manager take into consideration and report upon the remodelling of the police station on North Bank street and the improvement of that building. He said it needed to be improved. The manager replied that in the sweet bye and bye the police building must be enlarged and remodelled. It was up to date when it was constructed, but there are improvements that can be made. However, he did not think the city should go to the expense this year and suggested that the matter be considered when the budget for another year was prepared.

Councilor Streeter asked whether the city was supposed to provide benches for the pavilion at the beach. He said they were needed. Manager Holt replied to this that the season was well advanced and that the matter could be taken up another year.

Councilor Streeter referred to the necessity of the police court officer attending on the prisoners' pen when he desired the court attendants to be in order for the session. He suggested that a couple of dollars be advanced, that a table and a gavel might be provided.

Mayor Fox asked if there was not some members that might suggest the expenditure of a few more thousand dollars for public buildings, or the improvement of existing ones. This brought Councilor Whiton to his feet with a renewal of the suggestion that a central garage should be provided for the motor vehicles owned by the city. This matter was also referred to the city manager for investigation and report.

An application was made for the privilege of removing a building in Harris court to another location in the court, but it was not granted. It was refered to the city manager for a report.

M. Luchansky asked the privilege of using the sidewalk at 427 Bank street for the display and sale of goods. This application also went to the city manager for report.

Robert I. Lavoie, a member of the crew of the United States Coast Guard destroyer Burrows, stationed at Boston, and Miss Elsie Estey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Estey, 12 Methodist street, were married this afternoon by Justice of the Peace Perry J. Hollandersky.

Fresh twice a day—

Dietz Bread better than ever!

A FEW years ago Mr. Dietz thought he had realized his ideal in the bread he was baking.

For it had the perfection which only years of experience, the finest ingredients and a wonderful recipe could give.

But new experience has brought him even further skill—taught him the secret of new improvements which his purchase of the Dolly Madison bakery has given him an opportunity to carry out.

Among other things, he has installed the very latest type of oven—a modern marvel of baking science. It insures a new uniformity and dependability in baking which gives added tenderness to the firm, rich loaves—greater crispness to the evenly browned crust.

This new oven makes possible two bakings a day, so that the delicious new Dietz Bread now reaches your grocer twice a day—a fine, firm loaf, so fresh and tender it fairly melts in your mouth.

GET DIETZ BREAD from your grocer today and enjoy Mr. Walter Dietz's marvelous baking skill in the best bread he has ever made. Dolly Madison Baking Corporation, Springfield, Mass.

DIETZ BREAD is made of the same quality of ingredients you would use if it were baked in your own kitchen. But the loaf has a finer texture, richer wholesomeness and flavor, because instead of just the one kind of flour you use at home, several fine flours are blended to give unvarying gluten strength and full wheat nourishment.

All ingredients must measure up to a rigid standard of quality and purity.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

"Love 'Em and Leave 'Em"—the farce comedy in "American" by George Abbott and John V. A. Weaver, will be presented at the Broadway theatre on Monday evening, August 9. It is played by an excellent cast, at top speed, with no dull moments. It abounds in piquant slang. Wise cracks fly about thick and fast, to the great amusement of understanding audiences. But they are suitable cracks and set the keynote of the play, which deals with a bunch of young people who work in "Ginsberg's Department Store" and who are putting on the annual store play. This affords plenty of opportunity for "types." There are such familiar persons as "Ma" Woodruff, a boarding housekeeper, her shiftless husband "Lem"; two sisters, Mame and Janie, who are favorites in the store; a very amusing efficiency woman, Miss Streeter; and the usual young men that appear in the various departments of a big store.

The scenes are all amusing, but the best touch is the crap game, which Mame plays old Lem, in order to win back the money her sister Janie has given him to play the races with. If you like New Yorkese, if you enjoy good wholesome fooling, if you want an evening of pure fun and no black taste in your mouth, it is recommended by all means, that you see "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em," just as played one entire season at Sam H. Harris theatre, N. Y. City. Seats go on sale Thursday.

Alexander Woollcott in the New York World, in reviewing "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em", said: Few plays have come to town so freshly, so honestly, so successfully entertaining as "Love 'Em and Leave 'Em."

Breed Theatre

Charles Ray, screen luminary, learned how to make love as they do in Paris from no less an authority than the protege of Sarah Bernhardt, in Edmund Goulding's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Paris," now playing at the Breed theatre. She is Mme. Rose Dione, for many years with Bernhardt on the French stage, and who plays the character role of "Marcelle," the French maid, in the new story, directed by Goulding from his own original tale. It is vivid drama of the Paris underworld, with Charles Ray and Joan Crawford, and a notable cast.

New Physician at Uncasville

The town of Montville is gaining a new practicing physician through the location there in the Uncasville section of Dr. Norman Rasmussen, who for two years has been interne at Grace hospital, New Haven, where he has worked with some of the best surgeons in that city. Dr. Rasmussen is a native of Norwich, a graduate of Norwich Free Academy and took his medical course at Tufts where he graduated with honors.

POETRY

Young Soldiers

Oh, were you ne'er a schoolboy,
And did you never train,
And feel that swelling in the heart
You ne'er can feel again;
Didst ever meet, far down the street,
With plumes and banners gay,
While the rattle of the kettle-drum
Played your march, march away?

It seems to me but yesterday,
Nor scarce so long ago,
Since all our school their muskets took
To charge the fearful foe.
Our muskets were of cedar wood,
With ramrod bright and new,
With bayonet forever set,
And painted barrel too.

We charge upon a flock of geese
And put them all to flight,
Except one study gander
That thought to show us fight.
But, ah! we knew a thing or two;
Our captain wheeled the van;
We routed him, we scouted him,
Nor lost a single man.

Our captain was as brave a lad
As e'er commission bore,
All brightly shone his new tin sword,
A paper cap he wore;
He led us up the hillside steep,
Against the western wind,
While the cockerel plume that decked his head
Streamed bravely out behind.

We shouldered arms, we carried arms,
We charged with bayonet,
And woe unto the mullen stalk
That in our course we met.
At two o'clock the roll was called,
And till the close of day,
With fearless hearts, through tired limbs
We fought the mimic fray,
Till the supper bell, from out the dell,
Bade us march, march away.

—Anonymous.

Knowledge

There is a peace these summer days
That fills my heart—
My gypsy blood is quieted,
I feel no start

At all the distant sounds, whose cries
Have maddened me
In spring. There is no longer chaos
In eternity.

Of wood and silent hill and stream
And mating blessed.
Is it because I've learned to know,
God's gifts are best?

—Edith Natalie Stark in August Nautilus.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Boss: "Is everything shut up for the night?"

Clerk: "Yes, sir, everything except my mouth."—Good Hardware.

"Are you sure there is no horsemeat in this sausage?"

"I can assure you there is no meat at all there!"—Nagels Lustige Welt, Berlin.

Millicent—Wouldn't your mother be angry if she saw you in that scant bathing suit?

Lellah—I should say so. It's hers. —Capper's Magazine.

First Musician—What key you playing in?

Second Ditto—Skeleton key.

First Musician—Skeleton key?

Second Ditto—Sure. Fits anything. —Illinois Siren.

Brownie—"You say Whimple is a man of mettle? Brave eh?"

Whyte—"No, I said he was a man of metal—iron-gray hair, steel-blue eyes, a copper complexion and lots of brass."—Detroit News.

"I beg your pardon," said the charity solicitor, as she came into the store, "but would you care to help the Working Girl's Home?"

"Certainly," said the unmarried clerk. "Where are they?"—Progressive Grocer.

Husband—Do you believe in the theory that the greatness of a father often proves a stumbling block to the advancement of his son?

Wife—I do. But I am thankful John, that our boy will never be handicapped in that way.—Buffalo Courier.

To achieve elegance, madam ordered a pair of smart boots from an expensive shop. Some days after delivery she returned them.

"Your boots don't fit well. I can't walk in them."

"Madam," replied the dignified shopkeeper, "people who have to walk don't shop here."—Everybody's

KALEIDOSCOPE

A device has been invented which makes it possible to hook a light suitcase or bag over the arm, leaving the hand free.

A new British law forbids the photographing in court of any judge, juror, witness, or the principals in any case, for publication.

A western pipe factory has a device by which thirty six pipes at a time are filled with tobacco and "smoked" by suction, thus breaking them in for the purchaser.

A double royal jubilee is already under preparation for King Gustav V of Sweden two years from now, as at that time he can celebrate both his seventieth birthday and the twentieth anniversary of his succession to the throne. Though the two dates do not exactly coincide they fall near enough each other to justify a combined observance. The celebration will probably be set for the spring of 1928.

French scientists have discovered a new use for grape seeds. They are extracting a lubricating oil from them. As soon as the grapes have been pressed, the seeds are removed from the skins and dried. Then they are subjected to a process for removing their oils. With this new oil, says Popular Science Monthly, French engineers hope to replace castor oil, which it resembles, as a lubricant for delicate motors, especially airplane motors.

Mexico City newspapers complain that traffic cops are too loose on the trigger. They urge the police to quit shooting at violators of traffic laws. The objection is that the public is doubly imperiled. The pedestrian is not only likely to be run down by automobiles, but he also hazards being killed by a police bullet intended for a motorist. The newspapers say several persons have been killed in recent weeks by shots directed by police at traffic law violators.

Levin J. Chase, manager of the Concord (N. H.) Electric company, has received a special license that permits him and the men of his staff to kill gray squirrels, for the animals have developed the habit of establishing short circuit on the company's lines. Fate has forced Mr. Chase into a role different from one that he filled in the New Hampshire legislature, when his eloquence forced the first gray squirrel protection bill through the house, and again, when its repeal was threatened, prevented removal of the law from the statute books.

GENERAL MOTORS FEATURE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(By The A. P.)—Another sensational advance of 12 points in General Motors, which touched the record high level of 201, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market. Transactions in this one issue totalled 261,400 shares, or about one-eighth of the day's entire volume of the business, with buying stimulated by the statement, credited to a prominent banker, that the recent sharp rise had been justified and that still higher prices were warranted on the basis of current earnings.

The general market moved irregularly higher despite the marking up of the call money rate from 4 1-2 to 5 per cent., coincident with the heavy calling of loans. Publication of another series of favorable earnings statements, predictions of good business in the second half of the year by several leading bankers and rail executives, and reports of a further stiffening of wholesale gasoline prices in Chicago all helped to provide ammunition in the campaign for higher prices.

Heavy profit-taking was in evidence in many stocks on the theory that a technical reaction was in order after the brisk advance of last week, but offerings generally were well absorbed. Commission houses reported an increase in public participation, which was borne out by the expanding volume of "odd lot" orders, but the big week of trading is still largely professional.

The general automotive list derived strength from reports that several of the new automobile models brought out this summer were meeting with unexpected good reception. Hudson was bid up nearly 3 points to 76 1-4 but sagged a point below that figure on profit-taking, while Mack Truck and Nash each closed at net gains of more than a point.

The advance in steel shares was held in check by reports of a slight curtailment of operations in the west. United States Steel common, however, closed nearly a point higher at 147 3-4, the independents showing only small fractional changes. Atlantic Refining, up 4 7-8 at 114 7-8; General Asphalt up 3 3-8, at 71 1-4, and Pan-American B up 2 1-8 at 69 3-4, were the leaders in the oil group.

Pools were again active in a number of public utilities, and specialties. New peak prices for the year, or longer, were established by American Sumatra Tobacco certificates, Autosales, Brooklyn Edison, Bush Terminal debentures, Butterick Publishing, Crucible Steel preferred, DuPont, Loose-Wiles Biscuit second preferred, J. C. Penny preferred and Public Service of New Jersey.

Rails took on a new lease of life with the average of 20 leading issues mounting to the highest price since the war. New York Central, Southern Railway and Baltimore and Ohio all made new 1926 highs during progressive parts.

Commodity markets were mixed; active wheat futures broke 3 to 4 cents a bushel on bearish Canadian crop estimates and reports of larger receipts at Chicago. Cotton rallied after an early decline, closing 3 to 7 points higher. Raw sugar was unchanged and coffee prices dropped 11 to 20 points.

Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent., the highest renewal rate since July 13, and then advanced to 5 per cent. as banks called about $25,000,000 in loans. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. A sharp rally of over 20 points in French francs, which ruled above 2.60 cents, featured the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was slightly higher around $4.85 3-4.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Indications of 50,000,000 bushels more winter wheat being harvested in the United States than was looked for a month ago upset wheat values today. Closing quotations on wheat were weak, 3 3-8 c to 4 1-4c net lower, whereas corn showed 3-8c to 1 1-4c advance with oats varying from 1-2c decline to 1 3-4c gain and provisions 2c to 60c down.

Unofficial domestic crop estimates issued here today by leading experts suggested winter wheat yields ranging from 596,000,000 bushels to 642,000,000 bushels, with an average of 617,000,000 bushels. These estimates were generally construed as meaning 50,000,000 bushels increase as compared with figures published as of July 1.

Strength in the corn market resulted from estimates that production of corn this season will be 56,000,000 bushels less than was expected a month ago. Oats were affected by wheat weakness. The average of private estimates of the oats harvest however, was cut down to 44,000,000 bushels under last month's figures.

Unexpected larger receipts of hogs weakened the provision market.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—(AP)—Reflecting the bullish enthusiasm which marked dealings on the stock exchange, the curb market stocks worked higher today in moderately active trading, oil and specialty shares made the best showing, with public utilities generally marking time.

One of the features of the day was a rise of more than 12 points in Stanley company of America to a new high price at 75 in response to the announcement that this company would head a large combination of motion picture theaters.

Stiffening wholesale gasoline quotations in the west accounted for a revival of interest in the oil stocks, although gains were limited. Standard

G. AND E. PLANT TO USE WATER POWER IN GENERATING ELECTRICITY

The City of Norwich Gas & Electrical department will in the near future, begin the generating of electricity by use of water power, thus making a saving of approximately 70 per cent in the consumption of coal and of a saving estimated at $30,000 annually in the manufacturing of electrical power.

This will come about through the purchase of property rights and water rights now held by the Atlantic Carton company, purchased by them from the Shetucket company; also purchase of water rights from the Norwich Water Power company, involving the use of 167 cubic feet of water flowing 24 hours per day for 365 days in the year at a cost of $525 and with rights of use of excess water available at so much per K. W. from the Norwich Water Power company.

Action favorable to the culmination of this project was taken Monday evening at the meeting of the court of common council, presided over by Senior Alderman Henry Gebrath, in the absence through illness of Mayor Milo R. Waters.

At a meeting of the board of gas and electrical commissioners Monday afternoon it was voted to...the department purchase three tracts of land, with rights and privileges for the purpose of constructing a generating plant on the canal, and purchasing water rights held by the Atlantic Carton company at a cost of $50,000; which includes the purchasing of the 167 cubic feet per hour flowage of water through the canal, at a cost of $525 annually from the Norwich Water Power company, rights now held by the Atlantic Carton company; also the right to purchase additional flowage of so much per K. W. H. from the Norwich Water Power company.

While the compensation of the board is small, the commissioners were submitted to the council Monday evening the resolution authorizing the department to make the purchases for the city was unanimously voted.

The tracts of land and water privileges involved in the purchase start from the southerly line of the Atlantic Carton company and then run northeasterly about 320 feet, back of the new mill built by the former Shetucket company, the new electric generating plant to be constructed on said property, the south end of the canal of the Norwich Water Power company. The canal in question runs from a point near the dam on the Shetucket river, southerly for about a half mile, where it again empties into the Shetucket river. In purchasing the land and water rights now held by the Atlantic Carton company, all the rights of that company, plus additional rights being obtained from the Norwich Water Power company, come to the department for use in future years for additional manufacturing of power when needed.

The rental price of the water flowage by the year costs $525 per 167 cubic feet flowage per hour, 24 hours a day and 365 days in the year, which will produce in regular water 1,800,000 K. W. H. per year, the cost per K. W. H for this flowage being the remarkable figure of .0003 cents per K. W. H.

The proposed new hydro-electric plant, to be constructed at the south end of the canal, will cost about $105,000 constructed and ready for operation. The plant will be a 800 K. W. plant, with capacity to produce 4,200,000 K. W. hours per year.

The Norwich plant now dispenses with approximately 9,000,000 K. W. H. per year, of which about 50 per cent is obtained from the Uncas Power company, the steam plant on North Main street producing the remaining 50 per cent. With the operating of the new plant the steam plant may be dispensed with in great part, at a saving of nearly 70 per cent in coal consumption. The annual consumption of coal during recent years (and it is increasing rapidly) has grown to 11,000 tons.

With the use of water power not over 4,000 tons will be required at the steam plant. This saving on coal, based at $8.25 per ton, present price, amounts to over $43,000 annually.

In constructing the new hydro-electric plant the department is making provisions for an 800 K. W. station which may be increased 400 K. W., giving it a total capacity of 1200 K. W. With the 6700 K. W. capacity of the steam plant the department can, when power consumption warrants, have a capacity output of 7900 K. W., an increase of 33 per cent over the present load capacity of the plant in operation.

A survey of the project has been completed by the Fargo Engineering company and in their report they state that the use of the water power will mean that the steam plant need not be enlarged for years to come, unless the power sales of the department increase rapidly in future years. The survey also states that power generated by water can be produced at a much lesser cost than by coal.

The rental price asked for the property and water rights was over $7,000 per year, over 5 per cent based on the purchase price of $50,000 entered into by the department, minus the cost of $525 annually for flowage plus the K. W. H. price for excess consumption of water flowage, hence the department recommended an outright purchase instead of rental and this was sanctioned by the council.

It is anticipated that the project will reach a final settlement within a short time now that the council has approved the action of the board of water commissioners.

J. L. CASE CHAIRMAN AT INSURANCE MEETING

The Eastern Underwriters' association for fire insurance is being formed to take over the territory formerly supervised by the Eastern Union. 25TH ANNIVERSARY OF LYME ART ASS'N.

(Special to the Bulletin)

LYME, Aug. 2.—Twenty-five years of progress in spreading beauty throughout the world—that is what the Lyme artist colony is celebrating at this silver anniversary which is being especially marked by the establishment of a new prize to be known as the W. S. Eaton Sketch Prize. On Saturday the doors of its beautiful little gallery which stands, vine-wrapped, well back from the village thoroughfare, attended by a tree-bordered mirroring stream at the rear, upon its 25th annual exhibition of paintings and sculpture.

The first impression the visitors receives as he stands in the reception hall formed by the meeting of the three wings of the T shaped building, is one of glorious, joy-giving color. Immediately then he becomes aware that every picture is in truth a work of art and worthy of his study and appreciation.

Ivan G. Olinsky is this year's winner of the first W. S. Eaton Purchase prize which has been awarded to his "Tosca in White," an interesting study of a meditative maiden the whiteness of whose gown and background is intensified by a bowl of bright flowers at one side and the bright blue binding of the book she holds.

To Gregory Smith has again been awarded the Museum Purchase prize for "The Green Door" of an old New England house which he guards with tall maples and veils with an exquisite gray-green haze.

The new award which marks this silver anniversary, the W. S. Eaton Sketch prize has been won by William Chadwick for his brilliantly-colored sketch of negro cabins and palmettos near Savannah which he calls "At Bender's Point."

That Lyme rightfully claims title as the summer art capital of the United States, is evident, even to the most casual visitor among the 10,000 or more who visit the yearly exhibition. And the Lyme colony maintains its integrity with strictness—a—ll artist members of its Art association must live and paint in Lyme a portion of every year. And since the quaint old village of Lyme with its wells and lovely gardens, is a highly paintable place, it is little wonder that local beauties are immortalized upon the colony's canvas.

The Lyme painters are, in general, as one of their number puts it, "an outdoor crowd" and while they are largely landscape painters, dogs, cattle, sheep, the sea and also people are portrayed in their exhibition, which gives it a broadly diversified aspect. Moreover although these artists are men—and women, for their ranks include two women members—of today and up-to-date, their modernism is a modernism of clear sincere vision based upon a sound appreciation of true beauty, untouched by fads.

The village is very proud of its Art association and gallery and many of the ladies of Lyme join with the wives of the artists in adding to the festivities by serving tea at little tables scattered over the lawn, not only on opening day but on every Wednesday and Saturday afternoon throughout the month of the exhibition.

New England's beautiful laurel appears this year in all its ethereal loveliness upon the canvases of William S. Robinson, one of the veteran painters of the colony. Lyme's inviting "Whippoorwill Road" is also shown by both William Chadwick and Clark G. Voorhees. George Ebert paints a local "Wood Road" as well as a fleet of "Idle Fishing Boats" upon a shimmering opal sea. George E. Burr paints the sea as well choosing the shore at "Low Tide" with a pair of waders seeking hidden treasures in the pools among the rocks.

Trees in springtime are favorite subjects of Frank A. Bicknell and Frank V. Dumond who delight in portraying the delicate beauty of the pale green and gold of youthful foliage. The elusive loveliness of "Apple Blossoms" and "Cherry Blossoms" has been caught by Carleton Wiggins and Wilson Irvine, respectively. Carleton Wiggins also exhibits paintings of the placid cows—"Cattle at Rest"—and sheep seeking the first green shoots of spring. Edward Volkert also contributes pastoral scenes in bold, strong treatment and vivid coloring.

Another landscape artist, George M. Bruestle, paints a gentle countryside. Eugene Higgins gives an idea of the strength involved in labor on a farm with his "Ploughman" plodding along the furrow, guiding the plow his oxen draw. "October," by Harry L. Hoffman, suggests that "bright blue weather" of which the poet sings and one suspects that his "Mid-summer Bouquet" with its beautiful zinnias and other old-time blossoms came straight out of a Lyme garden, perhaps that of "Miss Florence" whose hospitable home has from the beginning been the nursery of the Art association.

A number of excellent winter scenes add a note of coolness to the exhibition. Bruce Crane's "Frosty Acres" and "Frosty Morn" are fairy-like, strongly suggestive of the land of the Sleeping Beauty at the approach of the snowy season. Purple tinted snow appears in Ann Cranes highly original study of two towering pine trees standing out against a strangely lowering sky, which she calls "A Solitude." Guy Wiggins and Henry R. Poore also paint snow and ice and leafless trees.

A trio of paintings of dogs is Percival Rosseau's contribution to the important paintings, while another adorns the wing of sketches. "The Hilltop" shows two of his alert, intelligent setters, standing motionless awaiting commands, under a storm-foreboding sky. Others, in "Evening Glow" and "Scattered Birds" also stand immobile, one paw uplifted, in readiness for action.

Robert W. Vonnoh's portrait of Dr. Edward L. Keyes is a masterly piece of portraiture and the crimson bands of his academic gown add a touch of flaming color to the whole assemblage, in contrast to his strong intelligent vigor is the hopeless resignation of "Jennie Duff" portrayed by Clifford Gleason which hangs in the opposite wing.

Among those who have travelled far afield for subjects for their paintings are Lucien Abrams with his gay "Mediterranean Hillside." Henry Bill Selden with his quaint dwellings "In Tuscany," Guy Wiggins with his old church, peasants and cobblestones of Provence, and George H. Bogert, with his mysterious shadows of a "Midsummer Evening in Venice." A clipper ship with wind-filled sails coming straight on "From Singapore to Salem" is Thomas Watson Ball's colorful contribution. Robert W. Vonnoh, too, has a place within this category with his typical bit of Bermuda's beautiful Turtle Bay with its pink sand and cedar-crowned headlands.

Mrs. Bessie Potter Vonnoh's sculpture exhibit includes two charming little bronzes, "In Arcadia" and "The Magic Bowl." Miss Lydia Longacre, the other woman member of the association, contributes one of her justly famous miniatures, that of Dr. Frank K. Hallock, to the exhibition walls.

Among other artists represented by important paintings are Ernest and E. Maxwell Albert, father and son; Margaret Cooper, Charles V. Vezin and Paul E. Saling. Will S. Taylor has a colorful group of tropical sketches in the middle wing of the gallery.

PLEADED GUILTY TO MANUFACTURING LIQUOR

Morris Stut of Montville, arrested Friday night when state police officers from the Groton barracks raided his home and found a 25 gallon still in operation, was fined $200 and costs by Justice of the Peace Oscar Church, before whom he was presented at Montville. PROPERTY OWNERS LOSE $12,000 AT GOLDEN SPUR

Because a few pieces of steel failed to meet the requirements laid down by the state highway department in the construction of bridges, more than 60 cottages and a small hotel are vacant at Golden Spur, owing to suspension of work in building a new bridge over the Niantic river. In the inspection of bridge building operations by representatives of the state highway department, samples of steel to be used by reinforcing concrete, were taken to Hartford for testing. A few of the samples failed to meet the tests, and in testing a heavier piece, a part of the mechanism of the testing machine was disabled, holding up further tests until the testing machine is repaired. The steel was furnished by a New Haven concern to the Holcrook Contracting Co., of Westbrook, to which the contract was awarded by the highway department.

According to cottage owners at Golden Spur, their losses for the season through inability to rent cottages will amount to more than $12,000.

FISH VALUED AT HALF MILLION CAUGHT IN STATE

Fish valued at $396,449 was taken from Connecticut waters during 1925, according to figures of the bureau of fisheries of the state board of fish and game, just announced. Forty-three varieties of fish were represented among the catches. Connecticut, through the fish and game board under Superintendent John W. Titcomb, is the first state in the nation to attempt to tabulate the record of its fisheries but it is hoped that other states will follow. The field work for the collection of this data and compilation of the report was done by Capt. Christopher Culver of this city, fish and game warden, who visited approximately 900 fishermen in the state. This state is compiling the fisheries report yearly and the government has taken up tabulation of such information once in five years.

Early Native Green Corn

Silas Whipple of the Leffingwell district showed at the Bulletin office Monday samples of the first native sweet corn that has come to the market, according to Mr. Whipple, who says that the thunder storm of last week with its generous fall of rain was the salvation of his field of 1,000 hills. He raises the Whipple's yellow, a variety which he has developed with great success.

How Dry Trim Saves You Money

As you know, wet lumber warps, twists, shrinks and cracks in drying unless it is painstakingly and scientifically kiln dried.

It is for this reason that we buy trim and doors only from concerns who have the knowledge and facilities for properly drying lumber.

Unfortunately it is almost impossible to detect moisture in wood. The only sure way to know that it's dry is to buy it from a company who handles only dry lumber. Otherwise, if you wait until it is in your home you will have endless trouble and epense.

It is impossible to do a good carpenter job with wet trim. It is impossible to do a good paint job on it. It can't be properly sand papered. Dry trim overcomes all of these troubles. It is easily worth the few cents extra that it costs. We sell dry trim. Ask us about it. Phone or stop in.

PHILIPPINES TOPIC AT INSTITUTE OF POLITICS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Aug. 3—(AP)—Americans resident in the Philippines and a "large though inarticulate mass' of natives believes independence would be economically and probably politically ruinous to the islands, Norbert Lyons told the Institute of Politics today.

Mr. Lyons, secretary of the United States mission of the Philippine Chamber of Commerce, characterized the proponents of independence as sentamentalists and idealists. He believed it preposterous that we should consider relinquishing our position of vantage in this important competitive trade area.

Political questions are largely economic, he said, and in international competition the United States has achieved a position of prominence and leadership which it cannot afford to jeopardize by unwise concessions.

To deliberately abandon this potential market, in order to satisfy Filipino politicians, and keep a so-called promise made in the preamble of the Jones act, said to have been written by President Wilson, and in the more binding committments made by Mr. Wilson at Versailles," would be folly in Mr. Lyon's opinion.

The Filipinos in the main he contended are prosperous and appreciative of what America has done. They have local autonomy and the protection of the most powerful and altruistic nation in the world.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE HALL MURDER CASE

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 3—(AP)—Investigation into the murder of the Rev. Edward W. Hall and to Mrs. Eleanor N Mills four years ago resolved itselftoday in a controversy between the newly appointed special prosecutor and one, of the prosecutors in the original investigation over the inquiry methods at the time of the murder.

Other developments during the day was sthe assignment of a New Jersey state trooper to guard Mrs. Jane Gibson, the "pig woman" upon whose testimony the state apparently is basing much of its case, from "anyone trying to intimidate her," and an announcement by Governor Moore that he has "new evidence" corroborating Mrs. Gibson's story.

State Senator Aexlander Simpson, special prosecutor appointed by the governor, issued a statement criticising the prosecuting authorities who conducted the first investigation. He said that the murder should be satisfied not only with the "four years in which to get away," but because the Rev. Hall's eyeglasses "which must have been fingermarked" were wiped. the public was permitted to obliterate tracks at the scene, searched for fingerprints on the clothing and bodies were not made.

BELIEVE GUNMAN SUSPECT IS WANTED IN OREGON

ST. JOHNSBURY, Vt., Aug. 3—(AP)—Belief that the gunman who last week held up Harry Dickens, a state motor vehicle inspector was one of the De Autremont brothers wanted in Oregon for murder and attempted train robbery, was expressed today by P. E. Griggs. Griggs is a brother of the owner of the farm where the motor inspector was threatened by the bandit when he called to inspect an automobile suspected stolen.

After holding the inspector at bay with a revolver and disabling his car, the man escaped in an automobile.

Griggs said the man employed on his brother's farm as "Harry Ray" bore strong resemblance to the pictures appearing on a poster offering $15,900 reward for the capture of Ray De Autremont, his twin brother, Roy, and younger brother, Hugh, who were charged with attempting to rob a Southern Pacific mail train near Siskiyou, Ore., and with killing a mail clerk and three members of the train crew, in 1923.

Semi-Centenial of Colorado's Statehood

President Coolidge by Radio Addressed Celebration Exercises at Denver.

PAUL SMITHS, N. Y., Aug. 3—The sovereignty of the states which go to make up the nation, was held up as a source of great strength to the federal government by President Coolidge today in an address by radio to exercises at Denver celebrating the semi-centennial of Colorado's admission to statehood.

Speaking into a telephone at his vacation office, Mr. Coolidge had his words carried by long distance wires to Denver for broadcasting through the ether, the address being the first of any kind he has made since he came to the Adirondacks nearly four weeks ago.

Mr. Coolidge hailed Colorado as a state that "always has been progressive;" declared that "she stands out like a beacon in the history of woman suffrage," and praised "the majesty of her scenery" and "the wonderful balm of her climate," yet he asserted her "chief treasure was the principle of local self government.

"This celebration is exceedingly appropriate at this time," he added. "The nation is inclined to disregard altogether too much both the functions and the duties or the states. They are much more than sub-divisions of the federal government. They are also endowed with sovereignty in their own right. Of course, one of their chief glories, lies in the fact that they are all partakers of the American spirit, all a part of the American nation, but a great deal of the strength of the Federal government lies in the fact that the states have the power to function locally and independently, subject only to the restrictions which they themselves have invoked by adopting the national constitution.

"This fiftieth anniversary is in celebration of that principle. It was fifty years ago that Colorado put off the garb of a territory almost exclusively under the dominion of the national government and put on the robes of a sovereign American state. The great progress that it has made in these years has been in no small part due to the application of the principle or local self government. Of all the wealth and eminence that this state has achieved, this is its chief treasure. It ought to be maintained undiminished and guarded with jealous care through all the years to come."

PRESIDENT TO START FOR OLD VERMONT HOME TODAY

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 3—(AP)—The president and Mrs. Coolidge will go to Plymouth, Vermont, tomorrow for a visit of several days at the boyhood home of Mr. Coolidge.

It was there Mr. Coolidge was administered the oath of office as chief executive by his aged father three years ago today, and it is there the father and the younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge sleep in the little village cemetery.

Except for Major James F. Coupal, physician to the president, and secret service men, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will be unattended. The trip has been arranged so they can visit the cemetery, greet old friends, and attend to any business matters connected with the maintenance of the family homestead. Among those expected to greet them upon their arrival is Attorney-General Sargent who is on vacation at his home in Ludlow, Vermont.

In preparation for an absence of several days, from the executive offices, which are to be left in charge of Edward T. Clark, personal secretary to the president, Mr. Coolidge attended to a number of government business matters today and received newspaper correspondents who have accompanied him to the Adirondacks.

THREE YEARS OF PROSPERITY UNDER PRESIDENT COOLIDGE

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 3—(AP)—Government policies pursued during the three years President Coolidge has occupied the white house in his opinion have placed the country in a flourishing and prosperous condition and have contributed to make the period the most prosperous of any three years in the history of the country.

A review of the administration was given in behalf of Mr. Coolidge at the executive offices today, the third anniversary of his assuming the presidency, and although much progress was said to have been made, it was emphasized that much remains to be done and only continued efforts will make possible the maintenance of the gains already achieved.

Because of the special conditions confronting the country after the World war, the problems awaiting solution have been largely economic but Mr. Coolidge feels progress has also been made along other lines, such as in educational work and in improving the general moral standards of the country.

There has been trouble with crimes of violence, it was said in his behalf, but this has not been so extensive, in his opinion, as in the cases of crimes which afflicted the country in similar periods following other wars.

NO CHANGE IN RELIGIOUS CONTROVERSY IN MEXICO

Peace Feelers by Intermediaries Have Been Without Result—Catholics Are Performing Their Usual Tasks and There is Little or No Evidence of Boycott—Seventeen Persons Have Been Arrested on Charge of Removing Treasures and Valuable Objects From Catholic Churches.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 3—(AP)—Peace feelers by intermediaries seeking a solution of the apparent impasse between the government and Mexican Episcopate, arising out of the government's strict enforcement of the religious regulations to be put forth today, but so far as could be learned, without result.

Meanwhile, the government has received assurance of support for its religious policy and military world—former President Obregon and General Arnulfo Gomes, military chief of the state of Vera Cruz. General Obregon is still looked upon as the idol of the army, while General Gomes is a possible presidential candidate.

As on the preceding days, the Mexican Catholics, despite their feelings, went about their usual tasks today, and on the surface there was nothing to indicate the seriousness of the religious controversy. Newspaper specials and government reports describe disturbances in some sections, but from this information it appears nothing serious has developed.

Queretaro reports that 17 persons—it is not specified whether they were priests—have been arested, charged with removing treasures and valuable objects from Catholic churches. The Mexico City authorities are investigating reports of municipal committees appointed to take over the churches that valuables are missing from many of the edifices, including the cathedral.

While the cathedral continues closed pending a further check of the inventory of its treasures, the other churches were open again today, although only a moderate number of worshippers were seen inside in Mexico City.

Thus far there is little or no evidence of the boycott under the auspices of the League for the Defense of Religious Freedom in Mexico City, although some commercial houses and retailers express apprehension it may develop. In contrast, news from other sections of the republic shows that the boycott is in full swing in numerous towns, the people refraining from all indispensable expenditures in the hope of creating an economic crisis sufficiently serious to have the government modify its attitude.

Propaganda campaigns are being waged vigorously everywhere. There have been numerous joint debates with speakers representing both sides of the controversy, but thus far all have been peaceful.

The first debate in Mexico City was between the secretary of education, Dr Jose Puig Casuarang, and Rene Capistran Garza, one of the directors of the League for the Defense of Religious Liberty, who is under bail awaiting formal trial on the charge of inciting the people to disturbances by means of the boycott.

This debate was conducted in a Mexico City theatre and was largely attended by an orderly crowd. Each side cheered as points were scored. The broad general argumnets put forward by the secretary of education were that the government was merely enforcing the constitution, which it must do or cease to be a self-respecting government; that the regulations do not interfere with the dogma, doctrines and fundamental spiritual qualities of religion, but merely prevented political activities under the guise of religion.

On the other hand the league speaker declared that the Catholic church was singled out for persecution and that it was impossible to reconcile Catholic fundamentals with the government's requirements.

FIRESTONE TALKS OF RUBBER PRODUCTION

PAUL SMITH'S, N. Y., Aug. 3—(AP)—Enought waste land is available in the Philippines for rubber production to take care of all futures needs of this country, President Coolidge was told today by Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., son of the Akron, Ohio, rubber manufacturer, who called at the executive offices to discuss the rubber situation.

In fact, Mr. Firestone said, in Mindanao and adjacent lands of the southern islands of the Philippine group there are 25,000,000 acres excellently suited to rubber production and one-tenth of that acreage would provide for all the needs of the United States.

The Firestone interests, the president was told, have leased 1,000,000 acres for rubber production in Liberia and with a force of 5,000 men are clearing the land and setting out trees, but it requires five years for a young tree to produce the rubber milk and furthermore any extensive program necessarily must be accomplished progressively, so that it will be many years before adequate production will be in American hands under most favorable circumstances.

A total of 4,350,000 acres are planted of rubber trees in the entire world at present, Mr. Firestone said, while by 1936 it is estimated an additional 1,600,000 acres will be necessary for world demands.

Mr. Firestone was accompanied by Mrs. Firestone and came here by automobile from New York. He left for that city this afternoon.

SECRETARY MELLON HAS ARRIVED IN ROME

ROME, Aug. 3—(AP)—Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the United States treasury, who arrived in Rome today from Geneva, insisted that his visit was absolutely of a private nature. He declined to comment on financial or other topics.

The secretary had previous announced he was anxious to get to Rome to see his daughter, who recently married David K. E. Bruce, the American vice-consul here. While Mrs. Bruce knew her father was coming to Rome, his arrival, today was entirely unexpected through a sudden change in his plans, and neither she nor her husband was at the station to meet him.

Mr. Mellon occupied his first day with a leisurely sightseeing tour by motor car. He visited St. Peters and the Borghese Gardens, looking over the beautiful panorama from the Janiculum Hill, and then made a rapid jaunt to the nearby hill town of Frascati.

The secretary was entertained at luncheon by Leon Dominican, the American consul, and spent this evening at the Bruce villa with his daughter and son-in-law.

DRIVER WAS DROWNED WHEN LOG JAM BROKE

SOUTH WINDHAM, Me., Aug. 3—(AP)—Ray Tenney, 38, of Casco, boss river driver in the employ of the E. I. Du Pont company, was drowned in the Presumpscot river at Great Falls village today, when a log jam on which he and six other men were working broke and plunged all into the swift current.

Tenney, the only one of the group who could not swim, disappeared among the logs as the jam gave way and was not seen again, and his companions, who made a desperate effort to locate and rescue him, nearly lost their lives in doing so, being exhausted when they finally reached shore. The body was recovered.

LIGHTNING TO BLAME FOR LAKE DENMARK EXPLOSION

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3—(AP)—Lightning alone was to blame for the Lake Denmark, N. J., naval ammunition depot explosion July 10, a board of inquiry has found.

Not only was no human agency at fault, but officers and men at the scene displayed heroism of a very high order and many of them have been recommended for decorations, the board's report said.

At least 23 persons were killed and 52 inured at the disaster. Damage to plant, property and stores was placed at $40,000,000, exclusive of the relatively small amount of ammunition stored there.

Rebuilding of the Lake Denmark depot but not for the storage of high explosives was recommended by the board together with construction of another depot for the west coast some 3,000 miles inland and a transfer across the east and gulf coast forces.

RISE IN STOCK PRICES CONTINUED YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—(AP)—The rising tide of stock prices swept onward with ever increasing force today under the impetus of feverish speculative activity in the market leaders—General Motors and United States Steel. Impressive buying demonstrations carried both issues to record heights—General Motors up 12 3-4 points to 213 3-4 and the leading steel stock up nearly six points to 153, with closing quotations only fractionally below these levels.

Total sales exceeding 2,700,000 shares were the largest since the series of "three million share days" which marked the severe break in stock prices last spring. Trading in steel and General Motors was of record breaking proportions, transactions in each issue aggregating nearly 350,000 shares and dwarfing the dealings in other stocks.

TO DEVELOP THE WHITE STAR STEAMSHIP LINE

NEW YORK, Aug. 3—(AP)—Plans for the development of the White Star steamship line, including the construction of a 60,000 ton liner were announced here today by P. A. S. Franklin president of the International Mercantile Marine, upon his arrival from London.

Mr Franklin said the development program followed the failure of negotiations recently in London for the sale of the line to British interests.

"We are now making all our pans for future development of the White Star Lino and with this object in view are proceeding with the preparation of plans and specifications for a new mammoth steamer of the Majestic Olympic class," he said.

SHOOTING AT PRIMARY ELECTION IN WEST VIRGINIA

LOGAN, W. Va., Aug. 3—(AP)—In a fight at a precinct polling place in Logan county, precipitated by argument over voting of a group of negroes, resulted in the death of Art Chambers former deputy sheriff, and subsequent firing of a volley into the car containing the negroes and driven by Mastor White, candidate for the republican nomination for circuit clerk.

Chambers, it was said, challenged the right to vote of the negroes White had taken to the polling place at Logan, on Rum Creek. Chambers charged the men were registered in the precincts but had moved away When one of the poll clerks said they could vote, White said Chambers and his brothers began to beat the clerk The shooting in which Chambers was killed followed.

BELIEVE QUICKSAND HINDERS CHAPLIN SWAMP FILLING

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Aug. 3—Rapid progress continues to be made on the state road building contracts calling for the laying of concrete roads out of North Windham to Chaplin and this city. The work will not be fully completed until this fall, however. To date, traffic is one way over the road. The road into Chaplin and from North Windham to a distance beyond Cedar corners is nearing completion. Trouble is still being met with in the attempt to fill in the swamp land in Chaplin for a new route. The fill of rock and dirt continues to sink into the swamp which is believed to be made up of a quantity of quicksand. Several more thousands of cubic yards are to be dumped into the fill, in an attempt to have the deposit finally settle, after which it will be cemented over.

Between this city and North Windham the sharp curves as far as Campbell's Sunrise Farm have been done away with and the new road laid over fills. When completed the once winding road will be practically straight, the long curve at the Sunrise Farm being the last one to be contended with. A steam shovel and a gang of about one hundred men are breaking through for the new layout of the road at this point. At Phelps Crossing stakes have been laid indicating that the new course of the road will turn from the crossing from a distance of 20 to 60 feet making the road straight beyond the Willimantic Country club grounds. It will be necessary to build a new bridge over the railroad bed in order to eliminate the corner at Phelp's crossing. The new span will be about 30 feet from the location of the present bridge.

While the concrete over the latter stretch is being laid, traffic will detour by way of the Windham Center-North Windham road and over Brick Top into lower Main street. In anticipation of this, First Selectman Ernest P. Chesbro has the town road scraper and a force of men putting the Windham road into condition.

Blanchette reported for the committee on the Overworked and welcomed back Dr. William E. Hendry and Harry W. Standish, who have been vacationing at Pleasant View. R. I. Valentine L. Murphy gave interesting and humorous additional facts regarding the vacation of these two members especially in relation to their being defeated at golf by Louis A. Kingsbury. The pair of overworked members made responses which were added to by President Bath, who intruded on the peacefulness of their vacation. A vote of thanks was given Carl Erickson for his invitation to Rotarian to visit his camp at Crystal Lake Eastford. Adjournment was taken at 1 o'clock.

Euclide J. Pimpare of this city was charged with reckless driving when in the Coventry town court Monday night. His automobile collided with a section of the stone wall on Main street, in South Coventry village, in front of the Thomas H. Wood property, late Sunday night. He pleaded not guilty. The driver of the car hid his identity until it was disclosed through an investigation by State Policeman Henry Heinold. Justice of the Peace Albert M. Gilman found Pimpare guilty and imposed a fine of $50 and costs, amounting to $62.20 which was paid. Grand Juror Robert G. Brooke prosecuted.

Walter P. Chrysler's principle of standardized quality manufacture is revolutionizing the buying of fine cars today.

For, at one step, it eliminates "purchaser's risk".... ends the buyer's doubts and fears as to quality.... makes possible the purchase of either the lowest-priced or the highest-priced Chrysler with positive knowledge that the quality is equally assured and the value is supreme in its class.

Leading manufacturers have been striving for years to achieve this absolute evenness of quality.

An Unique Achievement

But Chrysler alone has achieved it.... translated it into fact by an extraordinarily complete coordination of engineering and manufacturing resources.

Chrysler standardization of quality goes back to the sources of raw material; it governs the very minutest operation; it makes certain that every unit is produced with the finest precision standards under the most rigid inspection; it even moulds the manufacture of accessories.

Of course, Chrysler models to meet the four great quality markets differ in price, in size of chassis, in richness of appointments, in speed and power—the model numbers representing miles per hour—but all are basically the same in rigid adherence to the same law of quality.

Advantages for the buyer

Obviously, cars bearing one name.... built by one organization.... under one all-embracing system of standardized quality manufacture.... must be essentially fine to a degree beyond comparison with other cars made under ordinary methods.

This most important of Chrysler advantages insures the superior and uniform quality which is the foundation of superior performance, dependability, comfort, economy and long life in every Chrysler.

DANIELSON

TELEPHONE EMPLOYES' OUTING AT MOOSUP POND TUESDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 3.—If one were minded to question the truth of the oft-repeated saying that "the telephone people have a wonderful time when they get together," one should have been at the Lionel and Mae beach at Moosup pond during Tuesday and have all doubt on the score removed for all time.

Upwards of 200 of the employes in the New London district, with officials from the general offices at New Haven, joined in one big family party, to defy the scorching heat or any and every handicap to having a grand, good time.

Characteristic of the spirit that long has been a feature of the relations of the people that make up the personnel of the Southern New England Telephone company was the hearty, happy manner in which high placed officials fraternized with those who make up the rank and file of the organization. And they did not talk "shop".

Bathing, sports, athletic contests, races and other diversions kept all busy who were not content to seek some relief from the high temperature in shaded places. Every exchange in the New London district was represented, and that means all of eastern Connecticut as that area is regarded hereabouts. Naturally, the gathering had its reunion features—opportunities for employes to greet those of other divisions that they may not have seen for months or as long as a year. And the most was made of this.

Presiding in the open air kitchens was the famous King George Jacques of East Killingly, with Queen Elizabeth and a big corps of helpers and waitresses. That in itself from the outset was assurance of a corking shore dinner from which, a may be mentioned, no item was missing, and which included many things not ordinarily served at such feasts. Chowder was served at noon on prettily arranged tables and the bake was ready at 2 o'clock.

It may be remarked in passing that the telephone people are a healthy, good looking group. When they "go camping" those who undertake to appease their appetites have their work cut out for them, and here again one time honored the evidence of good digestion that is an adjunct of personal good nature. Indeed all enjoyed a splendid dinner.

The after dinner period found many of the outing party at the Moosup pond pavilion, where there were opportunities for dancing and various other pastimes. At the end of the day there was general agreement that the outing of 1926 had been a very fine success.

Among the officials in attendance were C. E. Reife, executive assistant, New Haven; E. L. Simonds, superintendent of plant, New Haven; F. L. Moore, traffic superintendent, New Haven; E. L. Baker, general auditor, C. H. Heat auditor of receipts; R. A. Brust, E. R. Bradley, plant department, New Haven; Edward Dejon, superintendent of safety, New Haven; R. H. Gray, district commercial superintendent, New London; A. L. Osborne, district traffic superintendent, New Haven.

The committee that arranged the outing was made up of Norman Shaffer (chairman), Norwich; Henry S. Lyon, treasurer, Norwich; Henry O'Brien, Leslie Beebe, Miss Margaret Coyle, Miss Grace Murray, R. H. Gray, A. L. Osborne, all of New London; F. D. Fraser, Hartford; Harry Emmerick, Norwich; Miss Helen Jones, John Frazer, Willimantic; Mary Smith, W. H. Jones, Miss Effie Danielson, Putnam; Miss K. D. Aylward, Danielson.

MOOSUP SCOUTS MOURN FOR EMLIAN BOISSE, DROWNED

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Aug. 3.—Wednesday morning at Moosup a sorrowing troop of Catholic Boy Scouts will assemble for the purpose of attending the funeral of one of their members, Emlian Boisse, 13, who lost his life by drowning in the waters of Beach pond Sunday afternoon, soon after the arrival of the troop at the place to go into camp for a few days. The body was not recovered until about 4 o'clock Monday morning and later was taken in charge by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy of Danielson and brought here, afterwards being removed to the home of the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John B. Boisse, in Moosup.

Supremely happy over the prospects of a camping period in as ideal a place as is to be found in eastern Connecticut, the Scouts had barely pitched their tents and made preparations for settling down for their stay when it was found that the Boisse boy was missing. It was finally determined that he had slipped away and gone in bathing and drowned. It is believed that he was seized with cramps and was unable, he went down so quickly, to cry out for help. The troop was under proper guidance and an accident of this kind extremely unlikely to occur, but it did nevertheless, as has happened many, many times in the past and likely will again. The affair cast such a pall on the troop that the camp was abandoned, all returning to Moosup Monday. The drowned boy, who would have been 13 in September, was powerfully built for his age, and it is regarded as very probable that he must have been attacked with extremely severe cramps to go down as suddenly as he did.

At his home in Dayville, Monday afternoon, funeral services for Frank A. Chase, 92, veteran of the Civil war, were conducted by Rev. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear. Among those attending were delegations from McGregor post, G. A. R., from McGregor, W. R. C., and from Colonel Edward Anderson camp, Sons of Veterans. Burial was in Dayville cemetery. The bearers were E. C. Babson, Frank M. Bedard, Frank Stimson and Everett Colvin, representing Colonel Edward Anderson camp. The honorary bearers, all veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, were Henry W. Babson, R. R. James, J. A. Bowen, who were members of K company, 18th Connecticut Volunteers, with Mr. Chase, Thomas ates, Frank Jaegar and Henry Beers. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

It was explained at the adjourned annual borough meeting that two items of expense authorized by the annual borough meeting last April, after a budget for the year had been prepared, account for the one-half mill increase in the tax rate made this year—to 30 mills. These items were the cost of installing the new auxiliary fire alarm apparatus at the central fire station and the cost of the repairs now underway at the public library.

Sportsmen in this and other eastern Connecticut towns will have opportunities to enter in many events at the outing of the Connecticut Fish and Game clubs at Lake Compunce a month from today. A variety of bait casting contests are on the card. A dog field trial, to be run on pheasants, is an interesting event. There are to be canoe races, boat races and swimming events. There are to be team rifle shoots and team pistol contests. Trap shooting, an archery contest, fancy diving and a wood chopping contest indicate the variety of events on the program. The Danielson Rod and Gun club will be represented among the contestants.

Superintendents of departments for the annual exhibition of the Windham County Agricultural society at Brooklyn next month are as follows: Neat stock and oxen, Lester Williams; fat cattle, sheep and hogs, Herman B. Chapman; horses, M. J. Frink; poultry, Earl Andrews; butter and cheese, Joseph B. Stetson; vegetables, grains and fruits, Frederick C. Littleworth; committee on grange exhibits, Mrs. C. S. Hyde, Mrs. C. M. Haines, Mrs. Carrie Gardner, Mrs. Clinton Frink, Mrs. Charles Burnham.

It is slow work that police officials of Connecticut and Rhode Island are engaged on, in unraveling some of the mysterious detail of circumstances leading up to the death through an illegal surgical operation of Miss Emelda Bourque of Moosup. For the time being the case has slipped out of the limelight of publicity, but it will come back eventually, for justice has an account to square.

There is no reflection on the great majority of motorcyclists in setting down that a few of their number have been running wild with their machines in this and nearby towns for the past two or three weeks. Much of their high speed reckless riding is being done at night and it is a menace to all traffic moving over the highways. Practically all of these offenders are young men, in their 'teens or early twenties.

Because of the high temperature of the water in many of the streams hereabouts at present, release of young trout may be delayed for a time. It is felt that transfer of these trout from the cool water in which they have bred to waters having a temperature ranging at the present time between 65 and 70 degrees would cause them to quickly die by the hundreds.

From Silver Bay comes information that Attorney and Mrs. A. G. Bill are having a fine time there and comfortable weather. They are returning to Danielson Thursday night.

Trussing for the roof of the south addition to the high school was being put in place Tuesday. The brickwork on the job is nearing completion.

The modern fire and burglar-proof vault of the Windham County National bank offers a safe place in which to keep valuables and valuable papers.—adv.

A plague of little black flies has made life miserable in many sections of the borough evenings since the arrival of the latest heat wave.

At mid-afternoon Tuesday, thermometers in Danielson were showing readings of 100 to 105 degrees. Scores of local people sought relief from the heat in visits to nearby lakes for baths.

Considerab s more time will be required by the special committee of the borough on charter revision. Their report will be made to a special borough meeting in smple time to have their recommengations passed upon prior to the convening of the legislature in January.

State highway crews are engaged in cutting weeds and brush along the edges of trunk line highways in this and nearby towns, a feature of the road work at this time each season.

Corn has made excellent growth the past three weeks and the promise now is for a bountiful crop.

Recent raids for liquor in this town are said to have caused a general tightening up, that alleged dealers are particularly wary this week.

William Sangster, president, and Gordon J. Gale, secretary, of the Danielson chamber of commerce have been named as members of the Thames valley barbecue committee.

Henry C. Hollander of Worcester was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

"That sounds like the old days along the western front," observed an overseas veteran of the World war, Tuesday afternoon, as thunder rolled and rumbled, much as the big guns used to over there.

Harry R. Boyd, recently entered as a cadet at the United States military academy at West Point, is now engaged with his military training with other members of the fourth class.

PUTNAM

FINE GIFT TO HOSPITAL OF SEVEN ELECTRIC FANS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Aug. 3—During the excessive heat of two weeks ago the Day Kimball hospital was crowded and a most timely gift, was that of seven electric fans, two large ones which were placed in the wards and five smaller ones placed in private rooms.

One of the larger ones and four of the smaller ones were given by Mrs. Alfred Reed and other friends of the nospital at Danielson, and the second large one was from Sidney Bard, also of Danielson. The fifth smaller one was given by Mrs. Charles, O. Thompson, of Pomfret.

When the stifling heat was felt two weeks ago, Mrs. Reed thought of the patients at the hospital and their discomfort because of it, and immediately started a subscription with a generous contribution and soon raised more money than she had sought, but found use for all of it in fans. Mr. Bard added enough for a second large fan and saw to their prompt purchase and installation.

For a number of days their breeze was very grateful to the patients and when the weather suddenly turned cold, it is again hot and the fans are running full time, as the hospital patients again benefit by their comforting breezes.

JEWETT CITY

CHANCE FOR EX-SERVICE MEN TO BE REINSTATED

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 3—Gilbert Miner, Jr., adjutant of Orville La Flamme post, American Legion, received Tuesday from C. C. Scarborough, chairman of the State Service committee, a department bulletin relative to recent legislation for disabled veterans. Mr. Miner is anxious to give at once any information of interest to possible local beneficiaries. The items of compensation, hospitalization, rehabilitation, guardianship and insurance, will be found to be of special interest locally. Not a few of the home town boys who came back from the war with finely provided insurance policies, have for various reasons allowed them to lapse. Jewett City veterans it is pointed out, should in no case lose the opportunity offered by the adjusted plan for reinstatement. Any such man now totally disabled because of disability connected with the service, may reinstate his insurance for one year after the approval of this amendment, by having the amount of the unpaid back premiums, charged as an interest bearing indebtedness against the face value of his policy, where there is proof that the holder is financially unable to pay the back premiums.

GRANDMOTHER BOBBED AS WELL AS GRAND DAUGHTER

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Aug. 3—Tuesday morning in a local barber shop was to be seen an altogether unusual sight. Seated side by side in adjacent chairs were a grand-mother and her little grand-daughter, each having her hair bobbed. The little girl hasn't been born long, and the older of the pair not too long. Anyway she is due for pardon, for the fine hair that fell to the barber's shears, weighed a trifle over a pound, when placed on the grocer's scales, in the store below.

In the Griswold town court Tuesday morning, interest centered in the trial of four men presented by Prosecuting Attorney Richard J. Dudkowski. After their plea of not guilty, they claiming that they heard a disturbance and ran to give aid, Judge John T. Barry gave each a fine and costs amounting to $26.21, Saturday night the four, Sylvester Kowalsky, Adamko Kowalsky, Tom Holoizuk and Tony Sollisi, waited on Brown avenue, until John Kowalsky came out of his home, whereupon they sprang upon him, kicking and beating him in a shocking manner.

The man assaulted bears an excellent reputation, being honest and industrious. Volstead hooch was responsible for the attack.

In the broiling sun Tuesday, two steeple-jacks worked all the forenoon just below the cross on the Congregational church steeple. An interested gallery standing in the street below, watched them for hours as they moved on the face of the spire. The slate is being repaired and the cross, 116 feet above the corner stone, is to be redecorated.

The men made their first ascension up the long, almost perpendicular slate incline, by means of shifting and shortenin ga line that first encircled the bell deck level.

As the men worked, and during the afternoon, a small electrical disturbance showed up in the west, with a considerable display of lightning. Deeming the top of this special spire not really a healthful location and being informed that it had been struck twice before, the jacks got cautious and lowered themselves in their bo'sum's chairs to the ground.

All eyes will be turned to the east, between 1 and 2 o'clock this (Wednesday) afternoon. The big dirigible Los Angeles will pass over the town bound for Boston, as did the Shenandoah last summer. During the latter flight, hundreds in Jewett City gained a fine view of the big air-ship.

Mrs. H. D. Pollard and daughter, of Willimantic, are at home after visiting relatives in Jewett City. Mrs. Pollard is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Wilbur.

A fair sized audience considering the hot weather witnessed the minstrel given in the Finn opera house, by the T. G. A. club Monday evening for the benefit of St. Mary's church.

The stage was attractively set in a color scheme of orange and purple. First part, Minstrelsy's traditional overture; Bill Dougherty, interlocutor, ballads by the soloists, frequently interrupted by nonsense from the comedians. Opening chorus, ensemble; In My Gondola, Eddie Hamil; Just 'Round the Corner, Theo Allard; West of the Great Divide, Ray Cote; Give Me a Little Kiss, Henry Reardon; Too Many Parties, Blanche Lucier; Not Lately, W. E. Mackenzie; That's Why You're Mary Mine, Bill Dougherty; Just a Cottage Small, Gertrude Hamil; Some Time, Walter LaFontaine; Caroline, Edward T. Connelly; Don't Steal Daddy's Medal, John F. Kelley, Closing chorus, ensemble.

The members of the chorus were: Misses Helen Allard, Eva Dugas, Loretta Gregory, Janette Archambeau, Georgette Gregory, Emma Parquette, Suzette Mentaz, Yvonne Chenette, Delia Parquette, Marie Roy, and Pauline Hasler; also, Clarence Disco, Noe LaCroxi, Rene Dugas, Leo St. Marie, James Henlon, Andre Jarry, Jerome Dion and E. A. Rouleau.

The Second part, Pep's Melody boys, Amie Pepin, director with Eliot Fregeau; Aubury Travers in his original sketch and danse grotesque "The Scrubwoman's Dream"; Connell & Mackenzie, "Nothing Much".

The staff included Bill Dougherty, director; James Hanlon, stage manager; Amie Pepin, musical director; T. J. Connell, Master Electrician; E. A. Rouleau, business manager.

A feature of special merit, was the expert clog dance by Chip Dugas of Taftville, an up-to-date old-timer.

Miss Dorothy Paul, chief operator, and Miss Mildred McCluggage, of the local telephone exchange, attended the annual field day and shore dinner party at Moosup pond, Tuesday.

This section put in another broiling day Tuesday. During the night the mercury had not fallen below 75. The steady rise began at sunrise, until at 1 p. m. shade readings were from 88 to 94. A three minute-shower in mid-afternoon served to cool the atmosphere from 4 to 6 degrees.

All hats are off in Jewett City to the gilt-edged, diamond breast-pin, auto pilot, that made the round trip from Backus hospital to Brown avenue in Jewett City, picked up a wounded man and had him in the hospital ward in 3 minutes. Only 20 minutes being consumed in actual running time. When then went back down Main street, the gold lettering on the side looked like a kilt streak.

The Epworth league of the Methodist church held a social on the lawn in front of Lisbon Congregational church Monday evening. From Jewett City and Lisbon there were fifty present to enjoy games and refreshments. Mrs. Dora Johnson, chairman of the fourth division of the league, was in charge.

THIRD-TERM SMOKE

The attempts to "smoke out" President Coolidge concerning his plans [illegible] nearly on. A few days ago Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, was at White Pine Camp. As he left he imparted the tidings that the president would be a candidate again. Then Senator Cameron of Arizona, on his way to Paul [illegible] gave another slant to the situation by remarking that he was "certain" no one could defeat President Coolidge for the nomination in 1928 if he should decide to run. The west does not consider his nomination in 1928 would be for a third term. The west is so strongly in his favor for the next four years that I doubt if any opposition develops against him.

Both Mr. Child and Senator Cameron put their finger on an issue—the third term—which will doubtless be made by opponents of President Coolidge. In view of all the facts, however, the issue will be unjustly made of all.

President Coolidge was elected to a full year term in 1924 after he had served nineteen months remaining in the term of President Harding, after Mr. Harding's death. To claim that President Coolidge will have served two full terms when March 4, 1929 rolls around would thus be neither fair nor true. A presidential term, under the language of the constitution, is four years.

The two term precedent, which has never been broken, was set when President Washington declined to be considered for a third term. Attempts of Grant and by Roosevelt to break this precedent were both unsuccessful. While Washington has been attributed the statement that no man should serve more than two terms as president, but nowhere in his papers is found that direct statement. Washington made it clear in his farewell address that he wished to retire for personal reasons and went so far as to state that at the end of his first term he had prepared a statement declaring that he would not be a candidate but changed himself. But the critical position of the foreign relations of the country and the advice of friends had driven him to withhold that statement. If it had been issued might not the third term precedent have been established instead of the two-term precedent?

With difficulty could the American people be led to believe that President Coolidge should not be re-elected in 1928 because he had served nineteen months of the unexpired term of President Harding. His right to another full term will be determined by the people solely upon his record as chief executive and the record of the political party of which he is the titular head.

Meanwhile the man at White Pine Camp is keeping his own counsel and refusing to be "smoked out" at this time, so far as any one knows and he has not by any word or act given any indication of what he intends to do. As a matter of fact, he may not himself know at the present time but for greater care. If he keeps silence through 1926 and [illegible] 1927, the strain on the nerves and the blood pressure of a [illegible] would-be candidates will be [illegible].

HONESTY IN ASSISTED STUDENTS

The Harmon Foundation has loaned money to help 357 college students complete their education. The re-payments have been met in all but two cases and in no case has the debt been repudiated. But also in no institution has the borrower made payment on or before the days of the due date. In other words the students are honest in intention but careless in business methods. Under the Harmon system the initial installment of ten per cent is due one year after graduation.
